Forest Hills Loses Close Game; To Meet Hudsonville Friday Night

The Forest Hills Rangers came close to winning their first game of the season last Friday night when they lost a 50-40 decision to Kelloggsville.

The Rangers took an early 8-4 lead and it appeared they might be on their way to an upset, but Kelloggsville came on to win in the last quarter. The game was close until the last three minutes when the Rockets gained their advantage.

Scott Graham paced the winners with 15 points. Jerry Boomers and Roger Grimes paced Forest Hills.

Travel to Hudsonville

The Forest Hills Rangers will travel to Hudsonville Friday night to play the Hudsonville Eagles in an O-K league game. The Eagles have been a hot and cold ball club this year with a league record of three wins and four losses. Their most recent game resulted in a loss to Lee as they allowed Doug Greenwold a record-breaking 43 points.

The Rangers have been improving in their last two games and could cause the Eagles considerable trouble.

Faculty and Boosters to Play

The Forest Hills faculty, undefeated this season, will meet the Kentwood High School faculty in the Forest Hills gym Saturday night, February 6.

The Forest Hills Boosters club will meet the Byron Center Merchants in the preliminary game.

The first game will start at 7. Admission is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Play at South Christian

The Forest Hills Rangers will play the South Christian Sailors at South Christian at 6:30 Tuesday night, February 9.

South Christian is a member of the 4-C league composed of parochial schools from Kalamazoo, Hudsonville, Muskegon, and Grand Rapids.

South Christian is located on 68th Street about two blocks west of Division Avenue.

Health Education Stresses Physical Fitness and Continuous Excercise

During World War II, it became apparent that our manpower resource was impaired because too many men were rejected for physical reasons. We may recall the President's commission on phy ical fitness whose chairman was Mr. Munn, Athletic Director of Michigan State University. This committee recommended a complete overhaul of the high school physical education program to meet the physical needs of our country. Consequently, colleges began to rearrange their training programs for physical training teachers. The colleges began to train the teachers to be health and physical education teachers.

No longer is Health Education regarded as "Gym" wherein just "Play" prevailed (wherein a ball is tossed out and you were marked on your native ability and on whether you take a shower). Today's program stresses physical fitness through proper and continuous exercise. Students are tested and they are expected to work on their weakness through proper exercise.

Physical activity in the classes is much more than playing touch football, basketball and softball. It is important that students understand the full impact of the game, the rules and regulations in addition to the fun of participation. In addition, students are instructed in the proper participation in sporting activities they can do throughout their lives. Competitive sports are only a part of, not the whole program. Along with these activities, students have regular assignments in Health Education. We use a regular health book for this part of the course.

In short, a school can hardly justify building a gymnasium and then using it only for play. It must be used for the complete educational program. Health Education is one of the parts of a good educational experience. Play alone isn't.

This now leads into a short discussion on competitive sports and the part they play in a school's program. Whether one enjoys athletics, he should realize that they offer the best release for extra teenage energy mankind has found, both for players and spectators. Few athletes become trouble makers or delinquents. Character building and good sportsmanship are the main objectives of athletics, whether the teams win, lose or tie. When a person learns to control his emotions under the stress of competition, he passes the threshold from childhood to adulthood.

It should not be a question of athletics versus the academic program of the school. Athletics are one of the areas of the curriculum. Participation is a privilege, not a right. To enjoy this privilege, a participant must be passing in all subjects and doing his best. There is no room on the playing field for a "Goof Off."

In general we feel thusly about athletics:

1. All athletic activities should be taught so as to develop the athletic skills of those boys possessing athletic talents.

2. Any boy participating on a Forest Hills High School athletic squad places himself in a privileged category; a position of importance and influence. He, therefore, is expected to conduct himself in an exemplary manner.

3. All boys participating on an athletic squad have the responsibility of performing to the utmost of their ability at all times.

4. Victory and defeat are both to be accepted in a graceful manner.

5. It is expected that the patrons of our athletic teams will support athletics faithfully and cheerfully regardless of the outcome of the games.

6. Participation on an interscholastic athletic team is a privilege. Each member of the team shares equally in victory or defeat whether or not actively participating in the game. Without spirited reserve strength, the varsity player will not perform to his utmost. Thus, all boys are equally valued members of the team. Victory within the rules of the game and the spirit of good sportsmanship is the goal of the participant as well as the reservist. As each shares in the team victory, it is expected that those with the greater ability will have the greater play, but not a greater glory. Each boy is expected to place the welfare of the team above personal gain or personal participation.

Our athletic coaches have developed this code for our boys:

1. Fair, hard play at all times with a square deal for opponents from players and spectators.

2. Respect decisions of officials, with the expectation that they will enforce all rules.

3. Maintenance of conduct of the highest type on the field, in and out of school.

4. Faithful completion of school work as practical evidence of loyalty to school and team.

5. Observance of all training rules established by the coaches.

6. Treat visiting teams and officials as guests.

7. Give opponents full credit when they win, rather than resorting to an "alibi."

8. M o d e s t y and consideration when one's team wins.

9. Realization that it is an honor and a privilege to represent one's school on an athletic team.

10. Take great pride in representing the Forest Hills School and community.

Birthday of Income Tax Comes In February

The month of February has had a rough time keeping its days together. But some U. S. taxpayers may wonder whether it was worth the trouble.

February wasn't even included in the year when Romulus, one of the founders of Rome, drew up the first Roman calendar.

Numa Pompilius, the second king of Rome, added it. He took the name from a Latin word meaning "to purify," for February was the month in which the Romans were purified for the religious festivals of the following months.

But Numa tacked "Februaris," as it was called, onto the end of the year. It wasn't until hundreds of years later that it found the place it occupies today.

In the meantime, the emperor Augustus swiped a day to add to August, the month named after him.

But the worst blow came in 1913 when, on February 25, the federal income tax was made legal by the Sixteenth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution.

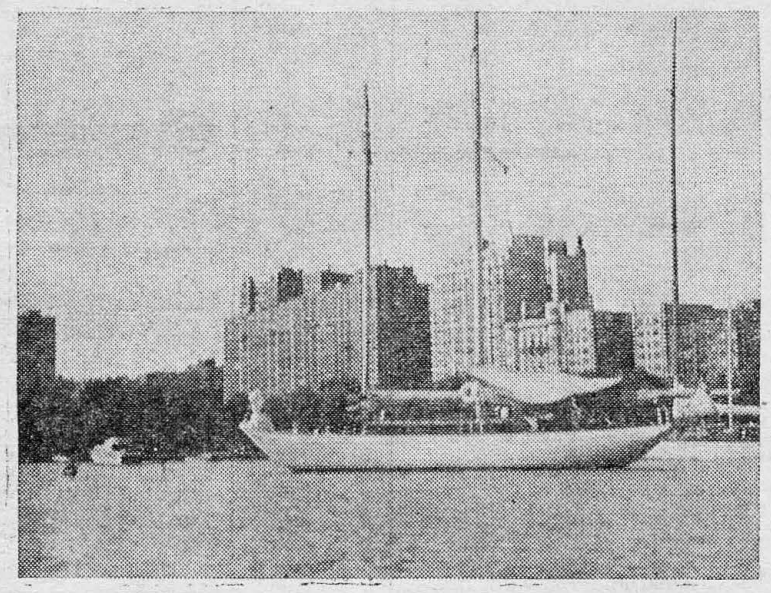
"Aboard The Heather" by Theresa Collins



When we looked up Fort Myers Beach on the chart, the area looked extremely shallow. But local knowledge was a big help here. We learned that there was a large fleet of shrimp boats based here, therefore there just must be a pretty good channel. It was shallow all right. At one place the water was only seven feet. The buoys marking the channel begin a couple of miles out in the Gulf. We followed the marked channel carefully. A school of playful porpoises proved most diverting. They will swim alongside and right under the bow, till you worry about running them down. Then there was the harbor, just as pictured in the Gulf Cruise Book, and soon we were safely tied up. This was a most convenient place to stop-groceries, laundromat, post office, just about anything we needed within a few blocks. Skipper had to wait here for mail and to get out some work, so the crew reveled in a shore leave that included marvelous swimming.

This winter has been a very nice one here in Florida. As a general thing it's very nice and summery between ten a. m. and 3:30. Nights are cool usually. We can have a wonderful time on the beach during the middle of the day, when the sun does not have midsummer's fierce intensity.

Skipper had to send off a wire, and had no sooner hung up than the phone rang again, and the operator called back, saying she had done a double take on his name, and announced that she was Peggy Thwaites Hendricks, daughter of our one time dentist in Grand Rapids. We had no more idea that she lived here than she did that we were sailing our boat around Florida. She and her two almost grown children came down to call on us, and it was a real pleasure.

That evening after everyone else had turned in Harriet Clark and I stepped out into the cockpit to look at the stars. Then out of the dark came a hail from an approaching sailboat, "Ahoy Heather! Mr. Collins!" We thought we were so far from people we knew, it was an eerie feeling. Out of the darkness came "Tally-Ho" a racing yawl from St. Pete. They had raced from St. Pete to Venice, and were taking the boat to Miami for the race to Nassau. There was no room at the dock for them so they requested permission to be alongside, and spent the night tied to Heather. Next morning early rising Skipper and Dr. Clark saw one member of her crew sleeping in the cockpit. She carried a crew of six for racing, but had sleeping accommodations for only five. Compared to that we live in luxury on Heather. Every so often Skipper says, "It is always forcibly apparent that it is absolutely necessary to keep one's skirts clean. In the most unlikely places somebody is always turning up. Why should anyone hesitate to cash a check—you simply can't hide a sailboat!"

The mail received and sent off to keep "Kevin the Bold" in business, and the boat provisioned, we took off by 11 a. m. Wednesday, after a four day stopover, and headed for Marathon on the keys. Again it was a beautiful day. We went out with the tide, picking our way carefully along the channel. Soon as we reached deep safe water and could turn south we raised sail and everyone was happy. The wind was lighter than we wished, but it was not against us, so nobody minded. The Gulf was the loveliest shades of green. We gals sunned and dozed on deck, and Skipper, David and Dr. Clark kept taking sights with the sextants and figuring where we were. Before dark we had left the Cape Romano Shrals light and were sailing across the open sea with nothing to see anywhere but sea and sky. And what a sky! Such a brilliant moon that the stars were dim. Again we did not stand watches. David and I were going to stand the 9 to 11 watch while Skipper slept—he's used to turning in early. But before an hour was up Dr. Clark joined us, so I turned in. Before I got to sleep Skipper was awake and went topside where I could hear the three talking. Some time later David turned in. Then Dr. Clark did. Around 1:30 Skipper asked me to keep him company. It was such a beautiful balmy night I was enjoying it tremendously. Of course the dew was heavy so we wore our waterproofs. It seems that fish just don't sleep. After a short hour Dr. Clark again appeared. So I turned in. From then on he and Skipper took half hour watches. David joined them very early. It's an exciting and beautiful thing to sail all night. Even the twins would waken and come topside every so often for a look around, and then go back to sleep promptly.

Sunrise was beautiful, and everyone was ready for a hearty breakfast. Throughout the night we work on thermos bottles of coffee and tea, and maybe a cookie or two, but with the dawn we need a real breakfast. We cook on an alcohol stove at sea, and soon everyone was happy. There was nothing in sight anywhere, nor had been all night, but around 10 a. m. we started to see fishing boats again, usually shrimpers. We were watching all around for a marker. If you're not pretty sure of your navigation it's worse than trying to find the needle in the haystack—rather a chip on the ocean. Suddenly there it was, straight ahead! We were absolutely on course. We kept going, and by noon we could see the keys scattered all along the horizon, and a long bridge, part of the Overseas Highway. We could see the identifying land marks of Marathon. We thought the harbor we wanted was on the other side of the key, so headed for the span of the bridge which opened and sounded the three long blasts which request that the bridge be opened. Instead of opening, a man with flags in his hands waved us away. We turned around, by now close enough for calling. He said the motor for working the bridge was being repaired and wouldn't be fixed for another day or two. We were pretty deflated, studied the charts some more, and discovered that the harbors were on the Gulf side of the key after all, not on the ocean side. The area is full of sandbars and shallow. We picked our way carefully, and were soon tied up at the Davis Motel-Marina. This run of 125 miles from Fort Myers Beach to Marathon had been a truly beautiful one, marvelous weather, good wind thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Drivers Record Is Available To All For a Small Fee

In Michigan good driving practices are beginning to pay off.

The Department of State is called upon by increasingly large numbers of insurance companies to help them give violation-free drivers a lower automobile insurance rate.

For a small statutory fee, Departmental personnel check thousands of driving records of applicants who are seeking special reduced rate car coverage.

Hare Pushes Plan

Last July, Secretary of State James M. Hare met with representatives of 60 insurance companies to discuss with them the possibility of adopting in Michigan a California plan of giving drivers reduced car insurance premiums as a reward for operating their vehicles without accidents or moving traffic violations.

Since then, Hare's plan for widening and accelerating the Department's "look-up" service for forward-looking insurance companies has grown rapidly as more and more companies have announced and widely advertised their lower rates for violation-free drivers.

Right to Know

Hare pointed out that the number of vehicle operators records in Michigan is nearing the four million mark. In addition to the responsibility for keeping accurate and complete records for the 9 point and 12 point driver improvement programs, the State Department now have the further responsibility for providing accurate records for this cash-saving, safety-inducing program as well.

"As you know," Hare added, "we operate this record unit as a vivarium. We give everyone who can pay for the "look-up" a copy of the record as part of our "right to know" policy even though we can't let the public wander at will around our data-vivarium with its 3,800,000 individual items."

Heads State Press

New president of the Michigan Press Association is Jack C. Sinclair, publisher of the Hartford Day Spring. He was elected at the 92nd annual meeting of MPA Jan. 30 at Kellogg Center in East Lansing.

Other officers named are Dale Stafford, Greenville News, president-elect; James Tagg, Alma Record, first vice president; Vidian Roe, Fremont Times Indicator, treasurer. Elmer E. White was renamed executive secretary.

E. C. Hayhow, publisher of the Hillsdale News, is immediate past president.

Elected to the Board of Directors were John Batdorff, Traverse City Record Eagle; John P. Parks, Highland Parker; Walter J. Rummel, Sebewaing Blade.

The meeting, which was attended by more than 600 representatives of the newspaper industry, was climaxed by the 19th All Michigan Dinner. This banquet, co-sponsored by the Michigan Department of Agriculture, consists entirely of food produced in Michigan. Entree was pork loin, especially selected to illustrate the "new look in pork." The meat, leaner trimmer and tastier than pork in the past, is already available to the public from several Michigan packers.

Remind Taxpayers That All Interest is Taxable

The Internal Revenue Service today issued a reminder to all taxpayers that all interest and dividends, whether paid directly to you or credited to your account, must be included on your income tax return.

R. I. Nixon, District Director of Internal Revenue, stated that there are certain exclusions and credits which will reduce the tax liability on dividends. The Director added that taxpayers should check the instruction booklet and follow carefully the schedule on the return to make sure that the benefits are claimed correctly.

Director Nixon stressed that before signing and filing your return, you should make sure that:

1. Your name and address is printed plainly.
2. All income is properly reported.
3. All allowable deductions are claimed.

South Kent Boy Scout Column

Boy Scout Week-Feb. 7-13

The 13,446 boys of the Grand Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America will celebrate the 50th Anniversary of the Boy Scouts in America, Boy Scout Week, Feb. 7 to 13.

Scouting was brought to this country from England. Wm. D. Boice, a Chicago Publisher, was in London one foggy day in 1909, seeking an address. A British lad offered his help. When Mr. Boice offered the boy a tip, after he had guided him to the place he sought, the boy saluted him and said "Sir, I am a Scout. A Boy Scout does not accept tips for courtesies and good turns."

After Mr. Boice had completed his errand, he accompanied the Boy Scout to the office of Sir Baden Powell (later Lord), founder of the Scout idea. Here he caught the vision of Baden Powell, and returning to America, founded the movement here, and on February 8, 1910, the organization was incorporated in Washington, D. C.

President William Howard Taft became Honorary President, and the first annual meeting of the organization was held at the White House, February 14-15, 1911, at his invitation. The President of the United States has been an Honorary President ever since then. Two Presidents, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Dwight D. Eisenhower, were active in scouting before entering the White House.

The oldest troop in the Grand Valley Council meets at Grace Episcopal church, Troop 211, and has been registered continuously for 45 years. The seven or eight troops in Grand Rapids in 1914 banded together to form a Council, with Earl Beckman as the first Executive Director.

The name of the Council was changed from the Furniture City Council to the Grand Valley Council 25 years ago, when troops of nearby towns wanted to join the Council.

The Grand Valley Council has the second largest membership of the Michigan Councils and is fifth largest in Region 7 (Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin.)

The South Kent District was formed in 1952 by units separating from other districts. Wm. J. Atkinson, now on the Grand Valley Council as Commissioner, served as the first District Chairman, and Hugh Markel was the first Field Director, or professional Scouter, assigned to the District.

The District has grown from 16 units in 1952 to 56 units at this time. Now serving 2,210 boys, the South Kent District includes Ada, Lowell, Dutton, Caledonia, Jenison and Georgetown, and the area south of 28th St., the City of Wyoming and Grandville.

8 Boys Earn Eagle Rank

Eight boys in the South Kent District have earned their Eagle Rank. They include James Wierda and Lance Riemersma of Troop 212 Wyoming Park; John Waldeck, Steve Anderson and Jeff Spoon of Post 2335, Bowen; Don Bretton, Post 2250 Byron Center; William Buer and Eugene Martin, Troop 256 Kelloggsville.

These boys will be part of the 50th Anniversary Class of Eagle Scouts, and will be honored for attaining the highest rank in Scouting, at the Eagle Recognition dinner to be held at Grace Episcopal church on Monday, February 29.

According to James M. Hare, Secretary of State, suspensions are temporary withdrawals of the driving privilege up to a maximum of one year. A license which has been revoked is terminated and is not, as is usual with suspensions, automatically re-instated after the period of suspension has ended.

Kent Dentists Say Candy, Gum School Sales Health Hazard

The Kent County Dental Society wishes to call to your attention the questionable practice of the sale of chewing gum, soft drinks, and assorted candies in many of the schools. We realize that these sales are often the means of financial support of school programs or activities; however, we cannot endorse such a program as it helps to destroy the good nutritional habits of the child and more particularly establishes a destructive pattern in the mouth from which the child may suffer the rest of his life.

It has been definitely established that children who repeatedly use these confections and are susceptible to decay, exhibit early and extensive decay which will show its most drastic effect on the permanent teeth in the late teens and early twenties. As a result of this destruction, the individual is faced with dental problems throughout his life.

We feel sure you will do everything in your power to protect your children from this destructive disease by the removal of these confections from our schools.

If we can be of any assistance, please contact the Kent County Dental Society.

Every American knows the uniform of the Boy Scouts of America. Five million are wearing it now, in Scouting's fiftieth year.
