Serving The Forest Hills Area

VOLUME TEN

THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1964

NUMBER TWELVE

At worship services Sunday, May 31, Cascade Christian Church honored four Girl Scouts with the coveted God and Community Award. These young ladies, (left to right: Miss Pam Plank, Miss Cheryl Schalk, Miss Karen Chrisman and Miss Linda Nurnberger) all members of Troop 151, spent a whole year of special study and service to win these awards, under the guidance of Pastor Raymond Gaylord. The Girl Scouts, in winning their badges, gave a total of 322 hours of volunteer service to the Cascade Church—rendering secretarial services and assisting in different Sunday School classes. They also worked in the church garden and earned $135 which was given to different causes about the church. Fifty dollars of this money was spent to purchase a beaded screen for the church camp at Crystal, near Frankfort.

Alcohol, driving 'deadly mixture'

"The mixture of alcohol and driving can be a deadly one." This was the statement of Secretary of State James M. Hare as he released a report of post mortem studies conducted by the Wayne County Medical Examiner's office on highway deaths in Wayne County.

"The report confirms our hunch that many persons who die in auto crashes are 'dead drunk before they become dead,'" Hare said.

Of the 244 cases of drivers studied, Hare said that only 11.1 could be considered as definitely sober. In 133 or 54.5 per cent, there was scientific evidence of drinking. And in 105 or 43.0 per cent of the cases, there was evidence of drunkenness as defined by Michigan law.

Hare said there was a strong relationship between drinking and pedestrian deaths as well.

Showboat music director for '64

Director of music for the 1964 production of Lowell Showboat will be Dan Kovats, member of the faculty of Grand Rapids Junior College. Well known in musical circles in Gr. Rapids, he has been instructor of instrumental music in Junior College for eight years, before that he was at Central High for three years. He is a member of Grand Rapids Symphony orchestra and conductor of the Youth Symphony.

Kovats has scheduled the first chorus rehearsal for Tuesday, June 9, at 7:30 in the Junior High Gym. He has many plans to blend traditional dixieland music with modern popular music in the '64 musical score. The real need is for a well balanced group of voices and every one in the entire area around Lowell is invited to join the Showboat chorus. Any young lady or man who has completed their freshman year of high school are welcome to come to the chorus rehearsals.

Kovats is familiar with Showboat operation, having played the trumpet in last year's Showboat orchestra. Included in his ideas for this year's show is an integral blending of chorus, band and endmen in a single ensemble.

Big blast for Waterfowl

Work by the Conservation Department will literally blast off again this spring to create small nesting and feeding places (lower left) for waterfowl, particularly ducks. Taking a few cues from rock quarry operations, the Department will open up new water areas for these birds by detonating explosive charges in dry marshes or northern Michigan. The charges are made by pouring ammonium nitrate, a common fertilizer, into water-tight plastic bags after it has been treated with fuel oil. A half or full stick of dynamite is placed in each bag; blasting caps and/or explosive-type cords are used to set off charges. Bags are buried at various depths, depending on the soil and the hoped-for size of the pothole. This earth-blasting technique packs an important punch in marshes where complete flooding is impractical, and in areas that cannot be reached by draglines and other heavy equipment.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD WANT AD!

It's always best to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location.

Be clear. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite details. Be sure to include price in ads, whenever possible—it's the consumer's "most wanted" information.

Make it easy for the reader-prospect to reach you. Insert your telephone number and your name and address. If you do not have regular hours give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.

The greatest reader attention can be secured for your advertisement by using consecutive insertions. Order more than one week, you can always stop the ad in the event of immediate results.

All classified advertising appears in both the Lowell Ledger and Suburban Life covering the Lowell, Alto, Cascade, Ada, etc., area; over 4,000 circulation.

Know Your MICHIGAN LAW
by Attorney General FRANK J. KELLY

(This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

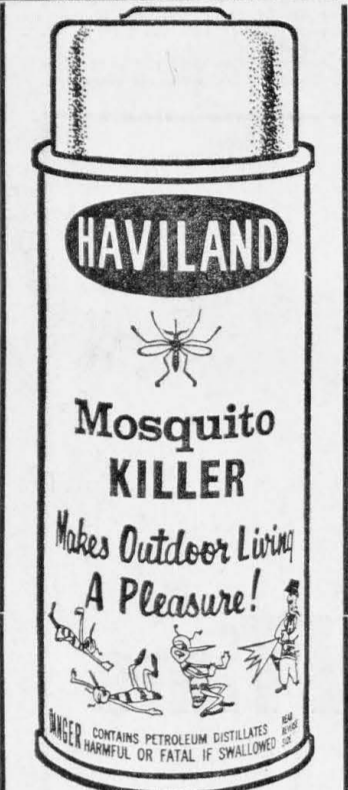

The advent of the supermarket has carried with it a tremendous increase in the sale of prepackaged foods. As a result, the housewife in purchasing the groceries for her family must rely upon the advertising and labels of the seller as to the contents of each item. Unfortunately, what is indicated as being inside a particular package is not always so.

Recently, a businessman, with the idea of giving his family a treat, purchased several frozen turkey dinners at the neighborhood market. The label on the outside showed three large slices of white meat embedded in delicious looking dressing, with gravy, potatoes and a vegetable. After heating this according to the directions on the package and sitting down to what they supposed would be a most enjoyable meal, each one found that instead of a large portion of white meat each package contained one very small thin slice of white meat, a similar slice of dark meat with no dressing, and an extra portion of potatoes.

Fortunately for the public, this particular individual was acquainted with the pure food laws and immediately brought this to the attention of the Foods and Standards Division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture. An immediate investigation was launched and, as a result of a sampling taken throughout the state, 60,000 cases of this particular brand of frozen turkey dinners were confiscated. As a result the processor has since changed his label to conform with the contents and thus truthfully inform the public.

The lesson to be learned is that the buying public need not feel that they have nowhere to turn should they believe that they are not receiving their "money's worth." The Consumers Fraud Division of the Attorney General's Office and the Foods and Standards Division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture are set up specifically for the purpose of protecting the public from frauds and cheats. Do not hesitate to contact them.

Awarded Sherwood Scholarship

The Sherwood Scholarship, established by Mrs. Sherwood and the William Morris Agency, honors the late author and playwright who wrote three Pulitzer Prize-winning dramas ("Idiot's Delight," "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," and "There Shall Be No Night") as well as a Pulitzer-winning biography, "Roosevelt and Hopkins."

The scholarship will enable Mr. Stiff to travel and study in this country, paying attention to some area of U. S. life that interests him.

The $2,000 Pulitzer Traveling Fellowships were established posthumously by Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the Columbia Journalism School and publisher of the New York World and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The fellowships enable outstanding students to travel and study abroad. The 1964 fellowship winners are George Fattman of Natrona Heights, Pa.; Gerald A. Solomon of Bayside, N. Y.; and Lorana O. Sullivan of Elmira, N. Y.

Herbert Kestenbaum of Maplewood, N. J., was named second Pulitzer alternate behind Mr. Stiff as well as first Sherwood alternate. He also was awarded the school's $1,000 Vision Scholarship for travel in Latin America.

The awards were presented by Dean Edward W. Barret at the school's annual Journalism Day luncheon, which was attended by prominent members of the communications media. During the presentation, Fred W. Friendly, president of CBS was given the Columbia Journalism Award for "contributions to public information through television documentaries."

Mr. Stiff, who is 27 years old, began his career in journalism 10 years ago as a "printer's devil" (apprentice) at the Lowell Ledger. While a student at Lowell High School he wrote a weekly "Teen of the Week" column, and during summer vacations from college he joined the Ledger's reporting staff. In 1962 he began writing "Stiff Lip," a column of personal observations on the local scene.

He graduated from Lowell High in 1955 as co-salutatorian of his class. In 1959 he received his A.B. degree from Dartmouth College in Hanover, N. H., and from there he went on to the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kan., where he did graduate work in English while teaching part time as a member of the university's English faculty.

Between 1961 and 1963 he was an instructor in English and Creative Writing at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minnesota. During this time he acted as advisor to the campus literary magazine and the college newspaper.

Last fall he enrolled in Columbia as a scholarship student. During his training he specialized in the field of critical writing ("I've reviewed every grade Z movie in New York!") and wrote his master's thesis on the subject of communications satellites.

"The year here has been pretty hectic—and exciting!" he said last week. "New York, of course, is one of the big news centers in the United States, and the faculty here made sure we were always in the thick of it." Mr. Stiff said that during the year he was assigned to cover such people as President Johnson, Governor Rockefeller and Mayor Robert Wagner as well as events like the World's Fair, U. N. meetings, and the New York reaction to the Kennedy assassination.

"For me, the LBJ assignment was the most interesting," he said. "I didn't have any trouble getting past the police barricades around the Johnson hotel. I had a camera around my neck, and the Secret Servicemen didn't bother to ask me for identification. They were too busy looking for potential snipers hanging out of windows a block and a half away. For all they knew, I could have been another Oswald."

"When LBJ finally came out of his hotel—practically at a dead run—he passed within three feet of me. I was so close to him that I could have stabbed him with a knitting needle if I had wanted to. But I was too busy struggling with my camera at the time—the damn flash wouldn't work. And just fighting my way through the mob of yelling photographers was a full-time occupation in itself. I managed to get my picture, though."

Mr. Stiff, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cary P. Stiff of Ada, has not yet decided how he will use his Sherwood scholarship. "Everything has happened so fast," he said, "that I haven't had a chance yet to sit down to chart out a program."

A study of weekly newspapers like the Lowell Ledger, he added, "might be a possibility." In the meantime he will join the staff of the Denver Post to gain "some much-needed experience" in daily journalism.

Carol Lynn Lock, Curt Lee Ullery wed Thursday

Miss Carol Lynn Lock was given in marriage by her brother, Russell Lock, to Curt Lee Ullery last Thursday evening, May 21. The ceremony took place in Hope Lutheran Church with the Rev. Ralph H. Young officiating. David Steinfort was the soloist.

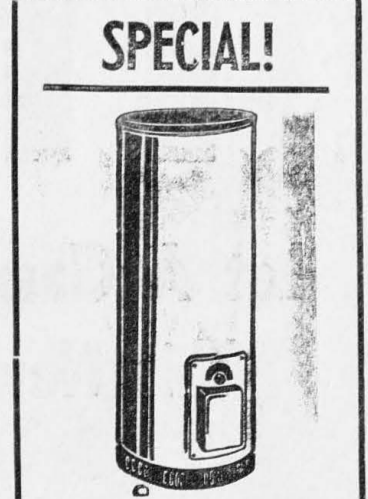

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Pleun Lock of Forest Hills Avenue, S. E., and the late Mr. Lock, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Ullery of Edith Avenue, N. E.

For her wedding, the bride wore a rhinestone-studded all-lace gown styled with a full train. A double crown with small sequins held her veil, and she carried baby carnations and red and white sweetheart roses. The bride's sister, Mrs. Alan Stowall of Dayton, Ohio, was matron of honor. Her long yellow sheath was complemented with a floral arrangement holding her head veil, and she carried a bouquet of aqua carnations.

Miss Maris Crow and Mrs. Charles Ullery, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaids; and Jan VanderWoude, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They wore light blue floor-length gowns and their headpieces were secured with small flowers. Their bouquets were made of yellow carnations.

David Lock, nephew of the bride, carried the rings. Charles Ullery was his brother's best man and Richard Miller, Kenneth Miller, Carl Lock and Robert Lock, brothers of the bride, ushered.

Presiding at the reception in the church parlors were Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanderWoude and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ullery, uncles and aunts of the couple. The couple went on a southern wedding trip.

Pigeons may be health menace

Generally ineffective wars have been waged against pigeons for years, on grounds that they deface buildings and destroy lawns and shrubbery. But now New York City health authorities have laid a more serious charge at their roost: disease carrier. They point to two recent deaths from a type of brain inflammation as directly traceable to pigeons.

"Pigeon proofing" buildings is the best control method, says the U.S. Public Health Service. This technique uses screens and spikes to keep the birds away from roosting areas, and a coating of special slippery varnish on roofs and other surfaces. And, health authorities add, please don't feed the pigeons.

Stephanie Wilson becomes bride of Larry Hawkins

Miss Stephanie Wilson became the bride of Larry Emerson Hawkins Friday evening, May 15, in Bethlehem Lutheran Church, with the Pastor Wesley A. Samuelson performing the ceremony.

Robert Glendenning, soloist, was accompanied by Robert Goldammer, organist. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Wilson, 590 River Street S. E., Ada, and Mr. and Mrs. Emerson W. Hawkins, 495 Greenbrier Drive, Forest Hills.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk organza peau designed with long sleeves which formed graceful points over the hands. The portrait neckline was filled in with hand run alencon lace which was also applied in motifs on the bodice and bouffant skirt, terminating in a detachable chapel-sweep train. The lace was strewn with seed pearls. She wore a princess crown of crystal and pearls which secured her shoulder-length veil of English illusion. She carried a prayer book adorned with a bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Jean Stehuter was the maid of honor with Mrs. Shirley Inman and Miss Alice Farrell as bridesmaids. They wore street-length dresses of Ice Blue Crystallite and matching circle headpieces with veils on their hair and carried long-stemmed white roses.

David Inman assisted as best man, Ushers were William DeGraff and Allan Fletcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Max W. Halstead and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Pare were masters and mistresses of ceremonies at the reception held in the church parlors.

Hostesses were Miss Sue Wilson, Miss Barbara Arkin and Miss Elizabeth Thwaites.

How bad are young drivers?

How good or how bad are young drivers in Michigan?

The answer is given in a new State Police study of their accident record which shows that as a group they suffer badly by comparison with older drivers, according to Commissioner Joseph A. Childs. Last year 59,634 or 13.6 per cent of all drivers involved in accidents in Michigan were under 20 years of age, while another 68,223, or 15.8 per cent, were in the 20-24 year age group. This means that 127,857, or 29.6 per cent—nearly three out of 10—of all drivers involved in accidents during 1963 were under 25 years of age.

In rural accidents, 15.9 per cent of the drivers were under 20 years and 17.7 per cent 20-24 years, a total of 33.2 per cent, or one out of three.

According to an estimate by the National Safety Council drivers under 20 years represented 7.1 per cent of the driving population while those 20-24 accounted for 10.6 per cent.

Childs said that "if we can assume that this same percentage applied to Michigan in 1963, teen-age drivers had almost twice as bad an accident involvement record with relation to the driving population and the total number of accidents, while those 20-24 had nearly one and one-half times as bad a record." The State Police study showed that drivers under 20 years of age violate more frequently than older drivers. The most common violation is that of driving "too fast for conditions" or in excess of established speed limits. The most common type of accident is running off the roadway.

Why do young drivers have worse accident records? Childs gives several reasons.

"More mistakes can be expected during the driving learning process," he said. "Then, it takes some seasoning to acquire the ability to make sound judgment and adjust to changing roadway, traffic and weather conditions." "This also is the age when there is a tendency to rebel against restraints. Young people are more prone to drive too fast. And finally, en route to and from social affairs they frequently become so engrossed in each other that the driver diverts his attention from the job of making certain they reach their destination safely."

Regardless of the record, however, Childs said "it is quite generally agreed that teen-age drivers who have completed approved driver education courses have a much better accident and violation record than those without this training."
