Board Picks Hagen to Fill School Post Principal Awarded Top Role

Carl Hagen, who has served as principal of Lowell High School for the past nine years, will become the new superintendent of schools for the Lowell Area School District.

Announcement of Hagen's appointment to the position was announced at Monday night's meeting of the Board of Education.

Board President Dr. Robert Reagan said that no contract had been formalized with Hagen nor had a definite salary been established, but added "that terms we have generally discussed are satisfactory to the board and to Mr. Hagen."

Hagen is scheduled to assume his new role on or before May 1, at which time the board will release James C. Pace from the remaining weeks of his contract, scheduled to expire on June 30.

Pace has served as superintendent for three years and resigned several months ago.

Hagen has been a member of the Lowell faculty since receiving his Bachelor of Science degree from Michigan State University in 1947. He taught vocational agriculture for 12 years, served as assistant principal for one year and has been head administrator of the high school since 1960.

Dr. Reagan said that Hagen was selected from a field of 40 candidates for the job, ten of whom were interviewed in the past few weeks.

"We feel that Mr. Hagen's long experience with the school system and his background in administration makes him an ideal person to fill this vital job," Dr. Reagan said.

Hagen, 48, was born in Sturgis, Michigan and attended schools there. He was graduated from Sturgis High School in 1939.

He attended Michigan State University from 1939 to 1943 prior to enlisting in U. S. Army during World War II. He rose from the rank of private to that of captain before his discharge in 1947. Two of his four years in service were spent in the European Theater of Operations.

Hagen was awarded his Master's degree in administration in 1960 from Michigan State University.

He has filled several key positions in the educational field, serving as district representative for the M.E.A. and presiding as secretary, treasurer, vice president and president of the West Michigan Principal's Association at various times.

A member of First United Methodist Church of Lowell, Hagen and his wife, Beverly, reside at 315 North Jackson. The couple has two sons, Tom and Jim, both enrolled at Michigan State, and daughter Patricia, an eighth grade student at Lowell Junior High.

West Side Growth Continues

Development of the west side of Lowell, little more than a dream just five years ago, received a major shot-in-the-arm Tuesday with the opening of the Westown Branch of State Savings Bank of Lowell.

Area Road Accidents Fatal to 2

Separate mishaps in the area of Whitneyville Avenue and I-96 claimed the lives of two area residents during the past week.

Dead following highway accidents are:

James W. Gurney, 17, of 4615 Whitneyville Avenue, and Mrs. Sue Ellen Jakubiak, 27, of 1617 Reeds Lake Blvd. SE.

Gurney, a senior at Forest Hills High School, was killed when the motorcycle he was driving collided with a truck at Whitneyville and 48th Street last Thursday.

Kent County Sheriff's Deputies reported that Gurney's motorcycle collided with a truck driven by Gerald L. Reed of Detroit. Gurney was headed south on Whitneyville Avenue and Reed, heading north, was in the process of making a left turn onto 48th Street.

Reed said he did not see Gurney's motorcycle. There were no skid marks, according to the report.

Mrs. Jakubiak died Monday morning from injuries suffered when an automobile driven by her husband, Dr. Ronald Jakubiak, went out of control early Sunday morning and rolled over several times on I-96, a half-mile west of the Whitneyville overpass.

Both occupants were thrown from the car, which burned after ending up in the center median. Mrs. Jakubiak failed to regain consciousness in Blodgett Hospital. Her husband was reported in good condition Tuesday in the same hospital.

Injuries Minor as School Bus, Auto Collide

Both vehicles were damaged extensively, but only two persons suffered slight injuries in a school bus-auto accident on Lincoln Lake Road north of Lowell Monday afternoon.

Bus driver John Vos told Kent County Sheriff's Deputies that he was attempting to pass a car driven by Duane Eckler of Portage when the latter swerved into the side of the bus.

The impact caused the bus to lose its steering and brakes, Vos said, and resulted in the bus striking a truck parked several hundred feet from the crash site.

Eckler was treated for minor injuries by a local physician. An unidentified student on the bus, one of 55 being transported home from classes, also was treated.

"There were few who would have dreamed a few years ago that Lowell would have two bank offices," said President Harold Englehardt in special ceremonies attended by bank directors, all bank employees, civic officials and many of the city's businessmen.

"Not only has the west side development become reality, but there are definite plans in the works now to revitalize the Main Street business section," Englehardt added.

He gave particular praise to Wendell Berman and Douglas Dok of the Lowell Development Corporation for pioneering the westward move of business and residential units.

Dok spoke briefly, pointing out that 59 new housing units are going up this summer and that a total of 300 homes will have been constructed in the area within a five-year period by 1970.

Mayor Arnold Wittenbach officiated at ribbon-cutting ceremonies. Also in attendance were council members Mrs. Virginia Myers and Herbert M. Reynolds.

Representing the bank's board of directors were R. M. Shivel, Everett (Steve) Wittenbach, Dan Vos, Ernest Foreman and Herbert Elzinga, who also serves as a vice president of the bank. Other vice presidents on hand were Keith Caldwell and Herman Stukkie along with assistant cashier Charlotte Siciliano.

Vos spoke briefly as did Fran Smith, editor of the Ledger-Suburban Life. A prayer was offered by Reverend Robert Webber of First United Methodist Church.

Water, Sewer to Be Weighed

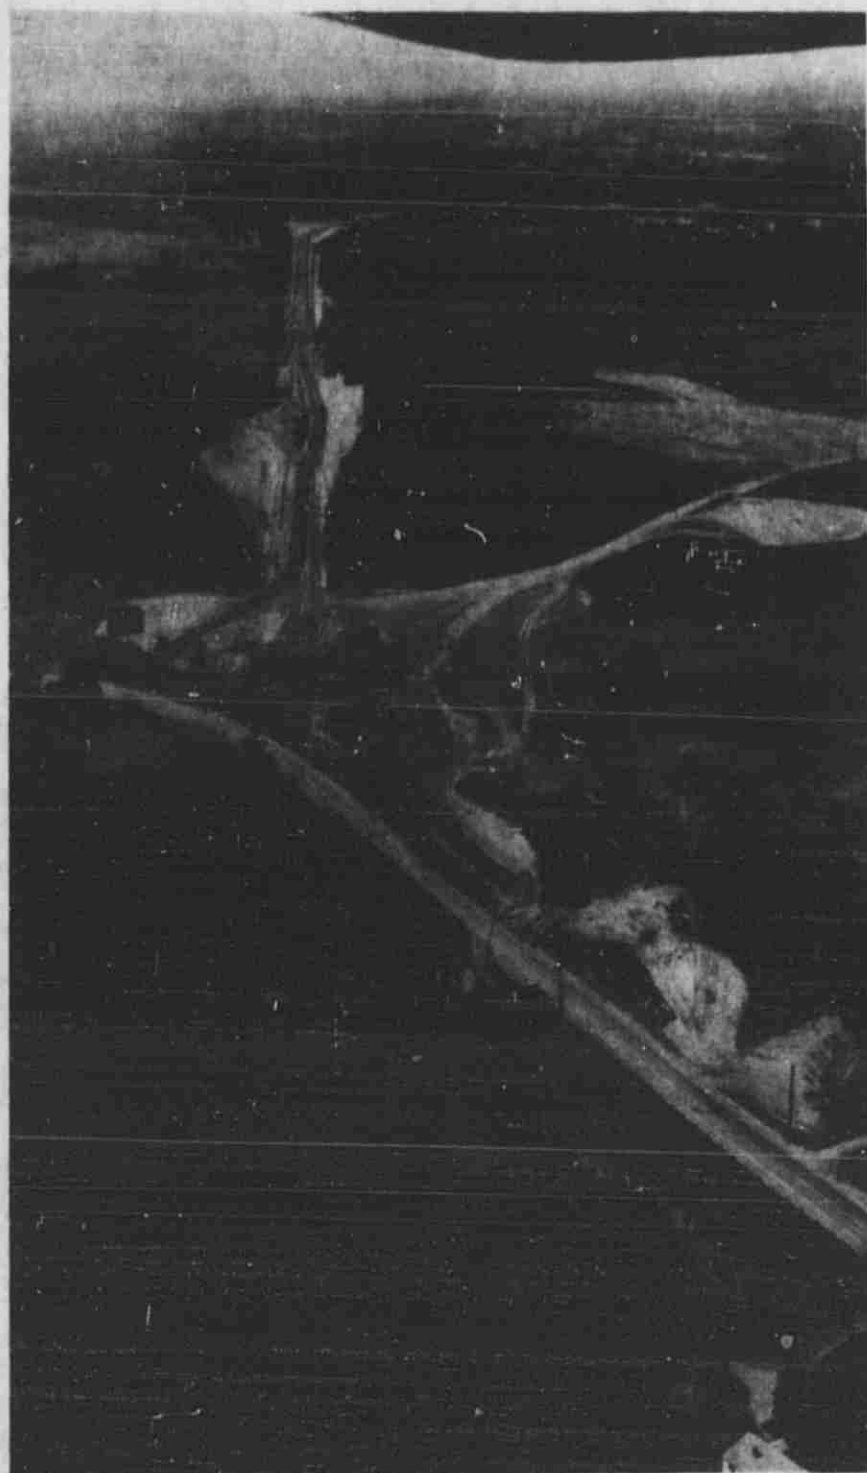

A special informational meeting will be held in the Cascade Township Administration Building next Tuesday (April 22) at 8 p. m. to discuss the possibility of forming a second special water and sanitary sewer district along 28th Street.

The first special district starts from Patterson Avenue and ends at a point east of Kraft.

The Cascade Water and Sewer Advisory Council according to chairman Charles S. Burlingham, is now looking for an expression of interest among the property owners, in the possibility of extending this service to, or to any point short of, Cascade Road (Old U.S. 16).

The council, along with its consulting engineers, will present a progress report, and will show and explain maps of the specific area being studied. Cost estimates will also be available.

Since the council is in the position of serving a need, rather than forcing a service upon the community, it can only be guided by the opinions of the property owners concerned. For this reason, a full turn-out of interested property owners is requested so that the results of the meeting can serve to guide the next steps of the council.

Complete Ada Dam Purchase Agreement

BY SHIRLEY DYBERT

Purchase of Consumers Power Company's hydro-electric dam and adjacent lands in Ada for a price of $1 was announced Tuesday night in a meeting at the Thornapple Association, Inc.

The announcement was made jointly by Dan Wallace, president of the association, and Gordon L. Carson, Grand Rapids division manager for the utility company.

Wallace presented the deed to the property to members of the association. Involved are 325 acres of land, including the pond, and all buildings including the dam structure. This means the association has accepted responsibilities for the maintenance of the reservoir, or pond, level.

The water levels have been set by law and the dam is now being operated by the Kent County Drain Commissioner's office.

The sale ended a long series of meetings between Consumers Power Company, the Thornapple Association, Inc., and a number of Kent County interests concerned with the disposition of the property.

Ada dam on the Thornapple River was built by Consumers Power for electric power generation in 1926 and the last electricity was generated there in 1968.

Ada's hydro maximum generating capacity was 2,000 kilowatts, not enough for economical power generation in these days of 800,000 kilowatt generating units and larger which the company is presently installing, Carson explained.

Will Discuss Boy's Home

A meeting of community-wide interest is scheduled next Tuesday night, April 22, in the Alto School all-purpose room.

Guest speaker for the meeting of the Alto Mother's Club will be Reverend Gordon Blossom of Plainwell, director of the new Honey Creek Home for Boys to be constructed starting this summer on Grand River (Old US 160 and South Boston.

When completed, the school is expected to house about 75 boys between the ages of seven and 14.

Cascade Group Eyes New Act

At a meeting of the members of the Cascade-Thornapple Association, which is interested in the disposition of the Cascade Dam, discussion on Michigan State Act 253 was the main topic under consideration Monday night.

It was revealed by Lloyd Winslow, association secretary, that a change in this legislation is now in bill form to allow one unit of government to establish a river management board.

As presently written two continuous units of government must form a board together. So far, Winslow says, no objections to changing the bill have been voiced.

Re-elected to their positions for the next two years were Clair Andrews, C-TA president; Don Duiven, member of the board of directors, and Winslow.

Search Fails to Find Boater

Dragging operations continued through Tuesday afternoon in the search for the body of Michael Osmolinski, aged 33, of 6720 28th Street, who presumably drowned following a boating accident on Sunday evening. The large search party was augmented on Monday and Tuesday by the use of airplanes.

Osmolinski, in the company of his brother, Frank, was cruising upstream on the Grand River near the M-21 bridge near Ada in a rowboat powered by an outboard when he stood up in the front of the boat, fell over the side and disappeared.

Although Frank turned the boat and immediately searched for his brother, he never caught sight of him again.

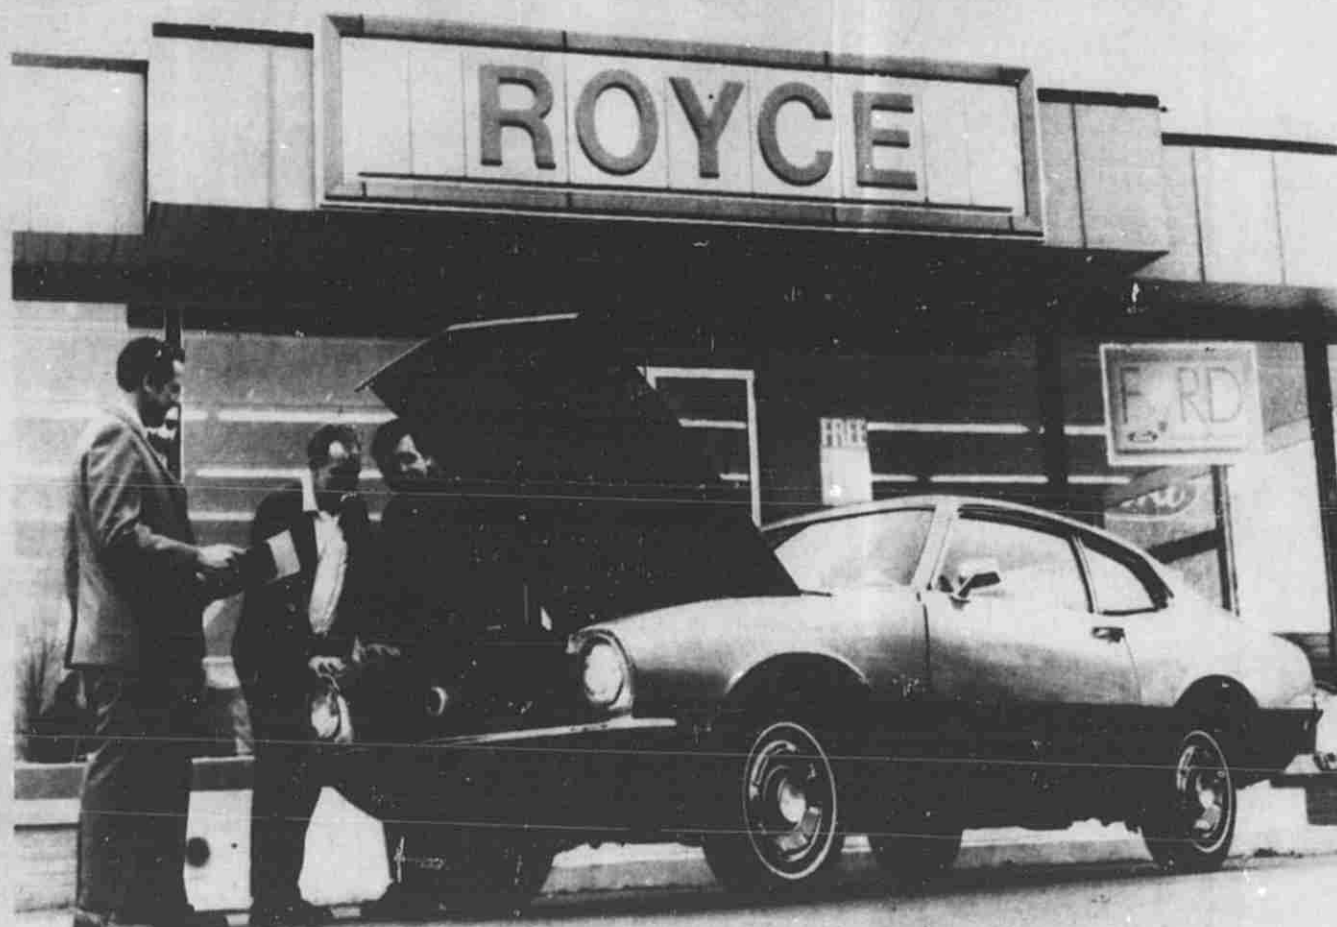

It is known that Osmolinski could not swim. Neither brother was wearing a life jacket.

A record crowd of 762 turned out last Saturday for the Bowens Township Fire Department's annual ox roast in Alto, Chief Harold Metternick reports. Gross receipts were $1,269, according to Metternick. Some of the proceeds will go toward equipping the township with six fire monitors needed to bring the department's alert system to 15.

New Twist to Teacher, School Talks

A new wrinkle has been added to negotiations between the Forest Hills Board of Education and the Forest Hills Education Association... elimination of the mutually-agreed-upon news "blackout" of former years. Negotiators for the board and FHEA are scheduled to meet for the third time this Thursday night (April 17) to continue their efforts in reaching early accord on a master agreement.

Jerry Southland has been designated to serve as spokesman for the FHEA in any contact with the board. Superintendent Robert G. Masten is to speak for the board.

This was agreed upon when the negotiating teams first met to begin the job of hammering out a new agreement.

Southland issued a list of proposals which FHEA negotiators hope to incorporate into the new contract.

Masten, when contacted, declined to comment on the proposals.

"We haven't used the press as a bargaining chip in the past," he declared, "nor do we intend to do so now."

Issue Permit to Construct Amway's 'Hall'

Plans for construction of the Hall of Free Enterprise, purchased recently by Amway Corporation from the 1967 World's Fair, are moving closer to reality today.

At Monday's bi-monthly meeting of the Ada Township Board, building inspector Herman Stukkie disclosed that Amway has been issued a building permit, valued at $300,000, to erect the structure.

Stukkie also reported that 16 permits issued during March had a valuation of $586,450 compared to $171,000 in March of 1968.

The board disclosed that blacktopping of Argo Street from Ada Drive to Patterson is scheduled.

Three new township ordinances were discussed at the meeting and approved. Regulations were established to deal with inoperable cars, trash and swimming pools. The complete ordinances are scheduled for early publication.

Faces Court on 2 Counts

A 30-year-old Lowell man was scheduled to appear before District Judge Joseph White this Thursday to answer charges of reckless driving and resisting arrest.

Lowell police report that Kenneth E. Gould, of 2802 Quillford Drive, was arrested for reckless driving and then charged with resisting arrest when he failed to cooperate with officers. Gould posted bond of $500 on each count pending his court appearance.

Ralph C. Hansma, 36, of Wyoming was remanded to Kent County Jail in lieu of $500 bond after he appeared in district court to plead not guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested Sunday in Lowell.

Roger T. Coble, 27, of Hastings was fined $25 in District Court on a charge of carrying a weapon while intoxicated following his arrest in Lowell Saturday.

Kent County Sheriff's Deputies reported that $20 in cash was taken from the offices of Dr. Robert Bakeman and Dr. Eugene Cohen at 6893 Cascade Road SE early Saturday. The office of Dr. Robert Paine in the same building also was ransacked, but nothing of value was reported missing.

Raccoon Is Worst 'Jaywalker'

The raccoon's safety record is improving, but it is still the worst 'jaywalker' in the southern Michigan animal kingdom, according to a 1968 survey of animal and bird deaths on state highways in Ionia County.

The survey, conducted by the Ionia County Road Commission and reported to the Department of State Highways, showed that 489 raccoons died on state highways in the county, that's 46 less than in 1968, the last time the county made such a survey.

Highway traffic also claimed 228 squirrels and 149 opossums. The slow and clumsy badger had the best record with only two deaths.

Incumbent Board member Harold Metternick disclosed plans to seek re-election. Metternick's seat is the only one to be challenged on the seven-member panel this year.

Bids for buses were opened and passed on to the transportation committee for inspection and approval. A bid calling for $1,470 to repair the intermediate school gym roof was approved.

The board also voted to forego holding a school census, no longer necessary under state law. It is expected this will save the district about $700.

State Road Toll Gains in March

Michigan had 189 traffic deaths in March, four more than the toll in the same month a year ago, State Police provisional figures show.

The March toll also was 11 more than the month's average of 18 for the five years 1964-68. Record high for March was 179 in 1966.

The March deaths brought the accumulated count for the first three months this year to 456, which was 15 or three percent higher than 441 in the same period in 1968.

5,809 School Buses Pass Inspection

Almost 65 percent of Michigan's 8,000 public school buses received State Police approval on first inspection in the annual safety program just completed. The department's safety and traffic division report shows.

This percentage represented 5,809 vehicles having no apparent deficiencies.

Additional checking of the 2,200 vehicles resulted in a total of 12,827 individual bus inspections made by State Police officers in the three-month period. Inspection follow-up on vehicle corrections needed will be done by Department of Education personnel.

The report noted that defective-free buses were found in 95, or about one fifth, of Michigan's 534 public school districts.

Most frequently found deficiencies were inoperative windshield wipers and wipers, exhaust systems, lights and parking brakes. Other inspection items included gas leaks, horns, steering gear, tires, mirrors, reflectors, fuel tanks, defrosters, service and emergency lights, and emergency flares, bus color and markings, bumpers, body condition, heater, first aid kit, steps and seats.

He also worked on the Michigan Central Railroad and Mrs. Delaney remembered seeing the first locomotive that came to Michigan. She watched as her husband and other workers unloaded from a schooner that brought it from Erie, Pennsylvania.

It was different from the modern kind having but one set of drive wheels, but it did noble work in hauling freight from Detroit to Ann Arbor in those early days. It was hauled from the landing place across a marsh, now the city of Detroit, by several yoke of oxen to the track.

She loved to talk about those early days and a bet that was made between the citizens of Ypsilanti and Col. Berrien that the road would not be completed so that a passenger train would arrive at that place 1838. The rails were made of wood with a strap of iron nailed on the top (called snake heads) and when within seven miles from Ypsilanti the iron ran out.

The engine got along alright until it got out of iron, when the snow and ice caused it to slip and it could not be made to move ahead. To add to the difficulty it ran out of fuel and water. The company hired ox teams and a span of horses and hauled the engine a 1/2 passenger car and won the bet.

She was on that historic train and one of the first lady passengers that roared on the MCRB till 1842.

Her husband took up from the government by land warrants earned for her services as contractor on MCRB and coming on the slow stage coaches from Battle Creek via Yankee Springs and Thorp and then about thence to the northern part of Vergennes.

Pioneer Woman Lived Hard Life in Michigan

Mrs. Mary Delaney, who died in Vergennes Township on December 15, 1961 and was buried by the side of her husband, John, in St. Patrick's Cemetery in Parnell, was representative of the hardy pioneers who settled Michigan and made it great by their hard work and sacrifices.

Born in Ireland in 1865, she came to America via a three month long stormy voyage which reduced their vessel to almost complete wreckage. They made their way from New York City, up the Erie Canal to Lockport and Buffalo, before they came to Detroit.

Detroit, as Mrs. Delaney remembered it, was at that time a small French village retaining its French characteristics. There were few highways or roads in the territory of Michigan in those early days and their construction provided work for many of the new residents.

She was the last of the survivors of the 13 who organized the parish of St. Patrick of Parnell in September 1844 and her husband worked on that historic church (now a warehouse) for many years. She was a devout Christian woman, in her pew every Sunday throughout the year in the summer heat and winter cold. She assisted generously in building 4 churches in Parnell, 2 being burned down.

She was the mother of eight children, two dying quite young and six growing to manhood and womanhood.

This grand old pioneer mother, almost a centenarian, died at the age of 97 after a long and eventful life during which she saw Michigan emerge from the forest into the daylight.

State Acts to Curtail Bad Driving

Michigan's driver improvement program for errant drivers has started off 1969 where it left off in 1968... on the up side.

After two months, Secretary of State James M. Hare said that nearly 11,000 varying types of license actions had been taken by the Michigan Department of State, a sharp increase of 2,500 over last year in a comparable period.

Types of actions involved, said Hare, were license cancellations, revocations and suspensions, failure to appear for vocations, denials, and referrals to county driver safety schools.

Berrien that the road would not be completed so that a passenger train would arrive at that place 1838. The rails were made of wood with a strap of iron nailed on the top (called snake heads) and when within seven miles from Ypsilanti the iron ran out.

The engine got along alright until it got out of iron, when the snow and ice caused it to slip and it could not be made to move ahead. To add to the difficulty it ran out of fuel and water. The company hired ox teams and a span of horses and hauled the engine a 1/2 passenger car and won the bet.

She was on that historic train and one of the first lady passengers that roared on the MCRB till 1842.

Her husband took up from the government by land warrants earned for her services as contractor on MCRB and coming on the slow stage coaches from Battle Creek via Yankee Springs and Thorp and then about thence to the northern part of Vergennes.

Mrs. Mary Delaney, who died in Vergennes Township on December 15, 1961 and was buried by the side of her husband, John, in St. Patrick's Cemetery in Parnell, was representative of the hardy pioneers who settled Michigan and made it great by their hard work and sacrifices.

Born in Ireland in 1865, she came to America via a three month long stormy voyage which reduced their vessel to almost complete wreckage. They made their way from New York City, up the Erie Canal to Lockport and Buffalo, before they came to Detroit.

Detroit, as Mrs. Delaney remembered it, was at that time a small French village retaining its French characteristics. There were few highways or roads in the territory of Michigan in those early days and their construction provided work for many of the new residents.

She was the last of the survivors of the 13 who organized the parish of St. Patrick of Parnell in September 1844 and her husband worked on that historic church (now a warehouse) for many years. She was a devout Christian woman, in her pew every Sunday throughout the year in the summer heat and winter cold. She assisted generously in building 4 churches in Parnell, 2 being burned down.

She was the mother of eight children, two dying quite young and six growing to manhood and womanhood.

This grand old pioneer mother, almost a centenarian, died at the age of 97 after a long and eventful life during which she saw Michigan emerge from the forest into the daylight.

State Acts to Curtail Bad Driving

Michigan's driver improvement program for errant drivers has started off 1969 where it left off in 1968... on the up side.

After two months, Secretary of State James M. Hare said that nearly 11,000 varying types of license actions had been taken by the Michigan Department of State, a sharp increase of 2,500 over last year in a comparable period.

Types of actions involved, said Hare, were license cancellations, revocations and suspensions, failure to appear for vocations, denials, and referrals to county driver safety schools.

Getting spring fever? Lying down on the job? Consider the case of Katie Sysma. She celebrated her 80th birthday last Sunday and despite a stroke in 1965, she still does her own light housekeeping, cooking, making beds, and keeping everything as neat as a pin. She also reads, crochets, and knits up a storm. So cheers to her and here's to doing as well!

Shouts of glee exploding from the home of David Penschbacher signaled his 8th birthday celebration was underway Saturday. Enjoying playing games and winning prizes were his guests Ricky Mazur, Karl Horing, Mark Vorel, and Ricky Evans. Also going in strong for hamburgers, hot dogs, chips, and salad were Greg Cohen, David Cooper, and David Landman. Balloon blowing followed by traditional cake and ice cream wound up the day.

From the time of her arrival at the airport where a large crowd of old friends greeted her, Muriel De Kam has been feted right and left. She was a house guest of the Bruce Chavichs where her daughter, Jonette, has been staying all winter while attending school. Muriel was also a house guest of the Charles DeMinck's later in her visit here. She stopped to see Anne Dykshaus and was entertained by Jane Freidenfeld at a luncheon. Muriel's birthday festivities added to the growing list of parties in her honor.

Katie Chandler got a group of old neighbors together for luncheon and included Dottie Vekasi, Barb MacLennan, Phyllis Hamer, Jean Chadwick, and Annette DeMinck. Muriel and Annette took a day off and flew to Detroit to see Peg Lehman who is also a former resident and who now lives in Royal Oak, An-

Just returned from the Spanish Riviera after two weeks of thorough splendor are the Al Terris and the Ken Tarabells. They shared a private villa at San Pedro on the Mediterranean from which they took side trips to historic scenes and across the straits to Morocco. The couples played golf on the mountain sides, bargained in the Casbah, and ate in a Moorish prison built before the time of Christ.

The graciousness of the Spanish people is the first attribute mentioned by attendees, even before the grandeur of the scenery. Everyone who has been seems to want to return there. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Bradley J. Hansen of Alma, Sharon Lenger, Jean VandeRiet, Brenda VandeRieg and Donna Vanderberg.

Thomas Mulder was best man Edward VandeRieg and Phillip D. VandeRiet seated the guests. Groomsmen were Richard DeBoer, Mr. Hansen and Jon C. VandeRiet.

Out-of-town guests included the sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Donna Minor and son, Eddie, of Long Beach, California.

That depends a lot on your sense of humor. If making tracks across a clean carpet to get to a telephone leaves your wife a little less than happy, then perhaps there's nothing so funny about an extension telephone in the garage or workshop.

Michigan veterans attending school under the G.I. Bill can take a summer vacation without losing any of their remaining VA education and training entitlement when they return to school in the fall, according to Robert M. FitzGerald, manager of the Detroit Veterans Administration regional office.

Further, he said, if they plan to return to the same school and pursue the same course next fall, they need not apply for a new certificate of eligibility.

FitzGerald also pointed out to the veterans hoping to find a summer job that G.I. Bill education and training allowances are not affected by the amount of money a veteran earns on his own.

Allowances are determined only by the amount of training (full time, three quarters, half time) a veteran is taking and by the number of his dependents.

Veterans who may decide to continue working after summer vacation is over and before returning to school until next year or later were reminded that they must complete their G.I. Bill education and training within 8 years after their discharge from service or by May 31, 1974, whichever is later.
