Cascade fireworks display planned for 5th of July

The Cascade fireworks this year will include a greater number of aerial displays and just a few less ground displays than last year. Among the set (ground) pieces will be a 50-foot long Niagara Falls, plus the American Flag.

The aerial displays will include six giant saucers that arise to approximately 500 feet, glowing in a bright gold and then breaking and exploding 4 times. Of even greater intensity will be the searchlight parachute with a brilliant magnesium flare of 10,000 candlelight power. This parachute will float through the air three or four minutes.

Approximately 150 rockets and aerial shells will be fired, some of them breaking four times in an array of glowing colors capped by a loud crash. Each year the fireworks are concluded with a grand finale of sound, flash and color.

The shells are fired from heavy gauge two-inch to four-inch inside diameter steel tubes set in the ground. The mortars are dropped into the tubes and then lit by the firemen using cigars. They lose more cigars that way!

Five firemen work on the hill, the others setting up and taking safety precautions. During the years since these fireworks were originated, none of the men have been hurt. We are concerned, however, that someone in the audience will be injured sometime, not by the main display, but by children throwing sparklers and fire crackers into the crowd. Everyone is urged to see that sparklers are not thrown this year, and fire crackers are not lit at any of the gatherings of people.

Many of us remember one year when a strong wind came up during the fireworks celebration, setting the grass on the hillside afire. The firemen keep hand firefighting apparatus at the hilltop, but this was not enough that time and the fire trucks could not make the climb. Therefore, they let the hill burn and put the fire out at the bottom. This was one of our bigger displays.

Sy Dykhouse, fire chief, assures us, however, that the burning grass is no danger. He does ask that the children stay off the hill.

The fireworks are manufactured in Pennsylvania, Japan and in Marne, Michigan. As you may suspect, fireworks displays originated in China as a religious celebration in about 300 A. D. By 1700 A. D. fireworks accompanied all important celebrations, even in the United States. The colors are formed by incorporating components of various metals.

Remember that every penny received from the sale of the drawing tickets goes directly to pay for the fireworks. This is your opportunity to receive double benefit.

We have learned that in addition to the hundreds of cars that will fill the big parking areas in Cascade and cover the hillsides around Cascade, many people watch our fireworks from their homes as far as five miles away.

These fireworks display were originated by the local Post of the American Legion and are since continued through the cooperation of several local organizations.

According to a U-M orthopedic surgeon, who has been tabulating the fractures, skateboard injuries are more common than bicycle injuries and, with the exception of bike-car collisions, are a lot more serious.

Although the fractures have run the gamut from broken collar bones, shoulders, arms, elbows & hands to fractured legs and feet, 12 of the 22 breaks treated at University Hospital were fractured ankles.

Many of the broken ankles were "violent types of fractures obviously resulting from high-speed, says a resident in the U-M orthopedic surgery section. Three cases at University Hospital have required surgery.

Patients with such breaks are usually incapacitated 6 to 12 weeks, according to the U-M physicians. However, it's possible that a rare case could be permanently disabling, they say.

The doctors warn parents that perhaps the most hazardous aspect of skateboarding is that inexperienced sidewalk surfers have very little control over their boards and can easily roll into the path of an oncoming car.

Patients treated for skateboard fractures at the two Ann Arbor hospitals have ranged from a seven-year-old child to a man of 46.

At St. Joseph, the majority of the fracture patients have been young children and teenagers, many of whom suffered broken elbows.

Doctors at University Hospital treated 21 U-M students for skateboard fractures—and one physician.

Mind Your Speech

The Grand Rapids Press recently published the following "Today's Chuckle": "Wisdom is knowing when to speak your mind and when to mind your speech." This was humorous from a certain point of view, but it implied that when a person speaks his mind he is not minding his speech. Far too often a person speaks his mind when he is angry and then uses language which should never cross his lips, and should never have entered his mind in the first place. Christians are exhorted to have the mind of Christ and to think on the things which are true, honorable, just, pure, lovely, and of good report. (Philippians 2:5; 4:8)

As to minding our speech, the Bible tells us that this is not just an occasional duty, but that we must always and everywhere mind our speech. Profanity and cursing are very commonplace in the spoken and written word of our day. James writes in his epistle (3:9,10) "Therewith (with the tongue) bless we the Lord and Father; and therewith curse we men, who are made after the likeness of God; out of the same mouth cometh forth blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be." Let's change the chuckle to real wisdom by reproducing the thought of Scripture in these words: "Wisdom is speaking the mind of Christ, and minding our speech."
—John Guichelaar

Snow Methodist Church

On Thursday, July 1, the Methodist Men's Group will meet in the church at 8 p. m. Saturday, June 26, we will have a "Work Bee" at the new building starting at 9 a. m. and continuing throughout the day. There will be paneling and plywood to put up. A dinner will be served to the men.

Our new minister, Rev. Ira Noordhof, preached his first sermon in our church last Sunday.

Keep Michigan beautiful in '65

Everyone will have an opportunity this year to help keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc., in its never-ending campaign to make Michigan the best-groomed state in the nation.

Nothing is so disconcerting to those who love the outdoors as a pile of trash at the end of a trail, a cluttered campsite beside a lively stream, or a broken bottle on a beautiful sandy beach.

All of these things are uncalled for, and only serve to confirm the fact that we have become a thoughtless and careless society, bent only on having fun in the wide open spaces. We have forgotten our outdoor manner, and unless we change for the better, we will soon become a nation of slob.

There are many things that you can do to correct this situation. You are not expected to follow people around the forest and campground with a pack on your back, looking for litter. Nor are you required to run up to every careless camper and read to them the rules of camping. People have been punched in the nose for less.

Perhaps the best approach to the problem is to be a good example around others. Do this by quietly picking up a stray candy wrapper or a discarded can or bottle. You can toss the paper in your campfire and place empty containers in your empty knapsack or in a handy litter barrel.

If one of your companions gets careless with his litter-habits, make sure he sees you picking up after him. This will give you an excuse to get your anti-litter message across without scolding. One of my favorite tricks is to pick up the item and hand it back to him with the remark, "Did you know you dropped this?"

Trout fishermen can police the streams, in which they fish, by burying debris, if possible, but if there is room in your pockets, or your creel, bring it out with you and drop it in a barrel or the litter basket in your car.

At the picnic sites, it would draw a lot of attention if your group would police an area that was really beyond their own boundaries. Other nearby people would notice and some of them would remember that this certainly helped the looks of the grounds.

Motorists can help the litter-bug battle by using a bumper sticker with an anti-litter message. A good stunt is to pass a car that has dropped a cigarette pack out the window and linger in front long enough for the driver to read the message. If this is the only message on the bumper, he is bound to read it. A loud blast on the horn, to get his attention, at the time he drops it is in order.

There are countless other tips and tricks to get people to think about what they are doing in our beautiful parks and campgrounds. You have probably already thought up a few of your own.

But if you can determine that you and your party are going to leave the campsite or the picnic site more beautiful than when you arrived, then someone is going to get the message that you are helping in your small way to Keep Michigan Beautiful.

Month of June recreation time

When did you first hear the ancient cliché "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy?"

Setting aside time for recreation is becoming increasingly important in leading a healthful and productive life.

For most people, the natural result of modern conveniences and increased automation is a sedentary existence.

The National Recreation Association annually sponsors National Recreation Month each June to alert Americans to the need for wise use of leisure time. Special events of interest to all age groups are planned by recreation departments, civic groups, citizens' organizations and other recreation-minded agencies across the country.

Modern society has become what someone has called "flip-flopped." The executive now works long hours instead of the laborer. Yet, like everyone else, physicians, executives, and other professional people need the refreshment that enjoyable recreation offers.

Leisure time can be used to regain a healthy balance of suitable physical activity and relaxation. Whether through a trip to the opera or an hour or two of quiet fishing, the ability to "lose oneself" in recreation provides personal fulfillment and relief from life's tensions.

Recreation is personal; to be satisfying, the hobbies and other activities chosen should be meaningful to the individual. What may be enjoyable to one person may be boring to another.

Fortunately, a wide variety of opportunities is available and every person should be able to find some that bring satisfaction. Interesting family activities, another important but often missing part of modern life, can evolve from personal recreation interests.

Whatever a person may choose as hobbies, some physical recreation should be included daily. The health benefits from regular suitable physical activity, such as weight control, relief from stress, and a sense of well-being, are now well established.

On the other hand, the potential ill-effects of prolonged inactivity, such as obesity, metabolic disorders, loss of movement capacity, cannot be considered helpful for enjoyable living.

The broad benefits attributed to recreation are not automatic outcomes. Every activity carries some risk, whether from the nature of the activity itself or from the demands on the participant. One national survey showed 18,000 disabling golf injuries in 1962. Most of these were sustained by persons struck by golf balls.

However, heat prostration accounted for 10 per cent and overexertion another 7 per cent of the total. These statistics should not cause a rush to the golf cart, which produced 7 per cent of the casualties. Rather, golfers, should respect the safeguards that judgment and conditioning will offer.

To capitalize on recreational opportunities: Learn your capacities and limitations through periodic medical examination, and plan your activities accordingly. Practice habits of healthful living faithfully in order to have the ability to do effectively the things you must and want to do.

Understand the risks involved in your activities of choice, and the preventive measures to be followed.

Watson, VanderPerel exchange wedding vows

Wedding vows were exchanged in the Park Congregational Church last Saturday afternoon by Miss Betsy Ann VanderPerel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold M. VanderPerel of Forest Hills Avenue, SE, and Roger Raymond Watson.

The bride chose for her wedding a silk linen gown with a cathedral train. Roccoco fringe and grape clustered venice lace trimmed the portrait neckline and hem. A capette bow secured her bouffant veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of lilies and ivy.

Miss Florence Kellas of Romulus, maid of honor, wore a white linen gown trimmed with pink venise lace and a matching bow and face veil. Her flowers were pink daisies.

The bridesmaids were Miss Colleen McCarthy of Saginaw; the bride's sister, Miss Susan VanderPerel; and Miss Anne Armour. They wore gowns matching the honor attendant's.

David Elliott of Marshall was best man. Ushers were Charles Weston of Allen Park, Phillip Wells of Pontiac, and Christopher Hale of Allegan.

A wedding reception was held at Merriam Hall with Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Gaughen of Campbell, Pennsylvania, and Dr. and Mrs. Otto Kiehl serving as masters and mistresses of ceremonies.

Following the reception, the couple left on a honeymoon in the Smoky Mountains.

Molestation is increasing; warn children

Because child molestation incidents increase heavily in spring and summer, parents should caution their youngsters now against going for walks or rides with any stranger, said State Police Sgt. Oscar Bergland, commander of the Rockford post.

He advised that this seasonal warning be occasionally repeated to children as they are outdoors more in good weather months.

Sergeant Bergland said the State Police each year investigate many cases of child molestation and a large percentage could have been avoided if the children had been forewarned. The high months for such sex offenses are in summer.

Where adult supervision over children in outside activity is not possible, parents should insist that their youngsters be in company with others, Sergeant Bergland emphasized. A child alone on a playground, exploring a vacant building or loitering in an alley can too easily become the prey of a molester.

Any incidents involving molestation of children should be promptly reported by parents to police. Sergeant Bergland said this will expedite investigation which can help thwart possible other attempts by an offender. He stressed that names of minors molested and their parents are not made public except where warranted in cases of abduction or murder.

Sergeant Bergland listed these guides for parents in cautioning youngsters about molestation dangers:

Children should not go for walks or rides with any person without parental approval. Since there is greater safety in numbers, children should have companions going to and from school at playgrounds, going to or from movies, when running errands, etc.

Because public rest rooms, isolated places or vacant buildings can be high danger areas, children should be instructed not to loiter there.

Youngsters should be advised to remember unusual features about a suspected molester and about any car which may be involved.

Children having questions about their safety or suspecting a stranger should report the matter to parents, teacher or police.

The "Low Down"
From the Congressional Record
By Joe Crump

EMBEZZLERS GET FULL RETIREMENT BENEFITS

Sen. John J. Williams (Del.) "... Last year it was discovered in the Defense Department that certain employees had embezzled or diverted to their own use certain funds of that agency. When this was discovered the Internal Auditing Division of the Department examined the case and it was subsequently forwarded to the Department of Justice for further examination. This ultimately resulted in the indictment of (these) employees.

"This was the story as it was released to the press, and on the surface it had every appearance of having been efficiently handled. Further examination, however, develops a rather strange set of arrangements that were followed whereby it was made possible for two of the employees, rather than being fired to be placed in a position where they could claim immediate retirement benefits far beyond what they would have been eligible to receive had they been routinely separated.

"January 7, 1964: Mr. (Employee A) was served with a notice of intention to remove him from his position... Mr. (Employee A) was not suspended. Instead, on February 4, 1964, he applied for disability retirement... Accordingly, Mr. (Employee A), at the age of 57, on June 12, 1964, was granted immediate retirement benefits under total disability of $516 per month.

"Mr. (Employee A) will continue to draw his retirement check regardless of the outcome of the trial.

"Mr. (Employee B) was the second employee to get kid-gloves treatment after being suspected of embezzlement... This time they shuffled the duties of his office, changed a few titles, and then presumably abolished his old job, thus making it possible for Mr. (Employee B) to retire on the basis of reduction in force... Mr. (Employee B) elected optional retirement as a result of reduction-in-force separation and was granted an immediate annuity of $735 per month on the basis of his involuntary separation by the abolishment of his position or reduction in force.

"In 1954 the Congress had passed a law, the purpose of which was to cancel the retirement benefits of any public official who was convicted of embezzling Government funds or selling his influence by accepting bribes in connection with decisions he was making in the official conduct of his office. This same law also canceled the retirement benefits of those public officials who, when questioned by a congressional committee in connection with their actions or decisions as public officials, elected to take the fifth amendment.

"In all such instances these individuals would have received a refund of all their contributions to the retirement fund plus accumulated interest but no more.

"On September 12, 1961, the Senate passed H. R. 6141, a bill sponsored by this administration. The purpose of this bill was to repeal the 1954 act and thereby make it possible for public officials to take the fifth amendment, embezzle Government funds, or accept bribes in connection with their official duties and still be eligible for full retirement benefits at the taxpayers expense.

"These men, (Employees A and B), were indicted and since the preparation of this statement... has resulted in their convictions.
