Spring here on Saturday

Spring will begin at 3:05 p. m. Saturday, March 20.

The sun will reach the vernal equinox or cross the equator on its way north. "It will rise and set almost exactly at the east and west points, with the day and night said to be of equal lengths," University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh explains.

Contrary to what many believe, the day and night will not be exactly equal on the day of the equinox, Professor Losh adds.

Because of the refraction or bending of the sun's rays by the earth's atmosphere, the sun may be seen a few minutes before it actually comes over the horizon. "The day and night are more nearly equal about three days before the equinox date."

Spring will come nearly six hours later than last year, Professor Losh notes. "This later coming results from the difference between the number of days in our calendar (365) and the time used by the sun in its apparent yearly travel around the earth, 365.2422 days."

After the equinox, not only will the days be longer, but they will also be warmer with the sun shining more directly over the northern hemisphere, Professor Losh says.

89.5% auto deaths in 41 counties

Michigan's 41 counties south of the Oceana county-Bay county line accounted for 1,892 traffic deaths in 1964, or 89.5 percent of the state's preliminary annual toll of 2,114, State Police figures show.

Deaths in these counties were up 271, or 17 per cent, over 1963. These same counties accounted for 91 per cent of the state's motor vehicle registrations last year.

In the 27 counties in northern Lower Michigan, deaths numbered 148, three per cent less than the year before, while the Upper Peninsula's 15 counties had 74 fatalities, a decrease of 20 per cent.

Three types of accidents comprised most of the state's increase in fatalities in 1964. Deaths were up by 108 in ran-off the roadway accidents, by 103 in collisions involving two or more vehicles, and by 52 in car pedestrian mishaps. Death in car-train collisions showed the greatest decrease, 22.

Both urban and rural areas showed percentage increases in deaths, injuries and accidents last year. Urban areas were up 19 per cent in deaths, 15 per cent in injuries and eight per cent in accidents. For rural areas the percentage increases were 11 in deaths, 14 in injuries, and 13 in accidents.

The state's preliminary figures, expected shortly after March 1, are expected to put the year's toll at 2,125 deaths, 145,000 injured, and 285,000 accidents.

The death toll is the third highest on record and the number of injured and accidents are new annual highs.

Accident exposure factors also climbed to record highs. Motor vehicle registrations gained six per cent to 3,646,080; licensed drivers increased three per cent to 4,400,000; and travel mileage rose seven per cent to 38 billions.

The death rate of 5.6 per 100 million vehicle miles was six per cent higher than 5.3 in 1963 and 19 per cent over the 4.7 rate of 1962, the all-time low shared with 1958.

Estimated costs of accidents—wage loss, medical expense, overhead cost of insurance, and property damage—totaled $380,000,000, well over an average of a million dollars a day.

Necessities
 What are your necessities? You have many things and, no doubt, you would like to have still more, but what are the things which you really need?
 What are your necessities in respect to food? There is recorded in Proverbs 30:8-9, the prayer of Agur: "Give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me with the food that is needful for me; lest I be full, and deny thee, and say, Who is the Lord? Or lest I be poor, and steal, and take the name of my God in vain." No one desires poverty but it is highly unusual not to desire riches. Why did Agur pray only for the food that was needful for him? He realized that his food came from God. With true humility he prayed that God would give him his necessary food. He knew that riches might lead to sinful independence and denial of God. He was afraid that poverty might tempt him to the sinful independence of transgressing the law of God by theft and by misuse of the name of God.
 Your natural and your spiritual needs are closely related. You need God's blessing for your body but also for your soul. Do you acknowledge God as the giver of all your blessings? Do you pray that God may supply all of your needs for body and for soul, for time and for eternity? —John Guichelaar

ADULTS $1 CHILDREN 50c UNDER FREE

Could this be our deadliest disease?

Medical evidence is mounting that the greatest plague of our times may well be inactivity.

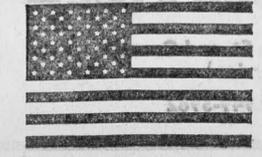

The ease of modern life is certainly one reason why at least one in every four Americans is overweight. And inactivity is also a factor in the onset of diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

Unfortunately, our children are not as active as they should be. They sit more than they move; they watch more than they participate; they ride when they should walk. The shocking result of all this inactivity is underscored by this fact: almost one-third of them can't pass minimum physical achievement tests.

What to do about it? Get them into action again! Preferably in physical education programs that include vigorous activity—for at least 15 minutes of every school day.

Investigate the program in your child's school. Discuss it with your school officials. Make sure the program is what it should be. Remember, fitness doesn't just happen. It must be developed.

For information about a program that's easy to carry out and that's improved the fitness of many youngsters, write to The President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D.C.

Better boardmanship

14 don'ts for board members

How many mistakes will a new school board member make his first year out—25, 50, 100? Let's hope he doesn't make any. But if he does blunder all too frequently, his mistakes will probably be variations on some or all of the 14 most serious errors of new board members. Even veterans board members pull the same boners. Here they are, in the form of 14 don'ts.

1. Don't expect the board to handle administrative duties. It cannot be repeated too often that the board is a policy-making body.

2. Don't make promises outside board meetings. Away from the board room, you have no more authority over school policy than any other citizen has.

3. Don't get involved with pressure groups. Your duty is to the entire school community—not to a select few.

4. Don't discuss personnel problems with school employees. Refer such problems to the superintendent or to the proper school official.

5. Don't discuss board business outside of board meetings. This is a sure way to get into hot water.

6. Don't become the "Complaint Department" for your school system. Your job isn't to listen to everyone's moans and groans. Get in the habit of referring grippers to the proper school officials, or of inviting them to a Board meeting.

7. Don't expect to understand all the problems and functions of your schools in a short time. Your school system is probably the biggest business in your community. You can't expect to know all of its details in a hurry.

8. Don't expect to know all the answers. No one really expects you to. So it isn't necessary to stall or bluff. Just say, "I don't know."

9. Don't jump to conclusions. Wait until all the facts are in, then weigh them carefully before reaching a conclusion.

10. Don't close your mind to a problem before hearing all sides. This is a common error. Hear all sides before you decide whether you're for or against something.

11. Don't offend older board members. New board members often have a "crusader" complex. In their zeal they criticize past board actions without really understanding why such actions were taken. Be critical but not offensive.

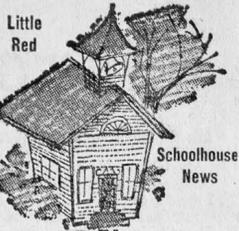

12. Don't ignore the reading material your superintendent sends you. The best way to be caught flat-footed at a meeting is not to have done your homework. Not reading your superintendent's reports is unfair to him and to your fellow board members.

13. Don't hesitate to point out your superintendent's mistakes. You do him a disservice if you don't tell him when he is at fault. He should know where he stands at all times.

14. Don't take criticism as a personal affront. When the superintendent or other board members criticize your ideas, they are not criticizing you. Keeping personalities out of a disagreement keeps discussion on a high plane.

Driver's License Suspended

Michigan Department of State announced this week that the driving license of Richard S. Rolison 18, 5690 Cascade Rd., has been suspended for unsafe driving record.

Farm leaders visit Congress

Fifty farm leaders representing 25 county Farm Bureaus throughout the state of Michigan arrived by jet today at the nation's capital for a first-hand look at their government's legislative process.

Representing this area are Mrs. Elton Smith of Caledonia; Mrs. Ann Campau of Ada; and Mrs. Peter Butz of Grandville.

During their three-day stay in Washington, DC, the group will visit with Michigan Congressmen from both political parties to discuss various issues including local reapportionment, lack of export quotas for Michigan white wheat, and other farm-related problems. They will be special guests of Minority Leader Gerald Ford, and Mrs. Ford at a luncheon Tuesday at the Capitol.

Also included on their full agenda is a "briefing" by staff members of the American Farm Bureau Federations Washington office regarding current or pending action in Congress and how it may affect the agricultural scene.

The final day will be devoted to a sightseeing excursion of the area's many historical shrines.

The Washington Legislative Air Tour is sponsored annually by the Michigan Farm Bureau Women to offer their "Legislative-minded" members an opportunity to observe their national government in action.

Accompanying the group will be the president of the 70,000 farm family member Michigan Farm Bureau, Elton Smith, Kent County farmer, and Farm Bureau's Legislative Counsel, Dan E. Reed.

On Thursday, March 11, the 5th grade children of Cascade School, along with all the other 5th grade children of Kent County, outside the city, were given a rare treat.

They were invited to hear a special program by the Grand Rapids Symphony at the Civic Auditorium, arranged especially for them. This was the first time the symphony had attempted such a program.

The children responded beautifully to the experience and the symphony hopes to invite the 5th grade children to a similar program each year.

The series of five new math classes offered for parents at the high school ended last week much to the regret of the three classes of parents enrolled.

Unlike their offspring, the parents were asking for more. Look for a similar class to be offered next year for those unable to attend this year.

There will be no school on Friday, March 19, due to County Institute.

Terrace Thumbs Group meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 22, at 9:30 a. m. at the home of Carol Crossman, 7130 Cascade Road, Sue Hollway as co-hostess.
