Boundary Realignment Continues

Transfer of nine parcels of land to different school districts was approved last week in a joint meeting of Intermediate boards from Kent and Ionia counties, held at Lowell High School.

Lowell acquired property owned by Cleo Hull from the Forest Hills district as part of an agreement to realign boundaries between the two districts. Hull had requested the transfer.

Forest Hills acquired seven parcels of land belonging to A. Edward Ward, F. W. Dunn, R. A. Lynch (two parcels), Roger Faulkner, Dr. Ned Jones and John Stephenson. All are located west of the boun-

The combined intermediate boards denied a request that a parcel of land belonging to Richard Corl, located on Freeport Road south of M-50, be transferred to the Lakewood district from Lowell.

Lowell officials had contested the transfer on the basis that no agreement has been reached for realignment of boundaries with Lakewood. It is planned that discussions on the matter will start in the near has been approved by the city council. Bacon was one of several candidates screened for the position left vacant by the resignation of Bernard C. Olson, who had served as city manager since 1960 when Lowell changed from village status.

The 45-year-old administrator has served for the past 21/2 years as city manager and city clerk for Wayland in Allegan County.

Bacon expects to spend some time in Lowell familiarizing himself with city operations before actually taking over the manager's position.

He said he plans to move his family here as soon as housing accommodations can be arranged. He is in need of a three or four bedroom rental unit.

Bacon said he is "looking forward to as-sumption of my duties in the City of Low-

A thing of beauty is a joy forever. Those that feel the gift donated to Ada Township by a citizens committee is beautiful, may now continue to gaze upon it at length. Those that don't care about it, can Ada Township board members accepted the gift . . . a propellor from the Ada Dam . . . on the condition that it be moved from in front of the township hall to the ball park and placed next to the covered bridge.

In this location, it will be considered an historical piece and art lovers may paint and photograph it as they do scenes of the area and the bridge.

Tourist will have to go a little out of their way to find it, but it will be available to picnickers and ball game fanatics.

As was the case in Grand Rapids, con-troversy over an art gift to the municipal government brought varied comments from members of the governing body as well as private citizens.

Jack Smith, who represented the committee making the gift, said he felt the design of the impeller was of high caliber, that it had performed its service well, and had aided in giving light to the very build-ing in which the township officials conduct

Union Bank officials think so highly of the project they have offered to participate in the dedication ceremonies and to furnish a light lunch beforehand, just as they did at the time of the Calder stabile dedication in Grand Rapids.

Since the ceremonies in Ada will take place on the 4th of July, the bank will begin serving free hot dogs and red pop on its parking lot at 10:30 a.m.

The Fourth of July Parade will form across the street from the bank and will begin at 12:00 noon. Paraders will march to the ball park grounds where the dedication ceremonies will take place.

Jack Du Rand, music teacher at Catho-lic Central high school is writing special music for the dedication.

A committee to name the "sculpture" has turned over its responsibilities to the Township board. Interested citizens are asked to suggest names with a prize going to the person whose title is selected.

Some donations have been received, but more help is asked by the committee. A pedestal of concrete is needed and a marker recording the history of the impeller will have to be made. Money may be turned into the Union Bank branch in Ada. where an art fund has been established by early donors.

A number of people were disappointed that the five-ton metal sculpture was not allowed to remain outside of the township

"I really wish they had left it there," said one man, "after it is painted and raised up in the air, it should be impressive. Any town can have a cannon, but I thought we had something different for Ada.'

A woman, who said that she had been a little skeptical at first, admitted:

"Actually, I rather liked it when I saw it up close. It has clean lines and a feeling of strength. Maybe we could make Ada an art center. Certainly today you don't have to be told what to like or not like, but we could begin with this."

Some young people think that there is nothing wrong with the 'sculpture.' One boy said that he thought that Ada should do something on its own and not try to copy Grand Rapids.

"I think its going to turn out all right, but I wish that we had used local talent," said a teen-ager on a bike.

"At least we didn't have to haul it all

Protest Truck Traffic

Residents of Spaulding Avenue between M-21 and Ada Drive turned out en masse at Monday night's meeting of the Ada Township board to seek a solution to increased truck traffic on the street.

Only two families were not represented ... one because of illness and the other because of vacation.

Last January Spaulding residents had petitioned the board for improvement of Spaulding Avenue, possibly black-topping. The board considered the request and tried to locate additional funds for the project, although its road budget for 1969 had been Residents claim that as many as 100 heavy trucks use the road daily to carry gravel from the pit at the north end. Although there is an exit from the north onto Fulton Avenue, it is not the direct route in some cases to the delivery site.

The petitioners claim that independent truck drivers are making the road unsafe for their children by driving at excessive

Don Scofield, chief engineer of the Kent County Road Commission, was present and explained in detail the use of the county's share of highway revenues. He recommended that residents form a special assessment district to build sidewalks.

The road commission would be willing to build a black-top road at an estimated cost of $30,000. Another alternative, Scofield suggested, was to accept $23,000 from the owner of the gravel pit to be placed with county funds to build an allweather road.

The residents indicated that this was not the solution they were seeking, they would rather eliminate truck traffic by placing a five-ton load limit on that portion of the

The Road Commission will survey trafsafety factors to present at a special hear-

fic using the road and examine damage and The board accepted the gift of the Ada

Dam impeller presented by a citizens committee to the township. As an historical reminder similar to the Rix Robinson marker and the covered bridge, it was agreed that the new monument should be placed at the ball park.

The board also will ask township engineers to study a Department of Public Works map of the Ada water and sewer district. It also considered asking for a feasibility study of new sources of water.

The board received an estimate of $9,-400 for grading of Conservation Road for a distance of three tenths of a mile.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Just because the freak-outs in Grand Rapic, have publicly shown their level of mental decay, do we have to sink ev-

That Ada Dam thing can't weigh more than one-eighth as much as that junk pile in down-town Grand Rapids. If it cost ¼ as much, we have been had. That would put its cost around $15,625. I think the least the town board could do is to request Federal partici-pation of 30 percent like our younger sister-city did. This would bring $4,875 into the township funds.

If they refuse to participate, we should refuse to pay any more Federal income taxes until they come through with our share of their largesse.

Jack H. Dutheler To The Editor:

Ada's proposed stabile is su-premely superior to the straw-berry monstrosity in Grand Rapids. The care and preci-sion of engineering design es-sential to an efficient impeller blade requires a superior de-sign craftsman. It must be perfectly balanced, its conflu-ences, curves, and interwoven contours must be in perfect symphony in order to achieve a smooth and effective result.

It is superior in other aspects as well. First, it is identifiable. Secondly, it has a pleasing symmetry. It is sufficiently massive to warrant respect, yet not sufficiently large to instill a sense of per-sonal insignificance in the spirit of the viewer.

Congratulations to the many citizens who have had sufficient foresight to preserve this evidence of functional art, created by our forefathers.

Gordon Oatman

To The Editor:

The proposed Ada stabile was lying on the ground Monday morning near the flag pole at the township offices. It appears to have a certain rugged charm which will make it a definite asset as a monu-

In all fairness, it should be shown the respect it deserves and placed on a pedestal. This would give it a better perspective and would permit the placement of a placque on the vertical surface of the pedestal to tell future generations the story of its significance. Enclosed is $5 to help pay the cost of the pedestal.

Steve Cridler

To The Editor:

What a switch-a-roo in Ada. So Mr. Jack Smith has found a piece of junk on the bed of the Thornapple river during the cleanup.

A few weeks back a town-ship junk and trash ordinance went into effect. Now Mr. Smith wants to put his junk in front of our township hall. We'l that is one way of getting rid of it, as our dump is filling up and I am almost certain it would cost Mr. Smith a nice piece of change to have his piece of junk hauled away.

The only good I can see of this is that the people in Ada Township will have the oppor-tunity to paint up their junk that is questionable and call it some odd-ball name and it becomes an object d'art.

Maybe our dump will not fill up as fast as it has in the past two weeks. So how about it Mssrs, Board members, are we going to have Mr. Smith's junk on our lawn in Ada? If so then I believe those of us who have what you believe is worthless junk but has some use to those who own it will be in the position for a good defensive argument if a complaint is made against them.

If Mr. Smith cannot find room for this 5 ton object in his yard then have him have it hauled away like a lot of the citizens of Ada have had to do since the ordinance was put into effect. If you, the Boord, allows this monstrosity to be placed on the citizens. to be placed on the citizens lawn in Ada you are defeating your own township ordinance
