Ask Ford's Help For Egress From New Highway

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, Jr., and Supervisor of Cascade Twp., Gerrit Baker spent some time together recently in discussing and looking over the site at Whitneyville Road where the businessmen have been working and hoping to have an egress from the new highway. Mr. Ford says he will do all he can to help the businessmen in Washington, as he can see that an egress is needed there.

Carl Mothers' Club Have Many Projects

A spirit of enthusiasm reigned at the October meeting of the Carl School Mothers' Club, held on Tuesday evening, October 13. Highlight of the meeting was an informative report from Harold Chambers, Superintendent of Schools for the Forest Hills District, concerning the growth and development of the entire school system and the many problems confronting the schools as a result.

Plans for building and furnishing a kitchen in the school are nearing completion. This has been selected as the club's major project for the year. When completed, the kitchen will be a tremendous help in carrying out the popular weekly "Hot Dog Day" sponsored by Ann Tusch. Officers for the year are: Marie Hill, President; Arlene Hill, Vice-President; Norma Lou Berry, Secretary; and Barbara Robinson, Treasurer. Ellen Perrin was appointed representative to the Citizens Committee, with Almira Worfel acting as alternate.

Paper Drive
A paper drive is to be held on October 22 and 23. All area residents are urged to bring papers and magazines to the school on those dates.

On November 10, a Turkey Drawing and Family Potluck will take the place of the regular meeting. There will be filmed entertainment for the children.

Hostesses for the evening were Almira Worfel and Barbara Robinson.

Eastmont Baptist Have New Church

Many turned out in the rain last Wednesday afternoon to see the former East Paris Christian Reformed Church being moved to its new site on Cascade Road to become the home of the Eastmont Baptist Church. The some 200-ft. square frame church was moved down 28th Street to Cascade Road then west to its site near Eastmont. The move was very successful and the church that will seat over 250 is expected to be ready by Christmas.

New Owners of Dick's Market

Gordon and Ken Meinke announced this week that they are holding their grand opening and they are the new owners of Dicks Super Market on M-21, Ada, having bought the business from Chris DeVries.

The Meinke brothers have operated the Trading Post Market on Wealthy Street in Grand Rapids for the past three years and will add the Ada store to their operation. Ken Meinke was formerly with the A & P Company in their meat department. He lives in Grand Rapids with his wife and expects to move to the Ada area as soon as possible. Gordon is a resident of Sand Lake and also plans to move here.

The brothers took over the store two weeks ago and have been rearranging the store and adding a stock of beverage accessories and bar supplies, including glassware. They invite everyone to come in and register for door prizes during their grand opening this week-end.

Chris DeVries who has operated the store across the river and more recently at the new location, is reported to be leaving soon for a trip to Europe. On his return he expects to devote most of his time to his sign painting business and other interests.

It is hoped that many parents of our area will accept this invitation to attend this lecture.

The date again is October 29, the time 7:30 p. m., and the place is Lakeside school auditorium—on the corner of Hall Street and Breton Road.

In the Fall of 1954 a group of 16 people in the Eastmont area felt the need of a Baptist church. In this group of sixteen was a young student preparing for the ministry, who became the first pastor of Eastmont Baptist church, namely Alfred Mersman. Reverend Mersman was the pastor until the Spring of 1957, at which time he resigned and enrolled in the Piedmont Bible College of Winston Salem, North Carolina, in order to further his education. On the first of November, 1957, a congregational reception was held in honor of the present pastor, Oscar M. Smith, who came to Eastmont from Saylorville, Iowa.

When the church was organized a five acre tract of land was purchased. On this property stood an old farm house, which was remodeled in such a way as to make it suitable to hold church services. Through the years the group has grown to a total of sixty-one members. The Sunday School has an average attendance of 96. Floyd Clemons of Spaulding Road is the Superintendent.

Because of the steady growth the need for larger quarters was a must and several months ago the church made arrangements to purchase the old East Paris Christian Reformed church and have it moved over to the location on US-16. On Wednesday, October 14, hundreds of people saw the church move slowly down the highway to the place it now stands. This building has a seating capacity of 250, and the basement will house several Sunday School rooms, the pastor's study, a kitchen and small dining room. It is hoped that the building will be ready for use at Christmas time.

Acting Governor Swainson Reports On Economies Effectuated in Government

By John B. Swainson
Acting Governor of Michigan

Lots of people talk about economy in government from time to time. Here in Michigan we are working continually for economy in state government.

This effort for economy is not something that was inaugurated because of Michigan's cash crisis. It has been going on for a long time. But, during this time of financial difficulties, it may receive greater attention.

When an austerity program was ordered by Governor Williams a year ago, one of the provisions was that vacancies in state employment would not be filled unless the positions were absolutely necessary for operation of the department.

During the last week, I received a report from the Civil Service Commission showing that state employment dropped by 560 in the period from July 1, 1958 to June 30, 1959. That is a decrease of 1.7 percent.

Some departments showed an increase in employees, but the overall number was down.

It was gratifying to me to note that this decrease in the number of state employees was accomplished without hardship on employees or their families. It was achieved not by firing people, but by the process of not filling positions which became vacant whenever that could be done.

There are other examples of economy.

It was most interesting to learn of a project started by the Department of Administration which will mean a net saving of some $70,000 in providing clothing for patients in our mental hospitals.

The Department took advantage of availability of some 60,000 yards of Air Force blue, all-wool material. This had been declared surplus and was available through the State-Federal Surplus Property Section at 10 cents a yard. Its use is limited to education and health.

Some of it will be provided secondary schools for use in home economic departments for the making of drapes and other articles designed for school use.

Some of it will be used for clothing the mental hospital patients. Through cooperation of the Corrections Department, the prison industries will make the material into clothing for men, women and children. This will bring a great saving in clothing costs.

Michigan is the only state which has put the surplus material to this use, but others are expected to follow. The Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare is so impressed by the Michigan project that it plans to show other states what is being done here. A showing of the clothing was made recently for mental health officials of twelve midwestern states. Samples are to be sent to the Federal Department so that they can be shown to officials from the other states.

Another economy measure, made possible through utilization of surplus material came to my attention during the week. A pilot project has been conducted at the Ypsilanti State Hospital where admitting costs of patients have been drastically reduced. By using admittance dressograph machines which another state department disposed of as surplus because certain operations have been eliminated, the admitting costs have been reduced at Ypsilanti from $7.52 for each patient to 29 cents. Formerly it required four hours and 20 minutes to fill out the 43 forms required on admission. Now, one plate is made and the 43 forms are filled in 12 minutes.

During July 122 patients were admitted. The new system brought a saving of $882.06 in that month.

A second pilot study, using the same equipment, is to be undertaken at the Ypsilanti Hospital in June. Preparing inventory forms in the past has required 35 man-days. Plates have now been cut for the thousands of items included in the inventory. They can be run off in 12 hours.

The success of the pilot projects has been such that other state hospitals will make use of similar surplus material as soon as funds are available to recondition the equipment. When in full use, the machines are expected to mean a net saving of more than $55,000 a year.

Use of these new processes would mean that records which are behind could be made current and that present office staffs would not have to be enlarged to keep up with an increasing amount of work.

THINGS TO COME

Newest Japanese import is a telephone receiver rest that calms waiting callers with soft music.

For stenos, there's a paper hand towel with a "built in" stain remover to eradicate smudges caused by carbon paper, typewriter ribbons and other office materials.

An infra-red detector sniffs dangerous concentrations of gasoline fumes in any enclosed space—such as boat bilges—and flashes a warning light on a control panel.

Shooting Telephone Cables Annual Problem Here

Bang!

When pheasant season opened on Monday (Oct. 19) it doesn't take much longer than a gunshot to cut off a lot of important telephone calls.

In fact it would be quicker than you could say Jack Robi...

Michigan Bell Telephone Company pointed out there were 216 cases of cable damage caused by shotgun blasts last year and renewed its annual plea to hunters: "Please don't disable our cables."

Ironically, a shotgun-damaged cable could affect the lives of two classes of people in which the hunter should be most interested—his own, and those of the farmers, who often are hunters' hosts, permitting them to hunt on their lands.

Each year, there are nearly as many hunter injuries as there are cable damage reports. And in most cases, a telephone comes into use when a hunter's friends quickly look for help—whether it be calls to the doctor, ambulance, hospital, drug store, or family.

You might say it's possible for a hunter's life to hang by a telephone line—which won't work if it's shot full of holes. And farmers are not at all happy if they can't get a phone call through because of damaged cable facilities.

Michigan Bell also pointed out that wilful damage is discouraged by penalties ranging up to $4,000 plus four years imprisonment. In addition, a hunter can be held financially liable for damages—which can go as high as several hundred dollars.

Most damage, of course, is caused by over-zealous nimrods who have a good eye focused on the bird, but a hazy view of the background into which they're firing. He might never know he damaged a cable—but telephone callers caught in the middle of saying "Jack Robinson" will.

Railroads Seek to End 'Featherbedding'

A stormy showdown between management and labor over the $500 million annual feather-bedding waste on the nation's railroads is imminent. U. S. railroads are determined to modernize the work rules dating from 40 and more years ago, according to the article by Alfred Steinberg. These rules require surplus men on trains, erect jurisdictional barriers between various work groups and otherwise promote waste and inefficiency among 200,000 operating employees, the article points out.

Contract negotiations on this explosive issue begin after November 15.

To find out to what extent featherbedding exists on the railroads, Mr. Steinberg rode locomotives, wandered about yards and terminals and talked to railroaders themselves.

"There can be no question that featherbedding abounds wherever one looks," Mr. Steinberg declares.

The toll, he adds, is measured in higher passenger fares and freight rates and dwindling business for the long-troubled railroad industry.

The fireman who "has no fires to stoke or boilers to tend" on the modern diesel locomotive is cited by the Digest article as a primary example of featherbedding in practice.

Another obsolete rule gives each engine-crew member a basis day's wage for every 100 miles he travels. This rule dates from 1919, Mr. Steinberg says, and results in such "high pay for short hours" as an engineer's collecting 1.43 days' wages for clipping off 143 miles in two hours on the Denver Zephyr, and a Pennsylvania engineer's collecting 4½ days' pay, or about $100, for making a 452-mile roundtrip between New York City and Washington, D. C., in a single day.

A companion featherbed rule splits the nation's railroads into divisions 100 or so miles long, with crews barred from crossing these borders. Thus, the Digest says, eight different engine crews are required to get the 20th Century Limited over the 16 hour course between New York City and Chicago.

To an outsider, many of the decisions of the National Railroad Adjustment Board in disputes over rules fencing off "road work" from "yard work" bear a "tinge of lunacy," Mr. Steinberg writes.

He cites, for instance, how a road crew was awarded an extra day's pay for moving a train a few car lengths in a yard and how a yard crew got an extra day's pay for helping a train through snow just outside yard limits.

Correction of these rules, the article states, lies "in a greater sense of responsibility to the public on the part of the railroad Brotherhoods."

Mr. Steinberg believes that a key factor in the forthcoming showdown talks will be pressure from the public, now grown "sick and tired of costly, wasteful featherbedding."

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Sympathy is being extended to Mr. and Mrs. M. Helder, McCords Rd., on the death of their daughter, Mrs. Bud Duist of Byron Center, who passed away Saturday evening at St. Mary's hospital.

Overloaded School Schedules a Problem For Parents and Students to Solve

Jean K., a sixth grader, had registered for Scouts, signed up for trumpet lessons and joined the staff of the school paper. When her parents said no to a place on the swimming team, she was furious.

She stormed around the house, declaring her hatred for both parents, but the K.'s held their ground. If Jean wanted to swim, she would have to eliminate something else.

The K.'s, of course, were right. Early in the school year, it is important for parents to be on guard against an overloaded schedule. Youngsters have to learn how to make choices and parents must learn when to say no.

An overloaded person never does anything to his own satisfaction. Enthusiasm diminishes for everything and anything because he has no time to look around or catch his breath. The individual whose schedule is overloaded feels driven by midwinter; by spring he is exhausted.

The resulting fatigue—physical, mental, emotional—can cause frequent illness and continual irritability.

Obviously this situation is a greater problem with a popular, aggressive youngster than with a quiet, retiring child.

A good rule to follow is that youngsters below the junior high level should be allowed no more than two-regular activities a week beyond classroom assignments, homework and home chores. Such activities would include music and dancing lessons, Scouts, athletics, etc.

Babysitting may or may not be rated an extra activity. Sitting with an opportunity to do homework can hardly be classed as an extra. If it involves entertaining the children, that is another matter.

Senior high students should have at least two days in the school week that are free of commitments other than normal classroom assignments and home chores. (Saturdays and Sundays should not be counted free times, since week ends usually are crowded with social activities or family plans.)

Extras should be allowed only if they do not crowd out or interfere with basic responsibilities like homework and household duties. And only if they do not cut into the hours of rest.

Parents, of course, can overload the same as children, and with just as dire results. A danger in the early autumn are the easy promises to assume committee duties or similar tasks later on in the season when demands on a parent's time have a way of snowballing at an alarming rate.

Parents must have time for rest and relaxation. In taking on the extra activities of community and social life, they also must make sure that these do not take precedence over the love and attention their children need.

It is a wise—and happy—family in which every member reserves some time each week for doing anything he chooses, or nothing at all.

Ada Area Residents On List of Notaries

The names of four Ada residents who have been appointed or re-appointed as Notaries Public during the past three months have been released by James M. Hare, Secretary of State.

They are Leon E. Alberts of 3315 Parnell Avenue, Robert C. Breed of 9301 E. Fulton Road, Grace C. Symanski of 6128 E. Fulton, and Sydney Ann Bennett of Route 1, Ada.

According to Hare, the number of Notaries Public commissioned is increasing throughout the State each year.

"However," Hare said, "there are many rapidly growing areas of Michigan which do not seem to have as many notaries per thousand population as other areas."

Notaries Public application forms can be obtained from County Clerks, the Governor's office, or from the Secretary of State in Lansing.

State Officials To Attend Area Democrat Halloween Dance, Oct. 31

The Southern Townships Democratic Club is sponsoring a Democratic Dance on Halloween, October 31, 1959, commencing at 9 p. m. at the American Legion Post 179, 2381 West Beltline, Grandville—across from Johnson Park. Music will be by the "Rhythm Stylists" for both Round and Square dancing. A donation of $1.00 is asked for persons attending the dance. Principal Tells Requirements to Put Our School On the Accredited List

In recent issues of the Suburban Life, Mrs. Burkhead has been giving a very excellent survey of some of the aspects of our school. She felt that someone in the professional staff should now write a series of articles on the specific curriculum fields, what is being done in these curriculum areas, what should be done, and what materials, supplies, etc. are needed. This will take a lengthy explanation and we of the staff will attempt to discuss one of these areas each week throughout the ensuing year.

One of the major problems facing us at the present time is the matter of having our high school become an accredited school by an accrediting agency. In Michigan, as we have stated before, this agency is the University of Michigan. To be an accredited school, the University has published a pamphlet entitled "Criterion for Accreditation." This pamphlet outlines the minimum program, supplies, materials and staff necessary for accreditation. Again, I would like to emphasize the word "minimum" as the Bureau of School Services and prepared the criterion concerned themselves only with minimum standards. They in no way grade or rate schools as fair, average, better, etc. Their major concern is that the school shall have three things.

1. An adequate plant of house the student body.
2. A staff licensed to teach.
3. A course program which will prepare students for advanced work.

Accreditation, then for a school is to insure that potential college students are being offered the minimum program for college entrance. At present, the curriculum offerings by our school are more than adequate to insure college acceptance. In fact, every student who will graduate from Forest Hills will have the minimum course requirements for college entrance whether they plan on going or not. Thus, a student who may change his mind sometime in the future will not be denied admission for lack of adequate background.

Inasmuch as the University is concerned with minimum offerings only, and there is no organization or institution in Michigan which works with schools to up-grade the total program, accreditation then means the minimum becomes excellent and excellent becomes minimum and there is no differentiation in the quality of education the boys and girls will receive. At present any argument that one school is better than another or offers a better program is purely a matter of local prejudice and pride unless the school is a member of the North Central. The only institution which has undertaken the program of educational improvement on the local level is the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. This association is a voluntary one and has set a criterion of excellence and any school system that wishes to improve the total school program can obtain the criterion of the North Central Association and upon fulfilling these criterion can apply for membership. If the school is considered worthy, it is accepted and thus its membership places the school in the top thirty percent of all high schools in the country in their educational offerings.

There is no doubt that the Board of Education will have our school approved by the University. However, membership in the North Central is a matter for the District to decide. Obviously, membership in the North Central Association involves more facilities, more materials and a more specialized faculty than the minimum required by the University of Michigan. Thus, to the faculty and the administration of the school, membership in the North Central Association is a goal to be achieved as we feel from our contacts with the boys and girls and patrons that you want excellence rather than just "get by." For the faculty, it is a measure of professional pride to be associated with a high school that is recognized by its membership in the North Central Association as an outstanding school. Consequently, we would be remiss in our responsibility as educators if we did not undertake to inform you people of the steps and procedures necessary to become accepted by the Association. The student body of our school is above average in academic ability, citizenship, actions and general behavior. Thus, we feel it is our total responsibility as citizens of the district to have a better than average school for these boys and girls to prepare them to meet the competition they will face in the immediate labor market or in advanced training schools.

Thus, in summary, accreditation by the University of Michigan means we will be giving our students a minimum education to qualify for entrance to college. No special provision will be provided for anyone not so planning. Membership in the North Central Association, our ultimate goal, would mean all of our students would be trained competently to face competition in the labor market and, or college.

To enable us to understand and work toward membership in the North Central Association, we will discuss the various subject matter fields.

Thusly,

First—The philosophy and objectives to be reached in the field and why these are necessary.

Second—The educational problems involved in striving towards these objectives, and Third—The materials, supplies, etc., needed to insure our program will meet association standards.

We will not discuss the minimum program as we feel the patrons of the district want Forest Hills to be an excellent school and not just average. To be specific, we will discuss the following: reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic and mathematics, social science and histories, languages, practical arts, fine arts, physical and health education, evaluation, guidance and testing, financing to adequately support a good school program. Again, any question or suggestion any patron has will be treated with respect and we hope competently answered.

4-H Family Night November 3

Are you interested in what your children can get out of 4-H?

The 4-H leaders feel that the parents of this community should learn what advantages 4-H has for their children, and so have planned an evening for parents to attend and hear Charles Lange from the 4-H Extension office.

The 4-H Club offers many phases of study of which many parents are not aware. Not only can your child profit in knowledge, but in many different ways. We also feel that our program can be expanded to include more boys in our winter projects.

Any child who has reached the age of 10 by January 1, 1960, is eligible to join. Enrollments will be taken at this meeting.

Meet your key leaders and project leaders on Tuesday, November 3, at 7:30 p. m. at the Cascade School.

We need your ideas and your boys and girls. We want you to know what we have to offer.

Rangers Play Home Game at East Field

The Forest Hills Rangers, suffering from first quarter jitters, will play Ravenna Friday night at East Grand Rapids Memorial field at 7:30. Coach Edward Shy revealed some interesting facts this week about the Ranger football team. In five games the Rangers have allowed 87 points. Of these 61 have been scored in the first quarter; twelve in the second quarter; eight in the third quarter and only six in the last quarter. Of the twenty quarters played thus far the Rangers have held the opponents scoreless in 14 of them.

If score were kept for only the second half, the Rangers would have a three-one loss, one tie record, instead of one win and four losses. In five games the Rangers have allowed only two touchdowns and one safety during the last half. The two touchdowns came in the game against Perry.

Coach Shy attributes these first quarter jitters to three factors;

1. The inexperience and age of the team. There are no well-seasoned seniors to lead the way.
2. Inadequate scouting reports. There is no money in the athletic budget to pay expenses for scouts to travel the long distances to scout this years opponents. All pre-game information has come by telephone conversations with other coaches.
3. Inability to sustain an offensive attack of our own.

Coach Shy had praise this week for his team, for the way they fought back against Portland after being downed 25-0 at the end of the first quarter. Mr. Shy stated that he has seen better teams than ours completely collapsed under similar circumstances.

Coach Lyle Layer of Portland had words of praise also for the Rangers. He said that they were the toughest team he had faced this year during the last three quarters. My boys wanted to roll the score up so they could move into state ratings, but they just couldn't move the ball that last half.

The officials of Forest Hills are very anxious for a large turnout at the Ravenna game. Mr. Shy says that the team needs and deserves your support, and all gate receipts will be used for athletic equipment after expenses are paid.

Rangers Lose to Portland

The Forest Hills Rangers were defeated by the undefeated, unscored, Portland Red Raiders Friday night 25-0. All the scoring took place in the first quarter before the Rangers settled down to hold Portland scoreless the last three quarters.

The inexperienced and younger Rangers were apparently nervous at the onset of the game as Portland completely dominated play in the first quarter. The game was at a stand-still the last three quarters as Portland tried eagerly to roll up a large score so they could move up in the State Class C ratings. However, the Rangers' defense after the first quarter was more than equal to the occasion as they repeatedly held Portland attacks. The Rangers penetrated to the Portland 25-yard line in the second half, but lost the ball on downs.

A large crowd attended the game. The Rangers now have a season record of one win and four losses.

Reserves Lose to Lake Odessa

The Forest Hills Reserves lost Thursday night to Lake Odessa 12-6. The first half was scoreless, but Lake Odessa scored two touchdowns in the second half to lead 12-0 before the Rangers scored late in the last quarter.

The touchdown was scored by Oatman. John Pellerito played an outstanding defensive game for the Rangers. The Reserves record is one win, one tie and three losses.

Good Things Come In Small Packages

It is not uncommon to hear someone say: "These pills are so small that I can't understand how they can be very effective" or "How can these tablets cost so much when they don't look any different from an aspirin?"

Few of us realize how potent our modern drugs are, and how little of a drug is usually needed to produce a significant effect. We all know how little one ounce is, but one gram is only 1/28 of an ounce. Most drug dosages are measured in milligrams or 1/1000 of a gram, and many of the newer compounds are measured in micrograms or millionths of a gram. One of the most dramatic medical experiences is the remarkable response in pernicious anemia to a daily dose of only one microgram of vitamin B-12.

Base your judgment of a drug on the benefits you receive in relief and healing, not on the size of the tablet or its cost.
