Ada Athletic Assoc. to Set-up More Recreational Facilities at Meeting

Would you like tennis courts and additional recreation facilities for your children in Ada? If so, your attendance is needed at the annual meeting of the Ada Athletic Association to be held Tuesday, Mar. 6, at 8 p. m. in the Ada Town Hall.

The ice skating and summer recreation at the Ada field have been the results of the work and support of a comparative few, and now, with an enlarged program in view, your interest is vitally needed!

The possibilities of such a program should be of interest to each and every parent of the community. Summer tennis tournaments, badminton, swimming, and supervised play are possible, but can only become a reality by your active interest and participation.

Do you wish such a program for your children? If so, plan now on attending the annual meeting of the Ada Athletic Association on March 6, at 8 p. m. at the Ada Town Hall.

C.Y.F. Group to Present Puppet Show, March 3

Autos Kill 3,436 Deer During the Past Year

Automobiles killed 3,436 deer on Michigan's highways last year, the highest toll on Conservation Department records which date back to 1954.

The previous record of 3,150 was set in 1960.

Last year's increase in reported car-deer accidents carries a big warning for motorists in the southern lower peninsula where a record 1,412 whitetails were killed.

Compared with 1960, the highway deer toll dropped from 1,207 whitetails to 1,113 in the northern lower peninsula. In the upper peninsula, 911 deer met death on the highways, an increase of 151 from the year before.

Charts Show Progress of Convention

A RUNNING ACCOUNT of Constitutional Convention progress is maintained through these charts posted in Constitution Hall, site of Con-Con in Lansing. Claud R. Erickson (R-Lansing) indicates when a certain Section was placed on general orders, when it went to Style and Drafting and date of second reading, to fellow delegates Dr. Walter D. DeVries (R-Grand Rapids), left, and Paul R. Mahinske (D-Detroit).

Special Weekly CON-CON REVIEW

By Dorothy Judd and John Martin
Delegates Michigan Constitutional Convention

One of the better speeches of this Convention was presented this week by President Stephen Nisbet, whose informal remarks won sustained applause from the delegates, press and spectators in Constitution Hall.

Pres. Nisbet said: "I know that I am an optimist and an enthusiast. I believe that I am usually hopeful and confident as to the results of projects in which I find myself participating."

"Today, I must admit, however, that for the last two weeks I had become less certain and somewhat apprehensive as to the result of our Convention. Somehow I had the feeling that we were losing some of our dedication to the high task before us; that we had become a little too personal in our thinking and discussion; that we were failing to keep the high objectives of our work."

"But Friday, as we closed a busy and difficult week, I sensed a new spirit emerging, a more constructive outlook and a willingness to depart from old concepts and go into new imaginations and higher objectives. I hope I was right and I hope you as delegates felt that way, too."

Mr. Nisbet said that three things had happened to him as a delegate since the Convention began: "I knew the problems that needed to be solved. They were the problems of my City of Fremont and my County of Newaygo. . . But I soon learned that other communities had their problems and maybe to a greater degree than mine. We think bigger than we did four months ago."

"Second I would vote for what the people of my district wanted. But today. . . I am not so sure that I can or should serve their interests alone. What was it that made the Madisons and the Hamiltions, the Clays and the Calhouns, the Websters and the Adams, the Jacksons and the Marshalls. It was not that they were serving Virginia or New York, or Kentucky or Carolina, or Massachusetts or Tennessee. It was because they were representing their people not for themselves alone, but to build a better and stronger United States."

"Third, I came to this Convention to write a Constitution that would include material that would be acceptable to our Michigan citizens and on which we could get a favorable vote. Friday, I began to wonder. Maybe, I thought, our duty is to write a document that is best for our people; that we definitely put principles of good government ahead of appeasement; that we put the right above the acceptable; that we put the long range good above the immediate advantages, so that even if the people of our state are not ready to accept this, it will set the standard for future progress. . ."

And then he continued, "We must find the answer of what is best for Michigan, not for the Democrats or the Republicans, not for Fremont or Detroit, not for education, labor, industry or agriculture—but what is best for our nearly eight million Michigan citizens."

Mr. Nisbet asked the delegates and others in the hall to join him in prayer. . . "give us wisdom to see our duty, give us knowledge to perform our tasks; give us confidence to think constructively. . . We have come near to the end of our own strength. From here on we need and ask for Thy guiding hand so that our duty and obligation will be adequately filled for our great State of Michigan."

He concluded his stirring remarks with: "Ladies and Gentlemen of this Constitutional Convention, I urge, as Lincoln said, 'Let us take increased devotion' to this task before us."

"The job can be done and we can do it if we only keep our mind and our effort on our real obligation—the welfare of Michigan and all its citizens."

There is nothing more we can add to Mr. Nisbet's words.

The Otter Slides, Come Snow, Shine

Champion among the country's ski fans is the otter—a muscular animal that keeps right on sliding long after the snow has gone.

Karl F. Lagler, outdoorsman and chairman of The University of Michigan Department of Fisheries, says the short-legged otter tends to drag his body through the snow, leaving a characteristic furrow. But whenever possible, he will run for a short distance and slide.

"Often the otter will indulge in repeated sliding down a bank head first, with the forelegs bent backward out of the way," Lagler explains. "Such slides are common along the snow-covered banks of rapids, but even in the summer the otter will utilize mud and grass for the same purpose."

The fun-loving otter is described on Lagler's "Conservation Report," radio program produced by the University Broadcasting Service (WUOM) and carried around the state.

The otter has a furry tail, a broadly-flattened head with small ears, and short, dense fur which is a rich and glossy dark brown except for silvery gray portions around the throat and mouth.

Otters frequent streams and lakes, Lagler points out, though they often travel some distance overland to reach other water-courses—sometimes wandering 20 to 100 miles in their normal circuits.

"The otter seldom remains in one area for very long except in spring, when the female takes up residence on land to bear her young," the U-M professor explains. "The den is often in a burrow in the bank of a lake or stream with an entrance usually below water level. Occasionally the home may be located under roots of trees, in rock ledges or in hollow logs. There the female will give birth to two or three young early in May."

The otter has valuable fur, but is not plentiful and is infrequently trapped. Found only in the northern two-thirds of Michigan, it likes to forage the shores, obtaining most of its food under water—largely fish, frogs, crayfish, snails, and aquatic insects. In winter he must travel some distance over ice in search of open water, and sometimes will forage under the ice.

Kay Kessler Becomes Bride of Don H. Rink

Saturday evening, the Eastminster Presbyterian church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Kay Kessler and Don H. Rink.

Rev. Edward A. Brigham performed the ceremony. Mrs. Roy Reynolds was the soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kessler of Rockford and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Rink, 6953 Burger Dr. S. E.

For her wedding, the bride chose a white satin princess style gown, designed with lace and pearl trim around the neck and bodice, and was styled with a chapel length train. A white satin and pearl trimmed pillow secured her shoulder length veil of illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses and blue forget-me-nots.

Mrs. Joseph Janicke of Midland, an aunt of the bride, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ronald Wood of Lowell, cousin of the bride, and Miss Darcy Kortz and Miss Sue Jusson of Rockford. Their gowns were turquoise sheath dresses with tunic overskirts. Matching tiaras with pearl trim and bouquets of pink carnations completed their ensembles.

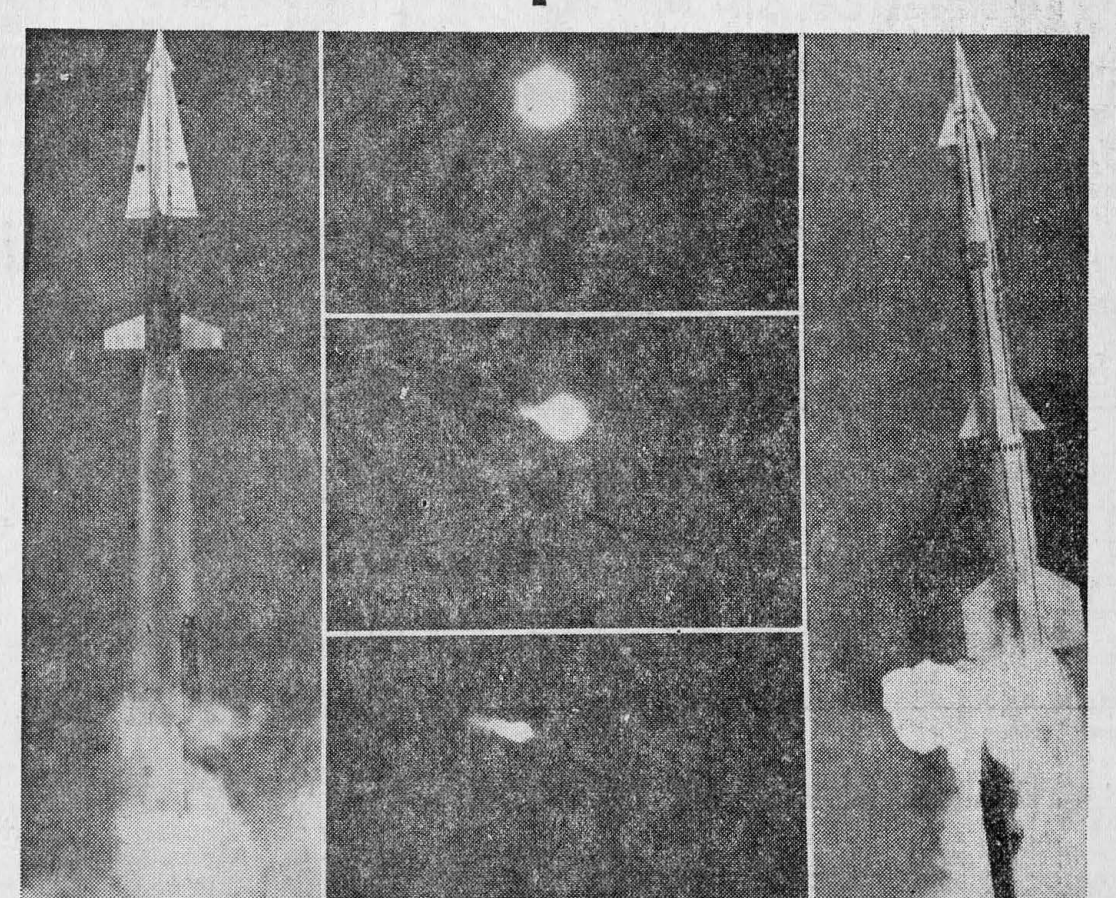

Willard A. Rink, brother of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were Perry Vanderveen, cousin of the bride, Jim Cook, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Jerry VanStee.

At a reception held in the church parlors, Mr. and Mrs. Perry M. Vanderveen were master and mistress of ceremonies. Those assisting at the reception were Miss Barbara Cooper, Miss Elaine Robinson, Miss Sharron Berg and Miss Gloria Tomaszewski.

After a western honeymoon, the couple will live at 2780 Thornapple River Dr. S. E.

-ZEUS Intercepts HERCULES-

UP, UP, UP go American men and women as each succeeding generation gets taller and heavier. And the rate of increase is speeding up, says the Nutrition Research Division of the Department of Agriculture. Statistics taken from many sources show that men born in the late 1920's average a minimum of an inch taller than those born about 1900 who, in turn, are an inch higher than men born in the 1870's. Today's average man, the Department says, is 5 feet 10 inches tall compared with 5 feet 9 in 1925 and 5 feet 8 in 1900. Women are taller, too. Those 17 to 25 years of age average 5 feet 4 1/2 inches, an inch above the girls of the 20's. The average weight of today's fully grown male is 158 pounds, compared with 134 in 1900.

I Can Not Tell A Lie

George Washington is reported to have said as a boy, when asked about a wrong deed: I can not tell a lie, I did it. The point of the story is to show his moral integrity and honesty as a boy, that made him a great man later in life. We might well wish that all our politicians and leaders and even ordinary citizens had this same concern for honesty and integrity. How much lying, falsehood, hypocrisy and sham we find in life today. Soon we become cynical and feel we just can't trust anybody. With Pilate we say: What is truth? If you feel that hopeless cynicism, remember Jesus tells us, His Word is truth. Men may deceive, but God's Word will never deceive. Customs and opinions may change, but the Word of God remains ever true. If you want security and truth on which to build your life, find it in the Bible, God's truth to man.

PASTOR — REV. ROY BOESKOOOL

Fly-Tying Season

Here's a good way for trout fishermen to while away the long wintry nights leading up to Michigan's April 28 opener. Needed in "tooling up" for fly tying are a vise, scissors, hackle pliers, hooks, head cement, thread, colored yarn, brown or grizzly cock neck skin with feathers attached, a little chenille, and a chunk of deer hair. With this, you'll be ready to tie almost any fly needed to catch trout in Michigan. The patterns of flies shown above are perhaps best to start on for they fit in with the season-long scheme of fishing. Some help from a fly-tying buddy may ease the way over a rough spot or two. Come this spring, you'll get an extra thrill of catching those tricky trout with some of your own flies.—Mich. Dept. of Conservation

Rangers Lose Thriller; Play Lee Friday

The Byron Bulldogs won a hard fought, see-saw ball game Friday night at their home gym. The game was highlighted by a sparkling performance from Jim Perrin, a junior center who dumped 16 points for the Rangers. Jim Jackson seconded with 11.

The Rangers commanded many parts of the 2nd, 3rd and 4th quarters with their rebounding and sank consecutive sets of free-throws occurring from fouls in the waning seconds.

The Reserves lost the pre-game. High point man was freshman Jim Jones who chalked up 14 points.

Brenda Bennett Reigns As Queen Over Sno-Ball

The annual Sno-Ball, sponsored by the Senior class was held Saturday, February 17. The Echelons, a local combo, provided the entertainment.

The highlight of the dance was the crowning of the queen, Brenda Bennett and king Doug Stiles. The members of the court were Gerry Paine and Terry Haglund, Chris Heller and Tim Baker.

The door prize, a ski parka, was won by Doug Stiles.

The committee chairmen were as follows: Decorations, Chris Heller and Pat Doyle; Entertainment, Penny Shoemaker and Pat Kennedy; King and Queen, Sharon Thompson and Maribeth Gietzen; Refreshments, Carole Pearson and Pat Liebroer; Clean up, Bruce Kessler and Dan Clemons; Publicity Mary Burkhead and Tom Baines.

Senior Assembly

Mr. Beaver from Grand Rapids talked to the Seniors on Friday, February 16. The subject of his talk was Labor Unions.

The principle idea conveyed was the step by step process of setting up a labor union in a factory. After the speech the students were able to ask questions.

Adult Standards May Confuse Child

The parents of a "bad" child should ask themselves what is back of his behavior, says Marie Hartwig, University of Michigan supervisor in physical education for women.

A parent cannot discipline wisely until he tries to see the situation from the child's point of view—remembering that children do not have the maturity of adults, Miss Hartwig writes in "Children Are Human—Even at Camp" a book co-authored by Mettys Myers (Burgess Publishing Co., Minneapolis, 94 pp. $2.25).

"Children are basically good. When they are otherwise, their behavior often results from their bewilderment at finding themselves forced to measure up to standards set primarily by adults," the authors say.

"Punishment for punishment's sake is of no value. It is no guarantee that the same or another offense will not re-occur at a later date.

"Striking a child in a fit of anger is an unpardonable sin," say the authors. "The parent must be able to divorce his personal feelings from the situation. Too often children receive harsh punishment because the adult's ego has been deflated or the adult considers the offense a deliberate attempt to humiliate him.

"If punishment is necessary, it should follow the offense as soon as possible and be related to the 'crime.' For a child who can reason, the suspense and agony of the 'waiting' oftentimes are more painful than the actual punishment.

"In any case, wise parents or counselors might well follow the recommendation of the old Indian who said, 'Never criticize a human being until you have walked in his moccasins for two weeks.'"

Technical Drawing Students Play Hosts at Assembly

Merry Goebel Sy Dykhouse played host at the Technical drawing assembly held for the Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors on Friday, February 16.

Chris Heller, Chet Grochowski, Ralph DeWitt, Bill Nurnberger, and Tom Baines explained why they took the course. All agreed that Technical drawing taught them to think.

After these speeches questions were asked from the floor. Paul Farnsworth, Chuck DeMink and Dick Sheldon also on the panel, answered questions. Mr. Klaviter, Technical Drawing Instructor, and Mr. VanOeveren, Consular, also answered questions.

Multiplex Marathon

Radio set manufacturers are viewing with guarded optimism the industry's latest market offering—FM multiplex radio. Some radio set and hi-fi kit makers are already marketing and promoting kits for converting to this "stereo-radio"; others are waiting and watching for some sign of consumer acceptance before starting major production.

Biggest drawback at the moment: the limited number of stereo-radio stations in operation (only 56 in the nation, according to one industry spokesman).

Drivers Education Credited With Improvement Of Young Men Drivers

The accident experience of young men drivers, which long has been the worst among all Michigan motorists, is slowly but consistently improving, and there is reason to believe that the trend is a result of the state's high school driver education program.

In the 10 years before driver education was offered to all high school students of the state, in the 1956-57 school year, the accident rate of young men drivers, as a group, increased steadily until it reached twice that of all other drivers. The accident-loss experience of the group, which reflects both the frequency and severity of the accidents, increased to three times that of all other drivers.

In 1957, these increases halted, and since that time the proportion of young driver accidents and losses to those of other drivers have remained unchanged, although the young driver group has been increasing in size.

This is not a dramatic change, and both the accident rate and loss volume of the young driver group continue to be matters of major concern to safety people and insurers.

However, the leveling off of the accident and loss ratios does represent a substantial improvement. Although the young driver part of the driving population is continuing to increase, its proportionate part of the accident and loss pattern has stopped increasing for a long enough period of time to indicate a definite trend.

This represents an important saving in lives, suffering, and cost over what would have been experienced had the increase during the 10 years prior to 1957 continued during the subsequent four years.

It is not possible to trace the change in this trend to any specific cause, but its coincidence with the development of Michigan's pioneering program of universal high school driver education seems significant.

Since 1957, Michigan high schools have provided driver education for some 484,000 students. About half of these have been young men drivers, who, as a group, have a bad experience until about age 25.

Although this is a large number of driver education graduates, it falls far short of a saturation of the 16 to 25 age group of young men drivers in Michigan. Achieving anything close to saturation is a slow process. Many of those who take driver education in Michigan then leave the state to attend college, take employment, or serve
