Get Projects Ready for 4-H Youth Fair

Nearly 3,000 youngsters in Kent County are busy today putting the finishing touches to their 4-H projects for exhibit at the 35th annual 4-H Youth Fair next week. Scheduled to start next Monday (August 11) at the Lowell 4-H Fairgrounds, the fair is open to youth between 9 and 15 years old.

Activities get underway with judging of horse and pony projects at 12:30 p.m. on Monday.

Most other projects are due on Tuesday with foods, clothing, conservation, photography, vegetable garden and home design to be judged as they are brought in. Wednesday's judging schedule includes beef, swine, poultry, rabbits, dairy goats, sheep and dogs and many of the projects displayed in the Exhibition Hall.

A full day's schedule of demonstrations is planned for the Exhibition Hall stage on Wednesday. A style revue of clothing will be held on stage in the evening.

Dairy cattle will be shown next Thursday.

Highlights of the five-day event include Tuesday evening's horse show at 7:30 p.m. and the Service Club Square Dance on the tennis courts, to which everyone is invited.

The annual livestock auction sale of club members' project animals will be held on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the beef barn. Miss Sue Fales, 1969 4-H Fair Queen, and her court will be presented at this time.

Thursday evening will feature the livestock parade of 4-H members and their project animals followed by a variety show in front of the grandstand.

Buck Barry will be present on Thursday afternoon (August 14) at 5:00 p.m. to present a special program for the youngsters. Thursday is Kid's Day at the Fair with reduced prices on all rides.

Projects will not be released until 9:00 p.m. on Friday evening.

Everyone is invited to come to the fair—visit the exhibits, enjoy the big rides—the kiddie rides and the carnival concessions on the midway. There are no admission or parking charges.

The fair is planned and administered by a board of directors including John Brower and Paul Detmers of Lowell; E. L. Phelps, Cedar Springs; Bill Blume of Ada; Bob Welton, Belmont; Richard Crissman, Ken Fitzsimmons and Bud Fairbrother of Caledonia; Al Ingraham, Rockford; Jim Fales and Gordon Goodfellow of Sparta; and Mrs. Wanda Sowerby of Greenville.

Junior directors who meet with and assist the board are Mary Erhart and Leonard Post, Rockford; Barb Welton, Belmont; Sue Dressel, Grand Rapids; Jim Fairbrother and Sue Crissman of Caledonia.

Two Injured in Separate Auto Accidents

Two Lowell residents were injured in separate accidents during the past week.

Diana Collins of 725 Lincoln Lake required local medical attention after the car in which she was a passenger was struck at the intersection of Grand River Drive and M-91.

Lowell police report that the car, driven by Dean Collins of the same address, was heading south on M-91 when it was hit by a car driven by Linda Thuston of 3990 Causeway Drive, Lowell. Miss Thuston was ticketed for failing to yield the right-of-way.

Minor injuries were received by a Lowell woman last Friday as a result of a two-car collision at Division and 54th Street in Wyoming.

Rosalie Ripley, 26, was treated at St. Mary's hospital. According to Wyoming police she was alone at the time of the accident.

Also injured were Dawn E. Bark, 17, driver of the other car, and her passengers, Peggy Day, 18, Connie Ledford, 12, and Donna Ledford, 9.

REAL 'COVER-UP'

They won't know it, but some home owners will be living with wallboard made partially of material obtained by grinding up phonograph record album covers judged obscene by New Jersey authorities.

ADDED ATTRACTION

One new line of billard tables will appeal to nostalgia by offering simulated brass spittoons as accessories.

In the newspaper business (and probably in more than a few others around the area, too) these are known as the "dog days" of summer . . . when most folks are vacationing or just don't care much about stirring needless.

It's really nothing more than the calm before the autumnal storm, in a manner of speaking. In just a few weeks, mothers will be frantically getting youngsters ready for the opening of school, organizations that suspended meetings for the summer will be getting together again . . . and the pace of life will quicken overnight.

I remember a summer back in the early '50s when my first editor, Wallace Mac Lachlan, took off for one of his numerous trips to Pennsylvania where he painstakingly followed the route of the Civil War armies.

We had a fellow reported named Des Arnsby who would take over Mac's desk during his absence . . . and Mac usually timed his vacation to coincide with the so-called dog days.

It was really hot that year and it seemed like there was just nothing doing around town . . . except for some baseball and softball games, which I covered as sports editor.

Des came into the office one morning, slumped into the editor's chair and wiped a brow already oozing sweat despite the early hour of the day.

"I think it's hot enough out there to fry eggs on the sidewalk," he muttered.

One of my duties was to strip all the copy off the teletype machines and dispatch it to the various departments including the editorial desk.

"Anything doing today?" Des asked. I told him that things were about as dead around the country and the world as they were in town.

"Then I'm going to experiment with something I've always had a hankering to do," said Des, picking up the phone to call the photographic department.

You can just about guess what happened next. Des sent a photographer-reporter team out to actually see if eggs could be fried on the sidewalks.

The resulting picture story proved to be one of the best ever produced by the paper. More importantly, it got us through one of those dog days that no editor worth his salt ever wants.

Speaking of photographers, our young protégé Scot Jefferies concluded his employment with the Ledger-Suburban Life last week to allow for a brief vacation before entering Michigan State University as a freshman this fall.

In the short year and a half since we switched to offset printing . . . and the subsequent requirement of better-quality pictures . . . Scot's work has improved tremendously.

But don't tell him we said this. It might just turn his head!

Seriously, we wish this young man well. He has the capability of becoming a top-flight photographer if this proves to be his particular bent in life.

The funniest story of the past week involves a young fellow named Neil Fonger, who attended the annual Moose picnic at Fallsburg Park.

About midway through the afternoon, Neil took off to participate in games designed to keep the young ones from underfoot.

Sometime later, he rejoined the family . . . lugging a box containing a horseshoe contest for kids, a prize definitely not awarded to winners of contests sponsored by the Moose!

After some parental prying, it developed that Neil had wandered over to another picnic being held nearby . . . and emerged as a winner there!

Ah, to be at the age of sweet innocence again.

PENNY CARNIVAL SUCCESS

A penny carnival to benefit UNICEF was proved successful last week as youngsters in the Paradise Lake area managed to raise $38.24 for the cause.

Mrs. Howard Zollinger, who supervised the event, attributed the success to a late afternoon auction of decorations which had been donated by a local store.

Surprise Ending to Showboat Trip

One of the most surprised couples in the area last week were the senior Charles J. Gallaghers.

It is not often that you plan to go to a performance such as the Lowell Showboat, much less meet a star such as Milton Berle . . . and then have him hand you tickets to Ireland.

Last November, the couple was given a carefully-planned surprise party in Detroit honoring both of their birthdays and their anniversary. Their sons, Bob and Charles,

Voting Machine Purchase Approved

The day of the paper ballot is a thing of the past for the City of Lowell following action by the city council Monday night.

The council voted to purchase four voting machines at a cost of $1,916 each to handle future elections, the first of which would be the city's primary next spring.

Council acted upon a recommendation by incoming City Manager Blaine Bacon, who pointed out that the cost of voting machines was scheduled to increase slightly less than $100 per unit on August 1.

A new state law would have required Lowell to establish four voting precincts, instead of the present two, had the city continued to use paper ballots. This would have increased the number of election workers almost in direct ratio.

The law permits cities, villages or townships to establish one precinct for each 1,200 registered voters providing two voting machines are used in a precinct. This means that Lowell can almost double its present registrations before a new precinct setup would be required.

Bacon, who takes over the city manager's role on August 18, will have one major problem confronting him at the outset of his administration.

Council declined to take any action on the matter of a recent notification from Police Chief Avery Block that he will be physically fit to return to duty between August 15 and September 1.

Chief Block has been idle since January 25, during which time he underwent three major operations for a back injury and complications.

Council members appeared hesitant to authorize any action and quickly dropped the matter when Mayor Arnold Wittenbach exclaimed:

"I don't feel there is any need for further discussion at this time. It is the city manager's job to assign personnel and I feel the new city manager should be allowed to review the matter."

Councilman Herb Reynolds then made a motion to defer the matter to Bacon and a 4-0 vote followed.

During Chief Block's absence, the position of acting chief has been assigned to Sgt. James Hutson.

Council also received a copy of a letter from Donald Schofield of the Kent County Road Commission to the Department of

Paving Project Planned for M-50

Opening of bids on 21 highway construction and maintenance projects was scheduled for Wednesday in Lansing.

Among the projects planned by the Department of State Highways is paving of 4.2 miles on M-50 from a point 1.770 feet south of I-96 to 84th Street at Bowne Center.

Estimated cost of the job has been set at $160,000 with completion scheduled November 30, 1969.

DANCE — Thursday, August 7, 8:00 til 12:00 in the C.H. Runciman Building. c-17

State Highways indicating a willingness on the part of the Kent County Board of Supervisors to underwrite 50 percent of the cost of installing a new safety flasher at the C & O Railroad crossing on South Hudson (M-91).

The letter pointed out that the State Highway Department, which has jurisdiction over M-91, has received gas and weight taxes for many years while the city has received these taxes only of recent date.

Estimated cost of the project was set at about $70,000.

A public hearing was set for 8 p.m. on Tuesday, September 2, on a recommendation from the planning commission that proposed Valley Vista No. 6 be changed from A-1 zoning to A-2.

Council also approved a permit for a new marquee on the King Milling Company facade.

Backwaters of Cascade Dam Periled

BY SHIRLEY DYGERT

Will the waters of part of the Thornapple River be lost forever? Will the intrinsic value of its beauty go, literally, down the drain?

Will Cascade Township lose a feature that has helped make it one of the most desirable locations in the county for residents and industry?

These and other related questions must be answered soon, according to Supervisor Al Heemstra.

Speaking at the monthly meeting of the township board Monday night, he explained what the future holds regarding that portion of the Thornapple River above the Cascade Dam.

Consumers Power Company owns the dam, which is being manned during the company's strike period by supervisory personnel. But Consumers would like to relinquish title to the dam or abandon it since the company no longer derives monetary returns from its operation.

Consumers Power has informed township officials that it intends to lower the water behind the dam for inspection when the strike is settled. At that time, waters will recede to their original level. Following determination of the engineering status, the power company will not return the level to its present height.

A meeting has been called, because of the urgency of action for a solution, for Tuesday, August 19, at 8 p.m. in the Administration Building.

The township board will meet as a Committee of the Whole with the board of the Cascade River Association to explore several avenues for the solution to the problem.

It is expected that without the present high level of water flowing over its surfaces, the dam may quickly erode.

At one time it was thought that the dam might be owned and operated by Cascade Township under the River Management Act 253. However, a change in the state bill requiring two contiguous governmental units to operate together failed to pass and a new method of procedure will have to be found or Cascade Township will lose the value it has long received from the portion of the river within its boundaries.

Discussion of the junk car ordinance brought out the fact that all townships in the county are having trouble determining exact rulings that will be enforceable. Funds for removal of junk cars are not available in most local budgets and state authorities trying to deal with the problem have not been able to offer any immediate solutions.

Ada Township Supervisor Fred Clancy appeared before the Legislative, Judicial, and Environmental Health Division of the Kent County Health Department. The latter department is concerned because junked cars are breeding places for rodents.

Supervisor Heemstra said he would like to invite solutions from the residents of Cascade Township and will listen to any reasonable suggestions that would solve the junk car problem.

Arrest Man Suspected in Check Charge

A former area resident has been bound over to Kent County Circuit Court following his arrest in Indiana.

Police in Indianapolis, acting on a tip from Sgt. James Hutson of the Lowell Police Department, apprehended James Alexander, who had resided in Kent and Ionia counties about three years ago.

Returned to Michigan, Alexander waived examination when arraigned before 63rd District Judge Joseph White and was bound over to Circuit Court on individual charges of forgery and uttering and publishing. Bond was set at $2,000.

Alexander reportedly is wanted in Cincinnati for violation of probation on a burglary charge.

Sgt. Hutson and Kent County Sheriff's Detective Richard Williams had been seeking the whereabouts of Alexander for several weeks following complaints in Lowell and Ionia and Montcalm counties that bad checks had been issued by a man answering his description.

Michigan State Police verified the forgery following an examination of the bogus checks in the East Lansing crime laboratory.

Alexander reportedly has been questioned about several unsolved crimes dating back several years.

Prospects 'Shape Up'

Preparations for the 1969 football season get underway this week at Forest Hills High School, according to head coach Frank Rosengren.

Conditioning drills are scheduled for all grid candidates starting this Thursday evening (August 7) at the high school athletic field at 7 o'clock.

The first practice sessions will commence on Monday, August 11, with the varsity reporting at 7:30 a. m. and the junior varsity and freshman teams following at half-hour intervals. Afternoon sessions also will be held with the freshmen reporting first, followed by the JV's and varsity.

AMERICAN LEGION LANES

Another innovation on this year's preparation list is an orientation class for the public, especially mothers of the players. Called "How to Watch and Enjoy Football," the course will be offered at no charge in the high school home room August 12 and 13 starting at 7:30 p. m. and will feature discussions by the coaching staff and highlight films of football action.

The perfect gift, personalized sets including matches, napkins and coasters. See them now at the Ledger office.

There were many among the so-called experts who pooh-poohed the idea when it was first suggested and later adopted, but I'm sure that even these cynics will now agree that baseball is better than any other sport spread the talent more evenly throughout the majors.

And would you believe that football is already here!

Saw just enough of the Jet-College All Star game the other night to make me wish the Chicago Tribune would drop the entire idea and raise money for its charities some other way.

Lowell 'Y' Swimmers Prep for League Meet

Lowell YMCA swimmers this week were in final preparation for the annual Michigan Swim Y-League conference meet to be held Thursday and Saturday (August 7 and 9) at the Jolly Roger Swim Club pool in Grand Rapids.

Ada Softball

Softball being the king of sports in Ada in the next two weeks, according to Ada Athletic Association spokesman Tom Bogard.

The annual Ada B-C tournament is scheduled to get underway next Monday (August 11) with entries coming in daily from all surrounding communities.

Next Wednesday and Thursday (August 13-14), the state Class D District Tournament is scheduled at the local park. Included in the lineup of competitors are Longleggers, which has clinched the overall League title in the Ada League, and Pfeifers, currently setting the pace in the American League.

The 1969 championship game also is scheduled next week with Longleggers pitted against the American League pennant winner for the overall league championship.

Bogard said that efforts are being made to bring the state Class B regional championship tournament to Ada and that a decision is expected within the week.

Longleggers wrapped up the title of the National League with a 4-2 win over Sparks last week, and kept its record unblemished at the same time by gaining a 3-1 win over Lowell Moose to clinch at least a share of third place.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Pfeifers	7	2
Longleggers	6	4
Amway	4	4
Lowell Moose	1	9

RESULTS

St. John's, Lowell Moose 3
Pfeifers 4, Fratic 1

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Longleggers	9	8
Pfeifers	7	2
Hals	4	2
Sparks	4	2
Steelcase	1	9

A final dual meet has been scheduled for early next week.

Area Players Competing in State Meet

Teammates Rob McCormick, Stan Grochowalski and Tom Dwyer of this area, who play for Apex Pooling in the Connie Mack Baseball League, will play in the state tournament Sunday at Kentree Polo Club.

Tournament officials determined that Maurie Houseman, a member of the Orioles, had participated as a substitute in one chukker too many and ruled the match forfeited to Centaurs.

Orioles had been given a five-goal handicap based on a different lineup, according to a club spokesman.

Centaurs thus earned the right to meet Ada next Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. in the concluding match of the Nelson Memorial Trophy series.

Kentree is scheduled to play at Orchard Lake on August 17 for the Michigan State championship. On August 23-24, the Bob Bohn Challenge series will be held at Kentree with teams from Crete and Barrington, Illinois, participating.

MRS. RICHARD LYONS

St. Patrick's Scene of Nuptial Mass

Marriage vows were exchanged during a nuptial mass Friday evening at St. Patrick's Church in Parnell between Ann Louise Feuerstein and Richard Leigh Lyons.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Algene Feuerstein of Murray Lake Road NE in Parnell and Jack Feuerstein of Thornapple River Drive SE, Alto, and Mr. and Mrs. Ormand Lyons of Center Street, Lowell.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore a wedding gown fashioned of sheer tulle over tulle featuring elbow-length sleeves and floral embroidery. A matching cathedral-length veil adorned with trim to match fell from a charming white pillbox hat.

Her attendants, maid of honor Kay Feuerstein, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids

Betty and Barbara Lyons, sisters of the groom; and Gianna Lyons, cousin of the groom, wore floor-length gowns of red with white accessories.

Christine Lyons, sister of the groom, and Ted Feuerstein, brother of the bride, were junior attendants.

Tom Speerstra was Mr. Lyons' best man. Groomsmen were Douglas Coverston, Daniel Nugent and George Allich.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Shady Acres Farm on Bailey Drive. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Lyons, aunt and uncle of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter VanEenenaa of Grand Rapids acted as masters and mistresses of ceremonies.

The young couple will make their home for the present near Selridge Air Force Base where the groom is stationed.

Forest Hills Hi-Lites

BY SHIRLEY DYGERT

Westward ho and back from California are Gary Halliday and Terry Niles. Not unlike the old pioneers, Terry built his own transportation. In the spirit of the 49'ers they made the west coast in a bright blue dune buggy.

Back from Colorado is Marian Ichue, from Sweden is John Price, from the Continent are Jane Belding, Barbie Welsh, Lynn Shuster, William Woodall, and Thomas Gape.

Word arrived in Cascade that the Sy Dykhouses were unable to book passage to Alaska and ended in Disneyland instead. It's too bad that they didn't make that jaunt; Sy was up in that area in his salad days and has long wanted to return.

Here's a wonderful idea for friendly neighborhoods. The Paradise Lake area residents held a "Christmas in July" picnic last week. Picnic tables were set up in Far Hill Street which was closed for the day. Besides just a good excuse to get together, there was a real purpose behind all of this activity. Each family brought a filled Christmas bag for the boys in Vietnam. The bags had been distributed earlier under the chairmanship of Betty Monahan. They were deposited in a candy-striped barrel.

This was Paradise Lake's contribution to the American Red Cross request for Christmas donations for Vietnam. The attendance was over a hundred and fifty. Along with the picnic fare under the chairmanship of Lois Pitcher and Pat Bouman, the eager guests had the fun of viewing a fully decorated tree in midsummer.

It sometimes happens... all of those contests you read about and once in a while enter, actually do have winners. Friends of Gregg Moll got vicarious thrills when he won second prize in a nation-wide Pepsi-Cola contest. He was Boy-of-the-Neighborhood with his new mini-bike.

Ken and Ann Adriane are in Europe as chaperones to a group of high school students. They are both teachers in California and have taken the summer trip to act as guardians, advisors, and friends as the students travel and attend study sessions in several countries. They will be back in the United States on August 29.

Stay-at-homes have been having good times too. Fred and Jane Bannister took advantage of the weekend weather and invited a huge crowd of old friends to their house-warming. Immaculate lawns and sweet blossoms became the background for tables covered with red and white checked cloths and laden with tons of food. Each bowl and platter contained a special recipe that Jane has been collecting for just such an occasion... but not for long. The guests never stated that they would only stand and look! Later the tables were turned over to card players.

Maid of honor was Claudia DeBruyn of Grand Haven with Cecelia Fahay and Nancy Franks as bridesmaids.

Serving as best man was Dan K. Heines. Ushers were M. H. Houseman Jr. and Kenneth H. Childs.

The marriage of Linda Maire Schafer of Lansing and Charles Ellis Kyser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kyser, Route 3, Lowell, has been announced.

The newlyweds are at home at 601 W. Shiawasee Street, Lansing.

An open house honoring the bridal couple will be held Sunday, August 17, from 2 to 5 p. m. at the Gerald Kyser home. Friends and relatives are all cordially invited.
