May Procession at St. Robert's

A traditional ceremony was observed by members of St. Robert's Church, Ada, before the 8 a. m. Mass Sunday, May 1.

Approximately 150 young people formed a procession to honor the Blessed Virgin Mary for whom the month of May is named.

The queen for this occasion, traditionally a senior, was Miss Sue Grochowalski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aloysius Grochowalski of Buttrick Avenue. She wore a white dress and on her hair a white lace mantilla which was blessed by the late Pope John XXIII.

The members of her court were Martha Witte, Nancy Grochowalski, Linda McCormick, Carol Neubecker, Beth Witte, Sharon Lozicki, Sue Meier and JoAnn Meier. They wore pastel dresses with white carnation head bands in their hair and carried pastel carnations.

The little princess was Marilyn Witte, daughhter of Mr. & Mrs. Gerald Witte, Fulton Road, East.

And the little prince who escorted her was Peter Budnick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Budnick, Honey Creek Road.

Marilyn wore a pastel dress and flowered head band and carried a small colonial bouquet. She placed the flowers at the foot of the statue of the Blessed Virgin, which were later placed in the prayer folded hands of the statue.

The crown of white rose buds which the queen placed on the head of the statue was carried on a white, lace-covered satin pillow with white satin ribbon streamers, by Mary Grochowalski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aloysuis Grochowalski.

The ribbon bearers were Susan Feeney, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. James Feeney, Fase St., Michelle Sobleskey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sobleskey, Kanpp Road, NE, Sharon Schaaf, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Bernard Schaaf, Knapp Road, and Annette Doyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doyle, Fulton Road.

The Prince and princess and pillow and ribbon bearers are all traditionally kindergarteners.

The young people in the procession carried pastel carnations which were presented to the honored guards. Receiving the flowers were Joe McCormick, Dan Beahan and arranging the flowers were George Grochowalski and Jan Olmstead.

The girls arranged the flowers in a large basket and placed them at the foot of the Virgin's Altar. This bouquet represents the children's gift in tribute to the Blessed Virgin.

The processional music was a solo sung by Karla Prusinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Prusinski, Fulton Road.

Karla sang the traditional crowning words which were set to Prelude opus 28 by Frederick Chopin. Mrs. George Grochowalski accompanied her on the organ.

A group of altar boys led the procession & later assisted the pastor, the Rev. Donald Farrell at the celebration of the Mass. The processional ceremony was planned and directed by Mrs. Fred Beahan and Mrs. George Grochowalski.

After the Mass, the mothers and daughters of St. Robert's Church were welcomed by Mrs. Adrian VanHeren, president of the Ladies Guild at the annual Mother and Daughter Banquet, which is prepared and served by the men of the Holy Name Society.

Chairman for the breakfast was Ms. Fred Shorey and Mrs. William Pullen with Mrs. William Stellin in charge of decorations.

Rangers drop two games in baseball play

The Ranger baseball team lost a pair of games last week to Rockford, 6 to 2, and to Rogers, 8 to 2.

Inability of the pitchers to get the ball over the plate proved costly in both games for the Rangers.

In the Rockford game, the Rangers battled on even terms until the fifth inning when several walks led to a Rockford five run inning.

The same was true again in the Rogers game when Ranger pitchers walked eleven straight men in a big 7 run Rogers' rally.

FH's golf team tops OK league

The Forest Hills Golf team remained undefeated last week with two league victories and one non-league tie.

The Rangers defeated Hudsonville and Kenowa Hills, O-K league members, by 5-0 scores.

Mike Gabriz was the medalist in both matches with low scores of 41 and 42.

Against East Grand Rapids, the Rangers emerged with a 2½-2½ tie. Mike Johnson was the medalist winner with a 41.

The Rangers remain on top of the Ottawa Kent Conference with an undefeated record.

Furniture topic of discussion for April meeting

Paddy's College Extension Study Group learned facts about how to select furniture at a meeting held at the home of Miss Lila Venneman, 6453 44th Street, SE, April 26.

Mrs. Alan Smith and Mrs. Patrick Heslip told of points to look for when shopping for furniture from the standpoint of appearance and construction.

Test upholstered pieces by sitting in them. Be sure that the seat height and depth are proper so your feet will rest on the floor. Also, check to see that you can bounce a little, without touching the bottom of the frame. Push up to see whether the "top rail" hits your shoulder blade.

Fabrics are made of a variety of unrecognizable synthetic materials now. Ask questions about the durability and cleaning ability of the fabric. A reputable businessman can help you make the best selection to fit the needs of your family.

A business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Jack Buys, chairman. Election of officers for next year will be held at the home of Mrs. Michael Patterson, Kraft Avenue, following the annual dinner to be held May 24 at Point West.

Mother

We will honor our mothers on Mother's Day, May 8. In doing so we are obeying the commandment which God gave us on Mount Sinai: "Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Exodus 20:12. This is a basic commandment because it deals with the fundamental structure of society. In Ephesians 6:2 the Apostle Paul calls this "the first commandment with promise," and we ought to lay hold of the promise of God by the keeping of this commandment.

As we honor our mothers we must do so in the framework of our Lord's instruction. Jesus told us: "He that loves father or mother more than me is not worthy of me; and he who loves son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me." Matthew 10:37. Both parents and children must see to it that their loves for each other is subservient to their love for Jesus. Only then will our loves for each other be properly placed and rightly expressed.

The best way for children to honor their mothers (and fathers) is the way of obeying their parents, for this is right. And the charge that comes to fathers (and mothers) is to "give their children the instruction, and the correction, which belong to a Christian upbringing." Ephesians 6:4 (new English Bible). —John Guichelaar

Work on experiments for Science Fair on May 21

Sh-h-h. Junior Scientists at work. This may be the sign posted in many homes of Forest Hills Junior High Students for the next couple of weeks.

Either in a quiet retreat or in the midst of family cacophoney, eager beavers who have entered the Science Fair are busy experimenting and preparing their entries. Their results will be judged on the morning of Saturday, May 21, and at 1:30 p. m. that day will be on view during an Open House for parents, friends and other interested guests.

Experiments and studies include everything from water pollution to computers. One of the intriguing titles is "Observing Heredity in Fruit Flies." Even if you don't care about this subject, perhaps next summer you will when the old bananas get a little too ripe. But do think of the effort that must go into this study by Barb Perry. Then there is the fortitude of Bill Vekasi who is working on "The Effect of Heat on the Sounds of Crickets." Do you remember the sounds of last summer when the temperature rose? Now here comes a young man who is going to research all of that for you.

Some of the other entrants are Steve Hellar, Mart Stirdivant, Davidas Key, Dennis VerStrat, Brad Nethercot, Robert Cornelisse, Mark Mavis and Joe Page.

And here on the list is an interesting conversational gambit, "From Bread Mold to Penicillin," by Karl Fuerste. Try that out on your friends . . . after you have witnessed his experiment at the open house.

It will take a great deal of patience on the part of Charlie Newcomer to complete his experiment, but imagine how much he will learn about research as he prepares, "The Study of Vitamin Deficiency with Mice."

All of the students chose their own subjects. Among others who have entered are: Gerald Hopkins, Nick Beemsterboer, Paula Vadeboncoeur, Barb Bowles, Doug Bart and Eric Blok. Also working busily are John Price, Arnie Gilesse, Wayne Van Artsen, Barbara Clark, Ty Gemmell, and James Dygert.

Jerry Southland, one of the teachers in charge of the project has just recently finished a paper on the subject of Science Fairs in Junior high schools.

He says, "It is at this age that a student, who is interested in science, desires to explore the nature world about him." Mr. Southland feels that too often the children are apt to make only art projects which delight the eye, but do not advance scientific principles. So the emphasis this year will be on real experimentation by the students.

He says, " a science fair for a junior high school with proper supervision, proper judging procedure, and purpose directed projects can be of great benefit to students as well as to help strengthen community relations among parents, students and the school."

With this admonition in mind, other students who have entered their experiments are: Pat Gave, Gary Kappes, Rick Fellows, Leonard Claus, Steve Harrington, Tena Archer and Jeff Elwell.

Also joining the fun at the fair are Alice Vander Berg, Kris Bishop, Barbara Phillion, Jim Havenga and Bud Osmolinski.

Perhaps one of these students will catch and keep the flame that will eventually take him to Stockholm. But whether he travels that far or not, he is bound to come away from the Science Fair with a new respect for the research and everyday labor of those who touch our lives with the magic of science in ever growing ways.

Paris laws require two independent auto horns — one for cities and the other for the open road.

Amway landscaping is nearly completed

Should a factory be beautiful? What if it's out in the country, without "community obligations," and when it's hardly ever seen by the vast majority of its customers?

Amway Corporation thinks "yes". It is just now culminating a complete landscaping program begun a year ago to make its plant and offices as attractive to the passerby as it is functional.

Highway M-21 motorists have noted Amway with increasing interest, though primarily for its constant building program over the past few years.

It was just seven years ago that Jay Van Andel and Richard De Vos moved the small staff of their infant direct-selling business into an abandoned 2,400 square foot gas station-garage on M-21, east of Grand Rapids and just outside the Michigan village of Ada.

One of their first improvements, by the way, was the installation of a flag (Amway is a contraction of "American Way"). Since then, the plant has expanded 32 times to its present 175,000 square feet of floor space and is now the largest employer (525) and taxpayer in Ada (population approximately 400). It has not, however, neglected the aesthetic value of attractive surroundings.

Beginning with a few trees and shrubs planted around the first general office building in 1962, the completed landscaping project is a delightful accent both day and night to the present long row of handsome buildings. The flora design concentrates on the new two-story administration center. Specifically designed to enhance the stone, glass and Redwood structure, the plan includes a curved driveway with portico before the main entrance.

The focal point of the landscaping plan is a 26 foot wide pool, surrounded with large, natural fieldstone boulders, pebbled pre-cast slab walks, low Onaway stone walls and benches of wood slate set on California featherstone boulders. A border of ever-blooming flowers in a red, white and blue motif (the variety of flowers depending on the season) encircle the front of the pool from early spring until late fall. The pool itself also boasts a fountain, centering on a new, prominent flagpole, flying the American flag.

At night, submerged lighting highlights the jet sprays of the fountain in red, white and blue.

Two exceptionally fine specimens of Colorado blue spruce at each end of the pool area effectively compliment the horizontal structural lines of the building.

Transformed from a barren expanse of Grand River flood plain field, the well-manicured lawns, interspersed with drives and visitor's parking areas, feature unusually large transplanted sugar maples, pines, dogwood and other flowering trees, as well as low-spreading yews and Pfitzer junipers. A number of large, interestingly formed or patterned natural fieldstone boulders provide a pleasing contrast among the shrubbery.

Actually, landscaping is only one of many projects nearing completion on Amway's present 275 acres. There's a separate 38,400 square foot building for manufacturing and storing liquid products, a currently being installed fire prevention sprinkling system, new electrical system, and several warehouse additions.

Leading to Amway's growing complex is a new railroad siding, with nearly two miles of trackage from the Grand Trunk railroad, to be completed in a few months. First railroad addition in Ada in over 100 years, the siding is the result of a decision made by Amway on whether to build a West Coast plant or add to the present facilities at Ada, Michigan. Part of the project is the re-routing of Bronson Street leading into Ada, eliminating a dangerous highway intersection, paid for by the corporation.

Not only must the growing Amway complex increase productivity and efficiency, it must also, management feels, harmonize with the quiet beauty of the community and the entire Grand River Valley. Accordingly, good landscaping makes Amway a good neighbor.
