Tigers Lose Again Tuesday to Braves, 13-10 Cubs Defeat Tigers in Little League Opener Monday Nite

Twenty-seven members of the Thornapple Valley Little League teams "Tigers" and "Cubs" posed for the Ledger photographer Monday night just before the gala opener of the season's play, at the Lions club field. The Cubs whalopped the Tigers in a well-attended game, the score 11 to 4. Ron Hennie is coach of the winning team, and the Tigers are guided by Jim Vanderploeg.

The twenty-eight boys in this picture are the members of the Cardinals and Braves teams of the Thornapple Valley Little League. The schedule of games for next week includes a contest between the Tigers and the Cards Monday, the Cubs vs. Braves Tuesday, Tigers vs. Cubs on Wednesday and the Cards vs. Braves on Thursday. The Cubs and Cards play tonight (Thursday, June 20). All games start at 6:30.

Young Bob Burkhead pitched the winning game for the Cubs holding the Tigers scoreless until the fourth inning. This scoreless streak could have extended, say some fans, if the extreme heat hadn't "gotten to Bob".

But the Tigers also had a very capable player on their team, Bill VanDerBerg, who, with the bases loaded, succeeded in manipulating an unassisted spectacular play and helped to keep the Cub score down to a reasonable figure.

The boys, of course, didn't play errorless ball, but they had a wonderful time, and will continue to have a wonderful time all summer in Little League. We think their parents and friends—there was a good crowd to the opener, standing room only for the latecomers—also had a good time.

More Bleachers

Speaking of standing room, the Thornapple Valley Lions club, at their board of directors meeting Monday night, authorized additional bleachers which will be very welcome to the fans at the field.

The Lions Club as well as the Cascade Businessmen and the Cascade Christian Church are sponsors of the Thornapple Valley Little League ball club.

Hat Nets $20

Of course, there is no charge for these ball games, but the hat is passed during the fourth inning (the little league version of the 7th inning stretch we presume) and on opening night $20 was collected.

Earl Bentley, one of the instigators of this ball club, states they were very pleased with the wonderful collection, but reminds parents that if each person came to every game and put in just a dime or quarter, they would make out very well financially.

They like those bills and 50 cent pieces, but no one has to give that much at each game—they would rather have you come more often and have to give less and have those bleachers overflowing.

The money received by donations of the "fans" will be held in a separate fund to pay for the boys' transportation to a Detroit Tiger Ball game in July, and also help finance the necessary meals and refreshments on this much anticipated trip.

Braves 13-Tigers 10

Tuesday night's game between the Braves and Tigers was also well-attended. The Tigers lost their second game of the new series although they outhit the Braves 7 to 4.

The score was 13-10. Tigers made 10 runs, 7 hits and 6 errors; the Braves made their 13 runs off of 4 hits; they had 5 errors.

The Braves scored 6 of their runs in the first inning without a hit. The Tigers relieved their starting pitcher, Jack Boersma, after this first-inning runaway, and put in Tom Gleason who was credited with the loss; the Braves pitcher, Mike Dykema, got the win credit.

One unusual feature was 10-year-old Scot McDanold who is the lead-off man for the Tigers. He has the very unenviable record of getting on base his six times to bat in two games so far without a hit—each time on a walk. The pitchers have only given one fair ball to try to hit.

Gleason of the Tigers was the only one to get three hits in his three times up to bat. No other player made more than two hits.

The only extra-base hit was made by Tiger Gary Lee Vos who slapped a double off the fence.

Bill VanDenBerg again outdid himself with another unassisted double play, saving some points for his team, with two men on, second and third.

Dave Burkhead is the official scorekeeper of these games, and has helped this paper a great deal in writing accounts of the little league games.

Braves 12-Cards 4

Dick Welsh was credited as winning pitcher in the game Wednesday night between the Braves and the Cardinals. The record was as follows: Braves—12 runs, 8 hits, 2 errors; Cardinals—4 runs, 4 hits, 6 errors. Wayne Blocher was the pitcher for the losing team.

VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL CONTINUES NEXT WEEK

Act Fast After Court Decision Forest Hills School District Will Accept Bids on Bond Issue June 26

Forest Hills School district will receive bids on the purchase of $800,000 in school bonds on Wednesday evening, June 26, at 7 o'clock, at the Martin school.

These bonds had been voted in a district election held September 18, 1956 but sale was being withheld pending the decision of the State Supreme court on a question of legality of the state's $100 million school construction bond program.

This favorable decision came last week, and the bonds were immediately offered for sale by the district, according to Harold S. Chambers, superintendent.

Bonds will be dated June 1, 1957, and in the denomination of $1,000 each.

Interest on the bonds offered for sale is not to exceed 4½ per cent per annum, payable December 1, 1957, and semi-annually thereafter on June 1 and December 1 each year.

The bonds will finance the construction of a consolidated high school in this area which is the largest consolidated district in this part of the state.

According to the board, the $800,000 will finance the new school, its site purchase, pay architect and attorney fees, and provide a balance for additions in the next couple of years to one or more of the existing school buildings.

School Plans

Working plans for the projected Forest Hills High School are now being prepared by the architects, J. and G. Daverman Co. of Grand Rapids and Perkins and Will of Chicago.

Included also in the construction to be provided for by the $800,000 bond issue is a four-room addition to Collins School, which it is planned to have ready by next fall.

Annual school election will be held in this district July 8. The term of one member, William F. Idema, Treasurer expires. Officers were elected for terms of staggered lengths when the district was organized last year. Idema is a candidate for re-election. No other candidates have filed nominating petitions.

The dealing for filing nominating petitions is 4 p. m. Tuesday. They are to be filed with Jack Baines, Secretary of the Board of Education, at Martin School, 4362 Cascade SE.

Announce Dates For Christian Church Summer Conferences

The Cascade Christian Church youth camps will be held at Crystal Beach on Crystal Lake, near Frankfort as usual. The dates for the Chi Rho Camp, which is for those young people who have completed the 6th and 7th grades of school is to be July 28th through August 3rd.

The C.Y.F. Conference for those young people in High School and beyond, will be held August 18th through August 24th.

The Camp and Conference Chairman is Mrs. John DenHouten, GL4-6174, so if you have not received an application blank from her, and are interested in attending camp or conference, you may call her for further information.

Deadline for applications to be in for Chi Rho is June 28th, and for C.Y.F. the deadline is July 13th.

Cascade Firemen Elect Officers

The Cascade Fire Department held their monthly meeting Monday evening, June 17. Honorary members of the department to be retired were Capt. R. A. Phillips, one of the founders of the volunteer fire department and also instrumental in its development into the well organized group that is on hand for fires and many other emergencies and Lieut. Bill Blain who joined the fire-fighters shortly after its founding and is also to be commended for his many years of fine willing service.

An election of officers was also held at this time, as follows: Chairman, Julius Boersma; Vice-Chairman, Ed Jackiewicz; Secretary, Jack Buys; Treasurer, Ed Vander Laan.

It's Our Vacation

Because the July 4th Holiday will fall on Thursday this year (our press day), the Suburban Life has made arrangements to give its entire staff a full week's vacation from June 30 through July 7. In order to make this vacation possible our regular July 4 paper will have to be printed early, and all news items and advertising for this issue must be in our office by 5:00 p. m. Wednesday, June 26.

We know you will want to help us have our "vacation" and give us the same fine cooperation as you did last year.

We'll be back, sun-burned, lame, and ready to slip into the harness again at 8 o'clock Monday, July 8.

It takes hundreds of nuts to hold a car together, but only one in the driver's seat to scatter it all over the highway.

Ionia Swimming Pool Fund Will Benefit From Flying Circus Air Show

Lowell has a 'partner' in Ionia—they also are building a fund for a community swimming pool.

A flying circus type air show will be presented at the Ionia County Airport Sunday, June 23, sponsored by the Ionia JC's.

Proceeds of the show, which will star the "Sky Kings"—leading stunt men in the business—will go toward Ionia's community pool.

One of the most thrilling acts is that of Howard Libersky, who picks up a handkerchief from the ground while hanging on a rope ladder attached to a fast moving plane.

The barn storming air show will be a salute to Charles Lindbergh on the 30th anniversary of his flight over the Atlantic.

Show starts at 2:30, and the gates open at 10:00 a. m.

High prices are often caused by buyers as well as by sellers.

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

One of the most prosaic yet tell-tale bits of our Americana is the simple street name sign. History, hopes for the future, the arts, leading citizens—these are but a few of the many points of character a town is apt to wear on its sleeve for all to see.

In many towns, a schoolboy could learn the names of the nation's presidents by simply repeating the names of the streets. Lincoln, Washington, Madison, Jefferson, Harrison, Van Buren—common street names and a little more. Nor are local heroes and heroines forgotten. In Madison, Wisconsin, the streets Clyde Gallagher Avenue, Hilda Lonquist Drive and Esther Beach Road pass on the names of these local greats to posterity.

Perhaps your town tells something of its industry or boasts of a local characteristic on its street signs. Is there a town in the state of Washington's apple empire that doesn't have its Apple Street? Southern California's fruit belt towns are dotted with Orange Streets and Grape Boulevards. In the midwest, you're likely to find Corn Avenue, Wheat Street and Alfalfa Drive with some regularity.

But for all the information the names of streets pass on, it is a rare town, indeed, that has signs that serve the basic function of location. In fact, most street signs are tucked away where they can't be seen at all.

Many towns paint street names on curbstones. In the fall, leaves hide the name; in the winter, there is snow; spring's rains do the damage in their own season, and the summer is spent repainting. Other cities rely on concrete posts two or three feet high to act as cornerstones of information.

Better yet are those towns where the street sign is on a post six or eight feet high, right out for all the world to see. And some of the more progressive cities have signs especially made to be seen after dark. These signs can be read long before you get to the corner and give you plenty of time to locate your turn. There is no dangerous hesitating in intersections, no backing, no house-to-house inquiring—the new signs that can be read both day and night make visiting easier and safer.

History and local commerce are fine—but the street name signs should also tell us where to go.

Beware of Poisonous Insecticides, Weed Killers

Some insecticides and weed killers now available commercially are extremely poisonous and should be treated as potential human killers, a Michigan Department of Health physician warned today.

Dr. F. S. Leeder said just a taste of some insecticides and herbicides is enough to kill an average-size adult. The same holds true for some chemicals used for killing rodents and fungi.

"As plant and animal pests become more resistant to DDT and other older control materials," Dr. Leeder explained, "the anti-pest chemicals must be made more deadly if they are to do their job."

"Since they are now stronger than ever before, follow directions very carefully whenever using these chemicals," Dr. Leeder advised.

He said farmers should be especially careful because as an occupational group they probably are exposed to more potentially harmful materials than any other major class of workers.

The older generation thought nothing of getting up at 5 o'clock in the morning—and the younger generation doesn't think so much of it either.

Skindiver Recovers Drowning Victim

Harold Dean, Grand Rapids fireman, came out to Lowell Saturday evening with the rescue crew from the Sheriff's department to assist in the drowning accident at the Consumers Power Dam just north of Lowell, off M-91. Dean, the skindiver in the above picture, is shown with two of the deputies from the Sheriff's office after he had succeeded in bringing to the surface the body of William Wallace, 45, of Grand Rapids. Wallace died while attempting to rescue his nephew, Larry Kemp, age 8, when he fell off the wing wall of the dam while fishing for minnows. A Lowell construction worker, Claude Thelen, 31, of Route 3, rescued Larry, but was unable to bring Wallace in.

Lowell police first learned of the drowning at 5:50 p. m. from Thomas Goldammer, Main st., who was fishing on the pond that afternoon with Horace Bosma, 401 E. Main, Ionia. The men were just coming in to shore when they saw Wallace jump off the dam to rescue the boy.

Thelen was just coming down to the dam to fish in the pond when he saw the situation and dove in, saving the boy.

Dean stated that the body could not have been recovered by dragging as it was firmly lodged between a log and pile. The body was recovered at 6:52 p. m.

Time to Prune and Spray Christmas Trees

Christmas tree plantations should be sprayed within the next few days for pine shoot moth. Use 2 to 3 pounds of 50 per cent wettable D. D. T. in 100 gallons of water or 2 to 3 tablespoons in a gallon of water. Be sure to wet the tips of the trees well.

A second spray should be put on 10 days following the first spray. These sprays are aimed at the young larva before it enters the buds.

Plantations should be pruned when the trees reach a height of 18-24 inches. From now until the first of July is a good time to do the pruning work. Only new growth should be pruned unless the tree is of very bad shape.

The terminal shoots should be cut back to give around 12 inches of growth. Next the laterals should be cut 2 to 3 inches shorter than the terminals. Then prune your lateral branches to give them a conical outline.

If you expect to market your trees at a profit, they have to be pruned. Two-thirds of the trees in an average plantation will not make good Christmas trees without some shaping.

Harvesting and storing hay silage early in the season for mid-summer feeding will boost total yields of pastures.

We note the intimation that radio and television programs will be better in the future; some of them, however, should not have a future.

"There's nothing like a good, old-fashioned, home-cooked meal—not in most homes, at least."

A person can have more money than brains, and still be broke.

Older Folks Urged to Check Diet; Exercise

How can older folks get enough of the nutrients they need for good health without gaining weight?

Easy-to-use diet patterns would be one way to help keep calorie intake low, yet emphasize milk, foods rich in vitamin C and other "protective" foods which are often neglected in many older people's diets.

This is one of the conclusions drawn from findings of research being done by Michigan State University experiment station and six other state experiment stations. Part of the cooperative studies done at M. S. U. included calling on women and keeping records of their food habits to find out calorie intake.

Few healthy individuals appreciate good health.

Mineral Wells Once "Cured" Over-Brainwork

Ninety years ago lower Michigan was dotted with communities boasting mineral springs reputed to cure everything from cancer to over-brainwork.

A rare book, "Magnetic and Mineral Springs of Michigan" by Stiles Kennedy, published in 1872, and now in the possession of The University of Michigan Historical Collections, relates that during the summer of 1869 a company began boring the earth at St. Louis (Michigan) for salt to establish a salt works.

The water found was beautifully clear, and to the taste barely alkaline, says Stiles. Many used it for household purposes. The town talked of buying it to supply the town with drinking water.

The drama began when someone discovered that his knife blade stuck to the iron tubing from which the water flowed. The tube attracted and then held like a magnet. Hundreds came to get their knives magnetized.

Then, it seems, an old paralytic in town conceived the idea, not unnaturally, that water and magnetism, if good separately for his disease, should be better still if combined. He began drinking the water and bathing in it and the people in town saw him gradually recover.

Excitement became intense.

Rheumatics bathed and were relieved. Persons troubled with kidney and bladder trouble drank and were relieved. In two months over 200 diseased persons were in St. Louis using the water, the report goes.

Michiganders, feeling sure St. Louis wasn't the only lucky spot in the state, started drilling elsewhere and by 1870 had found nothing less than 60 wells of water, each claimed to be "magnetic". Magnetic mineral springs of Michigan were not springs at all but Artesian wells made by boring the earth to a depth varying for 100 to several hundred feet. Stiles explains.

No man who is afraid of his job is big enough for the job.

Seven Acts Already Booked Twelfth Annual Showboat Amateur Night Set for Saturday, July 13

Do you realize that there are only four more weeks before the "boilers" of the Lowell Showboat will be getting ready for their six nights of work bringing our annual summer outdoor show to the crowds awaiting the river craft at the stands on Lafayette st.?

Three weeks from this Saturday, July 13, the 12th annual Lowell Showboat Amateur Night will be held at the Showboat dock.

Seven Booked
Seven amateur acts have already been booked, according to C. H. Runciman, chairman of the night's program, and numerous requests have been received by his office concerning entrance in the amateur quest for talent.

The contest is open to any talented person with amateur status who can offer a performance suitable for the Showboat program. This covers a wide range of talents, including dancing, singing, acrobatics, comedy, and any feature that fits an old-fashioned minstrel show.

There are no fees or special requirements for entering the contest. The only requirement is that the person address a communication to C. H. Runciman, Lowell, Michigan, Amateur Night Chairman. The contest is sponsored jointly by the Lowell Post American Legion and the Board of Trade.

Six Winners

According to C. H. Runciman, there will be six winners selected. Each winner will receive a contract to appear one night on the annual Showboat program, which will be held July 22 through July 26.

1957 marks the Silver Anniversary of the 25th year for this big community event. The Lowell Showboat, which started in 1932, is one of the few programs of this type offered in the entire nation. It features a replica of the old Mississippi River steamers and the old fashioned minstrel shows which were popular on the nation's rivers 60 and 70 years ago.

Mr. Runciman's committee consists of W. W. Gumser, Edward Kiel, Frank Newell, Dan Walker, Theron Richmond, Kenneth Williams and Vern Morse.

PARDON ME

Willie Stein, a program staffer with "To Tell The Truth", spends most of his time looking for "imposters" to fool the show's panelists. Panel has to pick the celebrity from a group of three personalities. One day Willie was walking up Madison Avenue looking for a man to impersonate the warden from Sing Sing. "I finally stopped one man," Willie reports, "and began to explain the show. He turned out to be perfect. He was board chairman of a burglar-proof safe company."

EMMY NOMINATION

The first Emmy nomination of the season comes from satirist Stan Freberg. He proposes that Charles Van Doren be given an award for the best performance by an actor in a continuing role. "Mr. Van Doren in his 12 weeks on 'Twenty-One,'" Freberg said, "gave off with as fine a display of perspiration, lip nibbling and pure anguish as I have seen since Ray Milland's famous d.t.'s scene in 'Lost Weekend.'"

BERLIN ENCOUNTER

Traveling Ed Sullivan reports that he booked the Glenn Miller Band for his show while in Berlin's Tempelhof Airdrome. When Ed and his wife landed in West Berlin, they met Ray McKinley, leader of the Glenn Miller Band, in the airport waiting room. The band was enroute to play its first date behind the Iron curtain. Ed invited McKinley and the Miller group to appear on the Sullivan show upon their return, and they accepted.

EXPERIENCE SHOWS

Jack Bailey, emcee of "Queen for a Day," boasts that he can pick the ultimate winner of his show during the preliminary interview with contestants. "The studio audience bears me out almost every time, 'but I guarantee you I don't play my guess for a favorite. I treat them all alike. I'd be through in a minute of I didn't.'"

GUIDE LINES

Jack Palance, on his award winning role in "Requiem for a Heavyweight": "That 'Requiem.' It's become a pain in the neck. That's all people talk about."

Jack Bailey, describing his show "Queen for a Day": "If nothing else, we're a clean show. Don't ask me why, but by far the most popular wish of the queens is for a washing machine."

You're overweight; you know; and you want to do something about it. All right, here's what to do, according to Dr. Dena Cedergren, foods and nutrition researcher at Michigan State University.

First consult your doctor; don't diet unless you do so under his supervision. He may want you to keep track of what you are eating now. Don't fool yourself, but write down everything you eat for a week. Then he will tell you how strict your diet should be.

Eat meals at well-spaced intervals every day, including Sundays and holidays. Don't be afraid of a diet. Many of them have a lot of variety, so dieting need not be dull and uninteresting. After you have pared yourself down to a normal weight, eat sensibly and exercise regularly. A record 45,000 life insurance death claims were paid in 1956 as a result of motor vehicle accidents—3,000 more than in '55. Bors and friends in their sorrow.

DOGS ON PLANES

by Bob Bartos
Friskies Research Kennels Manager

Today's dogs are probably the best traveled in history. Because they're being included more and more in family trips, facilities for their comfort and their owners' convenience are being increased.

If you're planning to travel by air this Summer, it's wise to investigate transportation well

Dog of the Week:
LHASA APSO

Terrier. Average weight: 15 pounds; Height at shoulder: 10 to 11 inches; Coat: heavy, straight hard, of good length and very dense; Color: golden, sandy, honey preferred, also dark grizzle, slate, smoke, parti-color black, white or brown.

ahead of departure. Most airlines permit a dog on first class flights as excess baggage, or if arrangements are made sufficiently ahead of time, by air express or air freight. Some airlines require a special sanitary crate such as a Tuttle Kennel which may be rented from the airline for a $5 fee, while others will allow the owner to supply his own.

His fare as excess baggage will be based on his weight, plus the weight of the case, times the excess baggage rate of 79c a pound. Add to this the 3 percent government tax.

At the same fare, both Trans-World Airlines and Pan-American permit a dog to travel with you right at your feet, provided he fits into an 18" x 18" x 22" case. Only one dog per plane load of humans is allowed, so it's first come, first served.

Taking your dog along as excess baggage is the expensive way to get your pet to his destination. Air express, or air freight are cheaper ways. The cost of air freight is based on the length of the trip, 17c a pound from New York to Chicago, for example, 45c a pound from New York to Los Angeles.

Feeding Tip: If you're planning a trip be sure to have your dog on a quality commercial dog food such as Friskies. The convenience and good nutrition thus obtained will simplify your traveling problems.

Born 60 Years Too Late--If You're a Hunter

Conservation Department game biologists Gene Gaslay and Edward Mikula have a feeling they were born "60 years too late."

The two department workers recently were inspecting some old buildings which are being torn down at the Tobico Marsh state game area when they came across some newspaper mats dating back to September 24, 1897.

The mats from the Bay City Times, carried the following advertisement:

"Hunters, Attention. We have just received a carload of Rival Loaded Shells, 10 and 12 gauge, that are selling for 35 cents a box. We also have a quantity of second-hand guns that we are selling very cheap."

A box of shells today, of course, costs about ten times what it did in "the good old days" of 1897.

Interest, Health and Happiness

We are advised about our peace of mind, the development of relaxation and creative thinking with a barrage of information today from the press, the lecture platform, radio and television.

Have you discovered the "happy pills" which come from putting around the yard with spring's first sunny days, through the full flowering days of summer and into the colorful spectrum of fall months?

Hands busy in the responsive soil teach the mind to rest from stresses and strains, accompanied by a special type of relaxation, during which the mind, in its attention to helping create floral and foliage beauty, darts unexpectedly into ideas for all other areas of our activities.

The love of work in the garden has often been called the most healthful and interesting of all hobbies. A considerable part of the joy of gardening comes from the swapping of problems and solutions with neighbors and friends.

Says the Old Timer, "the exercises is good for the figure, too . . . Fill-a-pot-with-dirt-and-poke-in-the-seed methods will never produce good results. Don't forget that a seed is a living body requiring favorable treatment if it is to continue to live."

A young neighbor was pruning rose bushes; the Old Timer couldn't stand by and see defenseless roses mutilated. "Plants are living bodies made up of minute cells just as you are. Would you rather be cut cleanly or torn? Use your spare hand to grasp below the mark you are going to cut, that will hold the stem steady. What's more, it'll keep your hand out of danger: I don't want your wife blaming me because you've lost an index finger or so."

Kent CROP Ass'n Gets Set For Autumn Campaign

At a recent meeting of the Kent County Rural Overseas Program at the YMCA in Grand Rapids, plans were drawn up for the Kent County CROP Campaign for 1957, Sunday September 22 was designated as CROP Sunday, with the following week to be CROP Week.

A minimum goal of $4,000 was set for 1957. In 1956, according to Richard VanderVeen, Kent County CROP Chairman, each dollar contributed to CROP in Michigan delivered 89 pounds of food to hungry people overseas.

Much of this food is government surplus, which is furnished at no cost by the government, if other agencies pay the cost of delivery.

The 1957 goal of $4,000, if attained, will mean that approximately 365,000 pounds of food will be sent to needy people in Foreign countries.

Other attending the CROP Meeting were Russell Hartzler of Clarksville, State CROP Director; Mrs. Daniel Oaks, First Church of the Brethren in Grand Rapids; Mrs. L. S. Westerman, Kent County Council of Churches; Harry Zuch, Rockford Methodist Church; John Steketee and Jule N. Westra representing the Presbyterian Churches in Grand Rapids; Roy Churchill of the Seventh Day Adventist Church; Clair Allen of the Rockford Farm Bureau; Kenneth Pletcher of the Congregational Church in Lowell; and Howard Fuller, Cedar Springs Methodist.

This area will be included in Board No. 283, which met Wednesday night to organize. This includes all of rural Kent County, exclusive of Grand Rapids, Byron, Gaines, Paris and Wyoming townships.

Board members are: Ray M. Aldrich, Caledonia; B. Taylor Hachmuth, Comstock Park; Eugene W. Heugel, Sparta; John J. Straayer, Grand Rapids; Willis A. Young, Rockford. Car Wash Big Success

The Little Leaguers of Cascade with their coaches, Bud Baker and Joe Stepek, wish to thank all the people who helped to make their "car wash" a huge success. Smith's Sinclair Station and Slater's Mobile Station furnished the necessary supplies for the outside clean-up and Mel Brown of Doyle Vacuum Cleaner Company provided the boys with a commercial cleaner for the inside of the car.

After checking the days receipts the boys were proud to announce they had nearly enough funds for the purchase of their new uniforms.
