F. H. Rangers Open Season This Friday at West Ottawa

The Forest Hills Rangers will open their 1961 grid season this Friday night against West Ottawa of Holland at the Zeeland High School field. West Ottawa, a new school, does not have its playing field ready yet. The game at Zeeland will start at 7:30. This is the first year that West Ottawa will have a Senior Class.

Coach Edward Shy is indefinite on his starting line-up for the opening game, especially in the backfield where he has been doing considerable shuffling to find the best combination. The offensive line appears quite set with either Bob Chambers or Clarence Stiles at left end, Jim Perrin at left tackle, Sy Dykhouse at left guard, Jan Christian at center, Bill Norder at right guard, Dennis Graham at right tackle, and Tim Baker at right end.

In the backfield it will be either Doug Stiles or Spencer Wilcox at quarterback, Larry Wentzloff at left half, Terry Haglund at fullback, and Joe Gillard at right half. If Wilcox gets the call at quarterback, Doug Stiles will definitely start at either left half or fullback. Wilcox is prepared to play either halfback spot, also.

Other bright backfield prospects are Ralph DeWitt, hampered by a leg injury, at fullback; John Pellerito, Bill Coy and Jim Jackson at the halfbacks. Lyle Dykhuizen will be the first string punter.

Allen Lutkus has been looking very good at defensive guard, and Randy Dodde, who reported late because of Naval Reserve duty, is rounding into shape. Coach Shy and his assistants Bob Dangi and Bernard Van Ark have been working the Rangers very hard this week on defense. A recent scrimmage at Zeeland revealed several weaknesses in the defense that must be corrected before regular season play begins. Even though the Rangers outscored Zeeland, Coach Shy was very unhappy with the ragged defensive play of his charges.

Very little is known about the West Ottawa team, except that last year they won only one game. West Ottawa is a member of the Grand Valley League for the first time this year.

RANGER RESERVES TRAVEL TO ROCKFORD SAT. NIGHT

The Forest Hills Rangers reserve team under the guidance of Jerry Dangi will travel to Rockford on Saturday night for their first game beginning at 7:30. Fifty-five candidates reported for the reserve team this year, and Coach Dangi had the unpleasant assignment of cutting 15 boys off the squad because of a lack of equipment.

Of the 55 candidates, 40 of them were freshmen. The entire coaching staff was pleased with the intense interest shown by the large turnout. It is the general consensus that this year's freshman crop is the best in the history of the school.

Coach Dangi reports that there is considerable competition among his 40 man squad for starting positions, and that he won't know until later in the week who will be in the starting lineup.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Athletic Director, Don Ver Duin of Rockford High School announced this week that ticket prices for the Forest Hill-Rockford game Saturday night will be $1.00 for adults, 50c for students, and 25c for children under 12. All tickets will be sold at the gate, and there will be no advanced sale.

Civil Defense Meeting To Hear Guest Speaker

Lyle Dykhuizen, Co-ordinator; Frank Atherton, assistant Co-ordinator; and Sybrant Dykhouse, Fire Chief of Cascade Township Civil Defense, have called a meeting of the Civil Defense to be held in the Cascade Fire Station on September 18 at 8 p. m.

This meeting, which the public is urged to attend, is to be an informational and discussion meeting. Grover Buttrick will be on hand to demonstrate the use of a resuscitator and oxygen. Also you may get your pamphlets on the different plans for constructing fallout shelters and how to equip them.

Peter Price of Thornapple River Drive, prominent Grand Rapids attorney, will discuss atomic fallout. Mr. Price is the only man in the township who has been trained to read the instruments and to tell us about the dangers of fallout. Also he will give the dimensions and price of a ready installed fallout shelter.

Captain Clarence Randle of the Kent County Sheriff's Department will show a timely film entitled "Seconds to Survival". Jack Buys, President of Cascade Fire Department, has promised to serve donuts and coffee after the meeting.

Heretofore the general public has depended on Civil Defense workers to come to the assistance of victims of disasters but with the fast changing of time and the dangers of radio-active fallout, it has become the prime responsibility of each family unit to prepare for their own survival.

Many people in the Cascade area are not aware of the facts but we have a civil defense organization that has been active for some years. Arrangements have been made for mass feeding, mass housing and many other phases of survival by this organization. Come out and ask questions about your civil defense.

Good Roads Are Michigan Asset

Michigan's $2 billion highway construction and modernization program will have a profound impact on the creation of more industrial opportunities in Michigan for the next 25 years. Jobs and industrial growth are the most challenging needs in Michigan today, State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie says.

"This huge investment, to be made during a 10-year period ending in 1967, will provide a solid foundation for future economic growth," Mackie declares.

"Construction of more than 1,000 miles of freeway—all of which will be opened to traffic by early 1963—will play a major role in Michigan's industrial expansion in the years ahead.

"Industry is always looking for sites with good transportation nearby. These freeways will not only help bring new industry to the State but also will help industry already here.

"State Highway Department studies show the 203-mile Interstate 94 Freeway from Detroit to the Benton Harbor area—the nation's longest toll-free Interstate highway—already is saving Michigan industry millions of dollars a year in transportation costs.

"Interstate 94 and the other freeways that will criss-cross the State will have a tremendous impact on Michigan's future economic growth.

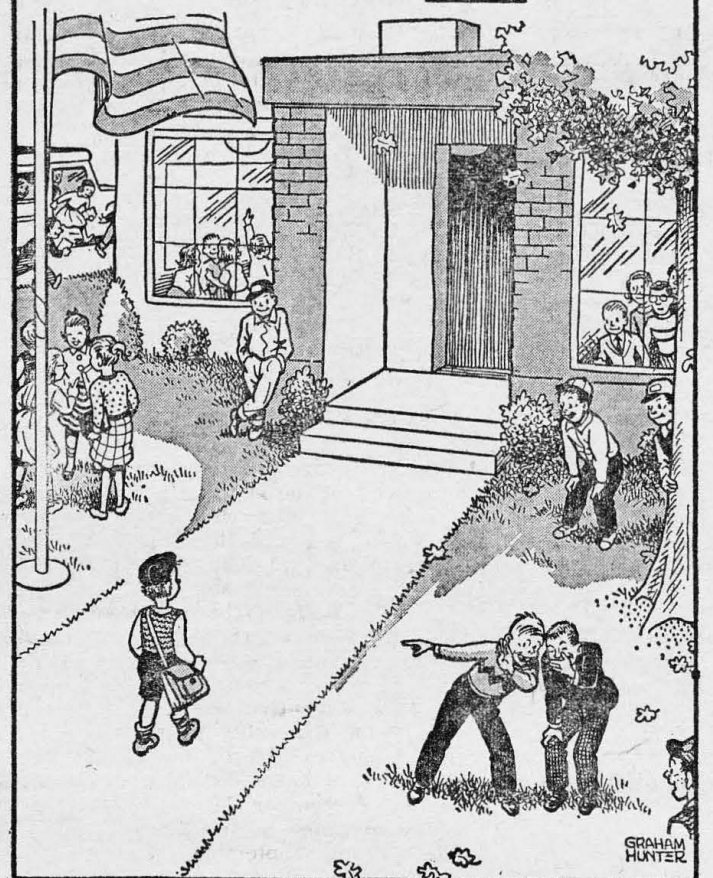

"By the end of the next year, Interstate 96 Freeway will be opened to traffic between Detroit and Muskegon while the Ohio-to-Mackinac Bridge Freeway will be in use, too.

"It is difficult to imagine the total economic and social impact which these new highways will have on our State. Within five years, they will attract over $1 million in new business and industry for every mile of freeway built and will channel economic growth for the next 25 years.

"Michigan is on the move. Our road building program is designed to help the State meet the challenges of the 1960's. New highways will play a major role in opening vast new economic and social frontiers."

Fatalities Increase In School Age Groups

"School has started."
"More children will die."
James M. Hare, Chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, warned Michigan motorists that the accidental death rate for children in the 5 to 9 year group has risen each year for the past three years.

In 1958, 64 children in the 5 to 9 "starting to school" age group were killed in vehicle accidents. In 1959 the figure rose to 70 and then jumped to 73 in 1960.

"Deaths among pre-school age youngsters also increased, from 53 in 1958, to 57 in 1959, and 73 in 1960," Hare said, "and fatalities rose last year in the 10 to 14 age group too."

"I hope all motorists will take extra caution now that schools have opened. Many of the younger children may have un-learned last year's safe walking habits, or are starting to school for the first time in their lives, or may be careless, or afraid, and unpredictable. If we who drive all cooperate and take care, we can help to cut this increasing death rate among children of school age."

Cookie molds—a new idea in decorative wall accessories.

We are now showing a handsome selection of cookie molds, reproduced from the original Erington Collection which is one of the largest and finest collections of hand-carved Marzipan and gingerbread molds. These Fairing Molds, as they are called, have a continental European origin where they were used from 1500 to 1860 by bakers and confectioners to press marzipan and gingerbread into decorative forms. Today, original Fairing Molds are the rarest antique collectors' items, avidly sought as fine examples of decorative wood-ware or "Treenware."

These molds create an unusual, quaint, old style flavor when used as wall accessories. They are available in many sizes and designs and are highly detailed just as the originals. They may be used singly, in pairs or groupings and are available in several wood finishes. Very modestly priced from $3.50 to $20.00. Please feel free to come in and browse.

Forest Hills School News

On Thursday evening, September 14, the Jr. High will have a Parent-Teacher night. All parents and teachers will meet in the All-Purpose building at 7:30 p. m.

The Jr. High School teachers will be introduced; after which the parents will go with their child's morning teacher to his room for a thirty minute period, where plans for the year will be discussed.

They will then move to the afternoon room classes and have another thirty minute discussion period. They will then return to the All-Purpose building for refreshments.

This will give you parents an opportunity at the beginning of the year to meet your child's teachers, and it is hoped that this will bring the parent, teacher and child into a closer relationship.

Every child should be represented by at least one of his parents, and by both if it is at all possible.

PTA Executive Meeting

The PTA Executive board will meet in Room B-3 of the main building at 8 p. m. on Thursday evening, September 14.

Junior Class to See Rings

On Friday, September 14, the Junior Class officers will obtain information on their class rings. The class will sign up the following week to buy their class rings.

Learning to Laugh Part of Growing Up

"Laugh and the world laughs with you"—and that includes your children, says Eleanor Densmore, County Extension Agent in Home Economics.

Children learn as they grow and do as they see their elders do. Even laughter and humor must be taught and the best way is by example. How often a well-timed laugh will reduce tensions. This is an important asset for anyone. A sense of humor can be one of your most priceless possessions.

Beginning with sounds the adult make as they bend over the baby's crib, the child finds fun in noises. Unexpected noises delight him. They love word play when people are tossing interesting sounds about. They are quick to join others who are laughing even without knowing what the laughing is about. They laugh when they accomplish something and just because they feel well and happy.

To encourage your youngster, let him hear songs, stories, and poems which suggest humor and enjoy them yourself. Help him to develop the "light touch." Your understanding can often change an unhappy situation into a happy one. Appreciate his humor at his level. His joke may not seem funny to you, but laugh with him. He has laughed with you when he didn't understand why.

Laugh with your children, not at them, and never confuse sarcasm with humor. They pick up manners from you. They'll pick up humor, too, if you show it to them.

"Could it be possible that the countries we have helped and the countries that are mad at us are on the same list?"

History Comes to Life at Reconstruction Of Ft. Michilimackinac in Mackinaw City

History has come to life at Fort Michilimackinac in Mackinaw City at the top of Michigan's lower peninsula.

Animated life size manikins garbed in the British uniforms of the late 1760's will act out a scene in the interior of the restored King's Storehouse—one of the most prominent structures inside the fort which was originally built by the French about 1715 when they held the Straits of Mackinac country.

The tableau is to be a permanent part of Ft. Michilimackinac rapidly being restored to its original state through the findings of archeologists who have been probing the earth for the remnants of the original fort for the last two years.

The archeological diggings itself has been a major travel attraction but now with the fort nearing completion it has become even more attractive as a sightseeing stop on the itineraries of vacation travelers in Michigan.

An illustrated folder on Fort Michilimackinac, including admission fees and other information is available from: Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing 26.

The scene inside the King's Storehouse will show a soldier lifting barrels of provisions as an officer, a captain in the Royal Blue American regiment checks off the goods. In the far corner of the building a second soldier takes advantage of the officer's concentration and is in the process of turing his head from time to time in order to keep an eye on his superior.

Actually British soldiers garrisoned here drew a gill—one-third of a pint—as their daily rum ration. But, of course, there were those who didn't hesitate to augment this when the opportunity presented itself.

The officer will be wearing a black tricorne hat, a red coat with blue facings, blue pantaloons and brown stockings—the authentic uniform of the Royal American regiment which manned Ft. Michilimackinac until 1772.

The storehouse interior will be filled with materials identified to those shipped by canoe from Montreal for distribution among the troops. It will include blankets, utensils, furnishings, axes, saws, lanterns, gunpowder, shot, muskets and even a few items for the Indian trade. There will also be seeds and planting materials, for the soldiers had to raise their own vegetables on garden tracts allocated to them inside the fort.

The storehouse quartermaster provided such essentials as flour, salt, pork, and beef.

Some of the items on display in the King's Storehouse will be the originals found on this very site when Michigan State University Museum archeologists excavated it in their first digging season of 1959. Some of the hardware in the restored structure also will be original.

The structure itself is log and frame with dovetailed corners. It rests on a stone foundation which is basically the same one unearthed by archeologists and which was left in place as an exhibit last summer.

This restored storehouse is of course that of the British period at Fort Michilimackinac. There was an earlier and smaller French storehouse on the same site.

The King's Storehouse, like the Soldiers' Barracks just to the south, was taken apart and moved to Mackinac Island when the British decided to evacuate Fort Michilimackinac in the face of a threat from American forces in Illinois. Restoration of this particular site thus ties in closely with the Barracks Museum which tells the complete story of the fort from 1715 to 1781.

The storehouse was managed in the 1770's by John Askin, Sr., one of the founders of the Northwest Fur Company, with which the commander, Capt. Patrick Sinclair, was constantly at loggerheads. Eventually Sinclair dismissed Askin for his outside interests, adding more fuel to the fire that flamed into mutiny at Ft. Michilimackinac in 1780.

Shrinkage Still a Grocery Problem

Shrinkage of meats, cheese and certain fruits and vegetables continues to be a problem in some food outlets where packaging does not always assure the consumer receiving the net weight or contents declared on the article.

Progress is being made judging from a summary of improper weight reports in the Michigan Department of Agriculture's foods and standards division which is responsible for all weights and measures work in the state. In 1958 sometimes as much as 30 percent of prepackaged articles weighed were found to be short-weight. Recently a similar survey disclosed 22 per cent short-weight.

In May inspectors assigned to this work weighed 8,949 packages. Nineteen percent were found to be inaccurate and were rejected either to be brought up to the weight declared or marked with the correct contents declaration. During the same month 10 percent of the 6,379 weighing and measuring devices checked by Department men were found to be inaccurate and were rejected for repairs. These devices ranged from vehicle scales to farm milk tanks and gasoline pumps but also included 720 retail counter scales. Department men continually place emphasis on this work.

One major detail food chain in the state that has long been a prepackager of meats, cheese, and fruits and vegetables has largely eliminated the hazard of shrinkage. It has determined the average amount of shrinkage on certain food and makes an allowance for expected shrinkage in marking these items at the time of prepackaging.

Under Michigan law net weight means the weight of an article without container or wrapping and must be the net weight or measure at the time the consumer receives it.

Confidence is that quality which permits an individual to do crossword puzzles with the aid of a fountain pen.
