Board of Education presses for the completion of school building projects

The Board of Education of Forest Hills Public Schools met in regular session, Tuesday evening, September 21, with all members present, with the exception of President Neil Weathers.

It was moved by Banta, and seconded by Colvin that Zoellmer act as president pro-tem for the evening; motion carried.

Regular order of business followed.

Board received sealed bids on state aid notes from representatives of Old Kent Bank & Trust Co. and Union Bank & Trust Co. Bids read and discussed. Bid from Old Kent Bank & Trust accepted by the Board.

Minutes of August 17 meeting approved as presented by mail.

Discussion of bills payable, corrections made, bills to be paid as corrected.

Financial report given by Treasurer Banta; district financially healthy at this time, nothing special to report.

Report made by Superintendent Masten on the substitute teacher's pay, tentative pay schedule discussed, to be acted upon at next meeting after further discussion.

Board of Education heard letter from Eugene Ward, requesting release from contract or acceptance of resignation effective August 27. Motion made to refuse to release him from contract & Superintendent Masten instructed to send letter reporting this to Teacher's Tenure Office, with copy to MEA, to put on record the Board's disapproval of such a breach of contract.

It was moved by Banta, and seconded by Seidman that Gerritt Baker be requested to place the Strong school in his real estate listings, with Superintendent Masten having power to negotiate on a pre-set price range.

Under miscellaneous there was much business to discuss, report on building progress, which is slower than had been anticipated due to the lack of finished cabinet work.

Board discussed way and means of speeding completion of building project.

Ray Price reported that the central kitchen is beginning to function slowly, serving Honey Creek and Egypt Valley last Monday, gradually covering the rest of the area. He reported that if anything more could go wrong it probably would.

The landscaping at the new Junior high school has received a set-back due to excessive rain this past month. Twice the crews have had it graded and ready to seed and then it would rain and rain and wash out everything, including part of a sidewalk this last time. Much discussion as to what to do, probably should be seeded to rye soon, if it doesn't stop raining and wait until spring to finish the final grading and seeding.

Total school enrollment was placed at 3195 at this time, but final head count will be made Friday, October 1, which may put the district over 3200 enrollment this year. This is about 80 more than had been projected for this year.

It was moved by Banta, and seconded by Colvin that Superintendent Masten hire another grade teacher for the Cascade school, as soon as a room is available to relieve pressure on the teachers over there.

Many other topics were discussed but either didn't need action at this time, or were referred back for further clarification and report at the next month's meeting.

Open new lot, ease traffic on game nights

The Forest Hills high school official announced this week plans for parking at high school football games.

The school will open both parking lots. The one at the new junior high and the one at the high school. This will enable patrons to enter on both Hall Street and Ada Drive.

The new road between the junior and senior high schools will be closed to through traffic before, during, and after the game.

School officials believe it is too dangerous to allow vehicle traffic on the road with pedestrians on the night of football games. Cars entering each parking lot must leave by the same parking lot.

Ticket booths will be in operation on both sides to accommodate the fans. School officials are hoping many people will avail themselves of the use of the parking lot on the junior high side. This will help expedite traffic before and after games.

Ticket prices will remain at $1 for adults. Junior and senior high students will pay $1 at the gate. However, they will be allowed to buy a 50 cent student ticket on the day of the game at school.

Ask for water fowl sanctuary on river

A water fowl sanctuary may be made on the Thornapple River between the Cascade and Ada dams if petitions now being circulated by the Thornapple Association members are approved by the State Conservation Department.

The request is being made to protect the limited duck nesting and feeding grounds now on the river and islands and also because of the use of firearms in the area constitutes an increasing danger to the mushrooming residential developments on the river.

The petition asks that all hunting or use of firearms over Thornapple River and it's islands be prohibited but stipulates that granting of the request shall not limit the use of this portion of the river for other recreational purposes such as fishing and boating.

Riverfront residents between the dams who are interested in the proposed santuary are asked to contact Mr. Harvey Comrie, 7361 Grachen Drive, SE.

Lee Dalrymple, pastor of the church since March, 1962; and Mr. Gordon Campau, Chairman of the Building Fund for Fellowship Hall and treasurer of the church since 1955.

Fifteen minutes after the mortgage was burned, the congregation voted to proceed with plans for a new addition to Fellowship Hall, at an estimated cost of $60,000, in order to provide more room for its Sunday School. A financial drive for this project will be conducted later this fall.

Bomb threats plague area principals

According to the Kent County Sheriff's department the third bomb scare of the past week occurred Monday morning at Forest Hills High School when a male voice called the principal's office at 8 a. m. and told the secretary that there was a bomb set to go off between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m.

The Sheriff's officers evacuated each classroom individually and searched them all, but found nothing to cause any excitement. School was not dismissed, but recessed about 15 minutes per classroom, to conduct the search for possible bomb.

The Sheriff's department considers this to be the work of some prankster.

The other schools called were Sparta and Madison.

The Forest Hills Rangers put up a stout defense Friday night that resulted in a 20-0 victory over West Ottawa.

The game was played at West Ottawa near Holland. A large delegation of Ranger fans attended the game, including three chartered busses of Forest Hills students.

Blocked Punts

Two blocked punts by a hard charging Ranger line resulted in the first two Ranger touch downs. Early in the second quarter, the interior of the Ranger line blocked a Panther punt that was recovered on the West Ottawa 11 yard line.

On third down Gary Crinion ran off left guard on a power play for 6 yards and the first Ranger touchdown.

Perschbacher converted and the score stood 7-0 at half time.

Runs Unmolested

Midway in the third period, C Perschbacher broke thru and blocked a Panther punt on the 29 yard line, he scooped up the ball and ran it unmolested into the end zone for the second Ranger score.

His conversion attempt was wide and the score stood at 13-0.

The Rangers scored again late in the game when Mike Jason threw a 30-yard pass to Freeman who was knocked out of bounds on the one yard line.

Gary Crinion scored his second touchdown of the game on the next play. Perschbacher converted and the final score stood 20-0.

Defense Had Control

The West Ottawa Panthers never seriously threatened the Ranger goal line as the Ranger Defense had the game in control throughout.

Defensive ends Gary Wingeier and Randy Brewer stood out for the Rangers.

An Open Letter of THANKS

We, at Cascade Pharmacy, do not wish our experiences of two Sundays ago to become just another event in our lives without publicly giving expression of our gratitude to the many friends who came to our assistance.

We wish to particularly thank the Cascade Volunteer Fire Department, and the VandenBerg brothers who so readily made temporary repairs. Because of the sincere efforts of many, our ability to serve our customers is unimpaired.

Soon a program of remodeling and repair will once again give us a complete and modern drug store in which to serve the community. This will take some time, we know, but our appreciation to those who assisted us will be in our hearts for many a passing year.

Thank you all, once again.

CROP asks help in overseas aid

Because of dwindling supplies held by Commodity Credit Corp, Voluntary Agencies are receiving drastically reduced quantities of powdered milk from that source for their overseas feeding programs, according to Russell M. Hartzler, Michigan CROP Director. "To help fill this gap CROP has has been asked by the Church World Service to increase its contributions for purchase of milk for overseas distribution," Mr. Hartzler said.

In accepting this challenge, Michigan CROP has made a new approach called Share-A-Loaf. This is an appeal to Michigan families to share the price of a loaf of bread each week with people in need overseas.

Share-A-Loaf is put into a simple, understandable term, "bread," symbol of all food. The price of a loaf of bread (25c) given each week for 20 weeks through CROP provides a glass of milk or a bowl of beans daily for one person for a whole year.

To simplify weekly sharing, CROP provides coin folders at no charge to any Michigan family whishing to use them. Each folder holds 20 quarters.

Share-aLoaf, endorsed by Mrs. George Romney, is being sponsored in Michigan by Extension-Homemakers, Farm Bureau Women, and United Women of the Church. The organization's presidents suggest that, "With just a little extra care in budgeting, couldn't almost every family share the price of one loaf of bread each week?"

Coin folders may be secured from any of these groups or from Michigan CROP, Box 206, Lansing.

Family Altar

"THE FAMILY ALTAR," which is distributed each month by the Back to God Radio Hour of the Christian Reformed Church, is a guide for Bible reading, and contains a meditation and a brief prayer for each day of the month.

The Christian Reformed Church has always been diligent in emphasizing the devotional life of its members, and it does so in terms of the family. We are convinced that our practice of beginning each meal with a prayer for God's blessing, and of concluding the meal with the reading of a passage from the Bible and a prayer of thanksgiving for all of God's blessings, is the source of the spiritual strength and vitality of our churches. We believe that the natural and the spiritual, our daily bread and the spiritual bread of God's Word, belong together. In this way the whole family is involved, and there are set times for Bible reading and prayer.

We recommend this method of family devotions for your home. If you would like to receive the aid of THE FAMILY ALTAR you may secure a copy at our church on Sundays, or you may write to THE BACK TO GOD HOUR, 10858 So. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, and be placed on the mailing list for your free copy each month. When you write, please mention the Cascade Christian Reformed Church.

CASCADE AREA TELEPHONE

The Cascade Businessmen's Association in response to a definite need has prepared a new pocket telephone directory for distribution to all who wish to have the extra convenience.

This area has many services available to the public, however due to the several telephone exchanges and mailing addresses it is often difficult to locate a given service. To help eliminate this problem the CBA has obtained a handy pocket edition.

These will be available at the Cascade Pharmacy, Cascade Spartan Store, Old Kent Bank, and the Twp. Supervisors Office.

Ask for yours today.

Michigan's Horton Trespass Law prohibits hunting on roads or highways in farmland areas, according to the Conservation Department. It also prohibits hunting on any farmlands or farm woodlots or within enclosed lands of a hunting club, without permission of the owner or person leasing such lands.

Mich. lighthouses tourist attraction

Something about lighthouses—those silent, stalwart guardians of the shoreline—appeals to everyone. They attract tourists with their picturesque beauty. To the sailor they are a friendly sight, warning of danger.

Some 75 lighthouses watch over Michigan Waters and the state's 3,000 miles of shoreline. Forty-eight are on shore or close enough offshore to be seen by the motorist.

A tour to all would cover 2,284 miles, but probably most persons will want to visit only those in certain areas. Some lighthouses can be approached only by winding, dirt roads and sometimes the surrounding area is restricted. Some are now owned by the state or private individuals. But all can be viewed, at least at a distance, and photographed. A local or county map is sometimes helpful in finding an exact location.

Some 40 of the state's lighthouses are still manned. Automation has come to the rest and probably the time is not far off when all stations will be automatically controlled.

While some may seem similar in appearance, each lighthouse is unique, with its own signal pattern recognized instantly by mariners.

The first lighthouse in Michgan was Fort Gratiot, just north of Port Huron's Blue Water Bridge. The present tower, of brick, was built in 1861. The tower is 86 feet high and displays a flashing green light visible for 17 miles.

The Detroit area has three lighthouses, two of them on Belle Isle. The Belle Isle Light, at the southeastern tip of the island, was the only Belle Isle Light for navigation between 1882 and 1930 when the Livingstone Memorial Lighthouse was built at the eastern tip on reclaimed land facing Lake St. Clair. The only marble lighthouse in the country, it also is the only one dedicated to an individual. It honors William Livingstone, for nearly a quarter of a century president of the Lake Carriers Association. Members and citizens subscribed the $100,000 cost and presented it to the government. The flashing white light from its 58-foot tower is visible 15 miles.

Just north of Alpena is the privately-owned Old Presque Isle Lighthouse, dating from 1838.

The Old Mackinac Pointe Lighthouse, built in 1892, lost out when the Mackinac Bridge was completed. The lighthouse was decommissioned in 1957 and turned over to the state for an historical museum and recreation area.

Two miles west is the McGulpin Point Lighthouse, predecessor to the Mackinac Point Lighthouse.

On the western shoreline is the Mission Point Lighthouse, about 15 miles north of Traverse City. Now a public park, it is situated on the 45th parallell, equidistant between the equator and the north pole.

Another colorful structure is the Sand Hills Light at Five Mile Point on the southern Lake Superior shore of the Keweenaw Peninsula. Used for only 20 years, it was reactivated by the Coast Guard during World War II, closed again in 1954, and is now privately owned. Another, the Eagle River Light, discontinued in 1908, is a few miles away.

Among Michigan tallest lighthouses are Big and Little Sable, south of the Lake Michgan town of Pentwater. Oddly, Little Sable is the taller and also claims distinction of being the last kerosene-powered light on the Great Lakes, being electrified in 1954. Big Sable was commissioned in 1867, seven years before its nearby companion.

Point Betsie Light, north of Frankfort on M-22 was commissioned in 1858, and shipwrecks visible in the waters nearby testify to its need. It is a favorite subject with artists and photographers.

You'll need a boat to see three of Michigan's most spectacular lighthouses. They are Stannard Rock, lying 23 miles southeast of Manitou Island in Lake Superior, farther from shore than any other American lighthouse; Spectacle Reef Lighthouse, 10½ miles from Bois Blanc Island in Lake Huron, the best specimen on monolithic stone masonry in the United States; and Rock of Ages Light, about three miles off the west end of Isle Royale in Lake Superior, the most powerful on the entire Great Lakes.

Hunting on another man's land is a privilege, the Conservation Department reminds sportsmen. Abuse of that privilege has but one result—loss of a place to hunt.

The "Low Down" From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

Needed: A Joint Congressional Committee on Intelligence

Rep. R. W. Kastenmeier (Wis.) "... The resolution I introduce today would establish a joint committee to be composed of seven Congressmen and seven Senators selected by the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate on a bipartisan basis. It would made continuing studies of intelligence activities and problems. Although the committee would not expect to concern itself with the details of day-to-day operations of the intelligence agencies, the CIA and similar agencies would be expected to keep it currently and adequately informed ... The editorial from today's New York Times states a compelling case for the establishment of the Joint Committee on Intelligence ..." (A condensed editorial follows).

Supervising the CIA

The case of the Singapore bribe attempt raises serious questions about the Central Intelligence Agency and its role in American foreign policy.

Initially, the State Department flatly denied Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew's disclosure that in 1960 a CIA agent had offered him a bribe to cover up an unsuccessful CIA effort to penetrate Singapore's intelligence service. Only after Mr. Lee released a 1961 letter of apology from Secretary Ruak and threatened to put incriminating tape recordings on radio Singapore did the State Department's embarrassed spokesman confirm the incident ...

All this is dismally reminiscent of the false State Department denials in the 1960 U-2 case that broke up the Paris summit conference with Russia. After the Bay of Pigs disaster, President Kennedy ordered new procedures established to assure that the State Department would be adequately informed of CIA activities so that it could exercise policy supervision. The Killian watch-dog committee, originally appointed by President Eisenhower, was revived, given a far more vigorous role, and in 1963 placed under the chairmanship of former White House advisor Clark Clifford.

Evidently some or all of these safe-guards have now broken down ...

The Clifford committee evidently is already looking into the case. A Congressional investigation is also in order. Congressional supervision of the Nation's intelligence activities is obviously inadequate. A joint committee, similar to that which watches over atomic energy has been urged by many Members of Congress; it is badly needed.

Serious damage has been done to American relations with many governments by CIA activities in the past, particularly in Asia. In Jakarta last spring, President Sukarno and many members of his cabinet were reading a new American book, "The Invisible Government," and using its confirmation of CIA intervention in the 1958 Sumatra uprising to justify their hostility to the West and increasing friendship with Communist China. Similar hostilty exists in Burma and Cambodia. It is vital that Washington establish the kind of firm supervision of the CIA that can prevent such blunders in the future.

A GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

At least three Presidents have given direction to the CIA. The dedicated and capable men, heading that organization, have moved in the direction indicated by these Presidents.

Supervision of the lower echelon seems to be where the "skimmer leaks."—J. C.

What's cookin'

Filling space in the Pack-It meal, day after day, calls for variety and ingenuity.

There is no disputing the fact that the sandwich is the food of travelers. One even was stowed aboard the "Unsinkable Molly Brown" to become the first sandwich in space.

Here are two new fillings for sandwiches that go to school.

Tuna Dillies

1 can tuna, flaked
½ c. finely chopped cabbage
¼ c. grated carrots
¼ c. creamy slaw dressing
¼ tsp. salt
One-eighth tsp. celery salt
¼ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
¼ tsp. dill seeds

Combine the flaked tuna, cabbage, carrots, slaw dressing, salt, celery salt, Worcestershire sauce and dill seeds.

Yields 1 and one third cups, or filling for six sandwiches.

Egg'n Nuts

1 c. chopped hard-cooked eggs
¼ c. chopped walnuts or pecans
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. celery salt
3 tbsp. creamy slaw dressing

Combine eggs, nuts, salt, celery salt and slaw dressing.

Yields about 1 cup or filling for 5 sandwiches.

Make a batch of Oatmeal cookies to also put in the lunchboxes or the cookie jar that satisfies those after school appetites.

Crushed pineapple sparks these. Delicious with a glass of milk, they make a healthy giving snack.

Tropical Oatmeal Cookies

½ c. shortening
½ c. granulated sugar
1 c. brown sugar
1 c. crushed pineapple with syrup
1½ c. oatmeal
1 c. sifted flour
½ tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnamon
One-eighth tsp. nutmeg
½ c. chopped walnuts

Cream shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Beat in egg and pineapple, then add remaining ingredients.

Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheets and bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for 15 minutes. Makes about three dozen cookies.

Local man expert herpetologist

Dan Jones and his attractive wife Sally, of 7365 Bronson, S. E., Ada, have some rather unusual occupants in their household: snakes, frogs and lizards. Dan, an amateur herpetologist, became interested in reptiles as a small boy when he collected the usual variety of harmless garter snakes. The last six years his interests have expanded to the reptiles of the world.

A small room of the Jones home is lined with cages which are occupied by copperheads, Western Diamond-backs, Timber Rattlers, a Scarlet King Snake, brilliantly striped in red, black and yellow and lizards and Boas.

Until recently he owned a Pakistan Black Cobra. It didn't shed properly and wouldn't eat. Dan force-fed it for nearly a year, then decided this wasn't worth the risk involved and did away with it.

A young Cayman Island Iguana and Rhinoceros Iguana quietly repose in one cage, belying the speed they can muster when in the open. Their growth has been very rapid—nearly one inch per month.

A few of the reptiles Dan tends belong to fellow Grand Rapids herpetologists Mike Carey and Bob Cowlishaw.

Mike is enrolled at the University of New Mexico and Bob is in the service, stationed in Texas where he has collected more snakes to send back to Mr. Jones. Bob Cowlishaw has collected reptiles all over the United States and in South America.

Carey, who took a trip to the Cayman Islands to collect and observe its animal life, returned with a rare Blue Iguana, of which there are believed to be only 35 in the world.

Dan preferred not to care for this rare species and Mike's mother is left with the responsibility. It's owner has published a paper on the Iguanas found on the islands.

Dan has acquired reptiles from the Isle of Bimini, South America, Tarpon Springs, Fla., India—all over the world.

He doesn't make a practice of milking the snakes of their venom, feeling it isn't good for them. One of his acquaintances at the Miami serpentarium, who does it professionally with Cobras, has been bitten so many times that when he's bitten now, he is practically immune.

Why would anyone in his right mind get into this hobby? Dan has his answer. "Of all creatures, the habits of the reptile seem to be the least known."

Dan is employed at Amway Corporation in Ada, as Project Coordinator of creative arts.

In the future he hopes to publish his beautiful color photographs of these unusual "pets", together with his knowledge of their feeding and other habits.

Hypnosis is no toy

Hypnosis is not a toy and unwise use may seriously affect and individual's physical and emotional health, says a pamphlet of the American Medical Association.

About one person in four can be deeply hypnotized in a relatively short period of time and most people can be hypnotized to some degree. No one is sure why some people can be hypnotized and others not.

Hypnosis can be easily taught in half an hour and can be self-taught from a book. No equipment is needed other than the voice of the hypnotist.

But hypnosis is dangerous in the hands of an amateur and should be used only by qualified professionals.

The most common medical use of hypnosis is as an anesthetic. Patients have been hypnotized for child birth, for dental surgery, during the setting of a fracture and for other forms of surgery. It has also been used to ease anxiety and in the management of painful symptoms such as headache. Obese patients have lost weight as a result of hypnotic suggestion and smokers have been able to cut down or quit entirely.

The American Medical Association has been on record for years as being unequivocally opposed to the use of hypnosis for entertainment purposes. Reports have been received of individuals suffering severe emotional disturbances as the aftermath of being hypnotized by stage performers.

The trained professional, usually a physician or dentist, is well aware that hypnosis can sometimes mask the symptons of a serious illness that should have been treated. One woman went to a hypnotist because she was a chain smoker. She stopped smoking but became a compulsive eater and gained 40 pounds. Another hypnotist cured the overeating problem but the women then became an alcoholic. Finally, she was treated psychiatrically. If she had taken another hypnotic "Cure" for her alcoholism she may well have become a drug addict or commited suicide.

Hypnotism does have certain medical uses, but is not a toy and should never be used by amateurs.

To be a Religious—

To be a Religious, a person should be able to meet these three requirements:

You need three bones.

A wishbone, for you must want to be a Religious.

Also a backbone, a strong will to choose what is right and health to lead the life.

And last, you need a funnybone, to laugh at yourself and others.
