Citizens Advisory Committee Requests New Vote on Operating Millage

The Forest Hills School District Citizen's Advisory Committee have recommended the following: "Because of the need of upgrading and the closeness of the June election on millage, the Citizen's Committee voted to recommend to the school board that they call a special election early in September for the purpose of raising additional operating millage."

Residents of Honey Creek School attendance area who are interested in being members of the Citizen's Committee should send a written request to the Secretary of the Citizen's Committee, Mrs. Campbell Stekettee, 2000 Thornapple River Dr. S. E., Grand Rapids, 6. The Secretary would welcome such a letter from any resident of the Forest Hills District so that replacements are available when there is a vacancy on the Committee. This is presently true of the Knapp area, who at the present time has no representative on the Committee.

Cougars Shake Thornapple League

The Cougars, early season losers have been burning up the League in the past two weeks by sweeping four straight games.

Wednesday evening, Mike Ruffin evened his pitching record at 1-1 by pitching the second no-hitter of the League against the Lancers. Just one week earlier, Spencer Wilcox had turned in the same brilliant performance against the same team, the Lancers. The Cougars jumped on John Pellerito, now 1-2, for 4 runs on 3 hits in the first inning. From there on in John pitched very effective ball, but as we said last week, it generally takes hits to win ball games. Eddie Robinson saved Johnny from more trouble in the last of the 4th inning as he came up with the play of the year. Robbie went deep behind second to grab a ball labeled base hit all the way, came up with the ball, threw to second for the force and the batter was doubled off first. The Lancers had plenty of scoring opportunities as Mike walked quite a few. In fact in the top of the fourth he walked four men to score the Lancers' lone run. The final score was 5 to 1.

Braves Still In First

Tuesday evening the Cougars got some great pitching at the right time along with some good plays to outlast the Braves 6 to 3. Jerry Boomers (2-1) pitched for the Cougars. Doug Stiles (0-1) took the loss for the Braves.

Champs Lose 2

Monday evening the Lancers spotted the Bear Cats 4 runs in the first inning only to lose on an outburst of runs by the Cats in the seventh. Pete VanBenden started for the Lancers and suffered his first loss against three victories. Wayne Blocher started for the Cats

Dick Sytsma Dies Monday

Dick Sytsma, aged 40, passed away unexpectedly Monday morning at his home at 577 Ada Dr. in Ada. Sytsma, who had been operated on for colitis about a month ago, was ill for the last three years.

Besides his wife, Katherine, Sytsma is survived by his four children, Virginia, Cristine, Mary and Dennis; his mother, Mrs. Kathy Sytsma; five brothers, John and Maynard of Ada, George, Sidney and Louis of Grand Rapids.

He is also survived by seven sisters, Mrs. C. Heemstra of Ada, Mrs. Dennis Struyt, Mrs. Peter Struyt, Mrs. Donald Kooiman, Mrs. Raymond Feenstra, Mrs. Paul Wierenga and Mrs. Alvin Daining, all of Grand Rapids.

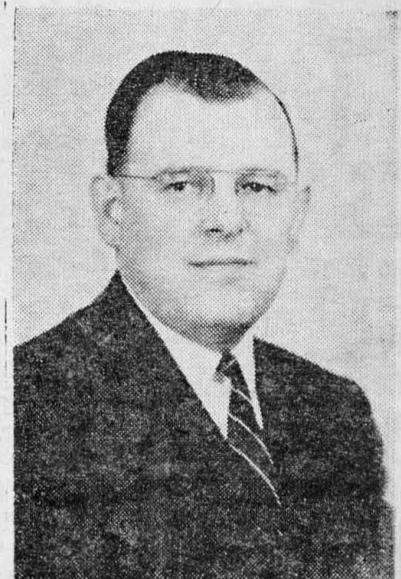

Sytsma reposes at the Posthumus Hildreth Funeral Home in Grandville. Services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Ada Christian Reformed church with Rev. Verburg officiating. Burial will be at Ada cemetery.

Sytsma moved to Ada after his marriage where he opened up the present Ada Hardware store, which he sold to his brother, John, when he became ill. Ever since he moved to Ada, Sytsma had been a member of the fire department, and just three years ago he retired as chief.

Two months ago, the Ada Fire Department held a dinner in honor of Dick Sytsma, who was a man who loved to watch baseball, and made every game he could. Many people will also remember Dick as the man who bought furs during the trapping season.

It is never safe to look into the future with eyes of fear.

New Pastor at Ada Church

Rev. Lester W. Muller, with his wife and two children will become the new pastor of the Ada Community Reformed Church, preaching his first sermon on August 2.

Michigan Boasts Plenty Of Camp Sites for All At Lonia Free Fair

Whether you belong to the group of campers who enjoy some of the conveniences of home or the more adventurous set who like to "rough it," you should have no difficulty in finding campgrounds in Michigan to suit your particular tastes. For those desiring a few of the comforts of home, campgrounds in state parks and recreation areas are their best bet. Campsites are available in all but two of Michigan's 58 units. Facilities differ from unit to unit but in most cases electricity and modern flush toilets are provided. Hot showers, bathhouses, concessions and laundry facilities are also found at many such parks. If you're the type who wants to "get away from it all," then your logical choice would be campgrounds in state or national forests. Campgrounds in these areas retain as much of the natural aspect as possible and only the bare necessities are provided, including tables, drinking water, stoves and toilets. Additional camp grounds are available in county and municipal parks. Camping is also permitted in southern Michigan state game areas. Camping regulations vary depending, primarily, upon the accommodations available and the volume of public use.

Clean Closets Discourage Clothes Moths

Good housekeeping is the best way to beat the moths, says Bernetta Kahabka, clothing specialist at Michigan State University. This means storing clean clothes in a clean place. Let the vacuum cleaner help you dust closets, shelves, chests and even boxes in which clothes will be stored. The vacuum does a better job of removing lint and dirt—food for moth larvae than does a dust mop. It also removes any deposits of insects and eggs that might be hidden under the baseboards. After this thorough cleaning, Miss Kahabka suggests you burn the contents of the vacuum bag. Next, spray storage areas with a 3 to 5 percent D. D. T. solution, following directions on the package. Cover all cracks and openings in the walls and baseboards, and use enough spray to create a cloud or fog in the area. Good housekeeping also suggests eliminating other breeding places for moths. These pests like to invade old clothes and feather hats stored in the attic. They like to find old wool rugs piled in the basement. Once moths get started, it's just a short trip to the good clothes in your bedroom closet. The U. S. Defense Department owns real estate valued at almost $25 billion.

Your Washington Review
by
Congressman JERRY FORD

The House Committee on Education and Labor in executive session during the past weeks has been chipping away at the Senate-approved Labor Management reform bill. It appears that the bill to be reported any day by the Committee will be weak, impotent, and ineffective to handle the deplorable conditions in some labor organizations. With continued revelations by the McClellan Committee demonstrating the need for much greater protection for the individual union member, the small businessman, and the general public, it is obvious that the bill will have to be rewritten on the floor of the House. The Committee's bill will not meet the challenge of the grave situation now existing. It is regrettable that a majority of the Committee (20 Democrats, 10 Republicans) have not been able to see their responsibility to the American people in this vital area of our economic life. The Senate bill of 1959 is more acceptable than the 1958 Kennedy-Ives proposal. The bill passed the Senate by a vote of 90 to 1 on April 25th, but this is not to infer that the measure is perfect. In fact, it needs improvement. At the minimum it should be strengthened by the addition of provisions to deal effectively with the secondary boycott, organizational "blackmail" picketing, and the problem of state and federal jurisdiction in labor disputes. But there is no question that the majority of the House Committee will deal disastereously with the Senate bill. I trust that this Committee majority does not reflect the sentiments of the majority of the House of Representatives. In fact we know definitely that there will be a vigorous fight waged on the floor of the House to develop an affirmative and effective labor-management bill to protect the best interests of labor unions, their members, and the public as a whole. The support and help of all our citizens is necessary, however, if during the current session of Congress constructive progress is to be made in this important area. RECORDED VOTES: Last week, roll call votes developed on two issues in the House of Representatives. The first involved a Reorganization Plan submitted by the President. He proposed transferring to the Secretary of Agriculture certain responsibilities now placed on the Secretary of the Interior in connection with the handling of public lands, especially forest lands. This was to achieve a more efficient administration based on the Hoover Commission recommendations. I could see no objection to the Plan and voted for the change. However the vote was 266 to 124 to nullify the proposal. The House approved legislation by a vote of 262 to 138 to modify a recent Supreme Court decision holding that a personal confession of a crime was not admissible evidence because of a 7½-hour time lapse between arrest and the arraignment before a magistrate. Solely because of this delay the Court had set free a confessed criminal with a bad record. This seems most unreasonable and your Congressman voted to amend the U. S. Code to provide that "evidence otherwise admissible shall not be inadmissible solely because of delay in taking an arrested person before...an officer empowered to commit." EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES: Five academies operated by the U. S. Government offer a free college education to boys of the Fifth District who are interested in certain types of Federal service. Kent and Ottawa Counties will be entitled to three appointments to the U. S. Naval Academy in 1960, two appointments to the Military Academy at West Point, and one appointment to the U. S. Air Force Academy. In addition, young men from the Fifth District will be eligible to compete for 11 appointments from Michigan to the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, and for some of the 200 nation-wide appointments to the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Connecticut. Graduation from any of these academies leads not only to a bachelor's degree but also to a commission in one of the Services. Candidates for these appointments generally must be single, in excellent health, between 17 and 22 years old, high school graduates or in their senior year. Candidates for West Point, Annapolis, and Colorado Springs are nominated by the Congressman. To assist him in selecting the best qualified individuals, your Congressman utilizes the Civil Service Qualifying Examination. This will be given in mid-November of this year to select candidates for the classes beginning in July, 1960. Anyone interested in further information on these opportunities should write me at 351 House Office Building, Washington, D. C., before November 1. A congressman may also nominate candidates for the Merchant Marine Academy, which offers a

Community Encouragement for Small Industry Important to Every Town

The important thing for our community is to provide a healthy climate for every single industry we have, no matter how small, to encourage it and let it know we appreciate what it is doing for our people. Let's let industry know that here in our community it will find a warm welcome and the encouraging climate that is good for growing. Then, like the little acorn, as they grow they will help build a bigger and better community that will benefit all who live here. "Great oaks from little acorns grow" is the theme of an advertisement in this newspaper. It is another in a year-long series of public service advertisements sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and Michigan Economic Development Department. The ads are designed to stimulate local industrial development programs. New hybrid magazine has a hole in the center containing five 5-minute recordings that can be played on a 33 1/3 rpm phonograph.

four-year course leading to a license as an officer in the U. S. Merchant Marine, a commission as Ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve, and the Bachelor of Science Degree. Application to take the examination for appointment as a cadet at the Coast Guard Academy is made directly to the Commandant. We will be pleased to supply forms and further information for anyone interested in a free college education and service as a Coast Guard officer. AVAILABLE: Also available through your Congressman's office are new 49-star flags certified as having been flown over the United States Capitol Building. A 3 x 5 foot flag may be obtained for $2.35 while a 5 x 8 foot flag costs $5.80. For those interested we have a limited supply of the 6-page pamphlet giving the program for the laying of the cornerstone of the extension of the Capitol on July 4th. We also will send upon request a 19-page illustrated booklet entitled, "Congress at Work" presenting considerable details on "Facts, Functions, Organization, and Personalities of the 86th Congress."

GREAT OAKS FROM LITTLE ACORNS GROW

Just as great oak trees grow from little acorns, so do fine, big industrial plants have humble beginnings. As with that sturdy oak, many things happen before a small plant becomes a large one. The oak tree depends on favorable soil and weather during its early years. Our town, if it is to have good industrial payrolls, must provide a good climate for industry.

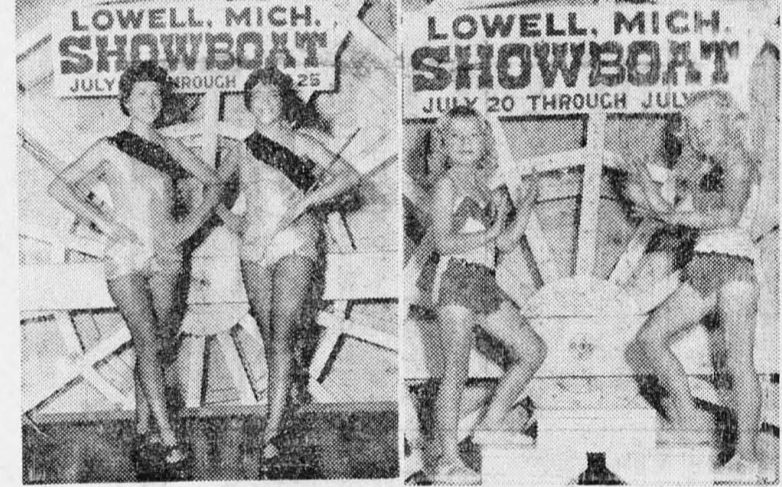

Climate for industry boils down to how present industry is treated. Good climate for industry makes our town grow stronger. Good industrial climate helps small industry, like good climate helps the oak tree. And it attracts new industry. Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

Nearly 3,000 people watched 55 contestants compete for places on this year's 28th annual Lowell Showboat at Amateur Night last Saturday. Pictured above and below are the six winning acts that will appear for one night on the Showboat. Top: The Crystalaires, of Crystal, will sing together on the Thursday night Showboat. Bottom: The Coachmen, a local teen-age trio who sang the Kingston Trio's latest hit "The M. T. A." will ride down the Flat River for Monday night's performance.

Top, Left: Sally Parks, of Grand Rapids, will have the opportunity to present her comical pantomime of the Coaster's new recording "Along Came Jones" on Friday night. Top, Right: The Two Smoothies, of Sunfield, will entertain Saturday night's audience with their song and tap dance routine. Bottom, Left: The Platte Sisters, Rosanne and Rebecca of Grand Rapids, will star in their acrobatic on steps routine at the Wednesday night performance of Showboat. Bottom, Right: The Wilson Sisters, of Hastings, will perform their baton, acrobatic tap dance on Tuesday night's Showboat.

Six Showboat Contracts Given At Amateur Show Saturday Night

The Coachmen, a local teen-age trio, were one of the six acts awarded contracts for a one night stand on the 1959 Lowell Showboat at the annual Amateur Night Contest held last Saturday.

Appearing before a crowd of nearly 3,000 spectators, the Coachmen, Dick Ward, Gene Walter, and Jim VandenHout, sang their rendition of the Kingston Trio's latest hit, "The M. T. A." Fifty-five acts were on hand from as far as Cadillac to compete for a spot on the Showboat to be held, July 20-25.

The Coachmen will be aboard the Robert E. Lee as she comes around Cattail Bend Monday night July 20. The three local youths as well as the other winners, will now have the opportunity to appear in a show that headlines such top names in the entertainment world as Bob Crosby, Carol Richards, and Johnny Matson.

On Tuesday night, the Wilson Sisters of Hastings, will perform their baton, acrobatic and tap dance routine on the Showboat. The Platte Sisters, Rosanne and Rebecca of Grand Rapids, will

High School Grouping Can Aid Students

Americans all want their children to receive the same high quality of instruction which European countries provide for about 20 percent of their youth, declares Prof. Ralph C. Wenrich, chairman of The University of Michigan Department of Vocational Education and Practical Arts. Professor Wenrich spent four months last spring studying education in France, Spain, Italy, Austria, and Germany.

"If we are to achieve this in the comprehensive high school we must recognize, as we have never done before, the wide range of differences among youth," he says.

"We must identify and nurture the special talents which each student has. We must group youth within the comprehensive high school, according to abilities, interests, and vocational goals, for many of their learning experiences."

Does this violate the democratic principle of equality? Wenrich should not think so. "Our concern should be for equality of opportunity. To give all youth equal educational opportunity does not mean that we must provide for all the 'same' education."

Wenrich feels it would be possible to organize the comprehensive high school in such a way as to achieve some of the strengths of specialized schools, yet at the same time retain the advantages of having all boys and girls in a given community attend the same high school.

He notes that European schools are almost exclusively specialized schools, and they are generally quite small. Each specialized school has a director who, by his background of education is uniquely qualified to head the particular school.

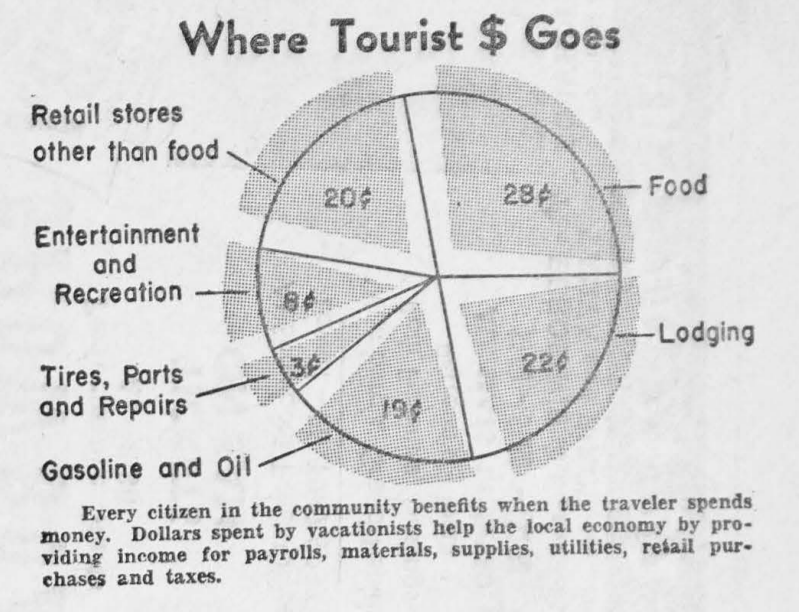

Wenrich states, "If we could think of our comprehensive high schools as being made up of schools-within-a-school, we might have a school or division for those who plan to go on to college and another division for those who are preparing for careers in business, industry, or agriculture at the end of their high school education."

"We would probably also have a school or division for the 'uncommitted youth,' those who have not yet identified a specialized talent or a career goal. Each of these divisions would have a director (we might give him the title of assistant principal) who is specially qualified to give leadership and direction to the work of that division."

Women go for a man with looks, but for a handsome man to get a nod of approval from other men is something else again.

Water Accidents Claim 27 in May

The State Police report that 27 persons met death in Michigan waters in May, 22 of them after May 14, and there were 25 injuries in 39 reported boating accidents.

Three swimmers drowned, five boat operators and seven boat passengers were killed or drowned in accidents, one skin diver lost his life when his equipment failed and 11 persons died in miscellaneous mishaps, including three children, two youthful fishermen and three who committed suicide.

Fear was expressed that accidental deaths will mount during the ensuing vacation months unless water sports enthusiasts pay more attention to safety in operating boats and engaging in other activities in the water. Water deaths for the first five months of this year total 51.

Following much the same pattern as the increasing number of cars on the highway, more and more boats are being found on Michigan's lakes and rivers with the opening of each summer season. More boats, like more cars, increase the exposure to accidents and call for greater caution on the part of drivers.

A new law passed by the legislature last summer and which went into effect in September requires persons involved in watercraft accidents to submit a report to a law enforcement officer if there is death or injury or damage exceeds $50. Failure to report is a misdemeanor.

In addition, the law provides that any person who operates a watercraft or steers or controls himself while on skis, water sleds, surfboards or similar contrivances in disregard of the safety of others also is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Some of the more common violations of water safety shown in reports received on boating accidents at State Police headquarters include overloading the boat, reckless driving, standing up to change positions, failure to wear life jackets, water skiers maneuvering too close to bathing areas, and putting heavy, highpowered motors on boats too small to handle them.

Luxury A La Motel

If you haven't stayed overnight at a motel since the "tourist camp" days of yesterday, you're in for a pleasant surprise.

Many new motels are luxurious, wall-to-wall carpeting, bathtubs and showers, radiant heating, and airfoam mattresses. Many have swimming pools.

Some offer such service extras as baby-sitting. Many have excellent restaurants, while some are limited to serving breakfast for early starters.

Their convenience to motorists and their reasonable rates are further reasons for their popularity and growth.

And grow they have. The latest figures show 57,000 motels throughout the country. This means 1,197,000 units, able to accommodate 1,519,339 people daily.

The top states? California, Texas and Florida—each with more than 3,000 motels. Oregon, Colorado, Minnesota, Michigan and New York are in the 1,500 to 3,000 bracket. Then (1,000-1,500) come Arizona, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio, Virginia, and Maine.

On your next trip, try a motel. You may even want to stay several nights—visiting local points of interest during the day.

Variety—Spice of Recreation

Michigan's 59 state parks and recreation areas vary greatly in size, kind and quality of their natural features and attractions. They type-run the scale from the vast wilderness setting of the Porcupine Mountains state park, above, to the historical bearing of Fort Wilkins. Representatives of the Conservation Department, National Park Service and Michigan State University are formulating an interpretive program aimed at familiarizing the public with the distinctive educational, recreational and other related values of each site.

THINGS TO COME

A 350-pound helicopter you can build at home is powered by a 40-horsepower motorcycle engine, has a range of 120 miles and a top speed of 60 miles an hour.

A plastic toy satellite powered by two flashlight batteries has an electronic "brain" that keeps it rolling around all obstacles in its path while emitting an audible beep.

A one-man air conditioner circulates water of an agreeable temperature through a pad that the user can sit or lie on.

Market and Garden Full of Green Beans

Did you say...you just love fresh green or wax beans at your house served with crisp bacon or mushrooms, or even with a few tiny bits of onion? Usually the wax beans cost a little more per pound, but not in all cases according to Virginia Helt, Michigan State University Food Marketing Agent for Grand Rapids area.

If you are in the habit of proving to yourself what a good value is for your money, you might want to figure this way. One pound of green beans at 15 cents will make five one-half cup servings, or around 3 cents per serving. This does not mean that you serve one-half cup servings...this is only a basis for helping one to figure costs. If appetites are large, you figure accordingly.

One bushel of fresh beans yields 15 to 20 quarts canned or 50 pints frozen. One pound of fresh beans yields one pint canned or one and three-fourths pints frozen.

Not only are green beans fairly low in cost, but they are low in calories. They are an important source of iron and thiamine...two nutrients seldom found in large amounts. Don't be hasty and throw away the liquid! Here's why. About one-third of the iron, vitamin A and thiamine in the beans will be found in the liquid after cooking.

Maybe you eat green beans because they are a low calorie vegetable. Maybe you serve them because you enjoy them. At any rate, it's the home-grown green bean season.

Some of us reach an age or a state of mind at which we disapprove of everything except eating and sleeping.

Governor Williams Approves Budget, But Fears Proposed Tax Program

The people of Michigan have gained a victory in the "battle of the budget." The legislature has adopted appropriation bills which generally approximate the recommendations I made in my budget message last January.

The Legislature is to be commended for recognizing the needs of Michigan. Now I sincerely hope they will provide a tax program which is fair, reasonable, permanent and adequate to meet the appropriations they have enacted.

Last week I signed into law five appropriation bills calling for $208,273,721 for education, public health, mental health, regulatory agencies, conservation, recreation and agriculture. These five bills bring to $361 million the total amount of appropriations enacted by the Legislature at this session. This is about 2 percent below the recommendations I made for the same general fund purposes.

Still to be enacted are the appropriation bills providing for school aid and capital outlay. Until those are passed, we will not know the total of the budget for the 1959-1960 fiscal year. But, it is clear that the Legislature has found it necessary to support general state operations at about the levels I recommended in my budget message.

If it had been generally recognized several months ago that the State needed a budget at this level, I feel certain the present tax stalemate would not have developed. The present deadlock on taxes results, in large part, from the unrealistic insistence on the part of some legislators that expenditures could be reduced in the face of our growing population and after two years of reckless budget cutting.

This victory is not one of partisanship, rather it is a reflection of good judgment and common sense in both parties. This same spirit, I hope, will prevail in further consideration of a tax program.

While the Legislature generally did a realistic job in considering the appropriation bills, there was disappointment in some areas. They did not provide adequately for smaller colleges, the polio vaccine program, assistance to the tuberculosis programs of local commu-ities and support for two new child guidance clinics which were authorized.

It is particularly unfortunate that the Senate succeeded in cutting out $400,000 for the care of mentally ill children we are forced to keep in adult institutions.

But the Legislature must be given due credit for such forward steps as the appropriation of $500,000 for the University of Michigan institute of science and technology which I have recommended for the past two years. This is an important initial step to make Michigan one of the nation's great centers of scientific research, capable of attracting new types of industry related to the space age. Properly developed and supported, the institute can become one of the world's foremost centers of scientific knowledge and will pay for itself many times over in developing Michigan's economy and industry.

Now the question is a tax program which will support the budget adopted by the Legislature. Last week, the Taxation Committee of the House of Representatives brought out a tax package which calls for a flat rate personal income and corporate profits tax. This is the most equitable program before the legislature at the present time. It contains some features that I would not advocate, but as a compromise it meets, to a fair degree, the requirements I feel a good tax structure should embody. By and large, it places taxes on an ability to pay basis and does not add a heavy extra burden on low income groups. Another important feature is that it provides relief for business and industry by repealing the business activities tax, the intangibles tax and by reducing the franchise tax by half.

Quick care can make stain removal easier, remind clothing specialists at Michigan State University. Immediate laundering of washable cottons—that is, washing while the stain is still fresh and moist—may prove just as effective as special treatment for removing coffee, tomato juice, soft drink and chocolate.

Showboat Story Told on WOOD-TV Tuesday, July 21

Unit 8, WOOD-TV's version of Wide Wide Michigan, visited Lowell Friday with its camera crew. The purpose of the visit was to cover the preparations that go into the Lowell Showboat.

Besides the many personal shots of the community project, Ken Welch, producer and Ernie Zetley, cameraman, struggled up to the top of the King Milling Co. to get an over-all shot of Lowell.

Friday's filming was just part of the Lowell story, for on Monday night, July 21, Unit 8's camera crew will be on hand to film the first performance of this year's Showboat.

That night the whole story will be put together and the film processed so that at 10:30 Tuesday night, WOOD-TV will present the Lowell Showboat Story.

Cherry and Apple Crops to Be Ample

Two fruit crops, cherries and apples, for which Michigan long has been famous, will be in ample supply this year barring adverse conditions, according to estimates received by G. S. McIntyre, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

The red tart cherry crop is estimated by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service to amount to 84,000 tons this year. This is 70 percent more than last year's crop, but 6 percent less than two years ago. The harvest already is under way in southern producing regions and will gradually progress northward during coming weeks to the Traverse City area where there is the heaviest concentration of red tart cherry trees on earth.

Production of red tart cherries for the nation is expected to reach 138,260 tons, of which Michigan's estimated 84,000-ton yield will amount to more than 60 percent.

If recent estimates of the National Apple Institute are right, Michigan, this year, will stand third among the 35 states producing apples. Michigan's crop is expected to amount to more than 11,122,000 bushels, or about 10 percent of the total estimated national production. The national crop is estimated at 115,952,000 bushels.

The first apples (summer varieties) are expected to be harvested in the state around July 20. Picking will extend to autumn and winter varieties with the harvest winding up in the fall.

The states expected to have greater production of apples than Michigan this year are Washington and New York with Michigan having the largest yield between the two coasts.

Once you've replaced them, your old and discarded shoes look so shabby that you wonder how you dared to be seen in them.

Michigan's 12 Democratic Senators are creating a deep rift in their party because they have awakened to the fact that no jobs are in sight for most of the state's 240,000 unemployed—and that the economic climate grows darker.

To the consternation of Gov. Williams and others at the top of the party in Michigan, the 12 Senators pulled a platform plank from under U. S. Senators Patrick V. McNamara and Philip A. Hart.

They did this by joining the 22 Republican Senators in passing a resolution demanding that McNamara and Hart oppose the request of the Tennessee Valley Authority for another $700,000,000 for expansion of steam power facilities.

More important, the resolution demanded that TVA be required to raise its power rates and repay with interest the $1,200,000,000 the project already has taken from the pockets of the people.

The two Michigan Senators, heretofore supporters of the principle of government-owned power plants, have protested the action of their colleagues back home.

The daily newspapers paid no attention to the State Senate resolution, and its significance.

Yet it is a step toward the Republican side of an issue that will be a major controversy in the election campaign here next year.

Until automobile production reached new peaks recently, and unemployment failed to drop, Democrats scoffed at the charge that Michigan has a depressing economic climate. Confronted with the fact that industry continues to flee, Senator McNamara summed up his party's attitude in one word: "Garbage."

Yet two of the three small automobiles to be produced later this year are to be manufactured outside Michigan.

The third is to be made in Detroit only because space is available in an existing plant. This space became available when certain manufacturing activities of that firm were moved to other states.

One of the Big Three, which had 65,000 employees four years ago, was producing just as many cars last week with 35,000 Michigan employees. This disaster was due only partly to automation. A bigger factor was the removal of major processes to Ohio and other distant points.

The new glass plant of the Ford Motor Company in Tennessee provided 2,500 jobs there that existed until recently in Dearborn.

Other plants which moved recently to the area of cheap, tax-free, subsidized power included a Michigan rubber company with an annual payroll of $3,000,000 and a furniture company investing $800,000 in a new plant in the South.

Tennessee's Gov. Buford Ellington has announced that his recent visit to Detroit was a big success and that 23 other manufacturers expect to move soon from Michigan.

The new plant of the Dow Chemical Company, which is as much a part of Michigan as the automobile industry, is being constructed in Ohio.

Surprisingly, the attitude of too many civic leaders is to ignore the new industrial blight.

The only loud voice protesting decisions to make small cars outside the state was that of Walter Reuther. Yet Reuther was in the position of a horse trader protesting because his victim has become cautious.

So the new position of Democratic State Senators on the issue of public power is the first admission by the party that its goals of socialized power, transportation and medicine may be knocking Michigan down to a has-been state.

The resolution complained that local taxpayers have been compelled to fork up $106,000,000 to support the low-rate government power project.

Gov. Williams was shocked when sponsors of the resolution included Senators Stanley Rozycki, (D) Detroit, and George C. Steeh, (D) Mt. Clemens. They joined Senators Charles Feenstra, (R) Grand Rapids, and Paul G. Younger, (R) Lansing.

Congressman William Broomfield (R) of Oakland County, has been among leaders in the fight to compel TVA to pay its way in fair competition with private power companies. When Broomfield sent Senator McNamara a clipping from a Nashville, Tenn., newspaper stating that 23 more industries expect to move from Michigan to that state.

Senator McNamara summed up the attitude of top Michigan Democrats when he replied:

"It occurs to me that you could render a greater service to your

New Methods Building Pan Fish Population in Warm Water Lakes

At one time, the Conservation Department's answer to warm-water fish management rested solely on the merits of planting hatchery stock.

Research has since proven this single-edged approach to be inadequate and, today, a combination of projects is necessary for proper management.

Among the major ones is the removal of stunted panfish and the subsequent stocking of predatory species.

Such prolific fish as perch and bluegills have reproduced at an alarming rate in many southern Michigan lakes and too often there simply is not enough food to go around. The result—too many undersized fish.

In 1956, the Department embarked on a project to remedy the situation by chemically treating lakes over populated with panfish.

Problem lakes were selected by netting fish, studying their ages and growth and discussing proposed treating procedures with riparian owners and local anglers. In many cases, larger fish were salvaged by seining before chemical treatment began.

Following these preliminary steps, Department workers sprayed the chosen lakes with a dilute chemical solution. By not spraying certain areas inhabited by predator fish and by using revival methods after spraying, some predators were kept alive in treated lakes.

These predator fish hold down panfish populations to augment the treating phase.

Although the project has been branded by some as a waste of fish, Department officials view the long-range potential of lake treat-state by promoting its many great assets rather than by serving as an agent to circulate such garbage as appeared in the Nashville newspaper."

Maybe the 240,000 unemployed won't agree.

ment as encouraging. Since 1956, some 21 lakes have been treated. In many of these, a reduction in panfish populations has been followed by a marked improvement in panfish growth.

By the end of this year, pike and-or bass will have been restocked in 15 of the treated lakes. Promising improvements have already been noted in the ratio of predators to panfish in many of the treated lakes.

"In order to become perfectly content, it is necessary to have a poor memory and no imagination."

Mary Dustin, Larry Abel Speak Vows

The marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Dustin and Larry Abel was solemnized Saturday, July 11, at 2 p. m. at the First Congregational Church of Ada. Rev. David Debbink of Lowell performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Stewart Dustin, 3979 Cascade Rd. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Abel, 9101 Vergennes Rd., are the parents of the bridegroom.

The former Miss Dustin escorted to the altar by her father, wore a floor length white silk organza gown fashioned with a tight bodice, full skirt and cap sleeves. Organza gauntlets completed her attire. She wore a colonial waist length veil of tulle and lace trimmed with sequins and pearls, and carried a pink and white rosebud Colonial bouquet.

Miss Ruth Lynn Dustin, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length pink silk organza gown and wore a small pink cap and veil. Her bouquet was of pink carnations.

Patrick Kelley assisted as best man and Carl Spidell and Walter Suchadolski seated the guests.

A reception for 250 guests was held at Rooker's Hall.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Dustin wore a blue silk chiffon dress embroidered with deeper blue flowers and light blue accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. Mrs. Abel chose a pale blue lace dress with white accessories, and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Abel's going away ensemble was a black and white suit with white accessories and a pink carnation corsage. After a week's honeymoon in Northern Michigan, the young couple will reside on Vergennes Rd.

Harry A. Brandan 3rd District Candidate

Harry A. Brandan, 47, candidate for the 3rd District Legislative in the Republican primary, Tuesday, August 4., former Justice of the Peace in Grand Rapids Township for six years, now an active real estate broker and insurance agent. Navy veteran in World War II, resident of Grand Rapids Township with his wife and two children.

Mr. Brandan says, "My decision to run for the office of State Representative was made because of a deep conviction that the people of our area are disgusted with the bickering and inaction by the State Legislature the last few years, but especially, the 1959 session. The people of Michigan do not want petty partisan politics—they do want a good, practical, businesslike administration dedicated to providing necessary services and eliminating waste."

Letter to Editor

Dear Editor:

Please print this article in your Suburban Life.

At this recent vote taken at the annual school meeting of the Forest Hills School, to raise a five mill tax running for five years at five mills a year to increase the staff, build driveways, etc., it was turned down, and I am pleased there are enough who voted to turn it down, in other words to put the brakes on.

This Citizens Advisory Board must remember there still are some farmers left in the district and we are carrying the tax burden. Our overhead is going up and up and prices for our products down, so you suburbanites must realize with our high valuation we are up against it. I realize we must have class rooms for our pupils but all these sidelines or accessories and frills are something else again.

This district is already over a million and a half in debt with our school mill tax around forty mills and this proposed five mills would make it forty-five mills, which is a burdensome tax. This continued tax raise seems to be a bottomless pit. We have our backs to the wall and want to save our homes and farms. That's a good reason to put the brakes on.

John Lodden,

Miss Messmore Is Bride

Fountain Street Baptist Church was the scene Saturday afternoon of the marriage of Miss Marjorie Sue Messmore and Vernon Carlisle Buckley, DO, of Philadelphia, Pa.

The bride is the daughter of Howard O. Messmore, DO, and Mrs. Messmore of Ada. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Russell Klenk of Philadelphia. Officiating at the ceremony was Rev. Verdi L. Reusser. Beverly Howerton was the organist and accompanied Marvin Behrens, soloist.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a full-length gown of silk organza, trimmed with venice lace. The basque bodice was styled with a square neckline appliqued with venice lace motifs and the skirt of silk organza was enhanced by a butterfly back bow detail which terminated in a court sweep train. Her finger-tip veil was secured by a crown of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white glamellias and ivy.

Mrs. Marvin DeGood of Ada attended as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Messmore, sister of the bride, Mrs. Andrew Essenburg, Jr., of Charlevoix, Mrs. Wayne Spillane and Miss Judith Hedley of Philadelphia. They wore white organdy dresses etched with embroidered two-tone pink motifs. The bell skirts were complimented by pink cummerbunds. Crowns of pale pink flowers secured the circular veils in matching sherbet pink.

The best man was Donald Bux of Jenkintown, Pa., and serving as ushers were Lawrence Messmore, brother of the bride, Burr Rogers, DO, Robert Bakeman, DO, and John Lewis of Philadelphia.

At the reception held at the Pantlind Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Mulder were master and mistress of ceremonies. Assisting about the room were Mrs. James Stevens and Mrs. William Janowick.

After a Western wedding trip, Dr. and Mrs. Buckley will live at 3951 "L" Street, Philadelphia 24, Pennsylvania.

The number of farms operating in the United States last year was 18 percent less than in 1948.

Ada Teams Active Friday and Saturday

The Ada Athletic field was very active last week. On Thursday night the Ada boys played Caledonia and won 6-3 taking Caledonia out of a four way lead in the league.

On Friday night the Zeeland Bon Tons (girls' team) met the Kalamazoo family market team. At the end of the sixth inning the score was tied but in the seventh Mariland Jenkins hit a home run for the Bon Tons to go home the victors, with a score of 5-4.

On Saturday night the Steelcase Majors met Sand Lake and won 5-1.

The Bon Tons will play at Ada again on July 25 (Saturday night) when they will meet the girls from Midland at 7 o'clock. For a good evening of ball be sure to come to see these girls. The same night at 8:30 the Steelcase Majors will meet the Kalamazoo Cardinals. Two good games you must not miss!

Membership drive is now on for the Ada Athletic ball field. Fees may be paid at the Ada Hardware or the Concession stand. All memberships will be posted at the stand. Please help our boys and girls by giving them your support.
