SUCCESSFUL SPELLERS

A WASHINGTON dispatch relates how Jean Trowbridge, an Iowa girl of 13, won the prize as the champion of the nation's juvenile spellers. Such competitions indicate a revival of interest in the art of spelling.

The education of former years placed very high emphasis on this art. It was said that ability to spell well proved that a person had industry and an accurate mind and a retentive memory.

Many men and women have gone on to high eminence, who could not spell at all well. Some say that ability as a speller does not prove anyone has an executive mind, and could direct the labor of others. Yet recent years have placed too little emphasis on this art. Spelling practice teaches young folks that if they don't get things precisely right, they make a complete failure. That is a lesson many superficial folks need to learn.

FLAGS OF THE NATION

EVERY NATION has its flag. If there is any country that has not some flag to symbolize its life, it must be a pretty weak and feeble one. People need some visible symbol to make them feel the reality of an idea. The Christian church takes the cross as its symbol, and every religion has these visible representations of its faith. The flag performs a similar service for our country. When people see something with their eyes, the truth behind that sign seems more real.

Flag day, June 14, is the anniversary of the date 159 years ago, when our people showed that they had become a real nation by adopting the design of the flag.

Those bright colors stir the heart. The red stands for the sacrifice of glorious patriots, the white for the purity of the ideals they cherished, and the blue for the happiness which our people try to realize for all in this land of the free.

THE EVIL NOMAD

BEWARE of the city slicker who comes seeking to do evil unto thy purse. From the press of Michigan we glean the information that these wandering tribes of predatory nomads are abroad in the hinterlands in great numbers. They have no idea of rendering any real service, and they go about it in an endeavor to separate the unsuspecting citizen from the fruits of his industry and frugality without giving anything in return. The slicker's capital stock is his colosal nerve. His working implement is a glib tongue. He has hatched a little scheme he thinks will appeal to naturally credulous workers who are able to pay. The toiler is busy trying to manage an increasing overhead and make necessary improvements, and he is not always on the alert to escape the meshes so cunningly devised. Only after the slicker has vanished does he awaken to find he has invested in something of no real value to anyone excepting the white-collar bandit. When a toiler is interrupted in his busy routine to consider some schemers' happily breeze brain wrinkle, let him respond cautiously and have the courage to say "No" in the absence of proved value.

CLOSING SCHOOLS

THE YEAR of work in the schools and colleges of Michigan draws to its close. In some it is already finished. The young folks set out last September on a voyage of discovery over the broad sea of knowledge. What rich or other fruitage have they brought back? Do they come into port with all sails flying, and the ship of experience well freighted with knowledge? Or have they idled away their time in fleeting pleasures, while others gathered the prizes of this commerce with wisdom?

If the year of study has been well spent, the youngster is ready to make the next voyage toward the goal of his hopes. If he has dragged behind, the loss may be permanent. It is far easier to learn the lessons as they come from day to day, than to catch up when you get well behind.

It is one of the tragedies of life at this moment, that in some states a large part of the schools, owing to financial difficulties, have had to close early, and some never opened at all. What can the American people be thinking of, to allow so many young folks to grow up with only meager education? The youth who never learns to handle the tools of knowledge will be but a poor builder of his country's future.

The closing day in school is a grand occasion in many places. The old time school committee used to examine the pupils at this time, while admiring parents gloried in the amazing progress made by their young hopefuls.

It is well to have such honors given to successful students. It spurs the laggards and sluggards on. When you prove to a youngster that the world frowns on a youth who is indifferent about learning, you arouse the power of ambition. That creates energy grater than any force you can produce with steam or electricity.

THE LOWELL LEDGER

FORTY-FOURTH YEAR | LOWELL, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1936 | NO. 4

Municipal Band Is Sponsored by Village Council

Regular Concerts Are Being Arranged

According Director Bruce Walter high praise for the remarkable forward strides of the Lowell high school orchestra and marching band under his direction, the Village Council Monday evening took steps to sponsor these organizations as a municipal band. Director Walter is to return from the University of Michigan summer school each Friday evening to conduct rehearsals. Several open-air evening summer concerts are being arranged, and band committee chairman, Trustee William E. Christiansen, has begun negotiations for the purchase of uniforms.

Upon recommendation of Hubbell, Hartgering & Roth, village engineers, four six-pound tins of chemical are being used to cleanse the new reservoir. The measure was adopted as an extra precaution after a number of sample analyses revealed no trace of impurities in the water.

A platted road which has never been used, extending east from South Broadway Avenue past the Kellogg Vinegar Plant to Recreation Park, was formally closed by council action.

Joseph Green was granted a building permit to erect a 22 by 26 foot dwelling structure, 10 ft. in height, with concrete foundation and composition roof, on lots 41 and 42, Sweet and Smith's addition.

Acting President Harry Day deferred until the next regular council session, when President John A. Arehart will have returned from a business trip, the appointment of a board of election commissioners to supervise the balloting on city incorporation at the June 29 special election. Mr. Day did, however, designate Trustees Claude Thorne and William E. Christiansen, together with Clerk L. E. Johnson, as a board of registration.

The formal report on the recent audit of the village books was received.

A proposal of Earl Dowling, that the municipality undertake the collection and disposal of garbage, was tabled, after a brief discussion as to its immediate feasibility.

The council authorized the execution of a $4,000 promissory note, payable in 60 days, anticipating the July taxes. A second note, for $1,000, was renewed.

The tax rate will remain the same as last year, $1.20, of which $1.00 is assigned to the general fund, 15c to the sinking fund, and 5c to the band fund, as before.

At a special council meeting on Saturday, June 6, E. O. Wadsworth and E. D. McQueen were named as members of the board of review.

City Hall Packed For Baccalaureate

"Think without confusion . . . Love your fellow man sincerely . . . Trust in God . . ." These were the admonitions left with the Lowell high school graduating class of 1936 by Rev. S. B. Wenger, in his baccalaureate address last Sunday evening before an audience which filled the city hall.

In his invocation, Rev. A. J. Hoolsema asked for prayerful consideration of the family of Franklin Kranz, drowned that afternoon; who, as a youth of great promise, sat with the graduating class of 1935 on the baccalaureate evening of the year preceding.

The graduates assembled in the Legion quarters, and marched single file to their seats at the front of the hall. Margaret Cole, accompanied by Vivian Cole, sang a solo, "I Would Love Thee," by Bancroft. The processional, "Our National Honor," was played by the high school orchestra, Bruce Walter conducting.

Following Rev. Wenger's address, the audience joined in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Hoolsema.

Helen King, 68, Dies Peacefully in Sleep

Miss Helen King died peacefully in her sleep last Sunday night. She was 68 years old.

On Monday morning Jay Carter, hired for spring cleaning and paper hanging, was unable to arouse anyone at the residence. He summoned Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Collar, neighbors, who in turn called Charles Doyle. Entrance to the house was forced, and the tragedy discovered.

Virtually a lifelong resident, Miss King had countless friends, young and old, in all classes of society. Her passing will be sincerely mourned.

Services are being held from the late residence on Jackson St. today (Thursday) at 2 p. m., Rev. S. B. Wenger officiating. The funeral is in charge of the F. E. Haner mortuary. Interment will be in Graceland Mausoleum, Grand Rapids.

The obituary sketch follows:

Helen Brown King was born October 24, 1867 in Lanchester, Wis. She was the daughter of Daniel Brown, who was the brother of Mrs. Francis King. When a baby she came to Lowell to live with Mr. and Mrs. Francis King, who brought her up as their daughter. She was educated in the Lowell schools and then went to Kalamazoo Seminary and later spent a year in Ypsilanti Normal. For several years she was employed in the Lowell State Bank.

At the death of Mr. and Mrs. King she spent sometime with a cousin in Bay City and with friends in Grand Rapids and later returned to Lowell where she had made her home. She was a member of the Lowell Congregational church.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. D. A. Rooney of Madison, Wis., a niece, Mrs. Martin Foley, and two nephews, Emmett and Albert Rooney, and a cousin, Florence King of Grand Rapids.

Popular Ada Boy Drowning Victim

Franklin C. Kranz, 19, Dies In Spite of Heroic Efforts of Younger Brother, Philip, 17

Drowning claimed its first victim of the season last Sunday afternoon in Franklin C. Kranz, 19, popular Lowell high school graduate in the class of 1935, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin C. Kranz, Sr., who reside 2½ miles west of Ada. With his brother, Phillip, 17, Franklin was swimming in Ada pond, Thornapple River. The boys were diving from a raft. The tragedy may best be described in the words of Philip who said:

"Frank dove off and came up calling for help. The wind took the raft away when I dove after him. I got hold of him and started pulling him towards a stump, 40 feet away. I got within 25 feet of the stump and became tired and couldn't pull him further. He grabbed me around the throat and I had to hit him to loosen his hold. He sank under water and I was able to get away. I hardly had the strength left to get to the stump where I rested."

Some fishermen caught the raft, which was more than 35 feet from shore, and brought it to the spot where Franklin sank. Assisted by the heroic efforts of the distraught brother, they dropped clam drags secured from the river bank. About twenty-five or thirty minutes later the body was hooked by the shoulder, raised to the surface, and brought on the raft to the bank, where a pulmotor, rushed to the scene by Deputies Jack Wiest and Coney Johnson, was waiting. A physician worked over the body for an hour, without success.

A tragic footnote touching on the boy's loyalty to the people and institutions close to him is found in the fact that his was the first reservation received to the Lowell high school alumni banquet here tomorrow evening.

Surviving are the parents, brother and two sisters, Ruth, 12, and Hazel, 7.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 2:00 p. m. from the Roth Chapel, Rev. G. Knoll of Grand Rapids officiating. Interment was in Ada cemetery. The following boys served as pallbearers: Gerrit Stukkie, Edward Cramton, Richard Dekker, Harold Linsday, Floyd Chaffee and Harold Buttrick.

The entire community joins in extending heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

MISS EDITH ALTHAUS WINS HONORS AT W. S. T. C.

Miss Edith Althaus daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Althaus, and a Junior at Western State Teachers College, was elected President of Senate for the coming year. Senate is one of the oldest and most active women's organizations on the campus. High scholastic standing, interest and leadership in college activities are requirements for its membership.

Miss Althaus, having been awarded the Marie Root Scholarship which was given to one outstanding member of the Later Elementary Department, will return to Western State next fall where she will receive her A. B. degree.

Colorful and impressive exercises marked the commencement program held at the city hall last night for the class of 1936 of Lowell high school. Both the main floor and the balcony were crowded to capacity. While the high school orchestra played the processional, the graduates marched in to take their places upon the stage, preparatory to the beginning of the program. An abundance of flowers added charm to the occasion.

Features of the program were the salutatory address by Lucy Paulinkas, address by Dean J. B. Edmonson of the University of Michigan, presentation of the spade by Allison Roark to John Cordtz, representing the junior class; valedictory address by Catherine Hoover, presentation by Legion Commander W. J. Smith of Legion Honor Cup Award to Robert E. Ellis and of the Legion Honor Medal to William Lalley. Barbara Fletcher and King Doyle were runnersup for these two awards, respectively. Mrs. H. P. Gotfredsen presented the American Legion Auxiliary Medal to Doris Christiansen. Lucille Warner was a close second. Catherine Hoover received the prize for scholarship made possible by a fund established by the class of 1918. C. H. Runciman, president of the school board, made this award and also presented the diplomas to the graduates. The Rev. R. S. Miller offered the invocation and benediction. Music was furnished by the girl's glee club, violin quartet composed of Ruth Houseman, Lorene Kyser, Delia Wunsch and Dorothy Fletcher; and Helen Frost, pianist.

Our Educational Investment

In discussing the topic, "Our Educational Investment", Dean Edmonson said in part. "America has made a very large investment in education. This investment is an expression of our faith in the value of education in a democracy. Every parent not only desires the success and happiness of his children, but is willing to make great sacrifices in order to further their well-being. Concern for the fate of one's children is a driving force that explains much of the popular interest in certain of our social institutions. The American people have contributed millions of dollars to the building of its educational system because of the desire of parents to give their children whatever advantages come from investment of money in education. Parents have faith in the values of education.

"The faith of America is so deeply rooted in the public school that citizens of all races, nationalities and creeds supported financially and with good will in the public school mingle with children of all races and all religious faiths. The great faith of the American people in education is due in a large part to results that have been achieved through more liberal provision for the training of all the people.

"In recent years enrollment in schools has increased by leaps and bounds. Especially in our high schools. There are now more than 21,000,000 children in the public elementary schools. Due to compulsory education laws, but in increasing measure to a feeling of need for education, most of these children will finish the eighth grade and a large fraction will continue through the high school. The rapid growth of high schools is cause for the greatest confidence in the nation's future.

"America has made more liberal provision for public education than any other country in the world. There is no counterpart of American high schools to be found in any other country.

"This address would be quite incomplete if the question was not raised, 'What return does America want on its educational investment?' I am certain that it would be very easy to secure from any Commencement audience a very satisfactory series of replies to this question. It is my prediction, however, that these replies could be summarized in the statement that we want our educational investment to give us boys and girls who are capable of playing an effective part in the life of a community and who have acquired habits and ideals of reverence, obedience, cooperation, courtesy, honesty and industry. We do not want the schools to free their graduates from the necessity of work, we do not want our schools to develop an intellectual class that will claim special advantages and special consideration at the hands of the state. We want our schools to give us young citizens that will possess the qualities that we prize in American life and who will be willing to serve others in the spirit of true service. The various organizations made up of leading men and women in our communities prove that our leading citizens recognize the importance of service of the kind that involves sacrifice. Every high school graduate should be an active member of some local organization that recognizes service as its major objective.

"Society needs the trained men and women in its public affairs and as never before. There is plenty of crude energy and sentiment and proposal of reform but too little of intelligence, sanity, and progress. Society needs the graduate who knows history, political science, economics, sociology, the ideals embodied in literature, and the facts of science. It needs the graduate who has perspective and who can measure the present by the past."

In conclusion, Dean Edmonson said:

"May you as a graduate not fail society but take a keen, intelligent and sympathetic interest in public affars, especially the affairs of your immediate community."

Supervisor Striken At Review Session

Lewis M. Yeiter, 63, veteran Lowell township supervisor, suffered a slight stroke Tuesday noon while presiding at a session of the township board of review. He was removed to his home, where it was found the left side of the body was affected, but speech was not impaired.

The many friends of Mr. Yeiter will be glad to know that his condition is encouraging as we go to press. He slept well last night and is able to sit up and visit with friends and there is reason to feel that his condition will gradually improve.

TO STUDY AND TOUR IN EUROPE

Miss Jennie Richards of Ada will sail for Cherbourg, France, June 15, enroute to Budapest, Hungary, where she will attend the Third World Conference of Workers for the Crippled. She will also tour Austria, Switzerland, England and Scotland.

Miss Richards has joined the faculty of the Orthopedic Department of the Muskegon schools. She is a graduate of Lowell high school, class of 1929, and of Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo, since which time she has been teaching successfully in the public schools of Cascade-tp.

Important Meeting Of Board of Trade

The June meeting of the Lowell Board of Trade will be held at Richmond's Cafe next Tuesday evening with dinner starting at 6:30 o'clock. There will be a speaker and a program of entertainment.

At this meeting, the question of opening stores on Wednesday evenings during the summer months will come up for general discussion and final decision. This question will be met in this way because of a petition being circulated the last few days asking that the stores remain closed Wednesday evenings. Only about one-third of the stores signed the petition, hence the reason for a more general discussion at a full board meeting. Summer activities to be undertaken also will come up for discussion. The call for the meeting was authorized by the Better Business Committee of the Board of Trade.

ASSISTING IN DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION

For sometime in the future, the Rev. S. B. Wenger will be directing child and cost accounting for the State Planning Commission in the Department of Public Instruction, Lansing. Mr. Wenger began his work this week. He is well qualified by training and experience in public school work and by special University studies. He will carry on his local church work as usual, being home every evening and Friday and Saturday of each week.

LaPaz, Bolivia, is the highest capital in the world, 12,700 feet above sea level.

Along Main St.

The fronts of Richmond's Cafe and the Bert Charles barber shop have been painted a glistening white.

Seventy-five-year-old wooden portions of the cut-over flume leading to the Lowell Cutter factory buildings, are being replaced by heavy iron pipe several feet in diameter. Ten men have been employed on the work for two weeks by the King Milling Company.

Lowell's newest park spot, at South Washington and East Main streets, is being manicured by the village power lawn mower, and a bench has been installed. Later a drinking fountain will be placed on the corner, and another step toward making Lowell's the prettiest Main street in Michigan will have been accomplished.

Charles W. Cook of the Price Rite Hardware firm, who has not been in the best of health of late, went to Ann Arbor Wednesday where he will enter the University clinic for observation. He expects to return home within a few days. While feeling some better, Mr. Cook thought it best to enter the clinic and his friends are hoping to hear good reports.

Congratulations are due Mrs. H. C. Scott, who has just completed 28 years of business activity on Main-st. It was on June 6, 1908, that Mrs. Scott began making home-made candies and selling them at retail in the same location she now occupies on the bridge. Mrs. Scott has built up a fine trade and has always manifested sincere interest in the welfare of the community.

Down 3,100 feet, the oil well on the G. W. Croff farm in Vergennes township is at a greater depth than has been reached by any wildcat test well in this section of the state. Drilling is far into the Monroe stratum, and it is expected the Sylvania will be reached within 100 feet further. A new walking beam for the well was installed last Saturday and Sunday, and three crews are working on eight hour shifts.

Returning Thursday from a north Michigan trip in which they caught 33 fish and saw a fox and two deer, A. H. Stormzand and William E. Haysmer noticed a crowd milling around an overturned car in a ditch on US-131, two miles north of Big Rapids. It was not until their return to Lowell that the men learned that in the accident, Kenneth (Dutch) Austin, of Big Rapids, former night cook at Randall's and Holland's restaurants, Lowell, had been fatally injured.

Since plans are being formulated for the establishment of a bird sanctuary on Flat River, there has been some discussion as to the probable damage which would be caused by snapping turtles, which seize ducks and other waterfowl by the feet and drag them under to their death. A possible solution appears in the action taken by the King Milling Company employees, who have secured a rifle. The mallards signalize the threatening proximity of a snapper by unmistakable squawks of distress, and the sharpshooting millers draw bead on a reptilian head lurking just beneath the surface. Already the river has been rid of several large snappers in this manner.

Alumni Banquet to Break All Records

Graduates of Lowell high school, old and young, will assemble at the central building tomorrow (Friday) evening at 7:00 p. m. for what is certain to be the largest annual banquet in the history of the institution. Upwards of 175 reservations had been made by Thursday morning, Mrs. Clara McCarty, alumni secretary, states, assuring a larger crowd than ever before. However, room will be provided for those who wish to attend but have neglected to make reservations, she announces.

A program of outstanding interest has been arranged, as follows:

Piano Selection, Charlotte K White, 1931; Invocation, Rev. John Claus; Community Singing, Supt. W. W. Gumser; President's remarks and introduction of toastmaster, Lee Lampkin, 1913; Response of Toastmaster, T. A. Murphy, 1889; Solo, Lynn H. Clark; Welcome to Class of 1936, Robert Lalley, 1928; Response, Frank Monkowski, 1936; Regrets and Salutations, Kathryn Lalley, 1907; Address, Carl Horn, 1916; Toastmaster's Choice, report of nominating committee, election of officers, and dancing by old and young, Warner's orchestra furnishing the music.

Invalid Appreciates Neighbors' Kindness

Ernest Aldrich, 28-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Aldrich, who live southwest of Lowell, has tangible evidence of the kindliness of his neighbors and friends. He has been confined to his bed for the past two years, suffering from a spinal ailment, and longed to be out of doors in the sunshine. This spring Mrs. Gabe Onan began to contact the neighbors and a fund was built up with which to construct a special porch for Ernest's benefit. Now he spends many hours each day enjoying the fresh air and sunshine from his bed on the new porch and wants all those who gave money for the fund to know that he is deeply grateful for their thoughtfulness.

St. Patrick High Closes Year With Pleasant Events

Diplomas To Be Given To Eight Girls

Commencement exercises for the senior class of St. Patrick high school, Parnell, will be held at the St. Patrick church on Sunday evening, June 14, at eight o'clock. The class this year is composed of eight girls, Geraldine Carey, Irene Finn, Mabel McGann, Lora Smith, Helen Bresnahan, Frances Nugent, Virginia Doran and Frances Tereskiewicz.

The following program will be given: Processional, "The Heavens Resound" by Beethoven, St. Patrick Choir; "Ave Maria" by C. Franck; presentation of diplomas, Monsignor Malone; "Lead Me All the Way" by Briggs, John Jakeway; "Cor Salus in Te" by W. Schultes; address, Rev. L. Tooley; Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, "Ave Verum Corpus" by Guilmant, "Tantum Ergo" by Smit, "Divine Praises" by Browne; "Holy God" by Walworth; Recessional.

Junior-Senior Banquet

The Juniors of St. Patrick high school entertained the Seniors at a junior-senior banquet on Thursday evening, June 4. The music room of the school was tastefully decorated in the class colors, silver and blue, and the guests took their places about the banquet table featuring a centerpiece significant of the class motto, "Small the diploma, but mighty the effort to win it."

The dinner was planned and prepared by the mothers of the members of the junior class and served by the girls from the sophomore class.

Immediately following the banquet, the following program was presented:

Welcome, Theresa Troy; "In the Time of Roses," Chorus; "The Our Father," Sophie Faiks; "Sphinx" by Lowell, Kathleen Roberts; "On Wings of Song," vocal duet, G. Carey, M. McGann; "Jamie Butler and the Owl," John Jakeway; "Men," William Laughlin; Junior Felicitations, Charles Jakeway; "A Senior's Thoughts," Lora Smith; "Thank You," Geraldine Carey; "Catholic Action Song," Chorus.

Alumni Honor Seniors

The annual meeting of St. Patrick Alumni took place Sunday evening at St. Patrick school, Parnell. The members of this fraternity honored the graduates of the class of 1936 with a banquet at seven o'clock.

After the program, the business meeting was held, and also the election of officers. The incumbents for the coming year are: President, Miss Lora Hefferan; vice president, Ralph Howard; secretary and treasurer, Miss Monica Carey.

Leader in Printing Heard by Rotarians

The miraculous development of modern magazine and newspaper illustration, from the crude wood engravings of battle scenes which made Harper's Weekly famous during the Civil War, to the technically perfect five-color illustrations now appearing in the larger periodicals, was the theme of an engrossing discussion before the Rotary Club Wednesday by Fred W. Gage of Battle Creek, recognized nationally as a leader in the printing and engraving fields.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Gage denounced the newspaper comic strip, as destructive of a taste for good illustration in the young, as well as a sense of what is really funny. Furthermore, the placing of scenes of violence and crime before the young when they are not at an age properly to evaluate them is considered not salutary by Mr. Gage.

The surface is barely scratched in the possibilities for industrial research, the speaker said, quoting Charles Kettering of General Motors Corporation. He predicted that the coming 25 years will witness greater forward strides in technical accomplishment than did the past 50.

Mr. Gage was introduced by program chairman George Herald.

President E. C. Foreman of Rotary asked a full attendance next week at the annual induction of officers.

Stranger Tries New Swindling Scheme

Something new in confidence games appeared this week, of which future compilers of books on the art of swindling will be forced to take notice. Mrs. Amelia Biggs sold two west side lots to Joseph Green, who mailed the deed to the Kent County Register of Deeds for recording. The instrument was duly recorded, and placed in the mails to be returned to Mr. Green. He never received the document. Meanwhile a stranger appeared at the home of Mrs. Biggs, the grantor, represented himself as Joseph Green, displayed the deed, and demanded a sum of money to pay back taxes on the property. Refused, he vanished with the deed, and has not been heard from since. The identity of the stranger, and how he secured possession of the document remain a mystery.

Clayo Reed is improving from his recent operation.

Coveted Letters, Other Honors Awarded Athletes

U. of M. Coach Gives Inspiring Talk

Lowell high school athletes in five major sports, covering the 1935-36 season, were honored at the annual dinner of the athletic association at Richmond's Cafe last Friday evening.

Backfield Coach Wally Webber of the University of Michigan was the principal speaker, and motion pictures of famous Michigan games were shown.

Football

In announcing individual players' awards, Coach Ray Avery summarized the 1935 football season. Starting with two veteran guards as a nucleus, and only 14 senior boys out of a class of 44, a team was developed which defeated Greenville and Rockford, and tied Ionia, in a schedule which included a number of B class large schools, among them Lee Street high and Grandville, Grand Rapids suburban institutions which have recently grown out of the Lowell C class into the B grading.

Senior lettermen awarded trophies were Leo Bettes, Robert Ellis, Frank Monkowski, Calvin Pinckney, Allison Roark and Gerritt Stukkie.

Junior football "L" winners were John Cordtz, George Gotfredsen, John Jones, Allen Roth, Lester Sherman and John Thorne.

Sophomores awarded letters were Raymond Denny, Gerald Ellis and Clair Phillips.

Reserve letters were won by Leon Dawson, Dale Ford, Arthur Gross, Russell Kyser, Maurice Merwin, Warner Scott, Tom Willis, Lawrence Armstrong and Lloyd Stauffer.

Basketball

In basketball there was only one senior on the squad. Not one veteran remained from the first eight of the year before. Regardless, the team went forward to a successful season.

Gerritt Stukkie was presented with the senior trophy in basketball.

Block "Ls" in the court game went to George Gotfredsen, John Jones, John Thorne and Mac Fonger.

Awards were also made to Leo Dawson, Russell Kyser, Arthur Willis, Junior Ayres, Raymond Denny, Clair Phillips, Tommy Willis, Allen Wisner, and freshmen, Philip Althen and Hoyt Phelps.

Playing in the new gymnasium next year with a host of seasoned material with which to build a fast squad, the boys expect to go great guns.

Baseball

Thirty-four boys turned out for baseball in 1936, second season since the sport was revived in the local schools, Coach Wendell Emery announced. Last year the team broke even in games won and lost, while this season the record was bettered with victories over Rockford, Caledonia, Ionia and Lee. The final game is played with Lee, there, today, which will determine whether Lowell places second or third in the Grand Valley Conference.

Letters were presented to the following: Cordtz, Thorne, Willis, Fonger, Phelps, G. Ellis, A. Roark, F. Monkowski, R. Ellis, Dawson, Kyser, Sherman, Penninga and Condon.

Tennis

In tennis eleven matches were won and nine were lost by the locals. Arthur Willis, Robert Ellis, Robert Fineis, Tommy Willis and Philip Althen were presented with tokens of their prowess in tennis, while honorable mention was accorded to Leo Bettes and John Jones.

A medal offered by the magazine, "Scholastic Coach," for all-around merit, was accorded to George Gotfredsen.

Track

Lowell's star for the year's athletic endeavors showed most brightly in track, the team winning a trophy for placing second among 60 class C schools in the state meet.

Trophies for winning five points or more in the regional, or conference meet, or for placing in the state meet, were presented to Robert Ellis and Gerritt Stukkie.

Awards and praises were accorded to Philip Kranz, Allen Roth, Lloyd Stauffer and Frank Monkowski, shot-putter and 440 man; Calvin Pinckney, 100 yard dash man; Junior Ayres, hurdler; Arthur Gross, pole vaulter; George Gotfredsen, shot-putter; Donald Tower, miler; Gerald Ellis, dash man; John Jones, pole vaulter and high hurdler; and Lawrence Armstrong, high jumper.

An honorary token was presented to graduate Glendon Swarthout for winning the state oratorical contest last year as a senior.

Athletic Manager Hugh Beahan was likewise recognized for his capable work in the business department of the school athletic system.

David Condon was accorded unstinted applause for his pluck in returning to finish his education after an absence of several years.

It was an evening long to be remembered by the youths who, during the scholastic year now closing, represented Lowell on the athletic field. On hand to witness their honoring were many parents, and the Board of School District No. 1. And Coach Webber aptly voiced the adult sentiment of those present when he said:

"Resourcefulness, courage, character, good fellowship, leadership, obedience—all these are by-products of athletic participation."

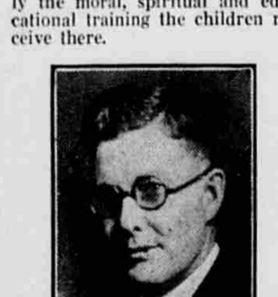
Why I Believe In The Moose Order

"You ask me why I am a Moose. I thought all of my friends knew why.

"I am a Moose because my good friend, James Geraghty, invited me to spend a day at Mooseheart several years ago. I was so impressed with the undertaking there that I shall never forget that day. I thought then, and still think now, that it is the most wonderful thing for the men and women of our country, especially the moral, spiritual and educational training the children receive there.



EDWARD N. LINKFIELD

"You know I am a fraternalist. I belong to a great many fraternities, but the Moose pay me the largest dividends.

"I love the children at Mooseheart. You should see them. Their healthy faces are all aglow with vigor and happiness. To see them grow from infants and subsequently take their place in football and baseball teams is enough to make anyone proud of his membership in the Moose.

"To have a part (a few pennies a day) in keeping children together, to get an education is a great privilege when their daddy has died and left no money.

"To think that by paying less than five cents a day into a Lodge, out of which five cents a week goes to Mooseheart, one may be assured that if he dies and leaves no money or the money runs out in a year or so, that the children and their mother may go to Mooseheart and the family be kept intact and all the children educated through high school, taught a useful trade, instructed in the religion of their parents and trained in as clean and wholesome environment as one can find in any of the great schools of America.

"I think it is a beautiful thing to know that the young man who marries a fine girl and neither has anything but a lot of energy and a will to work, may be positive that if they die that their children will have an equal advantage and an equal opportunity with other children to get on and be fine citizens of the good old United States.

"I am proud of my membership in the Loyal Order of Moose, and never let a day pass that I do not tell someone about our great Order and my Lodge."

Signed, Edward N. Linkfield, Friend of the Court, Kent County, Mich.

Coons

In 1910 Walter Kingsley started carrying mail on the dusty, treeless street that led up Peck's Hill in Belding. As a hot summer sun beat down on his head, it presently hatched an idea. Kingsley would make some shade! He began planting seeds and seedlings, but it was slow work for one man, so he recruited the Boy Scouts. This spring Kingsley resigned, but for several years he was able, as he and other Beldingites still are, to walk up Peck's Hill in the shade of a man's idea.

Why I Believe In The Moose Order

"I am asked to tell why I joined the Loyal Order of Moose of the World. In its earliest days I visited Mooseheart and was tremendously impressed with the vision of its founders and with the breadth of its humanitarian purpose.

"In working out its program it has enlisted some of the ablest and most progressive minds in the educational world, including that of Professor Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard University, Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Governor Arthur Capper of Kansas, Congressman John J. Lentz of Ohio, Judge Ralph W. E. Donges, Camden, N. J., Judge Norman G. Heyd, Toronto, Canada, Judge W. F. Broening, Baltimore, Md., and many others. All of these men are devoting their very best along the Moose plan, with the thought in mind that no boy or girl should be deprived of a high school education, or a chance to learn a trade whereby they may earn a living.

"Later I came to know James J. Davis and Edward J. Henning. Their vision of the order was an inspiring one. Above all, they desired to give the less fortunate members of society a larger life. Still later, I visited Mooseheart several times while it was being administered by Rodney Brandon. Each visit served to strenghten my conviction that the noble purposes of its founders were being successfully realized.

"For many years I have been associated with the working men of the cities throughout the State. I have studied their habits, character, their life in the shops and have had glimpses into their homes as they sat with the wife and children. Some of these glimpses were filled with joy and the things that make happiness, others were not so good.

"There, however, was a thing that was ever present in all of the homes. It was 'fear.' Fear for the babies that were rolling in glee on the floor, unmindful of the dark things (fear of the future), passing through the mind of the mother, as to what would be their future if something happened to daddy.

"Many plans (and usually meritorious) have been put forth by employers, associations and insurance companies, all of which are designed to do good, but none of them quite meet the needs if the breadwinner dies. A few thousand dollars does not go very far when there are many children to rear.

"My study of these various agencies convinced me that the Loyal Order of Moose plan will do more and go further to meet the hard condition that arises when the breadwinner dies and leaves no money, than any other plan I know about.

"These are the considerations which caused me to join the Loyal Order of Moose."

FORD V·8 ECONOMY MEANS HIGH "Dollar Mileage" (MORE MILES PER DOLLAR)

NO MATTER how you classify your expenditures for car up-keep—it's your total expenditure that counts. How much "dollar mileage" is your car giving you?

Dollars do go farther in the Ford V-8. Modern improved carburetion gives you unusual gasoline mileage with brilliant V-8 performance. Most owners of today's Ford change oil only every 2000 miles and add none between changes.

And after the first few thousand miles you begin to understand what Ford V-8 "dollar mileage" really means.

It gives you more miles per dollar because it gives you all-round economy—low first cost, low up-keep cost, low depreciation and long life—as well as low gasoline and oil consumption. All these are big items if you aim to buy the most economical car.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Jacob Krebs

Mrs. Elisa Krebs, (nee Kropf) was born August 12, 1855 in Schwarzenberg, Canton Bern, Switzerland. March 28, 1885 she was united in marriage to Jacob Krebs in Bern, Switzerland. To his union six children were born, two of whom died in infancy.

Eight days after their marriage they left their native country and came to America the latter part of April, 1885. Three years they lived in Ohio and four years in southern Kentucky. In 1892 they came to Kent County, Bowne Township, bought a farm where they lived all these years.

Under the pastorate of Rev. Wm. Rogatzky, she joined the church in Alto, August 29, 1897 and remained a true and faithful member of the same until her end. She loved the church of her choice. For many years she was a member of the Ladies Aid and the W. F. Mission Society. She was a cheerful giver, always willing to help God's cause. She followed the example of her Master and quietly she fulfilled the acts of her friendly services.

Lowell was at first a circuit with four or five appointments. The preachers had many miles to travel. They made the home of Sister and Brother Krebs their resting place. She always enjoyed it whenever they stopped and considered it a great honor to be their hostess and very seldom they left the place empty handed. Mrs. Krebs was sick about a year, but during all that time she was content and cheerful, never complained. She was a strong believer in God and found great comfort and strength in communion with Jesus Christ her blessed Redeemer. She was a good neighbor and lovely mother. The Bible and "The Christian Apologist" were her daily companion. Mrs. Krebs was held in the highest esteem by her many friends. She passed peacefully away Wednesday morning, June 3, 1936 at the age of 80 years, 9 mos., 21 days. Her husband preceded her in death in 1928. "Blessed are the death which lie in the Lord from henceforth; yea, said the Spirit that they may rest from their labor and their works do follow them." She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Rose Bryant, Mrs. Fanny Seese, Mrs. Laura Blough and one son, John; 12 grandchildren, 2 great grandchildren, one sister in Switzerland and many friends.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at the home at 1:30 o'clock and at the Alto church at 2:00 o'clock. Rev. John Claus officiated. Burial was in Merriman cemetery.

ADA DEPARTMENT

(By Mrs. Hattie R. Fitch)

Franklin Kranz, jr., Drowns

Franklin Kranz, jr., 19-year-old son of Franklin C. Kranz, sr., R 2, Ada, was drowned Sunday afternoon in the pond above the dam in the Thornapple River.

Franklin and his brother Philip were playing in shallow water near a raft and Franklin walked over the edge of the submerged old river channel into water about thirty five feet deep. Philip struggled bravely to save his brother and called loudly for help bringing many to the scene of the tragedy. Clark Nellist, Glenn Shea and others using a clam drag finally located the body after it had been in the water about forty minues. Every effort was made to revive him. Deputies Coney Johnson and Jack Wiest used an inhalator unsuccessfully for more than thirty minutes.

Franklin was a pupil at Ada high School and a graduate of Lowell High School. He was highly respected in this community. Surviving besides the parents and Philip are two sisters aged 12 and 7.

The body was taken to the Roth funeral home at Lowell.

Cramton-Wolfe

One of June's most charming brides was Miss Lyleen Cramton who was married to Kenneth Alvan Wolfe of Detroit, at 5 p. m. Sunday, June 7 at Cozy Nook, Ada.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Lester E. Kilpatrick of First Methodist Church, Grand Rapids, in the beautiful country garden of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Everett Cramton.

The Bridal party proceeded down an aisle of pink peonies and blue iris to a bower of flowering syringa where the ceremony was read in the presence of 35 guests.

The bride wore a gown of silk mouseline de soi over ivory satin and carried a shower bouquet of white rose buds and maiden hair fern. Miss Emilie Evans, room mate of Miss Cramton at Albion College, attended her as maid of honor. She wore a gown of shell pink taffeta and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Dean Dutrach of Chicago, fraternity brother of Mr. Wolfe, acted as best man. Little Miss Barbara Bougart of Ann Arbor, daintily gowned in blue, carried the ring in a tiny basket of pink rose buds and field daises.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wolfe of Detroit, parents of the groom, and their daughter, Miss Velma Wolfe, also of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. H. Bau of Ann Arbor, grandparents of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Bougart also of Ann Arbor; Mrs. Lester Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Emma Carle, Mrs. Hannah Chesley, Mr. and Mrs. Wallie Campbell and daughter Jeanette all of Grand Rapids. Mrs. Wolfe and Miss Campbell were graduates in the class of '33 in East Grand Rapids High School and also class mates at Albion. Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Bennett and Mrs. Celia Cramton, grandparents of the bride, Mrs. Lillian Pepper, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Cramton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cramton, Mrs. L. Bates, Miss Evelyn Cramton, Messrs Edward, Chas. B. and Bobbie Cramton, all of Ada. A buffet luncheon was served following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe left for a short motor trip amid showers of rice and good wishes. They will be at home after July 1st at 9685 Monica St., Detroit, Mich.

RETAIN VITAMINS IN CANNING FOODS

To retain vitamins in commercial or home canning, vegetables and fruit must be canned as soon after picking as possible.

This is the advice of Flora M. Hanning, research fellow in nutrition at Michigan State Collage, East Lansing. Miss Hanning is making a thorough study of the effects of cooking and canning processes on vitamins.

"Vitamin C, contained in fresh raw vegetables and fruits, varies with soil and methods of canning," she says. "The fresher the vegetables, the more vitamin C is there. So whether in the home or in the canning factory, the shorter the time from field or garden to the finished can, the more vitamin C is conserved."

The amount of air included in the jar or can also affects the vitamin content, she says. Experiments have shown, however, that apples which have been allowed to stand in salt water a short time before canning have more vitamin C than apples canned immediately after picking. The salt water permits some of the oxygen to escape.

"It is very important that the food is tightly packed in the jar or can so that all the bubbles of air are forced out, and as little air as possible left under the lid. Heating with those bubbles of air destroys some of the vitamin C," she says.

Miss Hanning also stresses the fact that cooking vegetables and fruit too long in canning and then throwing the liquid away needlessly wastes much of the vitamin content.

The appellation "gob" as applied to navy men, is of Chinese derivation from the Chinese word meaning sailor.

The higher men climb the longer their working day. And any young man with a streak of idleness in him may better make up his mind at the beginning that mediocrity will be his lot. Without immense, sustained effort he will not climb high. And even though fortune or chance were to lift him high, he would not stay there. For to keep at the top is harder almost than to get there. There are no office hours for leaders.—Cardinal Gibbons.

Sayings by Other Editors

DO NOT BE DELUDED

"The people never give up their liberty except under some delusion". Thus spoke Edmund Burke long years ago and it is just as true now as it was then. Under the delusion of "social security" the people of today in America may be surrendering liberties that their children or grandchildren will have to fight a civil war to regain. There is enough dynamite in some of the social ideas offered the public today to blow freedom to pieces. We are not opposed to the ideals which prompt some of the experiments, but we are opposed to the methods by which it is sought to put them into operation, and the methods which are already operating. An economy of scarcity is a fraud, social security is something to be gained in due time by a process of evolution instead of revolution even though that revolution be bloodless, government aid that hands agriculture a cash sop with one hand and robs agriculture through trade pacts with the other is insincere and dishonest, super-taxing business reserves laid up for the proverbial rainy day is destructive, and general welfare operated politically on a vote-getting basis destroys the morale of our people. America needs to do some very sound thinking in the next few months.—Cassopolis Vigilant.

ARE YOU A GENTLEMAN?

Ask the average American if he is a gentleman and the chances are that he will become quite angry at you.

Certainly he considers himself a gentleman. He takes off his hat in the presence of ladies, he doesn't cheat while playing cards, he is kind to children and considerate of the aged.

He wouldn't think of crowding in ahead of others waiting in line for tickets to a show, or to buy something at a counter. He wouldn't yell, "Get out of the way!" as he walked by others on the street. Certainly he's a gentleman! But—

Do you drive a motor car? Do you try to take advantage of everybody else while driving your car? Do you horn in ahead of other cars waiting in line for traffic to clear? Do you blow your horn instead of using your brakes? Do you take your half of the road in the middle? Do you "bawl out" every pedestrian and driver who fails to give you the right of way? Do you do those dozen and one things that bear the hallmarks of discourtesy and selfishness?

We know it isn't sportsmanlike to do such things, and we more than half suspect that it isn't gentlemanly. So consider this question again:

"Are you a gentleman?"—Grit.

SECRECY IN PUBLIC AFFAIRS

The state of Michigan is to be congratulated that its governor has set his face against secrecy in government. When Dr. William T. Shaw walked out of the meeting of the state prison commission in a huff, merely because the governor insisted state business must be transacted in the open, he performed one of his best public services. He gave the governor the opportunity to replace him on the commission with some other citizen who has nothing to cover.

It is possible, even probable, that all the criticism aimed at secret meetings and secret contracts in state circles, is not deserved. Granting that none of the whispers of graft and connivance between public officials are true, still this is no defense for secret meetings of public agencies. The public's business should be public business.

William T. Shaw in business appears to have gained the confidence of the public. Largely because of his style and manner in politics, he certainly has lost the confidence of the rank and file of the party. Just so has his obstinacy upon secrecy in state prison affairs lost to him the confidence of the people of Michigan. It is to be hoped that the governor will lose no time in accepting his resignation and substituting for him some other Michigan citizen who does not insist upon locked doors for public business.—Ingham County News.

TRUSTEE WINS ACTION FOR MADIGAN CORP.

A statute passed by the 1934 Michigan Legislature, providing that a mortgage of goods and chattels covering future advancements beyond the sum stated therein shall be absolutely void as against creditors of the mortgagor, was upheld by Judge Fred M. Raymond in U. S. District Court, in an action brought by Fred G. Timmer, trustee in bankruptcy of Frank A. Madigan, Inc., against Bernard J. Lemmen of Coopersville, purchaser after foreclosure of a chattel mortgage of the Madigan corporation. Mr. Lemmen was ordered to pay the trustee the sum of $6,750.

CHICKEN SALAD RING

Mrs. Mildred Washburn, 806 Lafayette Avenue, Lowell, has been awarded a Certificate of Recipe Endorsement by Better Homes and Gardens for her recipe, "Chicken Salad Ring:"

2 tablespoons gelatine, 2 tablespoons cold water, 2 cups chicken stock, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste, 3 thin slices lemon, few strips of pimento, 6 stuffed olives, sliced, 3 cups diced chicken, 2 tablespoons minced parsley.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water 5 minutes. Heat the soup, add the gelatine and stir until dissolved. Add the lemon juice, salt and pepper. Pour a thin layer of the gelatine in a ring mold. Arrange a design of lemon slices, pimento and olive slices in the mold. Add the chicken and parsley to the remaining gelatine and when it begins to thicken, stir and pour into the mold. Chill in the refrigerator until firm and ready to serve. Unmold on a bed of lettuce and fill the center with diced vegetables, (tomatoes, celery, green pepper, cucumbers and radishes) which have been marinated in French dressing. Serve with mayonnaise.

Serves 6 to 8.

The most lovable quality that any human being can possess is tolerance. It is the vision that enables one to see things from another's viewpoint. It is the generosity that concedes to others the right to their own opinions and their own peculiarities. It is the bigness that enables us to let people be happy in their own way instead of our way.

Odds and Ends Here and There

Brief Paragraphs of News and Information on a Variety of Topics

Michigan's official 1936 highway map is just off the press and ready for general free distribution. Persons desiring one or more maps can obtain them at the state highway department at Lansing.

An air-conditioned bed has been developed, according to the Cotton-Textile Institute, which can be kept at a temperature of 65 degrees or less even though the bedroom may be 100 degrees. A simple refrigerating unit and a cotton curtain which can readily be hung on adjustable bars at the head and foot of the bed, are main features of the apparatus.

Are you thinking of running for office? The secretary of state's office says that Tuesday, July 28, at 5:00 p. m., is the deadline to file petitions for U. S. senator, lieutenant-governor, congressman, state senator or representative. Republican candidates for state and national offices are required to file 5,862 names on their petitions and Democratic candidates for the same office must file 5,756.

Soybeans can be prepared for the table in the same way as other bean varieties, according to home economic extension workers at Michigan State College. The average cooking time for boiling or steaming green soybeans is about 30 minutes. Dried soybeans should be soaked overnight and cooked for two hours. Other food uses of soybeans are soy sauce, diabetic and infant foods, breakfast foods, oil for cooking and table use, and flour for making ice cream cones, ice-cream powder, macaroni products and wafers.

Current struggle backstage between the Comptroller General's office and other governmental offices is over the question of placing thousands of emergency workers directly on the regular Federal roll of employes. Involved are AAA with about 40,000 employes on county soil conservation associations and WPA with about 75,000 administrative employes. If these workers are forced on the rolls, the total of Federal employes will be sky-rocketed to near World War peak.

Forty per cent of the meat and thirty per cent of the eggs consumed in Michigan are shipped in from other states. This fact is brought out in Special Bulletin No. 269 on "The Production-Consumption Balance of Agricultural Products in Michigan" by G. N. Motts, of the economics department, Michigan State College, East Lansing. Mr. Motts has concluded that Michigan does not produce enough meat for its own use. According to the report, Michigan consumes 99.3 per cent of all the milk and cream consumed in the state, 75 per cent of all the veal, and 50 per cent of all the lamb and mutton.

Belief in magic has not disappeared with modern times, as can be attested by Dr. Dafoe, the Dionne quintuplets' physician. Ever since the arrival of the famous quints in Callander, Canada, childless couples have journeyed there, taking away with them some memento in the hope that it would bring luck to them. They even went so far as to pick up pebbles from the streets, and now Dr. Dafoe, himself, is authority for the statement that many of these couples have since been blessed with babies. All of them attribute their good luck to the "Magic Stones of Callander."

On Tuesday of last week, May 28, hundreds of people in Groveland and Brandon paused and gave a sigh. It was the 40th anniversary of that terrible cyclone that visited this section at the close of that beautiful May day in 1896, taking dozens of lives, and doing untold property damage. The sorrows and heartaches of that evening can never be erased. And the property loss was generally without insurance, for in those days cyclone insurance was carried by very few. Forty years later this kind of insurance is considered to be as necessary as fire insurance, and is never overlooked by the thrifty property owner.—Holly Herald.

As Michigan cities and villages join with the State in observing the centennial of their settlement and Michigan's statehood, one important centennial has gone entirely unnoticed. This is the centennial year of railroad service in Michigan. The first railroad in Michigan, the Erie & Kalamazoo, and the first to be built west of Schenectady, N. Y., began operating between Port Lawrence (now Toledo) and Adrian, in 1836. One of the surprising things about the road is that although it was long ago sold to satisfy judgments, its stock still returns dividends to a number of its stockholders in the State. The return is obtained from lease of its right of way to the New York Central Lines.

The unequal distribution of our wealth still goes on, spreading even to relief funds. Mrs. Nellie Slaboda of Cleveland, owner of one home and $2500 in escrow towards the purchase of another, was hailed into court and convicted of obtaining $1,567 from relief agencies under false pretenses over a period of six years. Since January 1930 she has been receiving various doles. At the same time that Mrs. Slaboda's sins were catching up with her, another woman, a young wife, also in Cleveland, was starving because she and her unemployed husband were unable to get on the relief rolls at all. The unfortunate young woman, whose first name strangely enough is also Nellie, is Mrs. Nellie Sevinsky. She became so desperate that she ran sobbing into police headquarters. "We're starving!" she cried, "We haven't eaten anything for two days. And I'm going to have a baby!" The tragedies of both Nellies found their way into print on the same day.

Over 60 children are in attendance at the Vacation Bible school at the Church of the Brethren.

Ye scribe took a forced vacation last week when she had several teeth extracted. An abcess developed on the gums and she was confined to bed for several days.

Sam Stahl suffered severe pain in one ear last week and for a while it was feared that mastoid trouble would develop. He was put under the care of a physician, who while treating the ear, pulled out a barley beard which had caused infection and much suffering.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Seese and daughter Elithe, Lewis Seese and wife and Roy Seese and family attended the Speicher family reunion which was held in Indiana Saturday.

Mrs. Dan Weaver spent Friday and Saturday at the Mose Stahl home.

The Church of the Brethren will hold the Love Feast and Communion on Saturday evening June 14th at 7:30. Elder Harley Townsend of Woodland and Rev. Roy McRoberts of Lake Odessa are expected to be present and have charge of the services.

Steve Custer who had an attack of Summer flu is now able to be up and about again.

Mrs. Honor Chambers and daughter Jessie, who were enroute to their farm at Marion, Mich., were Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Krauss.

Albert Fisher and wife are moving back to their home at Williamstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stahl and Mrs. Alma Stahl and twins, Jean and Janet, were over Sunday guests of Mose Hoffman and family of Goshen, Ind.

The infant daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Tobias Schrock has been seriously sick the past week with cold and congestion on the lungs.

Reception for Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Stahl (nee Maxine Litchfield) were tendered a reception last Friday evening at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stahl. Over one hundred were present and the evening was spent by the older folks visiting, while the young people enjoyed games on the lawn. The newlyweds were then called upon to open the large pile of presents which were of a very nice assortment. At a late hour the pot luck supper was served after which the guests departed wishing Clair and his bride a long and happy married life.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Keim was a scene of unusual activity and merriment last Thurs. as the bride and groom were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. Open house was held both afternoon and evening during which time about 100 of their friends, neighbors and relatives called and offered congratulations and enjoyed some very pleasant chats. Mr. Keim is 73 years of age while his wife is past 70. Both of them are enjoying fair health. He is the last surviving member of his family while Mrs. Keim has one brother, George Leece, who spent the day with them. Their children, Mrs. Charles Schwab and family, Burt Keim and family, Wesley Keim and family and Walter, who lives with his parents, all enjoyed the day with them. Ice cream and cake were served to all of the guests. The happy couple received a fine collection of gifts. At a late hour Mr. and Mrs. Keim again found themselves alone with these words warmly ringing in their ears: "Hope you live to enjoy many more anniversaries."

Why Shall I Join the Loyal Order of Moose?

Because the Moose Lodge will pay me weekly if I get sick or meet with an accident, will take care of me and my wife when we get old, will bury me when I die, assures me that in the event of my death that my wife and children will have a good home, and that my children will receive a high school education and be taught a trade. Also a nice club house here in Lowell which is free to me and my wife.

How much will it cost to join the Moose? Five Dollars ($5.00) membership fee to join. Annual cost to carry the Moose, $13.00, payable quarterly, $3.25 every three months.

All persons not now registered must register their names in order to be qualified to vote at said election.

LEWIS E. JOHNSON,
c2-4t Village Clerk.

In the Matter of Vacating, Discontinuing and Abolishing a Portion of Ottawa Street Within the Village of Lowell.

Lowell, Michigan,
June 8, 1936.

Notice Is Hereby Given that the following resolution was adopted by the Common Council of the Village of Lowell at its meeting of June 8, 1936, and pursuant thereto the meeting mentioned therein will be held at the Council Rooms in said Village on Monday evening, July 13, 1936, at 8:00 o'clock p. m.:

"Resolved by the Common Council of the Village of Lowell that it deems it advisable to vacate, discontinue and abolish that portion of Ottawa Street in the Village of Lowell, Kent County, Michigan, described as follows:

"Beginning at the easterly side of South Broadway Street and running thence easterly to the easterly limits of Snell's Addition to the Village of Lowell, Kent County, Michigan as a matter of public safety and as being necessary for the public convenience and as being a public improvement;

"Therefore, Notice Is Hereby Given that the Common Council of the Village of Lowell will meet on Monday evening, July 13, 1936, at 8:00 o'clock P. M. at the Council Rooms in said Village to hear all objections that may be urged against said vacating, discontinuing and abolishing said portion of said street.

"Be It Further Resolved that notice of said meeting be given by publication of said notice, together with a copy of this resolution, in the Lowell Ledger, a newspaper printed and circulated in said Village of Lowell, for three successive weeks prior to said meeting; further, that copies of said notice together with said resolution be posted in some conspicuous place, one at the westerly end and one at the easterly end of the portion of said street proposed to be vacated within said Village of Lowell at least three weeks prior to said meeting."

JOHN A. AREHART,
President of the Village of Lowell.
LEWIS E. JOHNSON,
Clerk of the Village of Lowell. c4,3t

LOOK high and look low throughout this smart and spirited Buick SPECIAL, and you'll find only one thing about it that's anything but big.

It's big in its inches, length and breadth—big in the ample, stretch-out space it supplies to driver and passengers alike.

It's big in its power—it hasn't found a hill it couldn't easily master, or a driver it couldn't thrill by the fervor of its quick response, the smoothness of its stride.

It's big in the measure of its quality, seen and unseen—every nut and bolt and strut and part is eloquent testimony to Buick's insistence that the best alone will do.

It's big in the pleasure it can bring you—pleasure that comes from handling a sparkling and superior performer—pleasure that's yours from owning a car so obviously better than mere transportation requires.

It's big in the satisfactions it yields—from the smartness of its valid streamline style, from the surety of its comfort, and your knowledge that the family couldn't be safer in a car.

It's big in every way, until you reach for the tag that names the price—then you find that it's only a short step up from the lowest-priced field to the Buick of your dreams. $765* and up, list at Flint, the price tag on the Buick SPECIAL, Series 40, reads, and the terms are within anyone's reach.

See America First —in Michigan!

ARE you ready to begin studying maps? To pick out places you would like to visit, and sights you would like to see during your vacation? Then you can find a wide and wonderful assortment in a map of Michigan.

It is the map of a state with an area of fifty-eight thousand square miles. Within its borders you can find many of America's outstanding points of interest. Scenes of historic association; great cities; beautiful modern buildings; vast open country crossed by the finest of highways; primeval forests; five thousand lakes, large and small; scenic beauty of every kind—all these lures, surpassing many of those which people travel abroad to see, are spread before you when you study a map of the Wolverine State.

We urge you to consider Michigan when planning your vacation. Let your friends in neighboring states know what holiday pleasures can be found here. You will be doing them a favor—and promoting good will for Michigan.

As our part in such promotion, this series of advertisements is being published in newspapers throughout the State by a Michigan organization that can prosper only as the other citizens of Michigan prosper.

Social Events

Mrs. Pat Beahan entertained the members of St. Mary's Guild at her home Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Lee entertained the bridge club last Thursday evening. Mrs. Lee presented each woman guest with a gift. High scores were received by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Roth.

A galaxy of music and dancing numbers was presented at the city hall last Friday evening in the first annual Lowell recital of Peggy's Dance Studio. Classes have been conducted regularly at the hall throughout the winter by Mrs. Peggy Blanksma of Grand Rapids. As the recital gave ample evidence, much real talent has been developed locally. The names of local students who took part in the program were printed in the May 28 issue of The Ledger.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. G. Clayton Richards of Ada announce the engagement of their daughter, Evelyn Faye, to Mr. Menno R. Baker of Kalamazoo. The wedding will take place July twenty-first.

Vergennes Cooperative Club

Mrs. Flossie James was hostess at the regular monthly meeting of the Vergennes Cooperative Club held last week Thursday. The program was in charge of Mrs. Himebaugh and Mrs. Beatrice Krum. All enjoyed the illustrated talk and lovely flower arrangements which were followed by a demonstration and general discussion of various flower arrangements and styles of groupings. Three guests were present besides a majority of the members.

Plans were made for the picnic which is to be held Sunday, July 12, at Fallasburg Park.

One of the events of the day was a shower of canned fruit, linen and clothing for the family of Mrs. Bertha Hessler, former member of the club, who have been so unfortunate as to lose all of their effects by fire. The prize package was won by Mrs. Bernie Krum. Luncheon was served by the committee.

STUDY CLUB ORGANIZED

A branch of the Child Conservation League was organized here by Miss Amy L. Ridgely on the evening of June 3rd at the home of Mrs. W. H. Emery. The object of the organization is to provide for the physical, intellectual and moral purity, health and strength of childhood and youth, and to promote their welfare by means of systematic, educational and advisory work designed to guide and stimulate parents and teachers in the acquirement of definite knowledge and a broader culture relating especially to childhood and its needs.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. W. H. Emery; vice president, Miss Dora Bangs; secretary, Miss Marion Bushnell; treasurer, Mrs. Lee Miller; press reporter, Miss Lucy Moody; corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. Richmond.

The charter members are Mesdames Emery, Miller, Richmond, N. E. Borgerson, D. A. Wingeier, A. F. Zwemer, C. E. Freyermuth, J. R. Stryker, Ralph Townsend, Harry L. Phelps, S. B. Wenger, Charles Doyle and Misses Bangs, Bushnell and Moody.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. J. R. Stryker on the evening of Sept. 14.

SON OF GRATTAN PIONEERS LAID TO REST

John J. Byrne, 68, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Byrne, pioneer residents of Grattan-tp., passed away Monday at his home in Grand Rapids following a seven weeks' illness. Mr. Byrne, who was born in Grattan, had been a member of the Grand Rapids police department for 30 years and city sealer for 17 years.

He leaves the widow, Margaret; three sons, Elmer P. of Eugene, Ore., Camillus A. and John V. Byrne of Grand Rapids; five daughters, Mrs. F. J. McGee and Mrs. C. W. Phillips of Grand Rapids, Mrs. Marian Drieborg of Chicago, Mrs. Clarence Schmidt of Battle Creek and Mrs. L. A. Welsh of Youngstown; a brother, Austin Byrne of Grattan; four sisters, Mrs. Charles McCarthy of Pine Bluff, Ark., Sister Mary Aquinas of the Dominican order in Grand Rapids, and Mrs. Chas. Farrell of Grand Rapids, and Mrs. Charles Collar of Lowell.

Funeral services were held this (Thursday) morning at ten o'clock in Grand Rapids. Interment in Parnell cemetery.

BEST SPELLERS NAMED

Winners in the local spelling contest for the seventh and eighth grades at the Lowell high school, held Wednesday afternoon, were Hazel Peck, first, and Fred Fuller, second, in the eighth grade and Faye Green, first, and Robert Yeiter, second, in the seventh grade. Each year much enthusiasm is manifested by the students and all make a real effort to win the cash prizes. Mrs. William J. Smith is the teacher.

BURIAL HERE SATURDAY

Following funeral services to be held in Grand Rapids this Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, the body of Mrs. May Fairchild, 64, will be brought to Lowell for interment.

Short Story

Fish Out of Water

By DONALD S. AITKIN

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

THERE was an inscription on the back of the gold watch.

Presented to Henry Smithers
In recognition of 35 years of loyal service
Jones, Ward and Co.

"It's beautiful, Henry!" Mrs. Smithers said.

Mr. Smithers was slumped in an armchair, hands dug deep in trouser pockets. "Well," he said, "I suppose it's a pretty swell way of telling a man that he's no good any more."

"Don't take it that way, Henry. You ought to be very thankful. They've given you a generous pension. Now you can enjoy a rest."

Mrs. Smithers did her best to smile, but in her heart she was afraid. Men retired against their will from jobs held almost a lifetime, forced into inactivity, went to pieces quickly.

Next morning, in spite of protests from his wife, Mr. Smithers rose as usual at seven. He shaved, dressed and was the first down at breakfast.

He was moodily munching a piece of dry toast when the click-clack of feminine heels sounded on the stairs. Doris took her place at the table.

"Good morning, daddy!" Unfolding a napkin, she turned her piquant little face with its bubbling blue eyes in the direction of her mother. "Gee, daddy's lucky, isn't he?" she said. "No more rushing off with me to catch the 8:15 in the morning. All day to read his papers and do as he likes."

George, tall and glowing from his morning shower, slipped into his seat in time to echo the sentiment.

"Yes, dad," he said. "Wish I had a little of the spare time you're going to have. I haven't even had time to try out my new fishing rod."

* * * * * * *

All morning Mrs. Smithers' patience was sorely tried. Henry just moped around. He wandered aimlessly in and out of the kitchen like a man hopelessly lost. Once when she scolded him he made no answer. Just looked at her with a hurt expression in his dull eyes.

After lunch Mrs. Smithers decided that something must be done. She was afraid of what might happen if this went on. Resolutely, she dried her hands and went to find him. Henry was nowhere in the house. The old brown hat he sometimes wore was missing from its accustomed place in the hall. He must have gone off somewhere for a stroll. Mrs. Smithers went to the telephone and put a call through to the office of Jones, Ward and Co.

Mr. Ward, the president, listened with astonishment. Then he said, "But, my dear Mrs. Smithers, we can't take your husband back! He's earned his retirement. If you think the pension's not adequate, perhaps we could—"

Mrs. Smithers had to begin all over again.

"It isn't a question of money. Don't you understand? Henry's whole life was in his job. Now you've taken it away! I'm afraid. So afraid! Can't you find a place for him, somewhere, anywhere? Oh, please, please!"

Gradually the president came around. Yes, he began to see. If she'd tell Mr. Smithers to come down in the morning they'd talk things over. Mrs. Smithers hung up the receiver with trembling fingers. She'd done it!

When George came home from work she was almost frantic. They drove down to the village to make inquiries. The butcher put them on the track. His little boy had seen Mr. Smithers heading down towards the river where high banks overlooked the most dangerous part. Mrs. Smithers, white-faced, exchanged glances with her son.

George drove grimly, sending the car bouncing and bucking along the deep-rutted lane. The last fifty yards had to be covered on foot, through trees. As they came out close to the river bank. Mr. Smithers uttered a little weak cry of distress. Halfway up the slope lay a crumpled brown object. It was Henry's battered old hat!

George gripped his mother's arm and steadied her. They climbed to the top and looked down. Immediately below them, at the water's edge, sat Mr. Smithers on a large rock—fishing! Mrs. Smither's eyes closed and a little prayer of thankfulness went up. Then she looked down again and cried out:

"Goodness gracious, Henry! Don't you know it's getting dark?" The scolding tone in her voice was to hide her relief. "Come on up. We've got good news. They phoned from the office. They want you to go back!"

Mr. Smithers raised the fishing rod, swung the baited hook to another part of the stream and let it fall in again with a little plop.

He looked up at the bank. "Me—go back to that stuffy old office?" he exclaimed. "Not on your life! Look—" He laid the rod aside and held up an insignificant little fish about 4 inches long. "I just landed it," he said with eyes that shone proudly. "Tomorrow I'm going after the big ones. This new rod of yours is a dandy, George. Say—I'm just starting to live!"

Samuel Pepys, famous diarist, wrote in code.

No leader can make a happy, humane, workable society out of a stubborn lot of individualists who are more conscious of their rights than of their responsibilities, who accept a low moral standard in business and family life, who want more than they need, and are motivated by fear and greed, some of them forcing their will through blocs of special interests which are prejudicial to the welfare of the whole society.

BOOKS

Another good guest editorial, written by Gertrude Cooper, Lowell high school senior student:

Books have always made up one of the greatest pleasures in my life. I don't know what I would do without them. Many times long, lonely hours have passed swiftly as if by magic and I found that I had enjoyed those same hours that I had thought would be so dreary.

Besides the enjoyment, I learned a lot from reading. Many of the books I have read were written by men who have had glorious, thrilling adventures in distant countries—in countries where there is only a small degree of civilization; in others of ancient fame and beauty. Thus I learned about people who lived there and their quaint, and in some instances, horrible customs. Also I constantly find new words and new thoughts.

Before I had access to a public library, I borrowed books from almost any person who would lend them to me. I was fortunate enough to have an aunt who possessed quite a large and assorted library. I still remember of one book that I borrowed from her. It was the most beautiful book I had ever read. At first I liked the book for its beauty but as I read it I discovered that the decorations lent enjoyment to the reading. On every page was a border of some pretty flower. I noticed that in the saddest parts of the story the border was composed of Bleeding Hearts. I liked this book so well that I was tempted to keep it for myself. But I forced myself to give it back.

I had always dreamed that someday I would own a collection of all my favorite books, and I intended to have a copy of this wonderful book among the rest.

My library is still only a dream of the future but I have confidence that someday I shall realize it.

Commercial telephone service between Belgium and Soviet Russia was inaugurated recently.

If Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, were alive today, he would be in his ninetieth year.

More than one-third of Bell Telephone System employees own stock in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The first successful demonstration of Bell System radio telephony took place in 1915, when speech was transmitted from Montauk Point, Long Island, to Wilmington, Del., a distance of 250 miles.

Plans have been completed for extensive development of the telephone service throughout Manchukuo. One of the projects contemplated is the construction of a telephone exchange at Dairen, while another exchange, with a capacity of 1,000 lines, will be built at Changchun.

Old Timers Play Ball

Maurice Chadwick's Grand Rapids Old Timers came out at the small end of an 11-4 score at Recreation Park last Thursday afternoon when they encountered the Lowell Old Timers in the persons of Tony Tusken, Tony Gazella, Jack Bannan, Walter W. Gumser, E. C. Foreman, Harvey Bauschke, Clinton Johnson, "Schoolboy Rowe" Condon, Roman Maloney, Lew Morse, Jimmie Topp, and one or two others rushed into the fray when spavined old-timer muscles refused to function longer. Regardless of the fact that the combined ages of the players approached 2,000 years, it was an interesting game to watch and everybody had a good time. Grand Rapids Press Sports Editor Roscoe D. Bennett and Constable Jack Hoogerhyde starred for the Chadwick outfit.

Cubs To Meet Lake Odessa

The Fallasburg Cubs defeated the Conco Gasses of Grand Rapids, 10-4, in a thriller at the park last Sunday afternoon. The Cubs garnered 5 runs in an eighth inning rally, after trailing for seven, and a booming ninth inning drive of the Concos fell by the wayside when, with two Concos on bases, Charles Moore, Cub second baseman, caught a fast fly, touched out his man, then pegged the pill to first, where another was registered. It was a swiftly executed triple play which brought the crowd to its feet, closing the game.

Next Sunday at Fallasburg Park at 2:30 the Cubs will meet a rejuvenated squad of Lake Odessa Independents, who have been sweeping aside everything in their path so far this season, with the Cubs nourishing a burning ambition to stop them.

Periodical cicada—popularly, though incorrectly, called the 17-year locust—has appeared this year in two widespread areas. It is reported that a large brood, last seen and heard in 1919, has appeared in its usual range from New York State west to Missouri and from Michigan to Northern Alabama, while a smaller brood, which remained in its subterranean cells for 13 years, has appeared in Louisiana and Mississippi.

SUCCESSFUL SPELLERS

A WASHINGTON dispatch relates how Jean Trowbridge, an Iowa girl of 13, won the prize as the champion of the nation's juvenile spellers. Such competitions indicate a revival of interest in the art of spelling.

The education of former years placed very high emphasis on this art. It was said that ability to spell well proved that a person had industry and an accurate mind and a retentive memory.

Many men and women have gone on to high eminence, who could not spell at all well. Some say that ability as a speller does not prove anyone has an executive mind, and could direct the labor of others. Yet recent years have placed too little emphasis on this art. Spelling practice teaches young folks that if they don't get things precisely right, they make a complete failure. That is a lesson many superficial folks need to learn.

FLAGS OF THE NATION

EVERY NATION has its flag. If there is any country that has not some flag to symbolize its life, it must be a pretty weak and feeble one. People need some visible symbol to make them feel the reality of an idea. The Christian church takes the cross as its symbol, and every religion has these visible representations of its faith. The flag performs a similar service for our country. When people see something with their eyes, the truth behind that sign seems more real.

Flag day, June 14, is the anniversary of the date 159 years ago, when our people showed that they had become a real nation by adopting the design of the flag.

Those bright colors stir the heart. The red stands for the sacrifice of glorious patriots, the white for the purity of the ideals they cherished, and the blue for the happiness which our people try to realize for all in this land of the free.

THE EVIL NOMAD

BEWARE of the city slicker who comes seeking to do evil unto thy purse. From the press of Michigan we glean the information that these wandering tribes of predatory nomads are abroad in the hinterlands in great numbers. They have no idea of rendering any real service, and they go about it in an endeavor to separate the unsuspecting citizen from the fruits of his industry and frugality without giving anything in return. The slicker's capital stock is his colosal nerve. His working implement is a glib tongue. He has hatched a little scheme he thinks will appeal to naturally credulous workers who are able to pay. The toiler is busy trying to manage an increasing overhead and make necessary improvements, and he is not always on the alert to escape the meshes so cunningly devised. Only after the slicker has vanished does he awaken to find he has invested in something of no real value to anyone excepting the white-collar bandit. When a toiler is interrupted in his busy routine to consider some schemers' happily breeze brain wrinkle, let him respond cautiously and have the courage to say "No" in the absence of proved value.

CLOSING SCHOOLS

THE YEAR of work in the schools and colleges of Michigan draws to its close. In some it is already finished. The young folks set out last September on a voyage of discovery over the broad sea of knowledge. What rich or other fruitage have they brought back? Do they come into port with all sails flying, and the ship of experience well freighted with knowledge? Or have they idled away their time in fleeting pleasures, while others gathered the prizes of this commerce with wisdom?

If the year of study has been well spent, the youngster is ready to make the next voyage toward the goal of his hopes. If he has dragged behind, the loss may be permanent. It is far easier to learn the lessons as they come from day to day, than to catch up when you get well behind.

It is one of the tragedies of life at this moment, that in some states a large part of the schools, owing to financial difficulties, have had to close early, and some never opened at all. What can the American people be thinking of, to allow so many young folks to grow up with only meager education? The youth who never learns to handle the tools of knowledge will be but a poor builder of his country's future.

The closing day in school is a grand occasion in many places. The old time school committee used to examine the pupils at this time, while admiring parents gloried in the amazing progress made by their young hopefuls.

It is well to have such honors given to successful students. It spurs the laggards and sluggards on. When you prove to a youngster that the world frowns on a youth who is indifferent about learning, you arouse the power of ambition. That creates energy grater than any force you can produce with steam or electricity.

Municipal Band Is Sponsored by Village Council

Regular Concerts Are Being Arranged

According Director Bruce Walter high praise for the remarkable forward strides of the Lowell high school orchestra and marching band under his direction, the Village Council Monday evening took steps to sponsor these organizations as a municipal band. Director Walter is to return from the University of Michigan summer school each Friday evening to conduct rehearsals. Several open-air evening summer concerts are being arranged, and band committee chairman, Trustee William E. Christiansen, has begun negotiations for the purchase of uniforms.

Upon recommendation of Hubbell, Hartgering & Roth, village engineers, four six-pound tins of chemical are being used to cleanse the new reservoir. The measure was adopted as an extra precaution after a number of sample analyses revealed no trace of impurities in the water.

A platted road which has never been used, extending east from South Broadway Avenue past the Kellogg Vinegar Plant to Recreation Park, was formally closed by council action.

Joseph Green was granted a building permit to erect a 22 by 26 foot dwelling structure, 10 ft. in height, with concrete foundation and composition roof, on lots 41 and 42, Sweet and Smith's addition.

Acting President Harry Day deferred until the next regular council session, when President John A. Arehart will have returned from a business trip, the appointment of a board of election commissioners to supervise the balloting on city incorporation at the June 29 special election. Mr. Day did, however, designate Trustees Claude Thorne and William E. Christiansen, together with Clerk L. E. Johnson, as a board of registration.

The formal report on the recent audit of the village books was received.

A proposal of Earl Dowling, that the municipality undertake the collection and disposal of garbage, was tabled, after a brief discussion as to its immediate feasibility.

The council authorized the execution of a $4,000 promissory note, payable in 60 days, anticipating the July taxes. A second note, for $1,000, was renewed.

The tax rate will remain the same as last year, $1.20, of which $1.00 is assigned to the general fund, 15c to the sinking fund, and 5c to the band fund, as before.

At a special council meeting on Saturday, June 6, E. O. Wadsworth and E. D. McQueen were named as members of the board of review.

City Hall Packed For Baccalaureate

"Think without confusion . . . Love your fellow man sincerely . . . Trust in God . . ." These were the admonitions left with the Lowell high school graduating class of 1936 by Rev. S. B. Wenger, in his baccalaureate address last Sunday evening before an audience which filled the city hall.

In his invocation, Rev. A. J. Hoolsema asked for prayerful consideration of the family of Franklin Kranz, drowned that afternoon; who, as a youth of great promise, sat with the graduating class of 1935 on the baccalaureate evening of the year preceding.

The graduates assembled in the Legion quarters, and marched single file to their seats at the front of the hall. Margaret Cole, accompanied by Vivian Cole, sang a solo, "I Would Love Thee," by Bancroft. The processional, "Our National Honor," was played by the high school orchestra, Bruce Walter conducting.

Following Rev. Wenger's address, the audience joined in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Hoolsema.

Helen King, 68, Dies Peacefully in Sleep

Miss Helen King died peacefully in her sleep last Sunday night. She was 68 years old.

On Monday morning Jay Carter, hired for spring cleaning and paper hanging, was unable to arouse anyone at the residence. He summoned Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Collar, neighbors, who in turn called Charles Doyle. Entrance to the house was forced, and the tragedy discovered.

Virtually a lifelong resident, Miss King had countless friends, young and old, in all classes of society. Her passing will be sincerely mourned.

Services are being held from the late residence on Jackson St. today (Thursday) at 2 p. m., Rev. S. B. Wenger officiating. The funeral is in charge of the F. E. Haner mortuary. Interment will be in Graceland Mausoleum, Grand Rapids.

The obituary sketch follows:

Helen Brown King was born October 24, 1867 in Lanchester, Wis. She was the daughter of Daniel Brown, who was the brother of Mrs. Francis King. When a baby she came to Lowell to live with Mr. and Mrs. Francis King, who brought her up as their daughter. She was educated in the Lowell schools and then went to Kalamazoo Seminary and later spent a year in Ypsilanti Normal. For several years she was employed in the Lowell State Bank.

At the death of Mr. and Mrs. King she spent sometime with a cousin in Bay City and with friends in Grand Rapids and later returned to Lowell where she had made her home. She was a member of the Lowell Congregational church.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. D. A. Rooney of Madison, Wis., a niece, Mrs. Martin Foley, and two nephews, Emmett and Albert Rooney, and a cousin, Florence King of Grand Rapids.

Popular Ada Boy Drowning Victim

Franklin C. Kranz, 19, Dies In Spite of Heroic Efforts of Younger Brother, Philip, 17

Drowning claimed its first victim of the season last Sunday afternoon in Franklin C. Kranz,

19, popular Lowell high school graduate in the class of 1935, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin C. Kranz, Sr., who reside 2½ miles west of Ada. With his brother, Phillip, 17, Franklin was swimming in Ada pond, Thornapple River. The boys were diving from a raft. The tragedy may best be described in the words of Philip who said:

"Frank dove off and came up calling for help. The wind took the raft away when I dove after him. I got hold of him and started pulling him towards a stump, 40 feet away. I got within 25 feet of the stump and became tired and couldn't pull him further. He grabbed me around the throat and I had to hit him to loosen his hold. He sank under water and I was able to get away. I hardly had the strength left to get to the stump where I rested."

Some fishermen caught the raft, which was more than 35 feet from shore, and brought it to the spot where Franklin sank. Assisted by the heroic efforts of the distraught brother, they dropped clam drags secured from the river bank. About twenty-five or thirty minutes later the body was hooked by the shoulder, raised to the surface, and brought on the raft to the bank, where a pulmotor, rushed to the scene by Deputies Jack Wiest and Coney Johnson, was waiting. A physician worked over the body for an hour, without success.

A tragic footnote touching on the boy's loyalty to the people and institutions close to him is found in the fact that his was the first reservation received to the Lowell high school alumni banquet here tomorrow evening.

Surviving are the parents, brother and two sisters, Ruth, 12, and Hazel, 7.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 2:00 p. m. from the Roth Chapel, Rev. G. Knoll of Grand Rapids officiating. Interment was in Ada cemetery. The following boys served as pallbearers: Gerrit Stukkie, Edward Cramton, Richard Dekker, Harold Linsday, Floyd Chaffee and Harold Buttrick.

The entire community joins in extending heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

Colorful and impressive exercises marked the commencement program held at the city hall last night for the class of 1936 of Lowell high school. Both the main floor and the balcony were crowded to capacity. While the high school orchestra played the processional, the graduates marched in to take their places upon the stage, preparatory to the beginning of the program. An abundance of flowers added charm to the occasion.

Features of the program were the salutatory address by Lucy Paulinkas, address by Dean J. B. Edmonson of the University of Michigan, presentation of the spade by Allison Roark to John Corditz, representing the junior class; valedictory address by Catherine Hoover, presentation by Legion Commander W. J. Smith of Legion Honor Cup Award to Robert E. Ellis and of the Legion Honor Medal to William Lalley. Barbara Fletcher and King Doyle were runnersup for these two awards, respectively. Mrs. H. P. Gotfredsen presented the American Legion Auxiliary Medal to Doris Christiansen. Lucille Warner was a close second. Catherine Hoover received the prize for scholarship made possible by a fund established by the class of 1918. C. H. Runciman, president of the school board, made this award and also presented the diplomas to the graduates. The Rev. R. S. Miller offered the invocation and benediction. Music was furnished by the girl's glee club, violin quartet composed of Ruth Houseman, Lorene Kyser, Delia Wunsch and Dorothy Fletcher; and Helen Frost, pianist.

Our Educational Investment

In discussing the topic, "Our Educational Investment", Dean Edmonson said in part. "America has made a very large investment in education. This investment is an expression of our faith in the value of education in a democracy. Every parent not only desires the success and happiness of his children, but is willing to make great sacrifices in order to further their well-being. Concern for the fate of one's children is a driving force that explains much of the popular interest in certain of our social institutions. The American people have contributed millions of dollars to the building of its educational system because of the desire of parents to give their children whatever advantages come from investment of money in education. Parents have faith in the values of education.

"The faith of America is so deeply rooted in the public school that citizens of all races, nationalities and creeds supported financially and with good will in the public school mingle with children of all races and all religious faiths. The great faith of the American people in education is due in a large part to results that have been achieved through more liberal provision for the training of all the people.

"In recent years enrollment in schools has increased by leaps and bounds. Especially in our high schools. There are now more than 21,000,000 children in the public elementary schools. Due to compulsory education laws, but in increasing measure to a feeling of need for education, most of these children will finish the eighth grade and a large fraction will continue through the high school. The rapid growth of high schools is cause for the greatest confidence in the nation's future.

"America has made more liberal provision for public education than any other country in the world. There is no counterpart of American high schools to be found in any other country.

"This address would be quite incomplete if the question was not raised, 'What return does America want on its educational investment?' I am certain that it would be very easy to secure from any Commencement audience a very satisfactory series of replies to this question. It is my prediction, however, that these replies could be summarized in the statement that we want our educational investment to give us boys and girls who are capable of playing an effective part in the life of a community and who have acquired habits and ideals of reverence, obedience, cooperation, courtesy, honesty and industry. We do not want the schools to free their graduates from the necessity of work, we do not want our schools to develop an intellectual class that will claim special advantages and special consideration at the hands of the state. We want our schools to give us young citizens that will possess the qualities that we prize in American life and who will be willing to serve others in the spirit of true service. The various organizations made up of leading men and women in our communities prove that our leading citizens recognize the importance of service of the kind that involves sacrifice. Every high school graduate should be an active member of some local organization that recognizes service as its major objective.

"Society needs the trained men and women in its public affairs and as never before. There is plenty of crude energy and sentiment and proposal of reform but too little of intelligence, sanity, and progress. Society needs the graduate who knows history, political science, economics, sociology, the ideals embodied in literature, and the facts of science. It needs the graduate who has perspective and who can measure the present by the past."

In conclusion, Dean Edmonson said:

"May you as a graduate not fail society but take a keen, intelligent and sympathetic interest in public affairs, especially the affairs of your immediate community."

Supervisor Striken At Review Session

Lewis M. Yeiter, 63, veteran Lowell township supervisor, suffered a slight stroke Tuesday noon while presiding at a session of the township board of review. He was removed to his home, where it was found the left side of the body was affected, but speech was not impaired.

The many friends of Mr. Yeiter will be glad to know that his condition is encouraging as we go to press. He slept well last night and is able to sit up and visit with friends and there is reason to feel that his condition will gradually improve.

TO STUDY AND TOUR IN EUROPE

Miss Jennie Richards of Ada will sail for Cherbourg, France, June 15, enroute to Budapest, Hungary, where she will attend the Third World Conference of Workers for the Crippled. She will also tour Austria, Switzerland, England and Scotland.

Miss Richards has joined the faculty of the Orthopedic Department of the Muskegon schools. She is a graduate of Lowell high school, class of 1929, and of Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo, since which time she has been teaching successfully in the public schools of Cascade-tp.

Important Meeting Of Board of Trade

The June meeting of the Lowell Board of Trade will be held at Richmond's Cafe next Tuesday evening with dinner starting at 6:30 o'clock. There will be a speaker and a program of entertainment.

At this meeting, the question of opening stores on Wednesday evenings during the summer months will come up for general discussion and final decision. This question will be met in this way because of a petition being circulated the last few days asking that the stores remain closed Wednesday evenings. Only about one-third of the stores signed the petition, hence the reason for a more general discussion at a full board meeting. Summer activities to be undertaken also will come up for discussion. The call for the meeting was authorized by the Better Business Committee of the Board of Trade.

ASSISTING IN DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION

For sometime in the future, the Rev. S. B. Wenger will be directing child and cost accounting for the State Planning Commission in the Department of Public Instruction, Lansing. Mr. Wenger began his work this week. He is well qualified by training and experience in public school work and by special University studies. He will carry on his local church work as usual, being home every evening and Friday and Saturday of each week.

LaPaz, Bolivia, is the highest capital in the world, 12,700 feet above sea level.

Along Main St.

The fronts of Richmond's Cafe and the Bert Charles barber shop have been painted a glistening white.

Seventy-five-year-old wooden portions of the cut-over flume leading to the Lowell Cutter factory buildings, are being replaced by heavy iron pipe several feet in diameter. Ten men have been employed on the work for two weeks by the King Milling Company.

Lowell's newest park spot, at South Washington and East Main streets, is being manicured by the village power lawn mower, and a bench has been installed. Later a drinking fountain will be placed on the corner, and another step toward making Lowell's the prettiest Main street in Michigan will have been accomplished.

Charles W. Cook of the Price Rite Hardware firm, who has not been in the best of health of late, went to Ann Arbor Wednesday where he will enter the University clinic for observation. He expects to return home within a few days. While feeling some better, Mr. Cook thought it best to enter the clinic and his friends are hoping to hear good reports.

Congratulations are due Mrs. H. C. Scott, who has just completed 28 years of business activity on Main-st. It was on June 6, 1908, that Mrs. Scott began making home-made candies and selling them at retail in the same location she now occupies on the bridge. Mrs. Scott has built up a fine trade and has always manifested sincere interest in the welfare of the community.

Down 3,100 feet, the oil well on the G. W. Croff farm in Vergennes township is at a greater depth than has been reached by any wildcat test well in this section of the state. Drilling is far into the Monroe stratum, and it is expected the Sylvania will be reached within 100 feet further. A new walking beam for the well was installed last Saturday and Sunday, and three crews are working on eight hour shifts.

Returning Thursday from a north Michigan trip in which they caught 33 fish and saw a fox and two deer, A. H. Stormzand and William E. Haysmer noticed a crowd milling around an overturned car in a ditch on US-131, two miles north of Big Rapids. It was not until their return to Lowell that the men learned that in the accident, Kenneth (Dutch) Austin, of Big Rapids, former night cook at Randall's and Holland's restaurants, Lowell, had been fatally injured.

Since plans are being formulated for the establishment of a bird sanctuary on Flat River, there has been some discussion as to the probable damage which would be caused by snapping turtles, which seize ducks and other waterfowl by the feet and drag them under to their death. A possible solution appears in the action taken by the King Milling Company employees, who have secured a rifle. The mallards signalize the threatening proximity of a snapper by unmistakable squawks of distress, and the sharpshooting millers draw bead on a reptilian head lurking just beneath the surface. Already the river has been rid of several large snappers in this manner.

Alumni Banquet to Break All Records

Graduates of Lowell high school, old and young, will assemble at the central building tomorrow (Friday) evening at 7:00 p. m. for what is certain to be the largest annual banquet in the history of the institution. Upwards of 175 reservations had been made by Thursday morning, Mrs. Clara McCarty, alumni secretary, states, assuring a larger crowd than ever before. However, room will be provided for those who wish to attend but have neglected to make reservations, she announces.

A program of outstanding interest has been arranged, as follows:

Piano Selection, Charlotte K White, 1931; Invocation, Rev. John Claus; Community Singing, Supt. W. W. Gumser; President's remarks and introduction of toastmaster, Lee Lampkin, 1913; Response of Toastmaster, T. A. Murphy, 1889; Solo, Lynn H. Clark; Welcome to Class of 1936, Robert Lalley, 1928; Response, Frank Monkowski, 1936; Regrets and Salutations, Kathryn Lalley, 1907; Address, Carl Horn, 1916; Toastmaster's Choice, report of nominating committee, election of officers, and dancing by old and young, Warner's orchestra furnishing the music.

Invalid Appreciates Neighbors' Kindness

Ernest Aldrich, 28-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Aldrich, who live southwest of Lowell, has tangible evidence of the kindliness of his neighbors and friends. He has been confined to his bed for the past two years, suffering from a spinal ailment, and longed to be out of doors in the sunshine. This spring Mrs. Gabe Onan began to contact the neighbors and a fund was built up with which to construct a special porch for Ernest's benefit. Now he spends many hours each day enjoying the fresh air and sunshine from his bed on the new porch and wants all those who gave money for the fund to know that he is deeply grateful for their thoughtfulness.

St. Patrick High Closes Year With Pleasant Events

Diplomas To Be Given To Eight Girls

Commencement exercises for the senior class of St. Patrick high school, Parnell, will be held at the St. Patrick church on Sunday evening, June 14, at eight o'clock. The class this year is composed of eight girls, Geraldine Carey, Irene Finn, Mabel McGann, Lora Smith, Helen Bresnahan, Frances Nugent, Virginia Doran and Frances Tereskiewicz.

The following program will be given: Processional, "The Heavens Resound" by Beethoven, St. Patrick Choir; "Ave Maria" by C. Franck; presentation of diplomas, Monsignor Malone; "Lead Me All the Way" by Briggs, John Jakeway; "Cor Salus in Te" by W. Schultes; address, Rev. L. Toohey; Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, "Ave Verum Corpus" by Guilmant, "Tantum Ergo" by Smit, "Divine Praises" by Browne; "Holy God" by Walworth; Recessional.

Junior-Senior Banquet

The Juniors of St. Patrick high school entertained the Seniors at a junior-senior banquet on Thursday evening, June 4. The music room of the school was tastefully decorated in the class colors, silver and blue, and the guests took their places about the banquet table featuring a centerpiece significant of the class motto, "Small the diploma, but mighty the effort to win it."

The dinner was planned and prepared by the mothers of the members of the junior class and served by the girls from the sophomore class.

Immediately following the banquet, the following program was presented:

Welcome, Theresa Troy; "In the Time of Roses," Chorus; "The Our Father," Sophie Faiks; "Sphinx" by Lowell, Kathleen Roberts; "On Wings of Song," vocal duet, G. Carey, M. McGann; "Jamie Butler and the Owl," John Jakeway; "Men," William Laughlin; Junior Felicitations, Charles Jakeway; "A Senior's Thoughts," Lora Smith; "Thank You," Geraldine Carey; "Catholic Action Song," Chorus.

Alumni Honor Seniors

The annual meeting of St. Patrick Alumni took place Sunday evening at St. Patrick school, Parnell. The members of this fraternity honored the graduates of the class of 1936 with a banquet at seven o'clock.

After the program, the business meeting was held, and also the election of officers. The incumbents for the coming year are: President, Miss Lora Hefferan; vice president, Ralph Howard; secretary and treasurer, Miss Monica Carey.

Leader in Printing Heard by Rotarians

The miraculous development of modern magazine and newspaper illustration, from the crude wood engravings of battle scenes which made Harper's Weekly famous during the Civil War, to the technically perfect five-color illustrations now appearing in the larger periodicals, was the theme of an engrossing discussion before the Rotary Club Wednesday by Fred W. Gage of Battle Creek, recognized nationally as a leader in the printing and engraving fields.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Gage denounced the newspaper comic strip, as destructive of a taste for good illustration in the young, as well as a sense of what is really funny. Furthermore, the placing of scenes of violence and crime before the young when they are not at an age properly to evaluate them is considered not salutary by Mr. Gage.

The surface is barely scratched in the possibilities for industrial research, the speaker said, quoting Charles Kettering of General Motors Corporation. He predicted that the coming 25 years will witness greater forward strides in technical accomplishment than did the past 50.

Mr. Gage was introduced by program chairman George Herald.

President E. C. Foreman of Rotary asked a full attendance next week at the annual induction of officers.

Stranger Tries New Swindling Scheme

Something new in confidence games appeared this week, of which future compilers of books on the art of swindling will be forced to take notice. Mrs. Amelia Biggs sold two west side lots to Joseph Green, who mailed the deed to the Kent County Register of Deeds for recording. The instrument was duly recorded, and placed in the mails to be returned to Mr. Green. He never received the document. Meanwhile a stranger appeared at the home of Mrs. Biggs, the grantor, represented himself as Joseph Green, displayed the deed, and demanded a sum of money to pay back taxes on the property. Refused, he vanished with the deed, and has not been heard from since. The identity of the stranger, and how he secured possession of the document remain a mystery.

Clayo Reed is improving from his recent operation.

Coveted Letters, Other Honors Awarded Athletes

U. of M. Coach Gives Inspiring Talk

Lowell high school athletes in five major sports, covering the 1935-36 season, were honored at the annual dinner of the athletic association at Richmond's Cafe last Friday evening.

Backfield Coach Wally Webber of the University of Michigan was the principal speaker, and motion pictures of famous Michigan games were shown.

Football

In announcing individual players' awards, Coach Ray Avery summarized the 1935 football season. Starting with two veteran guards as a nucleus, and only 14 senior boys out of a class of 44, a team was developed which defeated Greenville and Rockford, and tied Ionia, in a schedule which included a number of B class large schools, among them Lee Street high and Grandville, Grand Rapids suburban institutions which have recently grown out of the Lowell C class into the B grading.

Senior lettermen awarded trophies were Leo Bettes, Robert Ellis, Frank Monkowski, Calvin Pinckney, Allison Roark and Gerritt Stukkie.

Junior football "L" winners were John Corditz, George Gotfredsen, John Jones, Allen Roth, Lester Sherman and John Thorne.

Sophomores awarded letters were Raymond Denny, Gerald Ellis and Clair Phillips.

Reserve letters were won by Leon Dawson, Dale Ford, Arthur Gross, Russell Kyser, Maurice Merwin, Warner Scott, Tom Willis, Lawrence Armstrong and Lloyd Stauffer.

Basketball

In basketball there was only one senior on the squad. Not one veteran remained from the first eight of the year before. Regardless, the team went forward to a successful season.

Gerritt Stukkie was presented with the senior trophy in basketball.

Block "Ls" in the court game went to George Gotfredsen, John Jones, John Thorne and Mac Fonger.

Awards were also made to Leo Dawson, Russell Kyser, Arthur Willis, Junior Ayres, Raymond Denny, Clair Phillips, Tommy Willis, Allen Wisner, and freshmen, Philip Althen and Hoyt Phelps.

Playing in the new gymnasium next year with a host of seasoned material with which to build a fast squad, the boys expect to go great guns.

Baseball

Thirty-four boys turned out for baseball in 1936, second season since the sport was revived in the local schools, Coach Wendell Emery announced. Last year the team broke even in games won and lost, while this season the record was bettered with victories over Rockford, Caledonia, Ionia and Lee. The final game is played with Lee, there, today, which will determine whether Lowell places second or third in the Grand Valley Conference.

Letters were presented to the following: Cordtz, Thorne, Willis, Fonger, Phelps, G. Ellis, A. Roark, F. Monkowski, R. Ellis, Dawson, Kyser, Sherman, Penninga and Condon.

Tennis

In tennis eleven matches were won and nine were lost by the locals. Arthur Willis, Robert Ellis, Robert Fineis, Tommy Willis and Philip Althen were presented with tokens of their prowess in tennis, while honorable mention was accorded to Leo Bettes and John Jones.

A medal offered by the magazine, "Scholastic Coach," for all-around merit, was accorded to George Golfredsen.

Track

Lowell's star for the year's athletic endeavors showed most brightly in track, the team winning a trophy for placing second among 60 class C schools in the state meet.

Trophies for winning five points or more in the regional, or conference meet, or for placing in the state meet, were presented to Robert Ellis and Gerritt Stukkie.

Awards and praises were accorded to Philip Kranz, Allen Roth, Lloyd Stauffer and Frank Monkowski, shot-putter and 440 man; Calvin Pinckney, 100 yard dash man; Junior Ayres, hurdler; Arthur Gross, pole vaulter; George Gotfredsen, shot-putter; Donald Tower, miler; Gerald Ellis, dash man; John Jones, pole vaulter and high hurdler; and Lawrence Armstrong, high jumper.

An honorary token was presented to graduate Glendon Swarthout for winning the state oratorical contest last year as a senior.

Athletic Manager Hugh Beahan was likewise recognized for his capable work in the business department of the school athletic system.

David Condon was accorded unstinted applause for his pluck in returning to finish his education after an absence of several years.

It was an evening long to be remembered by the youths who, during the scholastic year now closing, represented Lowell on the athletic field. On hand to witness their honoring were many parents, and the Board of School District No. 1. And Coach Webber aptly voiced the adult sentiment of those present when he said:

"Resourcefulness, courage, character, good fellowship, leadership, obedience—all these are by-products of athletic participation."

MRS. ADDIE BLAKESLEE DIES

Why I Believe In The Moose Order

"You ask me why I am a Moose. I thought all of my friends knew why.

"I am a Moose because my good friend, James Geraghty, invited me to spend a day at Mooseheart several years ago. I was so impressed with the undertaking there that I shall never forget that day. I thought then, and still think now, that it is the most wonderful thing for the men and women of our country, especially the moral, spiritual and educational training the children receive there.

EDWARD N. LINKFIELD

"You know I am a fraternalist. I belong to a great many fraternities, but the Moose pay me the largest dividends.

"I love the children at Mooseheart. You should see them. Their healthy faces are all aglow with vigor and happiness. To see them grow from infants and subsequently take their place in football and baseball teams is enough to make anyone proud of his membership in the Moose.

"To have a part (a few pennies a day) in keeping children together, to get an education is a great privilege when their daddy has died and left no money.

"To think that by paying less than five cents a day into a Lodge, out of which five cents a week goes to Mooseheart, one may be assured that if he dies and leaves no money or the money runs out in a year or so, that the children and their mother may go to Mooseheart and the family be kept intact and all the children educated through high school, taught a useful trade, instructed in the religion of their parents and trained in as clean and wholesome environment as one can find in any of the great schools of America.

"I think it is a beautiful thing to know that the young man who marries a fine girl and neither has anything but a lot of energy and a will to work, may be positive that if they die that their children will have an equal advantage and an equal opportunity with other children to get on and be fine citizens of the good old United States.

"I am proud of my membership in the Loyal Order of Moose, and never let a day pass that I do not tell someone about our great Order and my Lodge."

In 1910 Walter Kingsley started carrying mail on the dusty, treeless street that led up Peck's Hill in Belding. As a hot summer sun beat down on his head, it presently hatched an idea. Kingsley would make some shade! He began planting seeds and seedlings, but it was slow work for one man, so he recruited the Boy Scouts. This spring Kingsley resigned, but for several years he was able, as he and other Beldingites still are, to walk up Peck's Hill in the shade of a man's idea.

Why I Believe In The Moose Order

"I am asked to tell why I joined the Loyal Order of Moose of the World. In its earliest days I visited Mooseheart and was tremendously impressed with the vision of its founders and with the breadth of its humanitarian purpose.

"In working out its program it has enlisted some of the ablest and most progressive minds in the educational world, including that of Professor Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard University, Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Governor Arthur Capper of Kansas, Congressman John J. Lentz of Ohio, Judge Ralph W. E. Donges, Camden, N. J., Judge Norman G. Heyd, Toronto, Canada, Judge W. F. Broening, Baltimore, Md., and many others. All of these men are devoting their very best along the Moose plan, with the thought in mind that no boy or girl should be deprived of a high school education, or a chance to learn a trade whereby they may earn a living.

"Later I came to know James J. Davis and Edward J. Henning. Their vision of the order was an inspiring one. Above all, they desired to give the less fortunate members of society a larger life. Still later, I visited Mooseheart several times while it was being administered by Rodney Brandon. Each visit served to strengthen my conviction that the noble purposes of its founders were being successfully realized.

"For many years I have been associated with the working men of the cities throughout the State. I have studied their habits, character, their life in the shops and have had glimpses into their homes as they sat with the wife and children. Some of these glimpses were filled with joy and the things that make happiness, others were not so good.

"There, however, was a thing that was ever present in all of the homes. It was 'fear'. Fear for the babies that were rolling in glee on the floor, unmindful of the dark things (fear of the future), passing through the mind of the mother, as to what would be their future if something happened to daddy.

"Many plans (and usually meritorious) have been put forth by employers, associations and insurance companies, all of which are designed to do good, but none of them quite meet the needs if the breadwinner dies. A few thousand dollars does not go very far when there are many children to rear.

"My study of these various agencies convinced me that the Loyal Order of Moose plan will do more and go further to meet the hard condition that arises when the breadwinner dies and leaves no money, than any other plan I know about.

"These are the considerations which caused me to join the Loyal Order of Moose."

Signed, Hugh Blacklock,
Sheriff, Kent County, Mich.

FORD V-8 ECONOMY MEANS HIGH "Dollar Mileage" (MORE MILES PER DOLLAR)

ONLY THE FORD V-8 GIVES YOU ALL THESE FEATURES

1. V-8 ENGINE PERFORMANCE WITH ECONOMY
2. SUPER-SAFETY MECHANICAL BRAKES
3. SAFETY GLASS ALL AROUND AT NO EXTRA CHARGE
4. WELDED STEEL BODY—STEEL STRUCTURE AS WELL AS SURFACE
5. CENTER-POISE RIDING COMFORT

NO MATTER how you classify your expenditures for car up-keep—it's your total expenditure that counts. How much "dollar mileage" is your car giving you?

Dollars do go farther in the Ford V-8. Modern improved carburetion gives you unusual gasoline mileage with brilliant V-8 performance. Most owners of today's Ford change oil only every 2000 miles and add none between changes.

And after the first few thousand miles you begin to understand what Ford V-8 "dollar mileage" really means.

It gives you more miles per dollar because it gives you all-round economy—low first cost, low up-keep cost, low depreciation and long life—as well as low gasoline and oil consumption. All these are big items if you aim to buy the most economical car.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood
YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.
Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes, feel nervous, miserable—all upset.
Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

OBITUARY
Mrs. Jacob Krebs

Mrs. Elisa Krebs, (nee Kropf) was born August 12, 1855 in Schwarzenberg, Canton Bern, Switzerland. March 28, 1885 she was united in marriage to Jacob Krebs in Bern, Switzerland. To his union six children were born, two of whom died in infancy.

Eight days after their marriage they left their native country and came to America the latter part of April, 1885. Three years they lived in Ohio and four years in southern Kentucky. In 1892 they came to Kent County, Bowne Township, bought a farm where they lived all these years.

Under the pastorate of Rev. Wm. Rogatzky, she joined the church in Alto, August 29, 1897 and remained a true and faithful member of the same until her end. She loved the church of her choice. For many years she was a member of the Ladies Aid and the W. F. Mission Society. She was a cheerful giver, always willing to help God's cause. She followed the example of her Master and quietly she fulfilled the acts of her friendly services.

Lowell was at first a circuit with four or five appointments. The preachers had many miles to travel. They made the home of Sister and Brother Krebs their resting place. She always enjoyed it whenever they stopped and considered it a great honor to be their hostess and very seldom they left the place empty handed. Mrs. Krebs was sick about a year, but during all that time she was content and cheerful, never complained. She was a strong believer in God and found great comfort and strength in communion with Jesus Christ her blessed Redeemer. She was a good neighbor and lovely mother. The Bible and "The Christian Apologist" were her daily companion. Mrs. Krebs was held in the highest esteem by her many friends. She passed peacefully away Wednesday morning, June 3, 1936 at the age of 80 years, 9 mos., 21 days. Her husband preceded her in death in 1928.

"Blessed are the death which lie in the Lord from henceforth; yea, said the Spirit that they may rest from their labor and their works do follow them." She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Rose Bryant, Mrs. Fanny Seese, Mrs. Laura Blough and one son, John; 12 grandchildren, 2 great grandchildren, one sister in Switzerland and many friends.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at the home at 1:30 o'clock and at the Alto church at 2:00 o'clock. Rev. John Claus officiated. Burial was in Merriman cemetery.

ADA DEPARTMENT
(By Mrs. Hattie R. Fitch)

Franklin Kranz, jr., Drowns
Franklin Kranz, jr., 19-year-old son of Franklin C. Kranz, sr., R. 2, Ada, was drowned Sunday afternoon in the pond above the dam in the Thornapple River.

Franklin and his brother Philip were playing in shallow water near a raft and Franklin walked over the edge of the submerged old river channel into water about thirty five feet deep. Philip struggled bravely to save his brother and called loudly for help bringing many to the scene of the tragedy. Clark Nellist, Glenn Shea and others using a clam drag finally located the body after it had been in the water about forty minues. Every effort was made to revive him. Deputies Coney Johnson and Jack Wiest used an inhalator unsuccessfully for more than thirty minutes.

Franklin was a pupil at Ada high School and a graduate of Lowell High School. He was highly respected in this community. Surviving besides the parents and Philip are two sisters aged 12 and 7.

The body was taken to the Roth funeral home at Lowell.

Cramton-Wolfe
One of June's most charming brides was Miss Lyleen Cramton who was married to Kenneth Alvan Wolfe of Detroit, at 5 p. m. Sunday, June 7 at Cozy Nook, Ada.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Lester E. Kilpatrick of First Methodist Church, Grand Rapids, in the beautiful country garden of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Everett Cramton.

The Bridal party proceeded down an aisle of pink peonies and blue iris to a bower of flowering syringa where the ceremony was read in the presence of 35 guests.

The bride wore a gown of silk mouseline de soi over ivory satin and carried a shower bouquet of white rose buds and maiden hair fern. Miss Emilie Evans, room mate of Miss Cramton at Albion College, attended her as maid of honor. She wore a gown of shell pink taffeta and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Dean Dutrach of Chicago, fraternity brother of Mr. Wolfe, acted as best man. Little Miss Barbara Bougart of Ann Arbor, daintily gowned in blue, carried the ring in a tiny basket of pink rose buds and field daises.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wolfe of Detroit, parents of the groom, and their daughter, Miss Velma Wolfe, also of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. H. Bau of Ann Arbor, grandparents of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Bougart also of Ann Arbor; Mrs. Lester Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Emma Carle, Mrs. Hannah Chesley, Mr. and Mrs. Wallie Campbell and daughter Jeanette all of Grand Rapids. Mrs. Wolfe and Miss Campbell were graduates in the class of '33 in East Grand Rapids High School and also class mates at Albion. Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Bennett and Mrs. Celia Cramton, grandparents of the bride, Mrs. Lillian Pepper, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Cramton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cramton, Mrs. L. Bates, Miss Evelyn Cramton, Messrs Edward, Chas. B. and Bobbie Cramton, all of Ada. A buffet luncheon was served following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe left for a short motor trip amid showers of rice and good wishes. They will be at home after July 1st at 9685 Monica St., Detroit, Mich.

RETAIN VITAMINS IN CANNING FOODS
To retain vitamins in commercial or home canning, vegetables and fruit must be canned as soon after picking as possible.

This is the advice of Flora M. Hanning, research fellow in nutrition at Michigan State Collage, East Lansing. Miss Hanning is making a thorough study of the effects of cooking and canning processes on vitamins.

"Vitamin C contained in fresh raw vegetables and fruits, varies with soil and methods of canning," she says. "The fresher the vegetables, the more vitamin C is there. So whether in the home or in the canning factory, the shorter the time from field or garden to the finished can, the more vitamin C is conserved."

The amount of air included in the jar or can also affects the vitamin content, she says. Experiments have shown, however, that apples which have been allowed to stand in salt water a short time before canning have more vitamin C than apples canned immediately after picking. The salt water permits some of the oxygen to escape.

"It is very important that the food is tightly packed in the jar or can so that all the bubbles of air are forced out, and as little air as possible left under the lid. Heating with those bubbles of air destroys some of the vitamin C," she says.

Miss Hanning also stresses the fact that cooking vegetables and fruit too long in canning and then throwing the liquid away needlessly wastes much of the vitamin content.

The appellation "gob" as applied to navy men, is of Chinese derivation from the Chinese word meaning sailor.

The higher men climb the longer their working day. And any young man with a streak of idleness in him may better make up his mind at the beginning that mediocrity will be his lot. Without immense, sustained effort he will not climb high. And even though fortune or chance were to lift him high, he would not stay there. For to keep at the top is harder almost than to get there. There are no office hours for leaders.—Cardinal Gibbons.

DO NOT BE DELUDED
"The people never give up their liberty except under some delusion". Thus spoke Edmund Burke long years ago and it is just as true now as it was then. Under the delusion of "social security" the people of today in America may be surrendering liberties that their children or grandchildren will have to fight a civil war to regain. There is enough dynamite in some of the social ideas offered the public today to blow freedom to pieces. We are not opposed to the ideals which prompt some of the experiments, but we are opposed to the methods by which it is sought to put them into operation, and the methods which are already operating. An economy of scarcity is a fraud, social security is something to be gained in due time by a process of evolution instead of revolution even though that revolution be bloodless, government aid that hands agriculture a cash sop with one hand and robs agriculture through trade pacts with the other is insincere and dishonest, super-taxing business reserves laid up for the proverbial rainy day is destructive, and general welfare operated politically on a vote-getting basis destroys the morale of our people. America needs to do some very sound thinking in the next few months.—Cassopolis Vigilant.

ARE YOU A GENTLEMAN?
Ask the average American if he is a gentleman and the chances are that he will become quite angry at you.

Certainly he considers himself a gentleman. He takes off his hat in the presence of ladies, he doesn't cheat while playing cards, he is kind to children and considerate of the aged.

He wouldn't think of crowding in ahead of others waiting in line for tickets to a show, or to buy something at a counter. He wouldn't yell, "Get out of the way!" as he walked by others on the street. Certainly he's a gentleman! But—

Do you drive a motor car? Do you try to take advantage of everybody else while driving your car? Do you horn in ahead of other cars waiting in line for traffic to clear? Do you blow your horn instead of using your brakes? Do you take your half of the road in the middle? Do you "bawl out" every pedestrian and driver who fails to give you the right of way? Do you do those dozen and one things that bear the hallmarks of discourtesy and selfishness?

We know it isn't sportsmanlike to do such things, and we more than half suspect that it isn't gentlemanly. So consider this question again:

"Are you a gentleman?"—Grit.

SECRECY IN PUBLIC AFFAIRS
The state of Michigan is to be congratulated that its governor has set his face against secrecy in government. When Dr. William T. Shaw walked out of the meeting of the state prison commission in a huff, merely because the governor insisted state business must be transacted in the open, he performed one of his best public services. He gave the governor the opportunity to replace him on the commission with some other citizen who has nothing to cover.

It is possible, even probable, that all the criticism aimed at secret meetings and secret contracts in state circles, is not deserved. Granting that none of the whispers of graft and connivance between public officials are true, still this is no defense for secret meetings of public agencies. The public's business should be public business.

William T. Shaw in business appears to have gained the confidence of the public. Largely because of his style and manner in politics, he certainly has lost the confidence of the rank and file of the party. Just so has his obstinacy upon secrecy in state prison affairs lost to him the confidence of the people of Michigan. It is to be hoped that the governor will lose no time in accepting his resignation and substituting for him some other Michigan citizen who does not insist upon locked doors for public business.—Ingham County News.

TRUSTEE WINS ACTION FOR MADIGAN CORP.
A statute passed by the 1934 Michigan Legislature, providing that a mortgage of goods and chattels covering future advancements beyond the sum stated therein shall be absolutely void as against creditors of the mortgagor, was upheld by Judge Fred M. Raymond in U. S. District Court, in an action brought by Fred G. Timmer, trustee in bankruptcy of Frank A. Madigan, Inc., against Bernard J. Lemmen of Coopersville, purchaser after foreclosure of a chattel mortgage of the Madigan corporation. Mr. Lemmen was ordered to pay the trustee the sum of $6,750.

CHICKEN SALAD RING
Mrs. Mildred Washburn, 806 Lafayette Avenue, Lowell, has been awarded a Certificate of Recipe Endorsement by Better Homes and Gardens for her recipe, "Chicken Salad Ring:"

2 tablespoons gelatine, 2 tablespoons cold water, 2 cups chicken stock, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste, 3 thin slices lemon, few strips of pimento, 6 stuffed olives, sliced, 3 cups diced chicken, 2 tablespoons minced parsley.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water 5 minutes. Heat the soup, add the gelatine and stir until dissolved. Add the lemon juice, salt and pepper. Pour a thin layer of the gelatine in a ring mold. Arrange a design of lemon slices, pimento and olive slices in the mold. Add the chicken and parsley to the remaining gelatine and when it begins to thicken, stir and pour into the mold. Chill in the refrigerator until firm and ready to serve. Unmold on a bed of lettuce and fill the center with diced vegetables, (tomatoes, celery, green pepper, cucumbers and radishes) which have been marinated in French dressing. Serve with mayonnaise.

Serves 6 to 8.

The most lovable quality that any human being can possess is tolerance. It is the vision that enables one to see things from another's viewpoint. It is the generosity that concedes to others the right to their own opinions and their own peculiarities. It is the bigness that enables us to let people be happy in their own way instead of our way.

Odds and Ends Here and There
Brief Paragraphs of News and Information on a Variety of Topics

Michigan's official 1936 highway map is just off the press and ready for general free distribution. Persons desiring one or more maps can obtain them at the state highway department at Lansing.

An air-conditioned bed has been developed, according to the Cotton-Textile Institute, which can be kept at a temperature of 65 degrees or less even though the bedroom may be 100 degrees. A simple refrigerating unit and a cotton curtain which can readily be hung on adjustable bars at the head and foot of the bed, are main features of the apparatus.

Are you thinking of running for office? The secretary of state's office says that Tuesday, July 28, at 5:00 p. m., is the deadline to file petitions for U. S. senator, lieutenant-governor, congressman, state senator or representative. Republican candidates for state and national offices are required to file 5,862 names on their petitions and Democratic candidates for the same office must file 5,756.

Soybeans can be prepared for the table in the same way as other bean varieties, according to home economic extension workers at Michigan State College. The average cooking time for boiling or steaming green soybeans is about 30 minutes. Dried soybeans should be soaked overnight and cooked for two hours. Other food uses of soybeans are soy sauce, diabetic and infant foods, breakfast foods, oil for cooking and table use, and flour for making ice cream cones, ice-cream powder, macaroni products and wafers.

Current struggle backstage between the Comptroller General's office and other governmental offices is over the question of placing thousands of emergency workers directly on the regular Federal roll of employes. Involved are AAA with about 40,000 employes on county soil conservation associations and WPA with about 75,000 administrative employes. If these workers are forced on the rolls, the total of Federal employes will be skyrocketed to near World War peak.

Forty per cent of the meat and thirty per cent of the eggs consumed in Michigan are shipped in from other states. This fact is brought out in Special Bulletin No. 269 on "The Production-Consumption Balance of Agricultural Products in Michigan" by G. N. Motts, of the economics department, Michigan State College, East Lansing. Mr. Motts has concluded that Michigan does not produce enough meat for its own use. According to the report, Michigan consumes 99.3 per cent of all the milk and cream consumed in the state, 75 per cent of all the veal, and 50 per cent of all the lamb and mutton.

Belief in magic has not disappeared with modern times, as can be attested by Dr. Dafoe, the Dionne quintuplets' physician. Ever since the arrival of the famous quints in Callander, Canada, childless couples have journeyed there, taking away with them some memento in the hope that it would bring luck to them. They even went so far as to pick up pebbles from the streets, and now Dr. Dafoe, himself, is authority for the statement that many of these couples have since been blessed with babies. All of them attribute their good luck to the "Magic Stones of Callander."

On Tuesday of last week, May 28, hundreds of people in Groveland and Brandon paused and gave a sigh. It was the 40th anniversary of that terrible cyclone that visited this section at the close of that beautiful May day in 1896, taking dozens of lives, and doing untold property damage. The sorrows and heartaches of that evening can never be erased. And the property loss was generally without insurance, for in those days cyclone insurance was carried by very few. Forty years later this kind of insurance is considered to be as necessary as fire insurance, and is never overlooked by the thrifty property owner.—Holly Herald.

As Michigan cities and villages join with the State in observing the centennial of their settlement and Michigan's statehood, one important centennial has gone entirely unnoticed. This is the centennial year of railroad service in Michigan. The first railroad in Michigan, the Erie & Kalamazoo, and the first to be built west of Schenectady, N. Y., began operating between Port Lawrence (now Toledo) and Adrian, in 1836. One of the surprising things about the road is that although it was long ago sold to satisfy judgments, its stock still returns dividends to a number of its stockholders in the State. The return is obtained from lease of its right of way to the New York Central Lines.

The unequal distribution of our wealth still goes on, spreading even to relief funds. Mrs. Nellie Slaboda of Cleveland, owner of one home and $2500 in escrow towards the purchase of another, was hailed into court and convicted of obtaining $1,567 from relief agencies under false pretenses over a period of six years. Since January 1930 she has been receiving various doles. At the same time that Mrs. Slaboda's sins were catching up with her, another woman, a young wife, also in Cleveland, was starving because she and her unemployed husband were unable to get on the relief rolls at all. The unfortunate young woman, whose first name strangely enough is also Nellie, is Mrs. Nellie Sevinsky. She became so desperate that she ran sobbing into police headquarters. "We're starving!" she cried, "We haven't eaten anything for two days. And I'm going to have a baby!" The tragedies of both Nellies found their way into print on the same day.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stahl and Mrs. Alma Stahl and twins, Jean and Janet, were over Sunday guests of Mose Hoffman and family of Gosben, Ind.

The infant daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Tobias Schrock has been seriously sick the past week with cold and congestion on the lungs.

Reception for Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Stahl (nee Maxine Litchfield) were tendered a reception last Friday evening at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stahl. Over one hundred were present and the evening was spent by the older folks visiting, while the young people enjoyed games on the lawn. The newlyweds were then called upon to open the large pile of presents which were of a very nice assortment. At a late hour the pot luck supper was served after which the guests departed wishing Clair and his bride a long and happy married life.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Keim was a scene of unusual activity and merriment last Thurs. as the bride and groom were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. Open house was held both afternoon and evening during which time about 100 of their friends, neighbors and relatives called and offered congratulations and enjoyed some very pleasant chats. Mr. Keim is 73 years of age while his wife is past 70. Both of them are enjoying fair health. He is the last surviving member of his family while Mrs. Keim has one brother, George Leece, who spent the day with them. Their children, Mrs. Charles Schwab and family, Burt Keim and family, Wesley Keim and family and Walter, who lives with his parents, all enjoyed the day with them. Ice cream and cake were served to all of the guests. The happy couple received a fine collection of gifts. At a late hour Mr. and Mrs. Keim again found themselves alone with those words warmly ringing in their ears: "Hope you live to enjoy many more anniversaries."

THE ONLY SMALL THING ABOUT A BUICK

LOOK high and look low throughout this smart and spirited Buick SPECIAL and you'll find only one thing about it that's anything but big.

It's big in its inches, length and breadth—big in the ample, stretch-out space it supplies to driver and passengers alike.

It's big in its power—it hasn't found a hill it couldn't easily master, or a driver it couldn't thrill by the fervor of its quick response, the smoothness of its stride.

It's big in the measure of its quality, seen and unseen—every nut and bolt and strut and part is eloquent testimony to Buick's insistence that the best alone will do.

It's big in the pleasure it can bring you—pleasure that comes from handling a sparkling and superior performer—pleasure that's yours from owning a car so obviously better than mere transportation requires.

It's big in the satisfactions it yields—from the smartness of its valid streamline style, from the surety of its comfort, and your knowledge that the family couldn't be safer in a car.

It's big in every way, until you reach for the tag that names the price—then you find that it's only a short step up from the lowest-priced Buick Series 40, with prices at $765* and up, list at Flint, the price tag on the Buick SPECIAL, Series 40, reads, and the terms are within anyone's reach.

See America First —in Michigan!

ARE you ready to begin studying maps? To pick out places you would like to visit, and sights you would like to see during your vacation? Then you can find a wide and wonderful assortment in a map of Michigan.

It is the map of a state with an area of fifty-eight thousand square miles. Within its borders you can find many of America's outstanding points of interest. Scenes of historic association; great cities; beautiful modern buildings; vast open country crossed by the finest of highways; primeval forests; five thousand lakes, large and small; scenic beauty of every kind—all these lures, surpassing many of those which people travel abroad to see, are spread before you when you study a map of the Wolverine State.

We urge you to consider Michigan when planning your vacation. Let your friends in neighboring states know what holiday pleasures can be found here. You will be doing them a favor—and promoting good will for Michigan.

As our part in such promotion, this series of advertisements is being published in newspapers throughout the State by a Michigan organization that can prosper only as the other citizens of Michigan prosper.

Local Sports

Old Timers Play Ball

Maurice Chadwick's Grand Rapids Old Timers came out at the small end of an 11-4 score at Recreation Park last Thursday afternoon when they encountered the Lowell Old Timers in the persons of Tony Tusken, Tony Gazella, Jack Bannan, Walter W. Gumser, E. C. Foreman, Harvey Bauschke, Clinton Johnson, "Schoolboy Rowe" Condon, Roman Maloney, Lew Morse, Jimmie Topp, and one or two others rushed into the fray when spavined old-timer muscles refused to function longer. Regardless of the fact that the combined ages of the players approached 2,000 years, it was an interesting game to watch and everybody had a good time. Grand Rapids Press Sports Editor Roscoe D. Bennett and Constable Jack Hoogerhyde starred for the Chadwick outfit.

Cubs To Meet Lake Odessa

The Fallasburg Cubs defeated the Conco Gasses of Grand Rapids, 10-4, in a thriller at the park last Sunday afternoon. The Cubs garnered 5 runs in an eighth inning rally, after trailing for seven, and a booming ninth inning drive of the Concos fell by the wayside when, with two Concos on bases, Charles Moore, Cub second baseman, caught a fast fly, touched out his man, then pegged the pill to first, where another was registered. It was a swiftly executed triple play which brought the crowd to its feet, closing the game.

Next Sunday at Fallasburg Park at 2:30 the Cubs will meet a rejuvenated squad of Lake Odessa Independents, who have been sweeping aside everything in their path so far this season, with the Cubs nourishing a burning ambition to stop them.

Periodical cicada — popularly, though incorrectly, called the 17-year locust—has appeared this year in two widespread areas. It is reported that a large brood, last seen and heard in 1919, has appeared in its usual range from New York State west to Missouri and from Michigan to Northern Alabama, while a smaller brood, which remained in its subterranean cells for 13 years, has appeared in Louisiana and Mississippi.

Mrs. Pat Beahan entertained the members of St. Mary's Guild at her home Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Lee entertained the bridge club last Thursday evening. Mrs. Lee presented each woman guest with a gift. High scores were received by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Roth.

A galaxy of music and dancing numbers was presented at the city hall last Friday evening in the first annual Lowell recital of Peggy's Dance Studio. Classes have been conducted regularly at the hall throughout the winter by Mrs. Peggy Blanksma of Grand Rapids. As the recital gave ample evidence, much real talent has been developed locally. The names of local students who took part in the program were printed in the May 28 issue of The Ledger.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. G. Clayton Richards of Ada announce the engagement of their daughter, Evelyn Faye, to Mr. Menno R. Baker of Kalamazoo. The wedding will take place July twenty-first.

Vergennes Cooperative Club

Mrs. Flossie James was hostess at the regular monthly meeting of the Vergennes Cooperative Club held last week Thursday. The program was in charge of Mrs. Himebaugh and Mrs. Beatrice Krum. All enjoyed the illustrated talk and lovely flower arrangements which were followed by a demonstration and general discussion of various flower arrangements and styles of groupings. Three guests were present besides a majority of the members.

Plans were made for the picnic which is to be held Sunday, July 12, at Fallasburg Park.

One of the events of the day was a shower of canned fruit, linen and clothing for the family of Mrs. Bertha Hessler, former member of the club, who have been so unfortunate as to lose all of their effects by fire. The prize package was won by Mrs. Bernie Krum. Luncheon was served by the committee.

Short Story

Fish Out of Water

By DONALD S. AITKIN

THERE was an inscription on the back of the gold watch.

Presented to Henry Smithers
In recognition of 35 years of loyal service
Jones, Ward and Co.

"It's beautiful, Henry!" Mrs. Smithers said.

Mr. Smithers was slumped in an armchair, hands dug deep in trouser pockets. "Well," he said, "I suppose it's a pretty swell way of telling a man that he's no good any more."

"Don't take it that way, Henry. You ought to be very thankful. They've given you a generous pension. Now you can enjoy a rest."

Mrs. Smithers did her best to smile, but in her heart she was afraid. Men retired against their will from jobs held almost a lifetime, forced into inactivity, went to pieces quickly.

Next morning, in spite of protests from his wife, Mr. Smithers rose as usual at seven. He shaved, dressed and was the first down at breakfast.

He was moodily munching a piece of dry toast when the click-clack of feminine heels sounded on the stairs. Doris took her place at the table.

"Good morning, daddy!" Unfolding a napkin, she turned her piquant little face with its bubbling blue eyes in the direction of her mother. "Gee, daddy's lucky, isn't he?" she said. "No more rushing off with me to catch the 8:15 in the morning. All day to read his papers and do as he likes."

George, tall and glowing from his morning shower, slipped into his seat in time to echo the sentiment.

"Yes, dad," he said. "Wish I had a little of the spare time you're going to have. I haven't even had time to try out my new fishing rod."

* * * * * * *

All morning Mrs. Smithers' patience was sorely tried. Henry just moped around. He wandered aimlessly in and out of the kitchen like a man hopelessly lost. Once when she scolded him he made no answer. Just looked at her with a hurt expression in his dull eyes.

After lunch Mrs. Smithers decided that something must be done. She was afraid of what might happen if this went on. Resolutely, she dried her hands and went to find him. Henry was nowhere in the house. The old brown hat he sometimes wore was missing from its accustomed place in the hall. He must have gone off somewhere for a stroll. Mrs. Smithers went to the telephone and put a call through to the office of Jones, Ward and Co.

Mr. Ward, the president, listened with astonishment. Then he said, "But, my dear Mrs. Smithers, we can't take your husband back! He's earned his retirement. If you think the pension's not adequate, perhaps we could—"

Mrs. Smithers had to begin all over again.

"It isn't a question of money. Don't you understand? Henry's whole life was in his job. Now you've taken it away! I'm afraid. So afraid! Can't you find a place for him, somewhere, anywhere? Oh, please, please!"

Gradually the president came around. Yes, he began to see. If she'd tell Mr. Smithers to come down in the morning they'd talk things over. Mrs. Smithers hung up the receiver with trembling fingers. She'd done it!

When George came home from work she was almost frantic. They drove down to the village to make inquiries. The butcher put them on the track. His little boy had seen Mr. Smithers heading down towards the river where high banks overlooked the most dangerous part. Mrs. Smithers, white-faced, exchanged glances with her son.

George drove grimly, sending the car bouncing and bucking along the deep-rutted lane. The last fifty yards had to be covered on foot, through trees. As they came out close to the river bank. Mr. Smithers uttered a little weak cry of distress. Halfway up the slope lay a crumpled brown object. It was Henry's battered old hat!

George gripped his mother's arm and steadied her. They climbed to the top and looked down. Immediately below them, at the water's edge, sat Mr. Smithers on a large rock—fishing! Mrs. Smither's eyes closed and a little prayer of thankfulness went up. Then she looked down again and cried out:

"Goodness gracious, Henry! Don't you know it's getting dark?" The scolding tone in her voice was to hide her relief. "Come on up. We've got good news. They phoned from the office. They want you to go back!"

Mr. Smithers raised the fishing rod, swung the baited hook to another part of the stream and let it fall in again with a little plop.

He looked up at the bank. "Me—go back to that stuffy old office?" he exclaimed. "Not on your life! Look—" He laid the rod aside and held up an insignificant little fish about 4 inches long. "I just landed it," he said with eyes that shone proudly. "Tomorrow I'm going after the big ones. This new rod of yours is a dandy, George. Say—I'm just starting to live!"

Samuel Pepys, famous diarist, wrote in code.

No leader can make a happy, humane, workable society out of a stubborn lot of individualists who are more conscious of their rights than of their responsibilities, who accept a low moral standard in business and family life, who want more than they need, and are motivated by fear and greed, some of them forcing their will through blocs of special interests which are prejudicial to the welfare of the whole society.

BOOKS

Another good guest editorial, written by Gertrude Cooper, Lowell high school senior student:

Books have always made up one of the greatest pleasures in my life. I don't know what I would do without them. Many times long, lonely hours have passed swiftly as if by magic and I found that I had enjoyed those same hours that I had thought would be so dreary.

Besides the enjoyment, I learned a lot from reading. Many of the books I have read were written by men who have had glorious, thrilling adventures in distant countries—in countries where there is only a small degree of civilization; in others of ancient fame and beauty. Thus I learned about people who lived there and their quaint, and in some instances, horrible customs. Also I constantly find new words and new thoughts.

Before I had access to a public library, I borrowed books from almost any person who would lend them to me. I was fortunate enough to have an aunt who possessed quite a large and assorted library. I still remember of one book that I borrowed from her. It was the most beautiful book I had ever read. At first I liked the book for its beauty but as I read it I discovered that the decorations lent enjoyment to the reading. On every page was a border of some pretty flower. I noticed that in the saddest parts of the story the border was composed of Bleeding Hearts. I liked this book so well that I was tempted to keep it for myself. But I forced myself to give it back.

I had always dreamed that someday I would own a collection of all my favorite books, and I intended to have a copy of this wonderful book among the rest.

My library is still only a dream of the future but I have confidence that someday I shall realize it.

Facts About the Telephone

Commercial telephone service between Belgium and Soviet Russia was inaugurated recently.

If Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, were alive today, he would be in his ninetieth year.

More than one-third of Bell Telephone System employees own stock in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The first successful demonstration of Bell System radio telephony took place in 1915, when speech was transmitted from Montauk Point, Long Island, to Wilmington, Del., a distance of 250 miles.

Plans have been completed for extensive development of the telephone service throughout Manchukuo. One of the projects contemplated is the construction of a telephone exchange at Dairen, while another exchange, with a capacity of 1,000 lines, will be built at Changchun.
