Attends Audubon camp in Connecticut

Mrs. Lucile A. Atherton of 4340 Buttrick Ave., Ada, Michigan completed a one week course in field biology and conservation last Saturday, July 4, at the Audubon Camp of Connecticut in Greenwich.

She was one of 34 special students enrolled at the Connecticut Camp during the past week and one of more than 600 teachers and adult conservation leaders who are taking the famous Audubon nature courses at four such institutions this summer.

The other adult training camps conducted by the National Audubon Society, all staffed by outstanding naturalist-instructors, are at Medomak, Maine; Sarona, Wisconsin; and Dubois, Wyoming.

Director of the Connecticut Camp is Duryea Morton, naturalist educator and author who serves full-time as administrative head of the Audubon Center of Greenwich in Greenwich, Connecticut.

Mrs. Atherton's studies this summer included birds, plants, insects and pond life. Special emphasis was given to providing techniques for teaching natural history and conservation to children.

Newer models predominate traffic flow

Contrary to some popular belief, old cars are not those chiefly involved in fatal traffic accidents in Michigan, according to the results of a State Police study reported by Capt. Don Oates, commanding officer of the Safety and Traffic Bureau.

"Old cars by repute have been something of a scapegoat in the fatal accident picture, but the study shows their bad reputation has been falsely earned," he said. "One reason, of course, is that the older cars tend to disappear from the roads and the newer models predominate in the traffic flow."

The study was made for the year 1963, with the models for each year being checked, a total of 2,123 cars being involved in the 1,637 fatal accidents. The results were somewhat surprising.

The trend of involvement of older models generally showed a gradual decline after the 1962 models with the exception of the 1960 and 1955 models when there was a high volume of production. Passenger car sales were 21 per cent and 19 per cent higher in 1960 as compared to 1961 and 1959 respectively, and 37 per cent and 43 per cent higher in 1955 than in 1956 and 1954 respectively.

Because of the comparatively small volume of sales of 1964 models in the latter months of 1963, the study showed that only 17 of these models or 8 per cent, were involved in fatal accidents. But the 1963 models involved jumped to 311, or 14.7 per cent of the total of all cars, and the figure was again the same for 1962 models.

Fly at Showboat

Art McClure of Caledonia will give the Showboat pre-show crowds a thrill when he flies in his kite behind a boat around the river course in Lowell. This is the first time a kite with a man in it has been tried on the narrow, winding Showboat course that has additional hazards like high tension wires and telephone poles to miss.

Wendell Christoff, head of the Aquanauts Ski Club, said this was the most dangerous fete ever attempted at any Showboat performance. The ski show will be presented nightly from 7:30 to 8:30.

John Kleinheksel of 5350 McCords Avenue, Alto, is a surgical patient at Butterworth Hospital.

Boyd Anderson of 1701 Honey Creek, Ada, is a surgical patient in Butterworth Hospital.

Earl Bentley of 4475 Quiggle Avenue, Ada, is a patient at Blodgett Hospital.

June VanStrien, Joe Lee Strouse wed Saturday

Rev. Donald Farrell performed the wedding ceremony last Saturday in St. Robert's Church of Ada for Miss June Rose VanStrien and Joe Lee Strouse.

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William VanStrien of Ada, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Strouse of Lowell.

The bride chose for her wedding a street-length gown of white silk peau over taffeta fashioned with a scoop neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, a cummerbund effect bodice and full skirt. Appliques of lace and pearls trimmed the front of the bodice and traced a pattern to the hem. A crown of pearls and rhinestones secured the shoulder-length veil, and she carried a cascade of miniature white carnations and red roses.

Maid of honor was Miss Cheryl VanStrien, sister of the bride. She wore a pale pink gown fashioned after the bride's with a matching shoulder-length veil and carried a basket of pink and white daisies.

Michael Organek of Lowell assisted the best man, and David VanStrien of Pontiac and Richard Hickok served as ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Strouse of Lowell presided at the reception which was held at S. S. Peter and Paul's Hall, Hamilton Avenue, N. W.

The average driver is involved in most accidents. It isn't always the fool or daredevil who makes the error. The everyday driver, driving too fast and taking one chance too many is often the culprit.

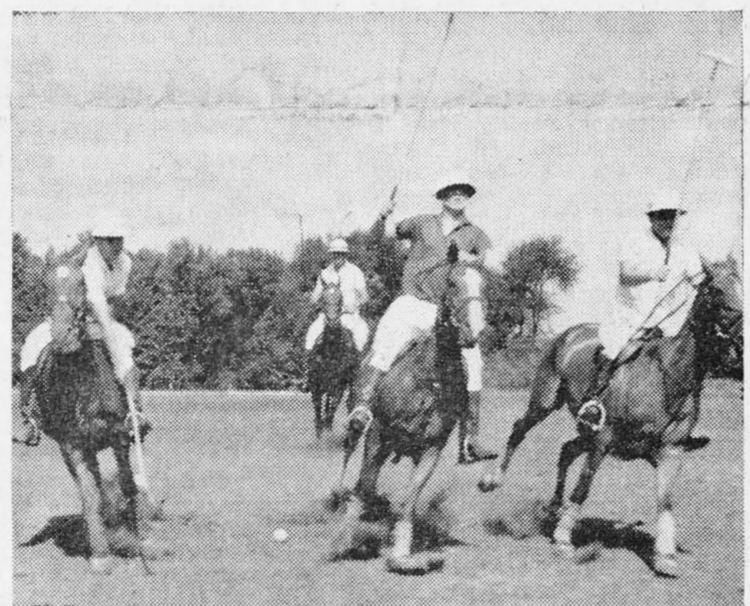

Lowell Showboat continues every night this week.

Thursday 'coffee' honors former area resident

Mrs. Robert Paine, Mrs. W. Afton, Mrs. Ted Walma and Mrs. Lester DeKoster were the guests of Mrs. Fred Carr and Mrs. Marshall Belding last week Thursday at a "coffee" at Mrs. Belding's home on Orange St. in honor of Mrs. Fred Burger.

The Burger family are former residents of Cascade and have been living the past few years in Pametto, Florida. They are presently visiting in this area and plan to remain until the fall months.

Polo gaining interest in this area

Forest Hills area men are well represented on teams playing at Kentree Polo Club, the matches every Sunday afternoon offer thrills for the many spectators. Pictured here are Larry Allaben of Grand Rapids; Berkley Freeman, Bill Crawford and Bob Bond, all of Ada.

Unlike Gaul, Kentree Polo Club is divided into four parts. The membership consists of four teams, all part of Kentree and all members of the U. S. Polo Association.

At the present, they are engaged in vying for the Ernest Nelson Memorial Trophy. This is an annual event consisting of six games participating in a round-robin tournament among four teams.

The Thornapple Tigers: Bob Bond, Ada; Gene Gilmore, East Grand Rapids; Craig MacIntyre, Grand Rapids Townships; and Larry Allaben, East Grand Rapids.

Ada Hurricanes: Bill Seidman, Ada; Tom Crawford, jr., Ada; Bill Crawford, Ada; and Phil Fox, Kalamazoo.

Cherry Valley Ramblers: Berkley Freeman, Ada; Maury Houseman, East Grand Rapids; Dale Hill, Ada; and Bud Vasu, East Grand Rapids.

Crete Polo Club, Illinois: Tom Biddle, George Biddle, father and son of Crete, Illinois; Dave Roemisch, Lake Forest, Illinois; and Stan Townsend, Clarksville, Michigan.

Four games have been played in the tournament, and the standings are as follows:

Crete Polo Club	2	0
Thornapple Tigers	2	0
Ada Hurricanes	0	2
Cherry Valley	0	2

Remaining games to be played are Ada Hurricanes vs. Cherry Valley Ramblers and Crete, Ill. vs. Thornapple Tigers.

around the field and the game can be watched from the car. Last Sunday was a thrilling spill-packed tournament game between The Cherry Valley Ramblers and The Ada Hurricanes.

The Cherry Valley Ramblers, due to a back injury to one of their key players, Berkley Freeman, called in Rich Gibson of Birmingham, Michigan, to fill in. Rich is one of the outstanding players in the middle west. The game was fought to the bitter end. The Thornapple Tigers won 6-5 before a good crowd who were on their feet cheering most of the time.

In mid-game, Larry Allaben's horse fell and rolled on him, but neither was injured. With one minute to go in the fourth and final chukker, Rich Gibson was thrown from his horse at the mouth of the Ramblers' goal. Stunned and dazed for about 15 minutes he was attended by Dr. Vasu, who felt Rich had sustained a possible fractured rib. The doctor advised Gibson against resuming play. There was one minute of playing time left and Gibson insisted on remaining and playing until the end of the game.

There will be several out-of-town appearances at Kentree including Cleveland, Oakbrook, Ill., Culver Military Academy, Gurnee, Ill. and Milwaukee. Schedules will be announced later.

Kentree Farms was founded by Bob and Virginia Bond. Since then, well over a thousand students in both polo and horsemanship have passed through its portals, many going on to win medals and ribbons in the country's leading horse shows.

Wins trip to World's Fair

Corne Heemstra of the Ada Plumbing and Heating Company 587 Ada Drive, Ada, has received a free round trip plane ticket plus all expenses paid to the World's Fair in New York.

The prize was presented to Mr. Heemstra from the Iron Fireman Fire Company, for being one of the leaders in sales of the company's furnaces and boilers.

Nuclear plants add to Michigan tourist interest

The explosion that rocked a remote western desert air base on July 16, 1945, has been tamed at two locations along the popular recreational beaches of Michigan's Great Lakes.

The test blast of the first atomic bomb demonstrated the potential energy which is now being harnessed and carefully guided into areas contributing to the progress of modern civilization.

Aiding in the task of harnessing atoms for useful purposes are the waters of Lakes Michigan and Erie which pour into the condensers at Big Rock Point near Charlevoix and the Enrico Fermi plant near Monroe.

These are the nuclear research and development laboratories of Consumers Power Co. at Charlevoix and the Detroit Edison Company at Monroe. Here, scientists and others in the atomic energy field maintain a proving grounds for equipment which one day may light the homes of millions of Americans.

Energy produced at Charlevoix already is channeled intermittently into the electricity-producing system of Consumers Power. In the testing process, different fuel loads are tried in an attempt to discover the most practical means of producing nuclear power.

The Detroit Edison plant is conducting similar experiments and has maintained a development program from its inception in 1956. The Charlevoix plant started operations in 1962.

Although both nuclear plants share the same ultimate goal of producing electricity, each use a different type method.

The Fermi plant operates a fast breeder reactor—one that actually produces more and a different type of nuclear material than it consumes in the process, thus building new supplies of energy fuel rather than depleting it. Heat from the creation of the new material can then be used in the generation of power.

The Big Rock plant utilizes a boiling water, high-power density reactor. In addition to producing power, researchers are also attempting to extend the life of nuclear fuel beyond its present capacity. At this installation on the Lake Michigan shores, enriched uranium produces heat which in turn operates the water condensers to produce steam.

A by-product of both nuclear plants is their attraction to tourists and other vacationers. A visitor information center at Big Rock Point includes a small seminar auditorium used for explanatory talks to groups. Visitors may watch the actual work in the plant through closed-circuit television.

At the press of a button, mysteries of the atom are explained, and viewers may look at a cutaway scale model of the plant, accompanied by a recorded narrative.

The Enrico Fermi plant offers an Atomic Information Center where visitors are also initiated into the ways of the industrial atom.

In addition to vacationers, both plants cater to teachers and students as an aid to curriculum studies and to create more interest and awareness in the nuclear sciences.

Tours through the Enrico Fermi Atomic Information Center are conducted Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m. Advance arrangements for visits by large groups may be made by contacting the Detroit Edison Company, 2000 Second Avenue, Detroit, Michigan.

Explorer Olympics at Grand Haven

On July 18 five explorers and two leaders from Explorer Post 2334, Cascade, participated in the first Explorer Olympics held at Grand Haven High School.

Explorers from all over Western Michigan participated. Activities started at 9 a. m. and ended with a chicken barbecue and award presentations at 6:30 p. m.

There were three categories in which the boys participated—swimming, side stroke, back stroke, breast stroke, and free style. Track events, 100-yard dash, shot put, broad jump, high jump, skill events, bowling, marksmanship, and archery.

Don Taylor placed first in swimming, breast stroke, fifth place in broad jumps, fifth in marksmanship, second in archery, and Jay Davies took first in swimming, free style, first in archery.

Bob Beahan took second in swimming, back stroke, third in 100-yard dash, and Tom Carew took third in swimming, side stroke, fourth in the 100-yard dash, fifth in bowling.

Mike Fritsch took second in swimming, free style, fourth in archery.

Explorer Advisor Don Heaven and assistant James Atherton, were the leaders who accompanied the boys to Grand Haven.

4-H CLUB EVENTS

The third meeting of the Bowne Center 4-H Club was called to order on July 7. A change of food to be served at the fair booth was made. Workers for the fair booth are needed, and they are reminded to sign up soon. It was decided that the dues for new members will be the same as last year, and that they should be paid as soon as possible.

A visitor from the fair committee talked to the members about the fair, and also showed us a film on safety.

Refreshments were served afterwards by the five-year food girls.

Wrestlers invade Showboat Stadium on August 1, in aqua battle royal

The Lowell Showboat Site on the Flat River will be the scene of a big time wrestling show on Saturday, August 1, it was announced this week by Ray Langin, veteran mat promoter. The river site will make possible an aqua battle royal, the first time such a bout has been staged in the United States.

Eight wrestlers will enter the ring at once in the battle royal and battle it out until only one remains in the ring. To be eliminated, the wrestlers will have to be thrown out of the ring and into the river.

Permission for the bout was given by Athletic Board commissioner Frank Cavanaugh who gave his approval with the condition that skin divers stand by to assist any wrestlers who might have trouble and to prevent any fighting in the water.

In addition to the battle royal, five big preliminary bouts will be staged, including a girls match which will see Mary Jane Mull against Lucille Dupree. Both girls rank with the best of the country's girl wrestlers.

The presentation was made at the annual congregational meeting July 14. She was also given an orchid, in recognition of a quarter century of service in handling the church finances. Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the Doer Guild, under the direction of Mrs. Melvin Kooistra.

Mrs. Heaven, a former reporter of the Suburban Life, took over as the treasurer of the Cascade Church back in 1939. She was chosen for the position after the death of her mother who served for many years in the same capacity.

According to the long-time treasurer, church receipts in 1939 totaled less than one thousand dollars. During the 1963-64 church year, total receipts for operating, building and missions were $45,699.48. Mrs. Warner Bruins Slot has been elected by the congregation to fill the treasurer's post.

Local 4-H youth selected to plan 4-H Club Week

Two of the Kent County delegates to 4-H Club Week at Michigan State University July 6-10, were chosen as members of the planning committee for Club Week activities next year. Bart Ingraham, of Rockford, and Lynn Wittenbach of Lowell, will meet with other planning committee members several times at the campus of Michigan State University to help plan Club Week activities for 1965.

Fifteen other Kent County delegates also participated in Club Week activities. Theme of this year's conference was "Today's Decisions—Tomorrow's Actions," with activities focused on decision making with regard to careers, world understanding, discrimination, and boy-girl relationships.

The fifteen other delegates who attended 4-H Club Week are: Sue Phelps, Cedar Springs; Becky Williams, Greenville; Dick Sowerby, Greenville; Anita DeGraaf, Grand Rapids; Albert VandenToorn, Caledonia; Pat Johnson, Lowell; Dale Case, Rockford; Gayle Paepke, Rockford; Laura Wells, Rockford; Kathy Anders, Comstock Park; Richard VanderWarf, Ada; Diane Boorsma, Grand Rapids; Mark Langkamp, Caledonia; Sally Finkbeiner, Caledonia; and Mary Moelker, Grand Rapids.

SELLS REGISTERED COW

Guest Minister at Ada church

The Rev. M. J. A. Dalrymple will conduct the services of worship at the First Congregational Church of Ada for the next three Sundays while his son, the Rev. Lee Dalrymple, pastor of the Ada Church, is away on vacation with his family.

The Rev. M. J. A. Dalrymple has served as pastor of the 1,300 member First Congregational Church of Crystal Lake, Illinois, for the past twenty-nine years. During the past year he has also served as a chaplain to the Illinois State Legislature and as Moderator of the Illinois Conference of the United Church of Christ.

"Your Worrystat" will be the topic of the Senior Rev. Dalrymple's sermon on Sunday, July 26. A Coffee Hour, with the serving of light refreshments, will be held in Fellowship Hall immediately following the service, to which all are invited.

He will officiate at the Celebration of Holy Communion on Sunday morning, August 2, preaching on the subject "The Wedding and the Wine."

His third sermon, "Selah!", will be preached on Sunday, August 9.

While in Ada, the Rev. and Mrs. M. J. A. Dalrymple will reside in the parsonage at 7175 Bronson Street.

4-H members from area head for Washington D. C.

Twelve Kent County older 4-H members will leave for Washington, D. C. on Saturday, July 25, to participate in the Citizen-Ship Short Course at the National 4-H Center with representatives from other states. These delegates were selected by an Awards Committee of the Kent County 4-H Leaders' Association earlier this year. The committee members selected the twelve 4-H'ers on the basis of what they would gain personally from the experience and what they would do to help others understand the meaning of citizenship.

The Kent County delegates will travel to and from Washington with delegates from other counties in Michigan, stopping in Gettysburg for a tour of the Gettysburg Battlefield on the trip to Washington, and returning to Kent County Sunday, August 2.

This is not an awards trip in the usual sense, as it does involve considerable responsibility on the part of the 4-H member both during and following the trip. The course is designed to help participants understand the meaning of citizenship; understand the basic principles of democracy and how democracy operates in meeting problems today; gain inspiration and deepen their commitment to the democratic way of life; and increase their skills in analyzing and meeting problems facing them as citizens. While in Washington, the 4-H'ers will participate in assemblies and discussions, view national monuments and shrines, and assume some leadership responsibilities.

Upon their return from the trip, the 4-H'ers will report back to their sponsors, other community groups, and their local 4-H Clubs. All of the delegates are sponsored by service clubs or business concerns here in Kent County. It is the responsibility of the delegates to convey to others something of the nature of the course, not just the sights and sounds of Washington.

The twelve members who will participate in the course are: Sandra Greenland, Rockford; Sherry Wells, Rockford; Lucy Dykstra, Ada; Carol Grit, Byron Center; Nancy Goodall, Belmont; Robert Sowerby, Greenville; Lyman Baker, Ada; Alex McPherson, Lowell; Kathy Werner, Grand Rapids; Linda DeGraaf, Grand Rapids; Charles Dressel, Grand Rapids; Tom Woodworth, Grand Rapids.

Accompanying the delegates will be Mitchell Geasler, 4-H Agent in Allegan County; his wife, Margie; Mrs. Alfred Sabin, Grand Rapids; a 4-H leader in Kent County; and Mrs. Wallace Crigler, Grand Rapids, also a 4-H leader in Kent County.

Aboard the Heather

Thursday we had another good sail to East Tawas. This is a pleasant resort town, and we would have enjoyed it thoroughly if the dock had been usable. There had been a fire the previous summer which destroyed a large section of the dock. It was now in process of reconstruction, so we had to anchor. Anchoring is fine in normal weather but it was extremely windy. The dock masters helped build a little landing for our dinghy and we managed nicely.

We phoned Brett's daddy where we were and he said he would come pick him up early in the afternoon. Our oldest son Erik teaches 6th grade in Plymouth, which is 15 minutes from their home in Ann Arbor. Friday was the last day of school and about all he had to do at school took only an hour, so he could come pick up his little boy.

June 12—Brett was happy to see his Daddy, eager to see the new car and ride in it. And in a big hurry to get home to see his mother. And very curious to see his new baby brother.

Then we phoned Bob Hafford, a friend the twins had met the previous summer, who lives in Bay City. He came down by bus the next day, Saturday.

June 13—We tried to take off but the wind was against us, and we came back.

June 14—Sunday morning we did take off, but the wind was indifferent and the sailing wasn't much. We stopped at Harbor Beach, where we had to anchor out in the harbor as the water was too shallow at the docks.

June 15—Monday we took off again. It was hot and sticky, and again the wind would be alternately hot and cold. So Skipper decided to put in at Port Sanilac until the oncoming storm would blow over. We had to anchor again due to the low water level. The boys went ashore and did some provisioning, then fishing, until I had dinner ready. We had spaghetti and meat balls, which the boys love, and they were famished. Dinner was early, as we planned to make some long distance phone calls after supper as I believed the storm would strike by seven. But it struck at 6, and there we were in a fairly exposed harbor, riding at three anchors, while the wind howled and screamed, raising spindrift in the enclosed basin, while we feasted on a favorite meal. No phone call to Bob's parents, no phone calls about our new grandchildren. We stayed put. The storm blew itself out in three hours, when we turned in, early.

June 16—Tuesday we left for Port Huron. We had stopped there before and knew there was plenty of water, and there was a nice big super market right close by. But when we came in this time the man at the gas dock told us that the super market had been moved a mile away, and there were no food stores nearby. So we continued on our way.

I never will forget the thrill I got years ago when we drove over the Blue Water Bridge into Canada. The sight of that huge inland sea funneling down under that magnificent bridge, with freighters majestically going north or south and a sprinkling of small boats also. Now here we were going down stream on that current, and really moving. Kevin was worrying about how we would get Heather back home again, bucking all the current. But the rest of us couldn't be bothered. It was beautiful. The shores, especially the American side, are pretty well lined with cottages and fine homes. What a sight to glide past.

We stopped at Marine City, early enough to do the necessary marketing. After supper the evening was glorious and we watched the parade of freighters going up or down all their lights twinkling. We could think of many people who would enjoy the sight, but we truly wished we had Brett with us.

June 17—Next day we went on down the St. Clair River, enjoying every minute, then across Lake St. Clair, then down the Detroit River, where we stopped at a big gas dock. It was time to start Bob back home. He phoned for a taxi, while Skipper inquired where there was a place we could tie up with deep enough water. Bob's taxi came, and he left us. He was a good guest. We just regretted that the sailing hadn't been better while he was with us. We then proceeded to the Detroit Boat Basin, where Heather slid easily into the soft mud. It was now mid-afternoon and I remembered some cruising friends, the Ridout family whom we'd been meeting for several years in various places. The first time was when we were stuck in the mud off Cedarville in the Snows, and he pulled us free. I told the dockmaster I wanted to phone cruising friends, but wasn't sure how they spelled their name. He knew the family well. He said, "Did you know they lost their boy last fall?" No we didn't. What happened? "You know Fred had a hobby of diving. He dived for lost articles for everyone. He found my glasses for me."

Yes we knew Fred loved diving.

"A man was emptying his coffee pot over the side and dropped it. And Fred was going to get it for him. Apparently in coming up he came in contact with a boat's ground wire which was not in good shape, and was electrocuted."

This was indeed shocking. Now I must phone and say how sorry we were to hear this news. They were glad to hear from us and asked us to the Detroit Yacht Club for dinner. The twins were thrilled. To be treated like grown ups! It was a very nice dinner, and we had a nice visit with them aboard their beautiful big motor boat—practically a summer home.

June 18—Thursday morning we started down the Detroit River again, hoping to get to Put-In-Bay. But the wind was against us and the forecast was not good. So we tied up at a town on the Canadian side to wait for a change of wind. But the place was so exposed that Skipper decided to try an anchorage in the islands just below. But that didn't suit him either, and he decided to see if he could get into the harbor at the Grosse Isle Yacht Club—some cruising friends had asked him to stop in. And there we spent the rest of the day and the night, right at the edge of Lake Erie. We enjoyed visiting with some people who had taken their sail boat and their 4 children south about ten years ago. And the boys made friends with other boys, whose fathers were getting ready for a big sail boat race. It turned out to be a delightful stop, and we were ready to start down Lake Erie in the morning.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL AUG. 4-13

"Yes, but you . . ."

Nobody enjoys having his faults pointed out to him. Nobody likes to be told that he made a mistake. We all resent it when we are blamed for something. We bristle; and instead of considering the truth of it we quickly look for a fault in the one who dared to criticize us.

Listen to youngsters. Jane says to Tommy, "You didn't hang up your coat!" Tommy reply flashes back, "Yes, but you left your mittens in school!" Listen for that "Yes, but you . . ." You will probably hear yourself saying it!

It may be human nature to defend ourselves and deny blame or guilt, but it isn't right. Tossing back criticism for criticism is a bad habit to get into. You can benefit from criticism, even when it is only partly valid. Resenting it helps nobody. Resenting it, and tossing back a counter criticism, only creates ill feeling.

Besides that, the habit may lead us to try to cover up before God. That is worse. He says: "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive" (1 John 1:9). And if we will not admit we are sinners, He will not forgive!

It's so easy to think, and say, "Yes, but so-and-so does something much worse." Really, that's beside the point. What you have done counts in your life; not what someone else has done. You will have to give account of your own deeds, not of someone else's; and I of mine, not yours.

Wading pool is infection source

The portable wading pool in the back yard may be a source of many hours of pleasure for the children but it may also be a source of illness, according to Dr. W. B. Prothro, Grand Rapids-Kent County Health Director. According to Dr. Prothro, intestinal diseases, and skin infections can be spread among children playing in such a pool. The danger of this can be minimized by keeping the water clean, limiting the number playing in the pool and the simple addition of a small amount of household laundry bleach which contains chlorine. This is the same chemical that is used for disinfecting the water in public swimming pools. One-half cup of laundry bleach should be added to one gallon of water. One quart of this diluted solution per 100 gallons of water in the pool should be applied to the pool at least one hour prior to use. The addition of 1/4 this amount to the pool each hour that it is used will maintain a satisfactory amount of chlorine in the water to kill bacteria. The Grand Rapids Health Department has prepared a pamphlet describing the care of private wading pools which they will send to anyone upon request or by calling GL 6-6566, extension 304.

Low-cost housing: A kit to transform a plastic-coated milk carton into a weather-proof birdhouse is being offered for 25 cents.

Pool construction at all time record high

There's going to be a lot more water in the Water Wonderland this year with the building of a record number of public swimming pools, the Michigan Department of Health reports.

June was the fifth straight month in which new construction permits for public swimming pools set a record, according to Paul D. Hodges, sanitary engineer in charge of the swimming pool program.

Not only are there more swimming pools, they are being located conveniently to where people live, Hodges explains that many of the new permits are for pools which are to be built in apartment developments and in suburban swimming clubs.

Ski resorts and other winter recreation spots are building swimming pools in increasing numbers, he said. Also extending the trend towards four-season recreation are the growing number of indoor swimming pools that are being built by motels. While some of these pools are relatively small, intended to serve only a few families in an apartment or a motel, Hodges said that the swimming club pools are Olympic-sized and will serve hundreds of families.

The 77 permits issued during the first half of 1964 exceeded the 72 issued in all of 1959. During June, 15 construction permits issued set a new high for that month. In May the 20 permits issued were most for any month since the State Health Department began issuing construction permits for pools in the 1930's. Hodges says that 1,022 construction permits have been issued for public swimming pools in Michigan, most of them in the past 10 years.

Water accidents show increase

Michigan's water death toll has reached 144 in 261 accidents in the first six and a half months this year, increases of 40 and 113 respectively compared with the same period in 1963, according to State Police provisional figures.

At least 87 persons have been reported injured. Sixty-four of the water accidents involved property damage only.

Of the 126 drownings on which official reports have been received, 62 were swimmers or waders, 20 were boat passengers, 18 were boat operators, 12 fell from bridges, banks, docks or piers, nine fell through ice, two were skin or scuba divers, two attempted to rescue others, and one fell into a caisson.

Sure, seat belts are comfortable, whether you're driving or riding. They help prevent fatigue when kept snug, make for relaxed driving and minimize sliding on the seat.
