Forest Hills Open Basketball Season; To Present Subscription Awards at Game

Progress Report On Forest Hills School Buildings

Due to the rather mild weather we have been having, the progress on the Homemaking building and the Multi-purpose building at the Forest Hills High School site are progressing very nicely.

If the weather will hold off awhile longer, the roofs will be on before cold weather sets in.

Steel is still short and we are still waiting for door frames for the Multi-purpose building.

The roof is on the Orchard View building, and we expect it will be completed by Christmas.

HOW TV REVOLUTIONIZED POLITICS

Nothing compares with television's impact on politics, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D. Mass.) believes. "The searching eye of the television camera scrutinizes the candidates—and the way they are picked," Kennedy explains. "Honesty, compassion, intelligence—the presence or lack of these and other qualities make up what is known as the candidate's image." While this may be based only on a candidate's TV impression, my own conviction is that these images or impressions are likely to be uncannily correct. Thus it is within the power of the viewing public to perceive deception, to shut off gimmickry, to reward honesty. Without your approval, no politician can exist. That is the way it always has been—and should be."

BETTER THAN CUTTING HAIR

Amid the disquieting influences of TV-land, even Perry Como sometimes finds relaxing difficult. "It's murder," Como said. "To survive, you got to be on the move all the time." Perry explained it this way: "We're working a six-day week in this barber shop, and we have all the chairs filled all the time. We work on three scripts at once. I was hoping to cut down a little after a while, but we can't do it. We're already worrying about what we're going to give them next summer." The whole idea seemed to tire TV's relaxed crooner and he slumped into a chair, putting his feet on his rather formidable desk. "But so what?" he said smilingly. "It's better than cutting hair, isn't it?"

TV BRIEFS:

Julie Harris feels television is the most frustrating of the three media in which she's worked: "On TV, only once can a performer have the satisfaction of performing before an audience."

Goodman Ace, former writer for "The Perry Como Show," comments on Como: "Perry is really a fine little gentleman. He wouldn't do an insult joke if you tied him down and tortured him with feathers. And we never tried that."

Money doesn't bring happiness—The man with five million dollars is no happier than the man with four million dollars.

"Aboard The Heather" by Theresa Collins

We found St. Petersburg a delightful place to be. The Yacht Club Dock had space for us, where water and electricity were available. There were showers very handy right at the dock. The harbor is beautiful. The waterfront here is several blocks of parks, with handsome hotels and business places beyond. One couldn't hope to find lovelier surroundings, so we decided to stay for a while.

When Heather was aground at Appalachiola Bay, the water dropped 1 1/2 ft. at low tide. Imagine what showed up—the new coat of paint which had been applied at New Orleans less than two weeks before was all coming off! There was no help for it, we needed another haul out and another repaint job. Skipper found which was the best ship-yard hereabouts, and he made arrangements to have the boat hauled out the next day.

Meantime Kevin and Glen tried a bit of fishing that evening. They caught seven nice fish—pin fish I believe. Next morning they learned that fishermen have further duties than catching fish, and they set to work sealing them. They worked conscientiously for 1 1/2 hours, then got a little help with finishing up and cleaning them. They made an excellent lunch.

The following morning Heather was taken to the shipyard and was hauled out. What a tremendous difference in the quality of the yard here over the one at New Orleans. Fine equipment, fine workmen, and a fine job was done. It was better all around, and cost less!

Now we could settle down to rest and enjoy ourselves. Here was all of Tampa Bay to sail around in when we wished. We could send off and receive mail. The Skipper could finish drawings and get out work with a little more convenience.

We had planned to have Kevin and Glen attend school when we got to a place where we were going to stay for a while. Now we learned that schooling is more than registering. When Erik and David attended school here, we were required to buy a license plate for the car. That was all. Now we would have to pay $50 for each child to enter school. But the real drawback was that the school they would have to attend was 14 blocks away, across the whole downtown area of St. Petersburg. We realized that the twins would not attend that school regardless of how good we were told it was. Then we heard of a private school only five blocks away, looked it over, learned it was an accredited school and now that was settled. The boys took a dim view of having to go to school again. We walked past it, and they just looked glum.

I asked them if they wished to go inside and look it over. They did not! However, Monday morning came, and after first having been resigned to their fate, they were now anticipating school. They were ready early, and eager to be off. We escorted them, they met their teacher and classmates, and were on their own. After school we heard a very happy report about how much they liked the place and how glad they were to be in school again.

We had callers, Glen and Catherine Cashdollar who at one time lived in the house surrounded by pines on top of the hill opposite the Ada school. That was quite a while ago—they've lived several places since—and live here now.

We expect to be here until Christmas. If anything unusual happens, I will write about it. We expect the next few weeks to be very interesting. During the wake the Skipper works at his job, producing "Kevin the Bold." David is very busy repainting Heather Upside, which she really needs. I am busy with the same thing as always, making a home for the family. Weekends are different, we sail. Sunday we sailed almost to Tampa and back. There is a lot of boating here—both sailing and motoring, also fishing from boats. We saw five freighters coming into Tampa (when do they go out?) We will sometime spend a week-end going to Bradenton to visit an old friend who is 89 now. Another time we will visit Anna Maria where we have wintered a number of times. Our trip really is as interesting as we had hoped.

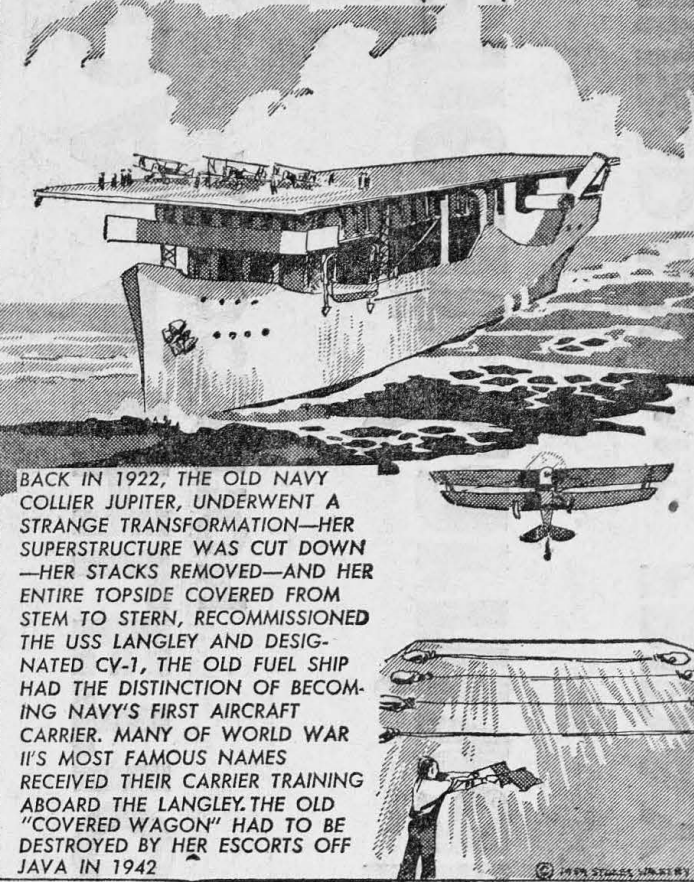

The ancient writers said some smart things, if you have ever taken the time to read what they wrote.

Because an added ounce of weight in a missile requires several extra pounds of fuel, U. S. missile manufacturers constantly try to cram more and more precision instruments into smaller and smaller spaces. Their efforts are being aided by an industry in which very small size with very high precision has become traditional. It's the American watchmaking industry.

Watchmakers, for example, are accustomed to working with measurements that are even finer than the thickness of the sheet of cellophane around a package of cigarettes. (It's one one-thousandth of an inch thick. Many watch parts are accurate to one ten-thousandth or better.

Deer Kill Reported To Be Normal

Early reports from the Conservation Department's district field offices indicate deer kill was generally the same as last year during the opening days of Michigan's regular and special firearm deer seasons.

Hunters harvested approximately 98,600 whitetails during the November 15-30 seasons in 1958.

While snow aided tracking throughout much of the state's deer country, in some areas of the upper peninsula it hampered hunting activity. Snow depths of 28 inches were reported in some part of the Escanaba district.

In some sectors of the upper and northern lower peninsulas, extremely cold weather cut down the hunters' time in the woods. Nevertheless, gun pressure appeared equal to last year or even somewhat greater with an estimated 400,000-plus hunters afield.

Hunters above the Straits recorded light to normal kill. By Tuesday morning, November 17, southbound cars had brought 312 deer and 3 bears across the Mackinac Bridge. The Department's upper peninsula districts reported slightly more hunters in the far east end and about normal numbers in the central area and parts of the west end.

Reports from the Department's various roadside biological checking stations indicated a good crop of available young bucks in the northern lower peninsula. Almost 76 percent of bucks aged at these stations on opening day were one and one-half year-olds. Hunter pressure was par with that of last year except in the Mio district which experienced an increase.

Deer kill was reported normal in two of the three southern lower peninsula districts. Hunters scored better-than-average success in the Jackson district.

State-wide, some 491 arrests were made for hunting violations as compared with about 300 for the same period in 1958. Recovered illegal deer kill totaled 120. Six elk were recovered in the northern lower peninsula.

Science Teaching Must Bring Facts, Understanding and Methods of Thinking

Science is one of our most important words in our language today. One finds no opposition when its importance is discussed. Sputnik and Rockets have focused national attention on this particular field. They represent only a fragment of the organized knowledge that constitutes the science field. Our way of life, our modern conveniences, all are dependent on scientific principles and knowledge.

The job of the science teacher is threefold. One—the teacher must teach facts. Second—he must teach understanding of scientific principles. Third—he must teach the scientific method of thinking to students.

Teaching of facts is the easier of the tasks the teacher faces. The facts can easily be found in books and encyclopedias. Knowing facts does not necessarily develop understanding of principles. No more than enumerating the Ten Commandments makes a Christian person. Teaching understanding is more difficult. Some can be related to natural events, such as—what effect does heat have on ice? The principle is a part of our daily experiences. However, when the student reads that all matter is in motion, he finds it difficult to accept because he cannot see the motion of the molecules. And, if the student does not see, he finds it difficult to believe the scientific concept and appreciate the relationship between the facts. The degree of understanding of scientific principles will vary according to the elementary school and home experience background of the student.

Teaching the student to be scientific and logical in his thinking is the most difficult task of all. It requires consistency in the presentation of facts and enough equipment to demonstrate these relationships. For instance, if we depend on a book to teach about gravity, one might experience this. "If one has twice as much money, he can buy twice as many of the same things. If one drives twice as fast, he will go twice as far in the same time, etc." These are direct cause and effect relationships we live with. But if we say, "When we drop two objects, one twice as high as the other, it will NOT take twice as long to hit the ground. Or, if we drop two objects, one twice as heavy as the other, it does not take twice as long to hit the ground, but the same time." These are scientific phenomena that are not easily seen or understood without experimentation and the collection of scientific data to study.

Also, if a teacher is going to teach a student something about cell structure, he needs to be able to show a cell, have students observe it over a period of time and record data about the cell. Voice and a book are inadequate substitutes for the real observations.

In order to gain the feeling of scientific discovery, a student must undergo the experience of exploration, experimentation, collection of data and applying his results to other situations. Doing this, he becomes trained in logical thinking and scientific procedure.

All of us studied some science in school. Generally, it was nature study in early elementary school, and health education in later elementary and junior high. Then, if we were interested, we took Biology, Chemistry, and Physics. The study of nature in the early elementary schools can become very worthwhile if we extend it beyond the collection of tadpoles, snakes and bird nests. There are now thousands of films and film strips which bring the outdoors into the school room. Time-lapse photography has given us some observations that are priceless in presenting the growing cycles of plants and animals.

In addition to these, each elementary room needs more aquariums, terrariums, etc. We need to introduce principles of electricity, chemistry, and physics earlier. Kits of equipment are on the market which would enable the elementary to teach scientific information and attitudes that were unheard of ten years ago.

It is the study of scientific principles that has slowly brought man out of the caves and is allowing him to ascend to his proper destiny. If we do not furnish our youth with a better education than we had ourselves, they will live in fear of the scientific orientated nations and our country will no longer be the bulwark of freedom we, today, enjoy. We cannot remain complacent.

Last week, the State Legislature passed the Enabling Act which will allow each school district to receive from the Federal Government dollar for dollar to match what each district will spend on scientific equipment, language teaching equipment and mathematics teaching equipment. Our Board of Education is operating on limited funds and we are facing the bleak reality that here in Forest Hills, we may not be able to secure our quota of these moneys because of our lack of finances. This was one of the items the Board was planning when they sought the extra operating funds last year. They were and are looking forward. We need to support them in their efforts to give our children an excellent education.

The major portion of this presentation is the work of Richard Hansen, head of our science teaching staff at the Junior and Senior High School.

November Brings Heartiest Foods For Family Tables

Over the summer and into the winter go food supplies that please the heartiest appetite, says Virginia Helt, M. S. U. Food Marketing Agent for the Grand Rapids area. Very Important Meats are turkeys, pork and broiler-fryer chickens. Some members of the cabbage family, cabbage, Brussels sprouts and broccoli, are among the tastiest vegetables. Canned vegetables in large supply are peas, beans and beets. Apples head the list of today's fresh fruit winners.

This year's crop of light breed turkeys is about 26 percent larger than it was last year. So—although small turkeys usually cost more than large turkeys, this year—it may not be that way. Remember too, that a small turkey is easy to store and one meal can finish all but the bones.

Pork supplies will continue to be large. Lean and well-trimmed is the fashion in pork this season. Think how good a pork roast will taste—with apple stuffing, cranberry glaze or spicy apple sauce! You may put some pork cuts in your freezer—just for the convenience. Otherwise, you may want to use your freezer space for something else, because there will be plenty of pork from now on through the rest of the winter.

Broiler-fryer supplies are not as large as they were this past summer, but folks don't seem to eat broiled chicken often when the weather is cold. That's why broiler-fryer chicken prices are low in many stores.

You'll get 5 servings from a quart of fresh Brussel sprouts or from a 1½-pound bunch of broccoli. You can figure the cost per serving and then compare it with the cost of a serving of the frozen vegetable. Count 3 servings from a frozen 10-ounce package. Figure too—on how many servings you'll need. If you need 6 servings, it may be wiser to buy 2 packages of frozen vegetables than to buy 2 quarts of Brussels sprouts or 2 bunches of broccoli—and then have 4 servings left.

Canned string beans, peas and beets will cost 4 or 5 cents a serving during November. Canned food processors report they are planning "to move" more than usual amounts of these vegetables during November. That's because prices of the canned vegetables are low, when compared to prices of the fresh vegetables.

November is a month for heavy citrus supplies, too. Juice oranges this year are really juicy. A dozen medium size juice oranges make 1½ quarts of juice. That's 12 servings, if you serve it in the usual 4-ounce juice glasses. Cost? Five or 6 cents a serving. Orange juice from frozen orange juice concentrate costs 3 or 4 cents a serving—counting 12 servings from a 12-ounce can.

Now that we've had a taste of it, winter doesn't seem all we thought it was—last summer.

Freedom is indivisible. When any of its facets—economic, political or religious—is weakened, sooner or later the others also will be in jeopardy.

St. Patrick Civics Class Studies Individual Rights

"What is a master state?" and "How is public opinion created?" were two of the many questions answered for the Junior and Senior Civics Class of St. Patrick High School, Parnell, by the educational film, "How To Lose What We Have."

This social study film indicates the importance of individual rights to American citizens and this was the principal theme of the movie. It emphasized the important part each individual citizen must play in preserving these rights.

The cast portrayed an average American family which was stirred to discontent with the present governmental system in the United States, by a speaker who advocated the "Master Plan," which was actually Communism.

After the election, in which the Master Plan was adopted, the family suddenly realized that the promises of the speaker were actually worth nothing since they had given all of their individual rights to the government. Forced to leave their home and move to another city because the government felt they could serve the state better there, the family regretted their hasty decision in helping to adopt the Master Plan.

After the film had been shown, Sister Mary Consilium, R. S. M., teacher, and the students discussed the film and their duties as Citizens.

Cascade Christian Church Leads State in Growth

In a rather extensive ten-year study of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) here in the state of Michigan, it is to be found that the Cascade Church has led all others in the increase of membership. In 1950, the resident membership was 65; in 1959, it was 306—giving us an increase of 241 members. The combined membership of Michigan Christian Churches in 1950 stood at 8,209. This year, the total membership stands at 8,537.

Cascade Church also led the state in Church School enrollment—our enrollment climbing from 84 to 307 in the last ten years. Enrollment was up 223, while in the state as a whole, there was a loss of 127.

Of 49 churches, reporting to the Disciples Year Book, it was found that Cascade stood third in the state in increase of giving for current expenditures during the last ten years. Giving for local expenses rose from $2,366 to $20,049—making a 747 percent increase.

In the ten-year increase of mission giving, our church stood seventh from the top. Our missionary giving increased 343 percent—going from $682 to $3,021.

For sake of comparison, across the state during the past ten years, giving to current expenses increased 109 percent and mission giving, 85 percent.

If you would care for the complete study of our Michigan Churches, compiled by Larry Maines (state secretary), copies are available at the church office. This study was made to give local congregations and the state as a whole some picture as to where we stand as we approach the Decade of Decision (1960-1970) and the new goals and objectives that we are to encounter in the ten year period ahead.

Cranberry Deal Blamed On Farmers Mistake

The Ledger got a note from a former lady who is the wife of a New York chemist working on cranberry tests to check for cancer-causing poison on some cranberries. She reports:

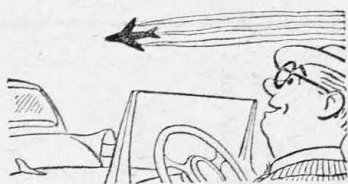

"I just returned from taking my husband to the train. He is working such terrible hours on this cranberry deal. He worked Veterans day, Saturday, Sunday. He leaves the house at 6 and doesn't return till 7:30 p. m. They haven't found a tainted berry here, but they are not slackening their examinations."

"It just shows how a few farmers can lose a year's crop for hundreds of other farmers just because they fail to follow the directions printed on the package. But will the farmers blame the few stupid farmers? No, they will blame the Government for attempting to protect its people."

The government expects to have seals of approval on all cranberries that have been tested.

LAST TWO LANE US-16 WHITNEYVILLE TO CASCADE

A new 8½ mile section of the US-16 expressway in western Michigan was officially opened to traffic recently.

The new stretch of four-lane divided roadway extends from the Kent-Ionia county line west to Whitneyville Road east of Grand Rapids.

With this section now open, only one mile of two-lane pavement remains on the 147-mile long US-16 route from Detroit to Grand Rapids. The last mile of two-lane highway is between Whitneyville Road and Cascade, a suburb of Grand Rapids.

Seek Men For Park, Fire Detection Work

The Michigan Civil Service is presently recruiting men for seasonal employment in state parks and forests. The work offers an opportunity for a summer of outdoor activity next year.

Two types of jobs will be available.

The first group of employees will be responsible for detecting forest fires and organizing facilities in an area for the prevention and suppression of forest fires. For this work, applicants must be not under 18 or over 46 years of age.

The second group of employees work in state parks as rangers who issue camp permits, enforce park rules, and help maintain the grounds and buildings. These parks are located in every section of the state. For these positions applicants must be not under 18 years of age and a high school graduate.

The jobs usually run from May until October and have a salary beginning at $72.20 a week.
