LANSING Observer

A lead editorial in the Sunday edition of The Detroit Times flattered the Lansing Observer column by taking issue with the writer on the subject of a state income tax vs. a sales tax.

The gentle rebuke was flattering because the top space on the editorial page of the Sunday Times is a sacred spot usually reserved for battles against Communism, one-man grand juries and vivisection.

The punch lacked the usual fire of the Times, probably because the editor is a very close friend who taught me nearly all I know about the newspaper business, including ways of getting fancy expense accounts past the business manager.

This Detroit editor is one of the most brilliant newspaper writers of our generation, and one of the last of the nation's conversationalists. It is my good fortune to sit with him at least once a week, for he is blessed with the power to cleanse the brain and purify the spirit.

The editorial scoffed at a statement in the Lansing Observer column that the legislative stalemate over taxes is "a determined clash between forces defending two radically opposed principles of government." It mentioned that I also wrote that "the issue is whether the will of the people shall rule."

The editorial—and another a few days later—proposed that the State Senate be apportioned on a population basis to let Democrats run the whole shebang.

My editor friend (and mentor) works these days in an air-conditioned office. There is a rug on the floor, a picture of William Randolph Hearst on the wall, and an extra desk loaded with books stolen from the mails when the book editor did not get to work on time.

When I first knew this editor he worked without a tie or coat and with his shirt sleeves rolled. The only air conditioning he knew was a trip to the fire escape for a cigarette, the fire marshal having banned smoking in the building.

Although he did not really like Alf Landon, he warned the voters in 1936 that re-election of Franklin Roosevelt would lead to the death of the freedom that had made this nation great. He wrote that if Landon were defeated, we would plunge toward a new form of governmental dictatorship.

No one should know better than this editor that he was right.

Twenty years ago my editor friend could slip a deserving reporter a ten buck raise. He could weed out the incompetents on his staff. When the big story broke, all newspapers are forced to pay to the Michigan Employment Security Commission because of unemployment last year in the auto industry.

The tax will be doubled soon because of the State Supreme Court opinion in the Ford case.

He should think, too, about Gov. Williams' boast that he has brought 1,500,000 new citizens to Michigan since he squeezed through the first recount in 1950.

About 240,000 of them are unemployed today, not counting the steel strikers, and never will find jobs. That's about a half million votes.

These voters are for an income tax because they never will pay an income tax. They are not a guide to the will of the taxpayers.

That's what I was talking about when I wrote that this is a showdown fight between two radically opposed philosophies of government.

I am going to discuss these matters with my editor friend Friday night when we will turn an electric fan on a cake of ice in a wash tub to provide our air conditioning.

Expert Says Jet Operations Do NOT Harm Home Values in Airport Areas

Jet planes will not adversely affect the value of real estate in the vicinity of airfields they use, H. O. Walther, a past president of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, reports.

Addressing the American Society of Real Estate Counselors, Mr. Walther said that six factual studies made of property surrounding airports in Chicago, Los Angeles, Denver, Dallas, Newark and New York City bore out his statement.

The studies disclosed that:

1. More than 30,000 buildings (nearly all homes) had been built within a mile of the six airports in a 12-year period from 1940.
2. Over 800 double transactions revealed that the market behavior is about the same in airport areas as in areas not in the airport environment.
3. The number of properties for sale in the airport areas was in most cases less, and in a few very slightly more, than in comparable areas.
4. There appeared to be no appreciable difference in market behavior in areas in the path of flight from the other areas.
5. Airport areas which included homes were in good condition with better than average maintenance.
6. Trade opinion of real estate brokers active in the areas showed without exception that airports had not influenced the value of homes adversely. Trade opinion of appraisers and mortgage lenders was divided. Some thought that the noise, interference with television, and anxiety produced sales resistance; others did not.

Although these studies reveal the existence of some noise and interference, Walther said, they suggest that either their effect is small or there are other amenities which offset the difficulties. Among the logical amenities cited was the fact that thousands of new employees at the airport strengthen the demand for housing, and in many places new industry built near the airport brings in more job opportunities.

Clean Up Cluttered Car Now

By Martha Johnson

THE FAMILY CAR needs a "housecleaning" this time of the year.

Get rid of the debris under the seat, in the trunk and on the rear window ledge.

Clean out that small library stuffed under the sun visor—receipts, bills, trading stamps...

And have you looked in the glove compartment lately? Discard those old emery boards, crumpled letters and torn, out-of-date road maps. Replace these "treasures" with necessary and useful articles—cleaning fluid and a clean rag or paper towel for the windows, a windshield scraper, flashlight, sunglasses and your automobile registration.

In the trunk, throw out emergency gasoline containers, unless they are an approved metal type, painted red with a tight-fitting cap, the youngsters' torn boots, broken sled and sweep out the pine needles from last Winter's Christmas tree.

Put in gloves and a piece of carpet for changing tires and making small repairs, tire jack, a bag of salt or sand for traction on slick surfaces, tools for changing tires. Borrow an idea from experienced truck drivers, and include one of those reflectors he sets out when he is stopped by the side of the road.

How To Buy A New Car

Buying a new car this spring? If so, give it the thought the investment demands. A car is the most expensive thing most of us buy—except a house.

Here are some tips to consider when making that exciting purchase:

Buy from an established, reputable dealer. If you know him personally, so much the better.

Read the sales contract—all the way through. Be sure the exact price of the car is noted in the contract. Have the contract signed by the sales manager or other executive of the dealership.

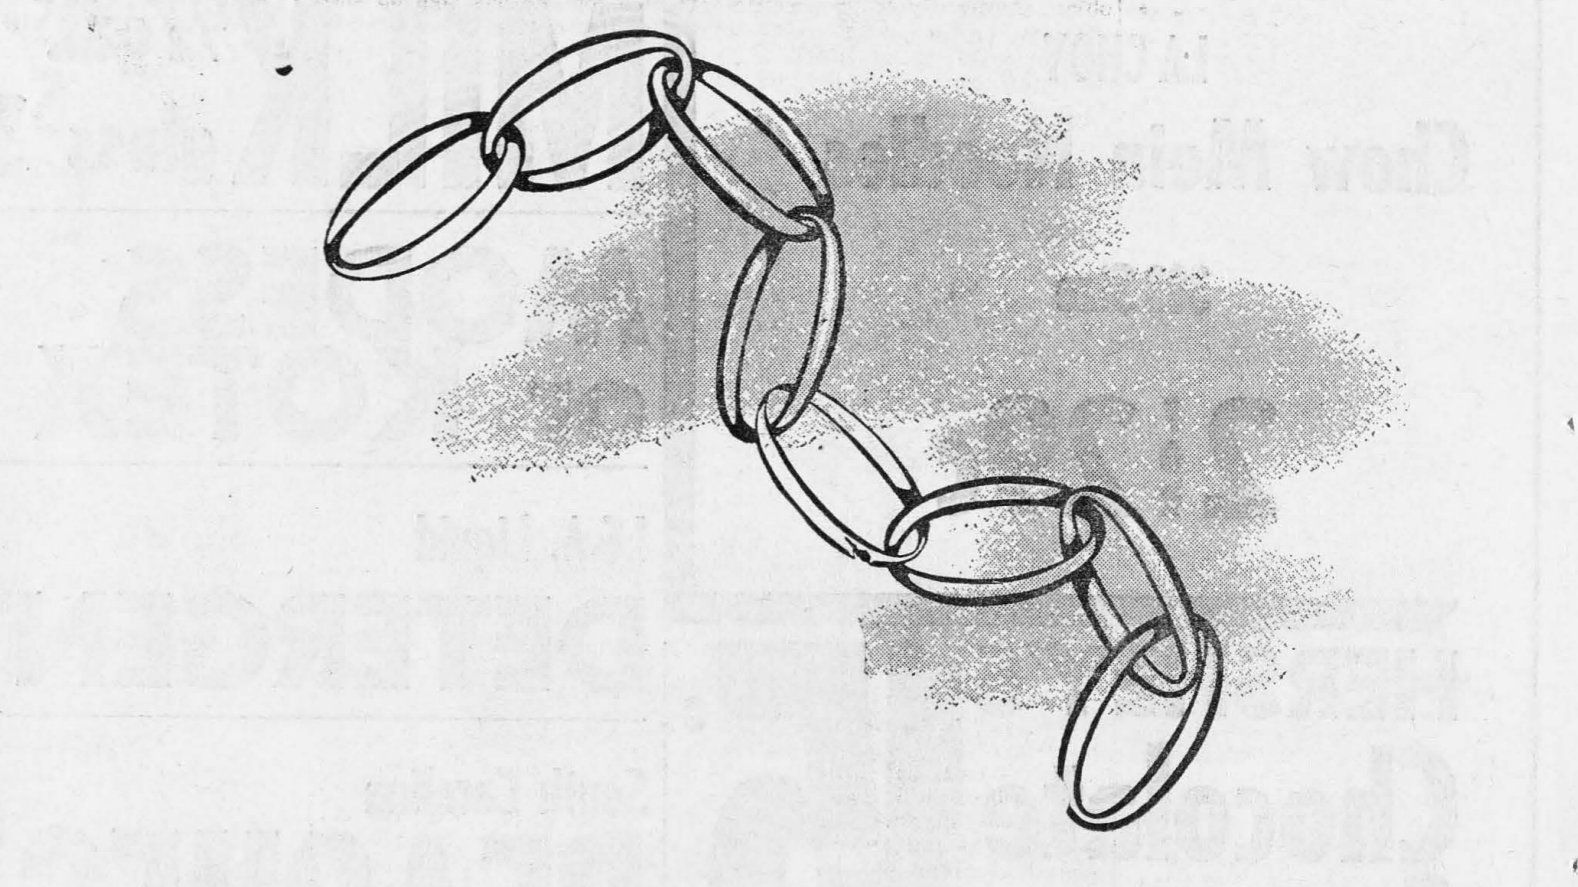

Be sure all specifications—color, upholstery, and extras—are listed in the contract.

If you trade in an old car, make certain the contract states that the trade-in price remains firm between time of purchase and delivery time of new car.

Be sure you understand the terms of the new-car guarantee you get from the dealer. These guarantees are fairly uniform. Most of them cover unconditionally any mechanical defects occurring within 90 days or 4,000 miles—whichever comes first.

Shy Sandhill Crane

Sandhill cranes, formerly found throughout Michigan in plentiful numbers, have been drastically reduced by man's excessive hunting and drainage on their nesting grounds. A few cranes still nest in isolated marshes of southern Michigan. Swamps of the upper peninsula provide a greater degree of privacy and are, therefore, preferred nesting sites of these shy birds. Remaining wetlands must be preserved and restored to safeguard against the threatening disappearance of this migratory wild bird in Michigan.

A CHAIN IS AS STRONG AS—

How many times have you heard someone say: "A chain is as strong as its weakest link?"

On the subject of a community's attraction for industry it can be said as fairly that the community is as strong as its weakest link.

A town's pulling power with industry is made up of such links as . . . labor supply and skills . . . public facilities and services . . . schools . . . all-around livability . . . reputation for productivity . . . availability of financing . . . attitude toward new industry . . . treatment of present industry . . . what present industry says about the community . . . what people of the community say about each other.

Let us look for weak links and if we find one let's work together to forge a strong one in its place.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

Freeze Your Excess Fish, Economist Says

Vacation means fishing to a lot of sports minded people. It's fun to fish, more fun to catch fish, and still more fun to eat fish.

What is better than a fresh caught fish, cooked over a campfire? You'll be lucky if you have any left to bring home. That's why so many fishermen bring back only fishing stories—and no one believes them because the evidence has been eaten.

If you are lucky and the catch is bigger than you can eat, it's easy to freeze them.

Simply freeze them whole. If they are large, you may want to split them down the middle. Put just enough cleaned fish for one meal in a package. Use moisture-vapor-proof paper and seal to control drying out and oxidation. It's a good idea to separate the layers of fish with moisture-vapor-proof paper too. They can easily be pried apart for cooking.

Freeze fish at 0 degrees F. or lower and store at 0 degrees.

Don't keep frozen fish too long—not over 3 or 4 months. When ready to use it—it isn't necessary to thaw it—just cook immediately but allow a little longer cooking time. (If you are the kind that likes yours dipped in egg and cracker crumbs, you'll have to thaw the fish).

For fishy smelling hands and dishes, just rub your hands and dishes well with moistened salt, then rinse with hot water before washing with soap and water.

Do You Smell Smoke? Plan for Emergencies

Your youngsters know what to do in case of fire at school. They have frequent fire drills. But do you and they know what to do if fire should break out in your home? A hundred fires in the home actually occur to one in the school—usually after midnight when the family is asleep.

Fires that begin downstairs quickly shoot hot gases and smoke to the top floor. Even if there are no flames upstairs when you discover a fire, it may be too late for escape by the main stairway.

According to Eleanor Densmore, County Extension Agent in Home Economics, many families today are preparing for just such an emergency by having family fire drills so that each member of the family will know how to escape from his or her room without going into the main hall or without using the stairway. When the plan has been decided on, a few dry runs will keep it fixed in the minds of all.

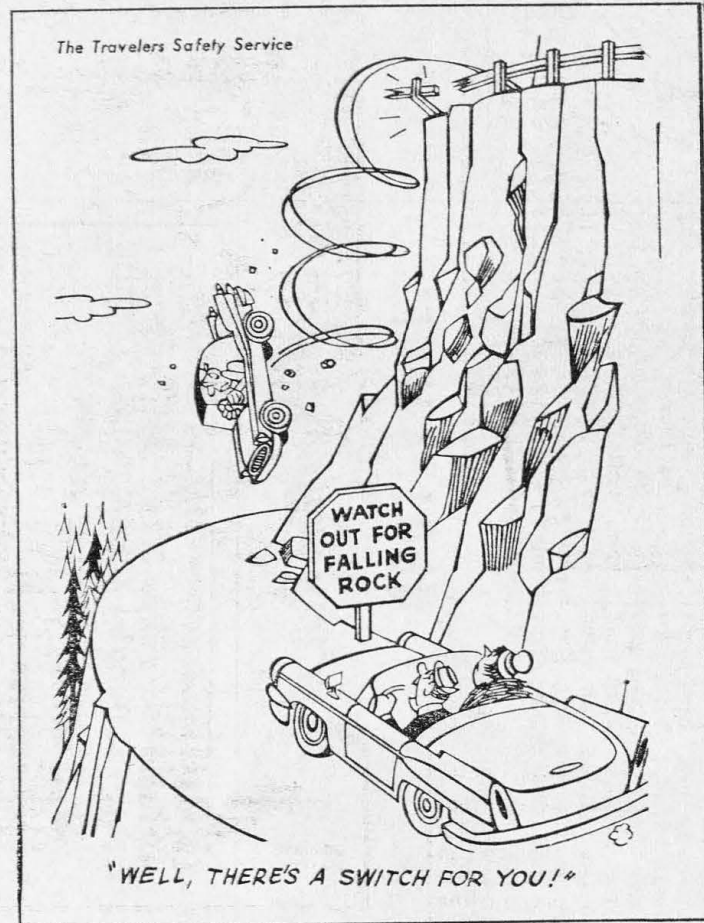

First rule in any fire is, of course, to get everyone out of the house and keep them out. Then, call the fire department. Don't take time to gather up belongings. Close the doors behind you as you leave a room—this holds back fire and fumes and protects your exit.

If you smell smoke, don't rush into the hall. First, test the door at the top with your hand to see if it's hot. If so, don't open it—you can't use the stairway. Escape by window may be necessary. Here's where a ladder comes in. Some folks keep a rope ladder with wooden rungs bolted to the baseboard under a bedroom window. Your plan should include a definite place for the family to meet outside. This helps you quickly check family members.

You may never need to use your plan, but it could save your life.

A tourist is a man who travels to see things that are different and then complains when they aren't the same.

The Luckless Legion by Irwin Caplan

Driver error was responsible for 85% of the motor vehicle accident casualties in 1958.

Outdoor Barbecue Time Menu Suggestions

American people have many preferences—wise picnic planning becomes a matter of satisfying appetite preferences with the money there is to spend according to Virginia Helt, Michigan State University Food Marketing Agent for the Grand Rapids area.

The price of steak may never phase you—you are willing to pay the price because you enjoy grilled steaks. To you "this is real living." Others may like steak, too, but the food budget cannot afford the cost. You can settle for less expensive chuck steak marinated in a mixture using one part tomato juice, lemon juice, vinegar or barbecue sauce in 4 parts oil for 12 to 24 hours.

You can even make steaks from the standing rib roast. Ask your meatman to cut the ribs two inches from chine bone. Then at home, you cut out the rib eye by circling around the meat in rib cavity with a sharp knife. Next, cut this boneless piece of meat known as the rib eye into steaks of desired thickness. Use the leftover meat for stew—or you can marinate this too. Cut remaining steak into chunks, marinate and use for kabobs.

Now that you have the meat, how about the fire? Many people have different versions of telling fire builders the best way to build a charcoal fire. M. S. U. Consumer Marketing Program has these guides to offer.

Place charcoal in the firebox. Two to three pounds will be sufficient for the average grill. Soak the charcoal with charcoal lighter fluid. NEVER USE FUEL OIL, KEROSENE OR GASOLINE. Light the charcoal. Allow charcoal to burn 20 to 30 minutes before placing meat on the grill. Charcoal is ready for cooking when it is about two-thirds covered with grey ash. There is no flame or smoke. One firing of charcoal should last for 1 to 2 hours cooking. For meats that need longer cooking periods, add charcoal from time to time.

The charcoal fire is important to your outdoor cooking success. Success at the grill brings satisfaction. It's worth the money for one pound chicken halves or even steak when done to perfection.

Everyone is always in favor of general economy and particular expenditure.

It pays to read the Suburban Life want ads.

Chicken Every Sunday Now a Big Business

Do you remember when, in the old days, you decided to have chicken for dinner all you had to do was chase one down, chop off its head, dress and cook it?

Now, according to Eleanor Densmore, County Extension Agent in Home Economics, it's a different story, unless you are living on a farm where poultry is raised.

Today, the farmer buys the baby chicken, grows the birds to the size you buy. He feeds, waters, houses, keeps the chicks warm, dry and healthy, and takes the loss if they die. It takes 10 to 18 weeks to get a chicken ready to sell.

The transporter moves the chickens from the farm to the processing plant, to the wholesaler, to the grocer, and to you.

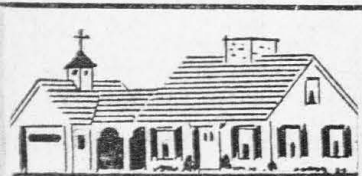

Many chickens travel 500 miles or more before they reach you. The processor buys, kills, removes feathers, draws, cleans, and packs chickens for you.

The wholesaler serves your grocer. He buys, sells, and delivers chickens to the grocers in your area. Sometimes the processor does this job.

The grocer, of course, serves you directly. He invests the storage space, show counters, advertising, wrapping paper, and clerks as well as the chickens.

Of course, we pay for all these services. But, would you want to take the time to drive out in the country, buy a live chicken, do your own processing and transporting?

Most of us feel it's worth the extra price in conveniences to buy ready to cook chicken. And what's better than a good chicken dinner?

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

The difference in price between today's prescriptions and those of 20 years ago can easily be figured. The difference is measured in dimes . . . sometimes even in dollars. But how can we measure the difference in results? Surely, no value can possibly be put on a life saved by a miracle drug that didn't exist 20 years ago!

Raymond Dickinson Seeks State Representative Post

Raymond L. Dickinson, who is a candidate for state representative from the 3rd district to replace the GOP Rep. Glenn Hunsburger, is following family tradition in holding public office in this area.

His grandfather, George Dickinson brought up 100 acres from the government in the township and paid taxes on the first roll in 1824. In 1853 he was made overseer of highways and became the township supervisor in 1875.

Acquiring additional land throughout the years, the Dickinson family maintained a fruit farm at their present address on Leonard Rd., until 1955, when Raymond retired from active farming.

Like his grandfather, Dickinson has been supervisor of the township serving for the past 19 years. A former chairman of the Board of Supervisors, he has been a member of the finance committee for five years, active in civic affairs and a war veteran.

The Dickinson's have two married daughters and four grandchildren.

Calorie Counters Should Examine Labels Carefully

If you're joining the ranks of conscientious calorie-counters, be sure to read the labels carefully.

Dieticians at The University of Michigan Medical Center caution you against mistaking "low calorie" for "no calorie."

Many brands of bread, say the dieticians, are labelled "low calorie" when the actual caloric value is only slightly lower than regular bread.

One and a half slices of most "low calorie" breads are equivalent to one slice of regular bread. At that, the difference is due mainly to the size of the slice, rather than the composition of the ingredients.

"Low calorie" bread is usually smaller and cut thinner than regular bread.

Suitcase Living Can Be Easy With Planning

If you are planning a trip this summer, either by train, plane, or by car, you are no doubt thinking about the clothes you'll take along.

It's fun to take a trip, but living out of a suitcase and the wrong kind of clothes can be a real headache, in fact, can spoil the trip for you.

We are really fortunate today, according to Eleanor Densmore, County Extension Agent in Home Economics, in being able to buy clothes made of fabrics that pack well, take up little space and come out of the bag with a minimum of wrinkles.

We have crease resistant fabrics and finishes, and dresses and blouses that can be washed out at night and put on in the morning with little or no pressing. Nylon sheers are in that class. They are cool, take almost no space, and wash in a jiffy with no ironing.

Silk and orlon, orlon and wool, knits and jerseys are also good packers and the wrinkles hang out easily.

Small prints show the wrinkles less than plain colors.

Resist the urge to take a garment that you will only wear once or twice. Separates can do double duty—even triple duty.

Of course, you probably won't be buying an entire new wardrobe. In fact, an important thing to keep in mind is that your old clothes will look new to a strange audience.

So look over your present wardrobe and see what is suitable.

Shop with care. You can easily spend all your travel allowance getting ready to go. When you do buy, ask yourself:

- "How will it pack?"
- "How can I keep it clean?"
- "Will it do for many occasions?"
- "Will it be comfortable?"

Urge Water Safety To Lower Death Rate

At least 126 persons have drowned in Michigan waters so far this year with August, the heaviest month of vacationing, yet to come, according to records compiled by the State Police.

Of 172 water accidents reported, 106 were fatal, 46 resulted in personal injury and there were 20 accidents resulting in property damage only.

On the basis of the first six months, it is now feared that the toll for the last half of the year will greatly exceed the 193 dead and 89 injured in 257 accidents in the same period last year unless water enthusiasts exercise greater caution.

Of the 126 drowned, 17 were boat operators, 31 boat passengers, 26 swimmers, two skin divers, one a water skier without a life preserver, 10 children who wandered away from parents, eight youngsters who slipped into the water while fishing or playing and 31 were victims of miscellaneous causes.

Over the Fourth of July weekend, 15 persons drowned in water mishaps while only 13 died in traffic accidents.

Root Rot Lowers County Wheat Yield

Root rot in wheat lowers county yields, says Bill Rupp, County Extension Director. Weather conditions in the spring caused an unusual amount of root rot not only in Kent County but throughout Michigan.

The two kinds that appeared here were Take-All which has black discoloration in the base of the stem. This can be seen when the leaf sheath is pulled back. The other root rot which appeared is called Strawbreaker. The damage appears at the same location as Take-All but occurs in an oval-shaped lesion and weakens the stem so that the straw breaks over.

In both root rots the roots have rotted away to some extent, and the plants have failed to develop completely causing shrunken grain and small heads. These funguses in extreme cases may show up as complete spots in the field, but usually there is a scattering throughout the field and is noticeable by plants that have broken over or have heads that have whitened or matured prematurely.

There is no prevention of root rot other than using a rotation. The fungus has a tendency to stay in the ground, and if it has occurred, do not follow wheat with wheat. The fungus will occur sometimes where wheat follows sod with brome, timothy or quackgrass.

Cards Win Championship In Little League Minors

The last week of the season found the Cards finishing with a rush and winning their last three games to end up on top of the League. The Cards had been improving all season. They began the season in the cellar and steadily rose to the top. The boys on the team played smarter and sharper ball with every game.

The Cards came from behind the Yanks and stayed in the race with the Braves by getting three innings of near perfect relief pitching by Pogo Good and a bases loaded triple by Randy Ashley in their winning rally.

In their next game against the Braves the League lead was at stake. The Cards again won with tight pitching by Glenn Lockhart and the good hitting of Jim Olson, George Herritty and Randy Ashley.

Win Last Game

In the Cards last game they held their League lead by again defeating the Yanks by the score of 15 to 3. Pogo Good was the starting and winning pitcher. The big hitting in this game came from the bats of Pogo Good, John Stoval and Ryan Ashley. Two outstanding fielding plays by Glenn Lockhart in left field and by Joel Hill at shortstop helped stop the Yanks cold and bring the championship to the Cards.

Due to the rain, the postponed game of Saturday, July 18, the Braves will play the Yanks Friday July 24 at 6:30 p. m. at Lions Youth Park.

Letter to Editor

Dear Editor:

I am a student at Forest Hills High School, and the letter written by Mrs. Van Heulen a few weeks ago has disturbed me ever since it was published. I was very pleased to see Mr. Charter's letter. It stated the facts very accurately.

As a student I see the situation from a different point of view. Most of the kids I know plan to go to college, and we feel that Forest Hills is giving us the education we need. Naturally, since our school is new, there are some improvements to be made, but the essential things are now provided for a well-rounded education.

I wonder where the "plush lobby" is that Mrs. VanHeulen referred to.

One part of Mrs. VanHeulen's letter that bothered me was where she said too much emphasis is being placed on our athletic department. Most of the kids just live for the excitement of competitive sports. It surely would be a dreary four years without the usual High School sports.

I cannot see where the students at Forest Hills are being "cheated" in the least!

Huron Valley Girl Scouts To Visit Showboat Friday

Friday afternoon twenty-four Ypsilanti Girl Scouts and their leaders, members of Troop 413 in the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, will arrive in Lowell to attend the Showboat. They will "camp out" overnight at the Scout cabin, cook their meals outdoors, and enjoy hiking in the woods along the river.

On their way to Lowell, in two station wagons and one car and trailer, they plan to visit the Kellogg cereal plant in Battle Creek, stop at the Greenfield Animal Farm in Hastings, and have picnics for breakfast and lunch.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to use this means of expressing our thanks to our many friends and neighbors who remembered us at the time of the sudden death of our dear husband and father, son and brother. Bear Cats Capture First Place In Thornapple Valley Baseball League

For the first time the Bear Cats have taken the lead in the Thornapple Valley Baseball League. However, the way the race is going, they could be in third place again by the time you read about it.

Cats Win 3

Monday night the Cougars started with Mike Ruffin, who pitched no-hit ball for 3 innings before coming out because of a turned ankle. Spencer Wilcox followed him to the mound, Willie also pitched no-hit ball, but had a little trouble with wildness and took the loss. In the last half inning an error, a hit batsman and Jim Vandenberg's double scored the winning run. (Better luck next time Jerry.) Gerry Flynn 3-1 went all the way on a 2 hitter for the Cats. The final score was 2 to 1.

As tight a game as Monday's was, Wednesday the Bear Cats turned up their bats to rap out 17 runs on 13 hits. Don Moore (1-2) started for the Bear Cats and got his first win. Jack Rogers came on to pitch in the fourth to put out a little fire. Doug Stiles (0-2) took the loss for the Braves as they collected 9 runs.

Friday, Tom Bigelow (2-2) started for the Braves in a game which was called earlier. The Bear Cats managed only 2 hits but Tom ran into a streak of wildness in the first innings, coupled with a few errors. Gerry Flynn (4-1) started and pitched a one hitter for five innings before he had to be removed because his 10 innings were up for the week. Jon Christian came on to hold the Braves to only 1 run on 1 hit in the last inning. The Bear Cats won 7 to 1.

Braves in 2nd

Eddie Robinson ran into difficulty again and took his third loss without a victory as the Braves took the Lancers by the score of 6 to 2. Tom Patterson (2-0) pitched for the Braves.
