Ada School Will Hold Open House

Ada School will open its doors on November 12 at 7:30 p. m. to better acquaint parents with their children's teachers and studies. All parents of Ada School children are invited to visit the class rooms to learn more about their child's work and other activities.

We have new teachers this year—Mrs. Koopman of the fourth grade, Mr. Joyce of the fifth grade, and Mr. Black, Principal and sixth grade teacher.

After visiting the rooms, there will be a dessert smorgasbord in the cafeteria, giving everyone a chance to sample those favorite recipes and chat with old friends and new.

Hospitality Chairman, Mrs. Harold Gietzen, and Mother Vice-President, Mrs. Hugh Ward, are in charge of the refreshments for the evening.

The polite man of today is one who offers a lady a seat as he gets off the train.

Construction Fund Is Nearing Goal

Members and friends of Cascade Christian Church are rejoicing over the fact that $53,577.00 has been given or pledged towards its Construction Fund Campaign goal of $55,000.00. The purpose of this drive was to undergird financially the erection of the new church sanctuary and a Sunday School administration unit at the corner of Thornapple River Dr. and Hurley Street.

Present plans call for the beginning of construction in the early spring of 1964. The total cost of the building program, including the purchase of land, will be about $175,000.00.

The leaders in the Construction Fund Campaign are hoping that the 55 thousand goal will soon be met and surpassed. Anyone wishing to participate in the achievement of this goal on the church's part may do so by sending gifts or pledges to the church or Mrs. Edna Osmer, the building and expansion fund treasurer.

The church wishes to express gratitude and appreciation to all who have contributed and pledged to the building program thus far.

P. T. A. To Sponsor Back To Class Nite

On Thursday evening, November 21, 1963, the Forest Hills P.T.A. is sponsoring an informal "Back to Class" night at Forest Hills High School. All parents of students in grade 9 to 12 are cordially invited to participate in a scheduled six class dryrun through their child's daily classes.

In each class period, consisting of ten minutes, the teachers will present their program for the year, and their prospective goals. The parents will be able to ask questions, pertaining to the teachers' respective subject.

The program will give the parent a contrast between the high school education of today and that of their high school days.

This new outlook at high school through the eyes of the parent can be informative in showing the parent what their child's classes consist of and the demands upon the students. The student would then feel that his or her parent would have closer contact between their child and school.

Parents are urged to attend the unique "Back to Class" night. The tardy bell sounds at 7:00 p. m. in the Multi-Purpose Building Thursday night, November 21. Gary Knapp

Veterans Homestead Exemption Equalized

"A new veterans homestead tax exemption form has been designed and shipped to local assessors," Auditor General Billie S. Farnum announced today. The new form incorporates amendments made by the 1963 Legislature, which will initially affect 1964 property taxes. Affidavits may be filed with local assessors beginning December 31. Five forms have been combined into one and a carbon is now available for the taxpayer.

In most cases, the Auditor General stated, the new law means that veterans with property tax exemptions will be paying somewhat more than previously. The chief effect of the amended law is to require assessed value to be state-equalized. If the state-equalized value of the property does not exceed $10,000, exemption may be granted on up to $2,000, also at state-equalized value.

Tax Rates Set For Cascade Township

The 1963 tax roll is being prepared by the Cascade Township Supervisor, Gerrit Baker.

Assessments in Cascade are based on fifty (50) percent of fair cash value. The total taxes spread on a $1,000 assessed valuation varies slightly according to school district.

Forest Hills School district, total county and township school—$26.93 per $1,000 valuation.

Caledonia School district, total county and township school—$24.45 per $1,000 valuation.

Lowell School district, total county and township school—$27.45 per $1,000 valuation.

Snow School district, 7th, total county and township school—$19.84 per $1,000 valuation.

The county tax includes one (1) mill additional tax voted for the new County Building.

All taxes in Cascade Township are being spread with only a small fraction of one (1) percent penalty. Gerrit Baker, Supervisor

Collect $303 For Children's Fund

Cascade Christian Church Youth Council wishes to thank the residents of the Cascade and Eastmont areas for their extreme generosity at Halloween time, in contributing $303.55 to UNICEF (United Nations' Children's Fund). The 1963 goal set by the Youth Council had been two hundred and fifty dollars.

Seventy-three young people and 20 adult drivers volunteered their services to collect this record amount of money locally. Young people, assisting in the collection, came from the following youth organizations:

Christian Pioneers, Chi Rho, Teen Fellowship, C. Y. F., Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers. Several young people from St. Michael's Episcopal Mission assisted as well.

Through UNICEF a little goes a long way. The money collected by these young people will send 151,500 cups of powdered milk, or an equal number of vitamins, to the less fortunate children of the world.

hospital notes

Mrs. John Worfel of Ada is recuperating at Blodgett after undergoing surgery on her thumb last week.

John Richardson of Cascade Road is a patient at Butterworth Hospital.

Robert Ulrich mangled his arm in a corn picker last Saturday and is in Blodgett Hospital.

Behind the strength of some powerful running and fine line play, the Forest Hills Rangers gained a 28-6 verdict over Kentwood Friday in the Dad's Night game at Forest Hills.

The game was played in bitter cold, but there was a surprising lack of fumbles and the hitting was hard and clean. The win gave Forest Hills a three-and-five season and a fifth place finish in the eight-team Ottawa-Kent League.

This was the last Forest Hills appearance for seniors Bob Burkhead, Wayne Blocher, Craig DeMinck, Gary Knapp, and Ted Ray. All turned in fine performances in the team effort. Forest Hills proved to be one of the hottest teams in the league in the stretch, winning three of their last four games.

Boot Out of Danger

The Rangers could not move with the opening series of plays and called on Tom Poll to boot them out of danger. On the second Kentucky play, Ron Dunlap of Forest Hills picked off a halfback pass attempt at his own 45 and moved it up to midfield. From there it took Bif Freeman just five plays to direct his team to paydirt. Knapp took the ball on a brilliant, twisting run for 19 yards and a first down. Bob Burkhead followed with an 11 yard jaunt for another.

On the third play, sophomore fullback Dave Prusak ate up 12 more yards for the third first down of the drive. A dive play was unsuccessful, but Burkhead followed on the next play with a six yard scoring dash. Wayne Blocher banged over tackle for the extra point, and the Rangers led 7-0.

Neither team could generate any further offense in the period, with Forest Hills stifling the shotgun offense of the Falcons, and Kentwood containing the Ranger ground game. The quarter ended Forest Hills 7, Kentwood 0.

Blocher Leads Assault

The Ranger backs ran hard at the beginning of the second period.

Maintain All-A Record At M. S. U.

Two Forest Hills area students at Michigan State University were among 300 who achieved an all-A record during spring and summer terms.

Michael Darooog, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Darooog, 413 Forest Hills Avenue, a sophomore at Michigan State, achieved this rating in electrical engineering. Miss Penelope Shoemaker, a freshman at Michigan State, got an all-A record in social science. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shoemaker, 2192 Jeanlin Drive, S. E.

Names of the students are to be placed on the honor roll, which offers "recognition of the highest attainment in scholarship."

Miss Shoemaker and Mr. Darooog were feted recently at a dinner by Dr. John A. Hannah, president of the university.

with halfback Blocher leading the assault. He picked up two first downs in as many carries, and Forest Hills seemed to be on the move once again. Knapp reeled a 40 yard dash into Kentwood territory, but this was nullified by a clipping penalty and the play was recalled. This penalty seemed to momentarily take starch out of the Rangers, as Freeman fumbled on the next play. Trying to pass from the spread formation, Kentwood found the Green and White defense tough and were forced to kick after three incomplete passes. Running superbly, Knapp hustled 58 yards with the ensuing kick and placed his team in good position on the Falcon 23.

Here the young Kentwood defense stiffened and Freeman could not move the club on four running plays. The ball went over with 2:28 left in the half. Kentwood bogged down as 220 pound tailback Dan Quist could not find the mark on three passes, and was forced to kick.

Taking the ball, Ranger sophomore Freeman likewise tried three "Homerun" passes, but was unsuccessful as the half ended with Forest Hills clinging to a slim 7-0 advantage.

Possession-type Game

The third quarter was all Forest Hills as they displayed a tight possession-type game of football in the bitter cold. Once again it was Burkhead and Hill leading the charge, each picking up a touch-up with an important 19 yard dash in the drive preceding Hill's touchdown.

Midway in the third quarter the snow began to fall, which further emphasized the running attacks of both teams. However, neither team could generate any offense in the rest of the quarter, as the gun sounded in the blinding snow. The score stood Forest Hills 21, Kentwood 0.

Kentwood inserted several young players at the outset of the fourth quarter, and the Falcons responded with a ball control game of their own. Moving steadily upfield Kentwood penetrated to the Ranger 45, but a fumble by quarterback Gary Cook killed the effort. Relief quarterback Jim Jones took over the club with a three-touchdown lead, and promptly hurled a 26 yard aerial to junior end Dave Courtright, who scampered into the endzone for the fourth Ranger TD. Hill again ran the conversion, and the Rangers held a comfortable 28 point edge.

With time running out in the game, Kentwood's Gary Cook moved his team into position for their only score of the game. This came on a 4 yard sneak by the quarterback.

Fine Season In 1964

The game ended with reserves from both sides in the game. Forest Hills coach Ed Shy was pleased with team effort of his club, and expressed enthusiasm for a fine season in 1964.

Basketball moves on to the Forest Hills sports scene, with the first game a contest between the Rangers and Caledonia at Forest Hills on December 4.

Any laggards among the birds? "Yes, the American merganser and American Golden Eye (ducks) go around the latter part of November and some stay in this region all winter."

"Some ducks which have been wounded by hunters remain too. They live by fast-flowing streams where the ice doesn't form completely over and feed on fish and green vegetation," he states.

Chase points out that the pattern of migration isn't necessarily "up and down" but may also be "circular." "It's an interesting thing that so many Hudson Bay snow and blue geese migrate south through Michigan but north through Minnesota, making their flight pattern a circular one. This is probably due to the direction of rivers or wind patterns in the spring," he says.

The symbol of the International Red Cross, which is 100 years old this year, is the flag of Switzerland with colors reversed.

Nature Notes

by Edith Jarvi

Bird feeders come in many styles. They can be elaborate commercial creations or a simple shelf fastened to a window ledge. Any one fairly handy with tools can make one, but it should be sturdy to withstand our winters.

If there are not cats in the neighborhood, the best way to feed seed is to scatter it on the ground or on packed down snow. A large stationary feeder with a cat and squirrel guard about six feet from a window with the back toward the prevailing winds is good and a nice addition to the landscape.

A weather vane feeder which always keeps its back to the wind, provides a place for the birds to eat in the most severe weather. Small hanging feeders filled with a single variety of seed provide extra space for feeding when a large number of birds arrive together. Although a shelf attached to a window brings the birds close any movement inside will disturb the more easily frightened birds.

Sunflower seed is the favorite winter food of many birds, but it is expensive, and cracked corn is a good substitute. Mixed scratch feed is excellent for ground feeding and a necessity if game birds are fed. Mixed wild bird seed is good but the leaving should be removed from the shelf regularly.

All bird feeders should be kept clean, especially in above freezing and wet weather.

When the ground is covered with snow, grit should be provided for the seed eating birds. If a pile of coarse sand is brought inside now it will provide good grit all winter, or a commercial chicken grit can be used. Wild bird feed with grit already in it is not very practical and too expensive.

Willingness to Work Isn't Enough, Says Prof.

Willingness to work isn't enough; the young worker must be capable of doing some specific kind of work, says Norman C. Harris, University of Michigan associate professor of technical education.

"Corporation presidents are frequently quoted as saying, 'Let schools teach young people the basic academic subjects—we'll give them the job training they need.'"

"But the honest fact is that the president of the corporation doesn't do the hiring," says Harris. "Specific skills are called for in the help wanted ads written by the corporation's personnel director."

These ads may request electronic technicians, medical technicians, engineering aides to work with scientists in research, secretaries for engineering and research firms, and draftsmen with knowledge of electronic circuitry.

"Without doubt, the biggest task facing the high school today is to make its curriculum meaningful to students," Harris emphasizes. "For hundreds of thousands of boys and girls, this meaning must be found in subjects and curriculums related to the world of work."

"The problem has been increasing in severity in recent years," he says. "All over America, in response to Sputnik's challenge and the Space Age, high school curriculums have been made academically more rigorous—they've been 'upgraded.'"

"This is a fine thing for the academically able student—we should have accomplished it long ago. But in the upgrading process too many high schools have 'downgraded' or have eliminated entirely, programs for employment-bound youth," Harris says.

"The result is that the typical American high school today is directing its major effort to the needs of about one-third of its students and is performing not much more than a custodial function for most of the rest."

Traveling Time Is Cut In Half

B. G. Brown, Travel Editor of the Grand Rapids Press and former president of the West Michigan Tourist Association, believes Michigan's 1,000-mile freeway system played a major role in Michigan's banner summer tourist season.

Brown wrote recently that Michigan's new freeways "are fulfilling predictions that they would carry more tourists farther and faster than ever before."

Brown said: "When tourists can comfortably travel from Cincinnati to the Straits of Mackinac in a single day with barely a traffic stop along Interstate 75 this is bound to be a major stimulant."

"All of Michigan's freeways are taking travelers to their destinations in half the time formerly consumed."

"It literally has moved many mid-western cities hours closer to Michigan vacation spots."

Why Do Birds Migrate Riddle

Why do birds migrate?

Actually, it's a riddle that has never been solved, says Warren Chase, University of Michigan professor of wildlife management.

"Shorter days in fall as well as autumn storms seems to trigger the movement south in the fall. The short duration of the winter daylight in the north makes it difficult to find a sufficiency of food," he says.

According to Chase, Michigan's greatest migration of water-fowl moves through when we have our worst period of fall weather. "When there is a bad storm in Manitoba, we are likely to get a big migration through Michigan within 24 hours," he says.

Chase points out that Michigan is fortunate in being in both the Mississippi Flyway (North America's main flyway) and the Atlantic Flyway. "The birds use Michigan both coming and going. With four of the Great Lakes and 11,000 smaller lakes, Michigan is a 'natural' in providing necessary food supply and resting areas."

"Millions of ducks and geese will be passing through Michigan in November en route from Canada, headed for the Gulf states and lower Mississippi Valley areas," he says.

Any laggards among the birds? "Yes, the American merganser and American Golden Eye (ducks) go around the latter part of November and some stay in this region all winter."

"Some ducks which have been wounded by hunters remain too. They live by fast-flowing streams where the ice doesn't form completely over and feed on fish and green vegetation," he states.

Chase points out that the pattern of migration isn't necessarily "up and down" but may also be "circular." "It's an interesting thing that so many Hudson Bay snow and blue geese migrate south through Michigan but north through Minnesota, making their flight pattern a circular one. This is probably due to the direction of rivers or wind patterns in the spring," he says.

The symbol of the International Red Cross, which is 100 years old this year, is the flag of Switzerland with colors reversed.

The human race must be getting stronger. A few years ago, it took a strong man to carry 10 bucks worth of groceries home. Now, any six-year-old can do it.

She can shield Pepito from the sun but there's not much else this ragged "little mother" can do for an unhappy brother. For these two, and millions of Latin Americans like them, hunger, disease, inadequate shelter and clothing are a way of life. Little Pepe and his sister are still young enough to hope for something better. You can encourage and comfort them by bringing used, serviceable clothing, shoes and bedding to your nearest Catholic Church during the annual Catholic Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Collection in November. Plan Community Christmas Carol

To demonstrate a spirit of community cooperation and to accentuate the spiritual and traditional aspects of Christmas in our materialistic times you are warmly invited to participate in a community Christmas Carol.

Tentative plans are to sing one hour in Ada, and one hour in Cascade. Would you be interested and could you meet with the directors of the other choirs at a meeting place centrally located? If so, please call these numbers 676-1150, Fred Geary; 676-3245, Ray Moore; and 676-1627, Beth Grochowalski.

Reasons for the meeting would be to pick a director, a time for practice, music, etc. Let's help give Christmas back to Christ. St. Robert's Choir, Ada.

"Affluent Exurbanite" New Type Customer

A new type of consumer, living in small communities clustered around big cities and industrial centers, is becoming increasingly important in the economic picture. You could call him the "affluent exurbanite."

He is in the upper salary brackets, usually commuting to a white-collar job; if his wife works also, their combined income may top $15,000. Much of this is disposable income—and he is more than willing to spend it on products connected to his out-in-the-country, semi-rural home life. If there's water nearby, he wants a boat. If there's good hunting, he wants the best in equipment to enjoy playing Nimrod.

Thus the affluent country-lover has become a major marketing target for manufacturers in a variety of fields. This was pointed out notably at a recent trade exhibition for hardware firms. Typical of scores of products on display was a "you-ride-it" lawnmower with an eight-horsepower motor, named the "Executive." Another company manufactures a similar tractor-like vehicle to which a snowplow can be attached for winter-time plowing of the driveway or road. Price tags for such vehicles run as high as $700. One hidden factor behind the boom: leisure time has increased in recent years to the point where the man who can afford such products also has enough spare time to enjoy them.

Lucky Soldier

A sweet young thing was watching some soldiers drill. A rifle volley rang out. With a scream the lovely young lady shrank back into the arms of a young soldier. "Oh!" she exclaimed, blushing. "I was so frightened by the rifles. Won't you please forgive me?"

"It's all right," the soldier assured her. "Let's go over and watch the artillery."

Over 500 Dogs At Show In Grand Rapids Sunday

Owners of purebred dogs from many parts of the United States and Canada have entered 552 dogs in the Grand Rapids Kennel Club's All-Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trial to be held Sunday, November 10, at the Civic Auditorium here. The day-long event will begin at 9 a. m.

"This will be our largest show," said Irvin M. Werner, Kennel Club president. Part of the proceeds will go to the Santa Claus Girls for the benefit of underprivileged families at Christmas, he added.

This will be an unbench show in which all dogs except winners in various groups and classes will be allowed to leave the grounds after initial judging.

Represented in the competition for conformation judging will be sporting, non-sporting, working, hound, terrier, toy and miscellaneous breeds. Junior showmanship competition for boys and girls 8 to 16 years old will be included in the show. An obedience trial also is scheduled.

All dogs will be purebreds registered with the American Kennel Club. They will compete for conformation or obedience honors with points counted toward championships. Trophies also will be awarded.

Deer-Car Accidents Speeding Upward

This fall, Michigan deer hunters should bring home over 7,000,000 pounds of venison. During the year, motorists will "bag" another 300,000 pounds. Hunters will get a lot of sport and good eating for their efforts, but drivers who hit whitetails are in for nothing but trouble—and danger. Damage to their cars alone will average about $200 per accident. With this year's highway deer kill expected to approach 5,000 animals—some 850 above the record toll of 1962—auto repair bills will total $1 million. As these graphs show, the hazard of deer-car collisions is most serious, and increasingly so, in the southern half of the lower peninsula (Region III) where whitetail numbers are snowballing each year. Since 1954, auto traffic in southern Michigan has risen 27 percent; the number of deer killed by cars has rocketed 316 percent. The Conservation Department expects highway kill to hold pretty steady at about its present level in the upper peninsula (Region I). It looks for a continued increase in these accidents along freeways of the northern lower peninsula (Region II), but not at southern Michigan's "smashing" rate.
