colorful skeletons in its closet. The Barnburners, for example, were a group of New York Democrats in the 1840's, who were accused of being willing to destroy the party in order to bring about certain reforms. They got their name from the story of a farmer who burned down his barn to free it of rats.

In the early 1800's, a group who wanted to keep Tammany in control sprouted the emblem of a buck's tail in their hats and were labeled the Bucktails.

In 1835 the conservative wing, which faced defeat on a proposal, turned out the lights in Tammany Hall and walked out. The radicals used the new phosphorus friction matches, called "loco-focos," to rekindle the lights and were promptly dubbed Loco-Focos.

Down in Virginia in the 1880's, dissatisfied Democrats and Negroes formed the Readjuster party. Their candidates for governor and the two U. S. Senate seats were elected-and then declared themselves Republicans.

The Republicans, too, have chosen some picturesque labels. About the time of the Readjusters, the GOP was split between the Stalwarts and the Half-Breeds.

Guide Book Available For Superior Road

Huntsmen and sight-seers who intend to drive the newly completed Ontario Highway 17 along Lake Superior's northern shore can obtain a printed report containing complete description of driving conditions from Automobile Club of Michigan offices.

Auto Club travel director Harry N. Rogan and touring manager Jerry E. Fisher recently completed a logging trip along the new highway that affords for the first time a complete circle tour of Lake Superior.

Driving the Ontario highway has been made possible by completing a 165-mile stretch of highway from Agawa Bay to Marathon. The road is still not paved completely but it is passable throughout its 456-mile length from Sault Ste. Marie to Port Arthur, Ont.

Rogan reports, "Many have a false impression about road conditions on Ontario 17. They have assumed that it is paved in its entirety. There are still many stretches of rough gravel.'

In comparing Ontario 17 to US-2 and M-28 in Michigan which parallel the southern Lake Superior shore, Rogan reports, "The Northern Ontario road offers little more of interest than can be found in our Upper Peninsula of Michi-

"The bush country of Canada offers little of scenic value. The beach drive around Batchawana Bay, the Falls of the Montreal River, the lake studded countryside ringed by thick brush or deep forests and the many deep cuts through multi-colored rocks are the main attractions between Sault Ste. Marie and Martathon.

"From Marathon to Nipigon, the views of Lake Superior and its islands from overlooks of mountain proportions is the most scenic section of the route.'

A circle tour of Lake Superior via Duluth, Minn., spans 1,153 miles and may be driven comfortably in four days. Accommodations on the Canadian side are scarce and generally rustic. Gasoline stations are at no point more than 60 miles apart and gas sells for 48 cents regular, 52 cents premium per Imperial gallon. (An Imperial gallon is 1.25 U. S. gal-

LONG LIVE

Of all the upland game birds in America, I think the most beautiful is the lordly, multicolored ring-necked pheasant. Before 1882, there wasn't a pheasant in America. But our hunters had heard of this crafty and tasty oriental bird, and a few were imported from China and Upland game, of course, means quail in the South. By comparison with the pheasant, the gallant Bobwhite seems jet-

Half the fun of hunting quail is watching the dogs at work. They're fascinating!

Other popular upland birds are ruffed grouse, dove, woodcock, snipe and wild turkey. Believe me, they're all great for testing your skill—and filling your skillet!
