High School Principal Lists Needs of Program to Meet Minimum Standards

If we agreed that every school should have a set of standards for both academic achievement and child behavior, and that it is the responsibility of the staff to maintain these standards, we must also understand that these standards must apply equally to every student regardless of whom he or she may be. We cannot expect the other people's children be held to them if we are not willing to have them apply to our own. To the faculty, there are "No other side of the tracks". All children are important. Each is a unique creature given life by the Creator. Each has a place in our society. Each life is worthy. Favoritism, over-indulgence is not and will not be a part of the program of the school. Thus, if there is general agreement on standards, we, as citizens, then must look toward the extension of our school system, both on the elementary and secondary level. We have discussed what each curricular area contributes and why it is absolutely necessary to an educated person living in America with its world responsibilities.

Now we should look at what we still need for the best program for the youth of our district.

Next year, with the increased enrollment we know is coming, and having a complete high school, the present buildings will be used to capacity. We will be using all rooms full time. The gym will not be large enough to house all physical education activities. Consequently, the lobby will be used as an overflow room. The All Purpose Building will house the music classes

Murphy School Club Meeting

The Murphy School Community Club will hold the last business meeting of the current semester on Friday evening, March 18 at 8 p. m. sharp at the school.

Dean VanLandingham of Forest Hills High School will be the speaker.

We have many issues to discuss, so let's have a large turnout for this last meeting.

Please bring any white elephants you may have for the Penny Carnival, (to be held in April) to this meeting.

Important Children's Choir Rehearsal, Mar. 20

It is important that all children in the Children's Choir of the Cascade Christian church be at rehearsal on Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. as the choir will be singing at the Sunday evening service, March 20.

Mrs. Roy Reynolds, director, is asking that parents make a special effort to get their children to rehearsal.

Dist. Teachers to Attend County Institute, April 1

On Friday, April 1, all schools in the Forest Hills District, as well as all other county schools, will be dismissed in order for the teachers to attend a County Institute at Godwin Heights physical education building, where there will be speeches and discussions on education.

YOUNG PEOPLES MEETING TO HAVE JURY TRIAL

The Young People of the Eastmont Baptist church will meet on Sunday afternoon at 5:45 p. m. at the church for their meeting.

At this time they will have a "famous jury trial."

es and probably one or two other classes a week. (Imagine trying to have a class or study while the band or choir is performing on stage.)

Beginning in 1961—when the present 10 Juniors graduate, they will be replaced by 180 seventh graders. Where the 80 extra students will be placed is anyone's guess. In addition, every family that moves into the district between now and 1961 will add students and further congest the school.

In view of the increased enrollment and the criterion for accreditation, we as parents and patrons face the following inadequate situations.

Here, let me pause and say that the long range plan of your Board of Education has taken in account the growth patterns and the accreditation regulations and the following provisions are contained in Phase Three of the development plan for the High School. Whether the school is completed and accredited is up to the district. Some might say that the foregoing statement is to "scare people into voting for additional construction." Perhaps some people are and will be scared by these remarks. However, these three phases of construction leading toward accreditation were accepted in spirit when the district voted to consolidate and furnish an educational system for the children of the district.

The things remaining to be done are:

1. A classroom addition must be constructed containing specially designed science rooms for Biology and General Science. Conventional classrooms converted into science rooms are unacceptable for accreditation purposes.

2. A library must be built to house approximately 80 students, the book collection must be quadrupled. Using the present shop building for a library (housing about 30 students) will be acceptable for next year 1960-61 ONLY. We must have definite plans for the construction of an adequate library area. This building should be large enough to also house a foreign language instruction laboratory.

3. The gymnasium should be enlarged to adequately house the health and physical education facilities. (We are using the building all day now. Next year, classes will average 60 students per class.)

4. We must think seriously about the addition of a music room. Using the stage of the All Purpose Building is frowned upon by the accreditation officials and unacceptable for membership in the North Central Association. Thus, sometime soon, we must build a special room for the music classes.

5. The Guidance Services must be expanded (we now have none). Next year, we will have two teachers doing guidance part-time.

These are the minimum requirements. They are a part of Phase Three of the Master Plan proposed by the Board of Education and accepted by the patrons when consolidation was accomplished. The phase will be completed only if the people of our district wish them. They are necessary for good education!! They are necessary for accreditation. The Board has prepared the long range plan for the school as charged by the electorate. The Administration has accumulated the statistics for the Board's consideration. Soon, you will be asked whether you want to continue developing a good school system. Only you can decide.

Organize Forest Hills Music Association

A new organization known as the Forest Hills Music Association has just been started. Its purpose is to promote music and singing in our schools.

With the completion of an athletic field, all of us would like to see a marching band participating in these events. One of the first efforts of the Forest Hills Music Association is to raise money for uniforms and urgently needed equipment, such as a sousaphone (a big bass horn to most of us) and other instruments.

Announcement of a Spring Band Concert will be printed in this newspaper soon. Watch for it.

The date of an organizational meeting of this new association will be announced at the concert.

Plan to attend. Bring a friend.

Collins P. T. A. Club to Sponsor Spring Dance

On Saturday, April 23, the Collins P. T. A. are sponsoring a social evening of ballroom dancing at the Multi-Purpose building at the Forest Hills High School.

There will be some exhibition dances given. More details about this dance in the near future.

Organist to Present Recital at Ada Church

On Friday, April 1, Dirk Bakhuizen, organist of Calvin College will present an organ recital at the Ada Community Reformed church at 8 p. m.

It is hoped that everyone will put this date on your calendar and plan to attend this fine concert.

ELEMENTARY TEACHERS TO MEET ON APRIL 11TH

The Elementary teachers of the Forest Hills School System will meet in the Superintendent's office at the Collins School in the afternoon of Monday, April 11th, at which time Dean Van Landingham will discuss the methods of giving the tests in Mental Maturity and Achievement. These tests will be given later in the spring.

EYE EXAM GIVEN 9TH GRADE

The 9th graders in the Forest Hills High School were given an eye examination on Tuesday by the Kent County Health Department.

Chris Chadwick, 5883 Burton, S. E., right, points to a market day setting in Mexico that is part of the study of Mexico and the economy of our neighbor to the south. Marcia Stockwell, 2545 Wendell, wears a sombrero looking at the display of products native to Mexico, such as pottery, art, baskets and shoes, part of the display in Miss May Wright's 5th grade, at Cascade School.

Good Citizenship is everybody's business, comments Miss May Wright, 5th grade teacher. With this in mind the 5th grade here in Cascade school know that learning is Everybody's Business too, and it can be fun, when everyone makes it his business by taking part and cooperating. Of course, this includes, or may include the parents, teachers, school executives and the community. Miss Wright would like to give us an idea as to what her pupils have been doing in preparation for their part in the Educational Program in the Classroom to be presented to the parents Tuesday afternoon, March 22, at 12:45.

Our room is organized into a club called, "The All in One Club," meaning One for All and All for One. We live up to our title! We help each other! For instance if one cannot get his or her work, or doesn't understand somebody always volunteers to help them.

Our conception of Today's Progressive Education is, "Learning in Action." Not one subject known as such, but all phases of learning are involved—even though the lesson may come under one heading or title. The short Summary in Social Studies on Mexico we are about to give over our Make-Believe Radio, involves many different subjects, weeks of learning, ingenuity, creativeness and imagination plus Backbone—Not Wishbone, because it includes hours of study, lots of hard work, but oh, so much fun and so exciting! Miss Wright has planned an Audio-Visual project in Unit teaching.

Study Mexico

The pupils have made paper sombreros, mats and posters depicting life in Mexico. A collection of pottery, art, baskets and shoes are a few of the articles from Mexico which sets the stage for a Play: "Market Day with Juan." The Market Place becomes a joyous occasion where the pupils gather to visit with their neighbors as well as to sell and buy goods. Several students planned this play around the life of an American girl who goes to Mexico. Amidst this colorful market scene, other pupils will be participating in a Spanish Lullaby, a Spanish dance and a Mexican song. It will be a Gala Fiesta.

The teacher and students began this project by visiting places of interest in Grand Rapids. For English, Spelling and Penmanship classes, the pupils have written a letter about their experiences at the Art Gallery and Museum.

Dear Family:

Yesterday our class went on a trip with Miss Wright, our teacher.

First on the list was the Grand Rapids City Art Gallery. On the bus we all sang. Mr. Schurr, our bus driver, said he liked it.

At the Art Gallery, Mrs. Bender, the guide, greeted us at the door. (Continued inside)

"Aboard The Heather" by Theresa Collins

"Dinner Key derives its name from the days of sailboats when people came out to picnic." Anyone can read this on the bronze plaque in front of the City Hall. Dinner Key is a key in name only, as it is part of the mainland now. The harbor is protected by moles, long narrow islands which look like oversized sandbars pretty well overgrown with casuarinas, popularly called Australian pine. On one island, Sand Key, the city has placed picnic tables and benches and outdoor stores. On a nice weekend the beaches will have quite a number of small motor boats pulled up on the beach with picnic parties all over and a few small tents where people are camping out.

Floridians take their outdoors very seriously. Every decent day they possibly can they are out working at their favorite outdoor sport. Being on the water we are more aware of water activities. On week-ends students from the University pile into cars and go down the keys for skin diving, water skiing, etc. But the most popular sport aside from the boating itself is fishing. Fishing boats go out in all kinds of weather. You all know how nuts fishermen are—a little rain or raw cold wind doesn't matter if there are fish to be caught. But if the day is really truly nice the horizon is just thick with fishing boats. Sailing is a far more popular sport here than anywhere else we've been. There is every type of sailboat from the littlest prams through to magnificent queens, but of course the most popular are the inbetween boats big enough to sail in beyond the horizon, yet not beyond the dream of anyone really wanting one.

We are aware of a great number of boats that take off from here for the Bahamas, the West Indies, the Virgin Islands. They ready their boats with the greatest care, work over their gear, make sure everything is in proper shape. Then they provision their boats, putting on supplies that must last for weeks, sometimes months. Suddenly they are gone.

While we have been here at Dinner Key we sail week-ends only as the boys are all in school during the week. We've gone out sailing, then anchored in a protected spot for the night. If the weather is hot and the water is warm enough, we swim. We may put on beach sandals and wade across the shallows of a sandbar, picking up shells, coral, sea urchins and starfish. This is most interesting if you have some kind of notion what you are going to do with your specimens after acquiring them.

Yesterday for the first time we sailed way out into the Gulf Stream. We were tremendously thrilled by the experience. The water was such a marvelous deep blue. But the seas running really thrilled us. There was a 15 m.p.h. wind from the north east blowing right against the current. As any ing upstream kicks up quite a careful observer knows, wind blow-commotion. These seas were magnificent, and Heather rode them beautifully. We were so very proud of our boat. And we enjoyed the sail so much, and did so hate to have to turn around and come back. As soon as we were out of the Stream, the seas went right down, with just the usual small waves slapping around. And the water was green instead of blue.

It gets cold here too. Several times the twins have worn winter coats to school. By the time the sun has been up for a while a lighter coat may be acceptable. Invariable its the wind that is cold. Get out of the wind and in the sun and its lovely. A few days later you reverse the procedure, its warm to hot again and you get out of the sun and in the breeze and its marvelous.

The Old Timer

"After saying our prayers, we ought to do something to make them come true."

5th Grade

She told us we were to put our coats and hats on the rack and suggested we put our boots under our chairs while we listened to a lecture.

The lecture was very interesting. It was about Mexico and Central America. I didn't know that in a certain state in Mexico women and girls wear lace and net veils. It was also interesting to know that in Mexico artists always exaggerate a certain part of the body. In some pictures of children the hands were painted as being very bony or with extremely long necks. They are always painted with very large beautiful brown eyes. How strange were some of the paintings. I have read Mexico is a strange country, so I suppose it is quite usual.

After the lecture we toured the gallery where an International Art Exhibition was being shown. Some of the ceramic pieces were lovely. A clay duck sold for two hundred dollars. Also shown were textiles and enamel work.

Of the few clay sculptures shown, there was one very beautiful piece called "Mother and Child." It was white with the mother lying down holding the baby. The statue was made by an artist in Texas.

After we had seen all the pottery we went back to the lecture room to see some slides on Mexico. They were very interesting and educational too.

Then we went to the East Building of the Grand Rapids Museum to see the circus cats and the Junior Achievement Exhibit. There were four lions, a puma, a black panther, a tiger and two mountain lions. But to our disappointment, the exhibit was closed until four o'clock.

After we had seen the cats we turned the corner to the main building of the museum where we were free to do as we pleased until five minutes to one, so I went to the second floor and looked at the doll collections. I found that they had added some more.

About 12:30 I decided to go into the Pioneer room where I saw some beautiful quilts, needlepoint and embroidery.

As soon as I got out of the Pioneer room, I saw it was nearly fifteen minutes to one o'clock, so I quickly went through the China room and looked at the clocks, also the antique banks.

It was nearly time for Mr. Schurr to come with the bus, so I went down stairs to wait with the others.

When we got back about 1:15 a couple of mothers and two high school girls were waiting to serve us our hot dog lunch.

We were all hungry and tired, but we had had a good time.

Boosters Work to Help School Athletic Department

The Forest Hills Booster's Club was conceived out of necessity. A necessity felt by every parent in the school district of Forest Hills High School. They wanted their children to have every advantage while attending high school. Thus it was imperative that a well rounded athletic program be included in the high school curriculum. Today it is an accepted belief by many noted educators, that sports should be a part of the student's every day life while in high school. And so out of necessity arose the Forest Hills Boosters Club Necessity because funds would not be available to inaugurate any such program.

Ada Public School was chosen as the site for the first meeting of the infant club. The date was, May 24, 1957. As is customary when forming any such organization, a Pres., Vice-Pres. and other necessary officers were elected. To head up such an organization the men present know they would need officers with business acumen, drive, and resourcefulness. The men finally chosen were Bill Thorn, Pres., Dr. Robert Paine, Vice-Pres., Matt Verhil, Sec., Henry Reimessma, Treas. It was on the shoulders of these men and every member there present to accept the responsibility to aid the athletic program for the Forest Hills School. The responsibility certainly was met and accepted.

At the very next meeting June 3, 1957, the Athletic Director Ray Price was authorized to purchase $4,000 worth of equipment. At this time the checkbook of the Booster's Club showed a balance of twelve dollars and forty-five cents. But of course, this operating in the red was soon to become a trademark of the Forest Hills Booster's Club. No sooner would they have one obligation written off, when back into debt they would go.

During the following months the men were kept busy planning and organizing the various projects which would help them fulfill their commitments. Men like Nick Duiven, Fred Sytsma, Si Boomers, Jack Laing, Frank Clark, to name just a few, gave freely of their tireless time and effort. Not all of their fund raising drives were successful but to quit was not a part of their makeup. As of today the football and basketball teams are fully equipped and have been playing a good schedule for the past two years. Next year they will enter into competition with the OK league. It should also be noted that both sports have reserve squads. Now the Booster's have undertaken their largest project. By the Fall of 1960 it is hoped to have a football field completely equipped with lights and bleachers. Thus enabling Forest Hills to have home games on their own field. Home games that can and will be attended by the entire student body and parents.

Today Forest Hills has the nucleus of a well rounded athletic program. A program which someday, it is hoped, can include every boy and girl in high school, no matter what their size or particular abilities may be. What we have at this time, we owe to a small handful of determined men, who thought it necessary for Forest Hills to have an athletic program.

Check-up on Vitamin C You May Need Additional

Many times we have been reminded there's a shortage of vitamin C in many of our diets. How about yours?

Vitamin C cannot be stored in the body for several days says Virginia Helt, Michigan State University Food Marketing Agent for Grand Rapids area. Therefore, it is necessary to replenish vitamin C daily. Citrus fruits are an excellent and economical source of vitamin C.

A half grapefruit, or three-fourths cup of grapefruit juice will supply the daily requirements of vitamin C for most members of your family. One medium orange or 5-ounces of orange juice will also do the trick.

If you find menus short on vitamin C, try sectioned grapefruit or orange salad and add a scoop of cottage cheese for extra goodness at little cost. Citrus is not the only source of vitamin C—good old cabbage has vitamin C to offer too.

DAVID BURKHEAD ON RUSH LIST AT MIAMI UNIVERSITY

David E. Burkhead, 2561 Cascade Springs Drive, is among the 392 students in this year's major rushing period, according to lists published at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio. Burkhead has been pledged to Pi Kappa Epsilon, one of 19 fraternities.

Interfraternity Council, student agency which governs rushing and other fraternity matters, requires a C average and 28 credit points for pledging. With an eye to competition for scholarship rankings, some fraternities place their own requirements higher than this standard.

Since Miami does not authorize first-semester pledging, most of those on the list are second-semester freshmen.
