Lisa Can Ride Her 'Goldilocks' Again Because of Help From March of Dimes

A magnificent fairyland of a special kind, in which leg aches are still known but not felt so often as before, has just opened for four-year-old Lisa Sliker, of Leicester, N. Y.

"My doctors," the blue-eyed and auburn-haired Lisa tells everyone today, "have made my leg almost all well again. Now I can sit on my horsie, Goldilocks, and I can walk to the barn on my crutches and see my kittens and the pigs."

The new lease on life accorded little Lisa is due in great measure to the treatment she continues to receive each month at the arthritis clinical study center at University of Rochester-Strong Memorial Hospital, established with public contributions to the March of Dimes. Stricken three years ago with baffling rheumatoid arthritis in her right leg, the attractive child wore a cast for many months but now no longer wears it at night—although she goes to sleep hugging "my old leg" like a doll.

Lisa is one of 30,000 youngsters in the United States who are afflicted by rheumatoid arthritis which interferes with bone growth and may cause deformity. In addition to the study center visited by Lisa at Rochester, March of Dimes funds have made possible the opening of additional arthritis study centers in New York City, Dallas and San Francisco.

Mrs. Sliker recounts:

"My husband and I were scared witless when Lisa's stumbling was diagnosed as provoked by rheumatoid arthritis, which somehow sounded like something that might strike your great-grandfather. But not strike down the beautiful, merry and innocent little baby with whom God had blessed us.

"It was a terrifying experience for us to watch Lisa lying motionless in her crib, pain in her eyes and face but holding back the tears. Her right knee was swollen to unbelievable size. But now that she is much better and some day may walk again unassisted by crutches, we pray that, like Lisa, others may be helped by the March of Dimes."

Mrs. Sliker is a volunteer worker in her county during the March of Dimes, collecting funds for The National Foundation's expanded program which includes significant birth defects together with arthritis and continued work in polio.

"My farmer husband helps me call on neighbors during January," Mrs. Sliker adds. "The snows are mountainous at that time of year in our neck of the woods, but we both feel that helping the March of Dimes is the least we can do in return for the help given our Lisa."

LEFTOVERS IN THE FREEZER

When you plan to store leftover cooked foods in the freezer, hurry the process. The sooner these foods are frozen after cooking, the better. Home economists at Michigan State University suggest you do not freeze leftover cooked vegetables since they develop off-flavors very rapidly. It is better to store these in the refrigerator and use them within a day or two.

Women today rank companionship first among reasons for marriage. Second is the chance to have children; third, understanding and emotional support; fourth, love and affection; and fifth, financial benefit. These are the findings of a recent study by University of Michigan investigators.

New York plants produce 92 percent of all the fur coats made in the U. S.

About New Years, Past and Present

The Egyptians were first to develop an "exact" system for measuring time. They developed a calendar about 4,000 B. C. The "beginning," which they estimated according to the Mundane era of Alexander, was set at 5502 B. C.

The Jewish calendar reads 5722, in relation to 1961 A. D. The Jews adopted their calendar in the 15th century.

Use of the notation A. D. was inaugurated by Germany's Charles III, who affixed the symbolism to the years of his reign beginning in 879.

The month of January takes its name from Janus, a two-faced Roman god supposedly possessed of the power to look back over the past and tell what the future held. He was depicted with key in hand, denoting the ability to open all doors and gateways.

Christopher Columbus is generally considered to have been the first white man to celebrate New Year's day in the western hemisphere. Columbus enjoyed a sumptuous meal with two monarchs on the island of Haiti, January 1, 1493, when his ships pulled in for repairs.

In earlier times, the "dipping" custom was believed to offer a glimpse into the future. The head of the family, eyes closed, opened the family Bible and indicated a passage with his finger; the text, solemnly read and interpreted, was supposed to indicate the luck—good or bad—that was in store for them.

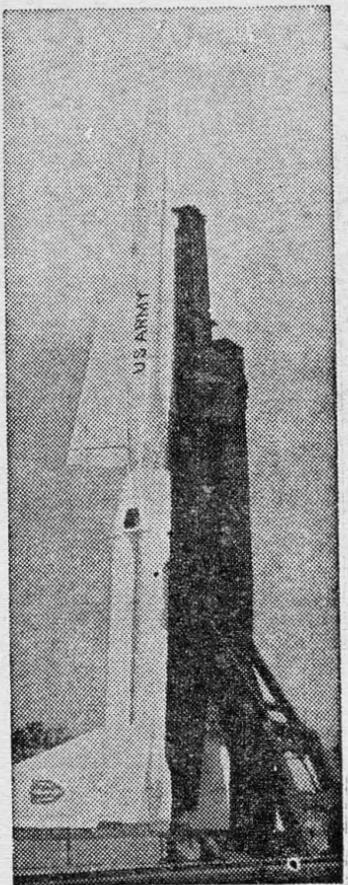

Eight mm. sound film could lead to the same changes that the entrance of 16 mm. prompted in the 1930's. Film costs, projector portability and size would be affected allowing wider usage, he said.

TIME TO REFLECT

In the midst of it all, with once-ornate decorations reduced to floor litter, with toys scattered all about the house, in the tumult and the din of it all, there should be one moment for quiet meditation, for reflection, and for thanksgiving; not for the gifts, nor the well-wishes of the givers; but instead for another Christmas—

Neither hay nor fever is connected with hay fever, but there are about five million sufferers from hay fever in the U. S.

Army

TO DEFEND AMERICA, the NIKE HERCULES, shown here on its launcher, is a supersonic guided missile capable of carrying a nuclear warhead. The HERCULES and its earlier generation, the NIKE AJAX, are both in operational use. What NIKE AJAX can do against a single target, NIKE HERCULES can accomplish against an entire formation of aircraft.

ABOUT HOLLY

Superstitious Britons considered it unlucky to bring holly into the house before Christmas Eve. Even today, the superstition persists that if the leaves of holly brought into a home at Christmas are smooth (rather than rough) the wife will "rule" the household during the following year.

Ann Arbor by-pass is typical of Michigan's modern freeways

Again Michigan leads the Nation! 500 miles of freeways now open to traffic in Michigan!

A record-breaking 500 miles of modern freeways—easier driving and four times as safe as conventional highways—are now in use by millions of Michigan motorists and thousands of vacation travelers. One highway alone—Interstate 94—runs 203 continuous miles from downtown Detroit to St. Joseph. It's the longest stretch of toll-free, limited access highway in the United States!

Today, Michigan holds 1st place in Interstate System construction—up from 35th place just 3 years ago. Since 1957, Michigan's freeway mileage has increased 5 times! You can thank your capable state highway engineers, backed by efficient contractors and crews.

You can be glad, too, that more than 99% of these beautiful new freeways are paved with concrete. Its lower cost and proven performance save tax money. Concrete highways and streets outlast asphalt almost 2 to 1 and cost up to 60% less to maintain. Add greater safety. Concrete gives more skid resistance, wet or dry, and better nighttime visibility.

In front-running Michigan and other progressive states, highway engineers choose concrete to save money and provide motorists with the safest, smoothest-riding, longest-lasting highways.

Did you know that banks take pictures of all the checks they cancel? Did you know that it costs $1,200 a month to rent one proofing machine in the bank accounting department?

These questions and many more were answered for the girls from the advanced shorthand and office practice classes, when they visited the Union Bank and Trust Company Tuesday, December 13th, under the supervision of Miss Wakeman.

The girls left school on a bus at 12:30. The girls were taken first to the third floor and were shown the main points of keeping a customer's account. They were told a little about the bookkeeping progress and machines.

They were then taken to the Waters Building where the accounting department is. In this department they were shown how the electronic bookkeeping machines work, how the checks are proofed, how they are canceled and photographed, how addresses and information is automatically printed on checks and business letters. Being thanked for their cooperation, they left, for the bus.

Go Girls, Go!

At last girls, here is your chance to show the boys how good you are. You too, can play basketball.

Miss Scholten, the girl's gym teacher, has organized a girls basketball team. They practice every Friday night after school.

The first practice was December 2. At this time about 30 girls came to practice. They were split up and put into teams according to class. The biggest problem is getting the senior girls out. There aren't enough for the team.

What Do You Want Out of the Future?

What are the true values of an education? How would you like to be laying brick and doing the carpentry work on the new Forest Hills buildings?

Well if you do then you won't need much of an education. All you'll have to do is learn the trade from a professional brick layer, or take a little more training to go into the carpentry work.

If you expect to get a better job, you have to get at least two years of college, and if you expect to go even higher, you must get four years or more of college.

Anyone driving into our school yard cannot miss the beautiful job done on the front windows. These are the stained glass windows made by the advanced art classes.

On walking into the buildings, one will find many mobiles of beautiful design. These were also made by the art classes.

Not only now at Christmas time, but many times throughout the year our art classes do similar things to beautify our school. Yet, the art department classes receive little recognition in Forest Hills.

Week after week the football, basketball, track and baseball teams are highly praised (or sometimes booed), and the band uniforms are proudly displayed.

True, these things are very important, and we all enjoy seeing our team win, or the band at halftime, but should they overpower everything else in school?

It is felt by many students that the art department is equally important. In Forest Hills are many students with true art ability, and they should all receive full credit.

All students and anyone visiting our school, I'm sure, can see the results of Mr. Lyons teaching and the effort put forth by the students, so why not try and remember if you should see one of these students or Mr. Lyons.

Certainly they will like the praise we give them.

Art Classes Hard at Work on Stained Glass

The advanced Art Class worked hard on stained glass windows for our school decorations. "B" building was the first to receive the festive look.

They used black cardboard taped to the windows then cut out the design and put tissue paper over the cut area.

It's sure adds Christmas beauty to the school. The other art classes are also helping to decorate the school.

Help Us? Please

"Sponsors, sponsors, sponsors, and more sponsors!" This has been the crying plea of the Journalism sponsor drive for the Yearbook.

The Yearbook is being sold to you students for the small amount of $4; but the total cost of the Yearbook is $6. Now you ask how are we paying this extra $2?

In the first place it isn't just an extra $2 but an extra $711! This extra gift of money we are obtaining from the loyal patrons and businesses of Ada, Cascade and Eastmont.

These donators have their names entered on the first page of the Yearbook in ten point type, there is to be no big blocks of advertising.

Parents Please Note

The drive is still on and we are far from reaching our goal. If there are any businesses or other donors who wish to donate and whom we haven't contacted please call OR6-1671 or make out a check to the Forest Hills Journalism Class, in care of Forest Hills High School.

All donations are greatly appreciated.

H. Wygmans D. Schroeder

One of the most popular boys in the school, Hugh Wygmans, was chosen as a Senior of the Week.

As proof of his popularity, Hugh holds many offices this year. He is president of the Student Council, president of the Band, Treasurer of the Science Club, vice-president of C. Y. F., and co-chairman of the Committee for the Junior Class Prom. Last year he was president of the Science club. In addition to these offices, Hugh has a very busy school schedule. His subjects are: Band, Government, Trig., College English, Physics and Science Seminar.

The field Hugh is investigating in the Science Seminar is Embryology. Hugh holds an A-average in all his subjects.

He enjoys all sports, but particularly enjoys hockey and swimming.

Hugh's ambition is to go to the University of Michigan and become a research doctor.

He is the seventeen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh A Wygmans, 1186 Forest Hills Road, Grand Rapids.

Dick Schroeder

This week as "Senior of the Week" is one of the outstanding basketball players in Forest Hills, Dick Schroeder. Mr. Post, the basketball coach, gave a very high opinion of Dick and said that he is not only an exceptionally quick defensive man, but very good all around.

His average for this season is 52 percent, the highest of the team. Mr. Post also mentioned that Dick was last year's captain.

Besides being a top basketball player, Dick is the secretary of the Varsity Club, and a member of Pilgrim Fellowship at East Congregational Church. He is also a very ardent sports fan.

Included in Dick's schedule are Government, Physics, Sociology, College English, Advanced Math, and Advanced Drafting. This full load seems to be a trend with the seniors in Forest Hills.

Next year Dick plans to attend Grand Rapids Junior College. After that he is not sure what he will do, but says that perhaps he'll join the army.

Dick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schroeder, 34 White Hills Avenue.

Work, Work, Work!

"Get to work." These are the bitter words used by Mr. Fletcher in the Journalism class.

Most of the students are working hard to get out the yearbook, the school newspaper and the Suburban Life page.

As if these things are not enough to keep everyone busy, a few people were not doing their share to help.

But now they have gotten to work, Hurray! Now for a successful year.

Conservation Commission Reveals Progress in Michigan's History

The year 1960 added another fast-moving chapter to Michigan's conservation story.

For Michigan's state parks, progress came in the form of a windshield sticker requirement which provide the wherewithal for a $3,000,000 improvement and lands acquisition program. Importance of this sticker-financed program was underscored in 1960. Daily attendance topped 18,000,000, second highest in parks history, and campers set a new record for the ninth straight season as nearly 150,000 camping permits were issued.

From another corner of the conservation scene there was marked progress in restoration plans for the Great Lakes fishery. The first round had ended in a fight to poison out the menacing sea lamprey from Lake Superior streams. Although it may take until 1962 before biologists know how they scored with their chemical treatment, preliminary post treatment surveys indicate they may have won.

Fall spawn-taking operations by the Department threw added thrust behind the lake trout program by producing some 2,776,000 green eggs. All eggs beyond those needed for inland lake plantings will be reared as planting stock for the upper Great Lakes.

Conservation Commission approval of a proposed federal trout hatchery in Jordan River Valley gave the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service a site for stepping up production for the upper Great Lakes. An estimated 2,000,000 lake trout would be produced annually at the million-dollar hatchery.

Headlining conservation news in September was a unanimous State Supreme Court ruling which gave Michigan its first clear-cut decision covering the growing clash of public and private rights over Great Lakes submerged lands.

In ruling the State's trust title to Great Lakes submerges lands and their waters as supreme to riparian rights, the Court reaffirmed Michigan's right to control filling of bottomlands and construction of docks, piers, and other structures in these waters for the public interest.

Forest fire control had its finest hour in Michigan during 1960. Led by a safety-conscious public and timely rains which slashed the number of fires from 726 in 1959 to 504, and a high-geared suppression attack, forest fires losses were held to 2,832 acres, lowest on state records dating from 1871.

The year 1960 told of a strong comeback in Michigan petroleum circles as oil and gas production registered their best annual totals since 1950 and 1948, respectively.

Spearheaded by the Albion-Scripio field of southern Michigan which yielded nearly 1/2 of the state's total output, oil production jumped 50% above 1959 to an estimated 15,650,000 barrels. By the end of December, oil wells were producing at a yearly level of 18,000,000 barrels. Natural gas production rose to almost 19 billion cubic feet, some 20 percent over the year before.

Michigan's new voluntary hunter safety program for youngsters got off to a flying start with upwards of 20,000 students completing the four-hour training course.

Michigan's public lands received another long-ranged boost for multiple use when the Department made its fourth largest state forest planting for a calendar year. Some 15,460,000 young trees were planted on 20,160 acres in the upper and northern lower peninsulas to foster optimum timber production, wildlife populations, and recreational use.

Receipts from state forest timber sales totaled approximately $795,000 during the 1959-60 fiscal year to set a new second high.

Michigan's hunting and fishing season found some 2,100,000 sportsmen taking to the fields, woods and waters.

Competition continued to grow between fishermen and water skiers and the Conservation Commission drafted plans to support a legislative proposal in 1961 aimed at calming the choppy waters.

Michigan's fall firearm deer season failed to live up to its advance billing. Representing the first drop since 1954, kill totaled an estimated 73-88,000 deer, far below the 1959 harvest of 115,000.

Early in December, the Commission announced it felt antlerless kill should be limited to crop damage areas in 1961, unless a mild winter and large spring fawn crop were to again put the herd out of balance with its range.

An all-out effort was waged against hunting violations in northern Michigan by the Department during the deer season as biologists, foresters, park managers, maintenance men, and others doubled the state's regular conservation officer ranks.

Pheasant hunters harvested slightly more than 1,000,000 birds to approximate their 23-year kill

A survey by the Department revealed that wild lands in Michigan's 49 northern-most counties were at an all-time premium for hunters, fishermen, and other outdoor recreationists. A 63-percent increase was noted in fenced wild land acreage above the Straits since the last study was made in 1954. In the northern lower peninsula, there was a 32-percent jump in fenced lands.

Regulation of Michigan's commercial fishing industry became a responsibility of the Conservation Commission in March. The shift in regulatory control from the State Legislature was made to create closer contact between the industry and its governing body. Several changes, including the introduction of trawling in southern Lake Michigan, came to the fore shortly after the Commission assumed its new job.

Department leaders view the new arrangement as particularly important in setting uniform regulations with other Great Lakes states and Ontario. It will also dovetail with efforts toward controlling sea lamprey and rehabilitating lake trout in the Great Lakes.

A gradual and moderate re-alignment of the Department's fisheries program got underway at mid-year. Field management, research, public fishing site acquisition and development, and lake and stream improvement will be upgraded over the next seven fiscal years with a proportionate reduction in the hatchery program.

Wetland investigations are planning, a project pinpointed at preserving Michigan's wetlands for wildlife, was added to the Department's game division program.

The Conservation Department's information programs earned state and national recognition during the year. "Michigan Whitetails," an 80-page review of the state's deer story, and "Michigan Conservation," the Department's weekly television show, received first place awards from the American Association of Conservation Information. Second-place AACI honors for magazine excellence went to "Michigan Conservation." The department also received certificate awards from the National Wildlife Federation and East Michigan Tourist Association honoring its support of their programs.

Conservation education moved a head during the year. Drawing national attention were Menominee, Marquette, and Sault Ste. Marie public schools which gained awards of merit from the AACI for their pilot projects in this field. A record 231 teachers attended the 14th annual conservation scholarship school at Higgins Lake.

Although progress left its indelible mark in 1960, there were signs of lost conservation caused by Michigan's money-troubled Game and Fish Protection Fund.

The conservation officer recruiting program remained tabled, vacated jobs were left unfilled, public fishing sites and game land purchases were all but stopped, and equipment replacements, construction and new services were virtually halted.

Department officials had one of their financial fears confirmed in December when they learned that the Game and Fish Fund would have to absorb a near 250,000 drop in federal aid allotments during the 1960-61 fiscal year. In addition, almost $455,000 was held back from Michigan's wildlife restoration programs because of a so-called "duplication" in the state's certified number of paid hunting license holders for the last two fiscal years.
