

Former Chief Seeks $2,000 in Back Pay

Former Police Chief Avery Block, who last week was denied re-instatement to his post by City Manager Blaine Bacon, claims he has about $2,000 coming for back compensatory time, sick leave, vacation pay and some department equipment.

The city manager, however, in a verbal report to the city council Monday night, stated that Block had been a salaried employee and therefore was not entitled to any accumulated fringe benefits.

Bacon said he had conferred with former City Manager Bernard Olsen for clarification on Block's classification as police chief and that Olsen had stated that Block was definitely classed as a "salaried department administrator."

Bacon said he had based his action in denying payment to Block on Olsen's contention that during the tenure of the former chief in office he could not "bank" compensatory overtime, nor be paid for vacation time or sick leave.

But Block contends that the words "salaried employees" is being made a subject of misinterpretation.

He contends that certain city employees are currently on a "salary" basis and that they are being paid for all overtime, sick leave and vacation pay.

Block had served the police department for the past eight years, six years of which he was chief.

During that time, especially in emergencies, court hearings, and substituting for officers on leave, Block put in considerable overtime, he says.

In the hassle, Block has given the appearance of going along with the decision not to allow him the opportunity to resume the Chief's post. But some sources believe that Block is bitter over his recent ouster.

Bacon, on the other hand, says his decision to relieve Block of his job was a "difficult decision" to make and that he felt that Block could not meet all the requirements a police officer in Lowell must meet.

Late Tuesday, Block indicated he would seek a meeting with Bacon in an effort to prove his claim for the $2,000 and planned to take no further action until the conference with the city manager.

Nicknames are funny things. I don't really know just what brings this to mind, but when you stop to think of it, there really can be a lot of humor in nicknames.

For example, would you ever guess that around my house . . . and to a few of the folks here at the paper, I am The Goat. My dad, that senior citizen who throughout his life has answered to A.P., in more recent years has become Senior Goat. Brother Dave, who plies his writing wares as business editor of the Detroit Free Press, is Super Goat.

Son Bruce, of course, became Junior Goat and another son, Kevin, answers to Mini-Goat.

Kevin also has become the staff photographer in recent weeks as Scott Jefferies prepares to depart for Moo U. at East Lansing and Kevin has been pinned with "Junior Snapper" (among other terms not quite so endearing).

Good Friend Wife, who has been introduced here several times as GFW, also answers to Crow . . . and daughter-in-law Elvia (Bruce's wife) is naturally Junior Crow.

People who get too close to the Smyths at a family circle meeting go away shaking their heads. They never seem to know who is talking to who about whom.

I have responded to many nicknames in my lifetime, with Smyth the most common. At one time I was called Spike . . . though I confess that I really don't know why.

Long before entering the newspaper business . . . but because Senior Goat had been in the trade for years . . . I was known as Scoop and that name held for a few years after we got started.

During two years at Windsor Raceway, we worked with a fellow from Montreal named Gaston Valiquette. He was called Alley Cat. What else?

Gaston hadn't known me more than a week and he dubbed me Francois LeBeau, if I read my French correctly, stands for The Bull. Do you think Gaston was trying to tell me something? At any rate, to those of the front office crew at the track, I was LeBeouf.

One of the great athletes I knew during a few years with the Detroit Pistons was George Yardley, whose pate was prematurely thin. When George threw those long jump shots of his, he rose majestically into the air and hence the nickname "Bald Eagle" or "Bird".

Another basketball player who had an unusual nickname was Don Ohl, who for years wore a true "butch" haircut, which was carefully brushed several times a day. To keep the hair a-bristle, Don used a staff wax. Little wonder he was known as "Waxy."

Another basketball player of some renown, who will be with the New York Knicks when they come to Grand Rapids a week hence, is Tricky Dick McGuire . . . now a scout for the Big City boys.

Just about now, what with everyone pinning Nixon with that handle, I think I'd decline the honor if I were McGuire.

Of all the nicknames assigned in recent months, the one I admire most belongs to Gene Kaye at Arrowhead GC.

Here's a guy who could whisper on the 14th hole and be heard in the clubhouse . . . which is something like about 800 yards away.

Don't ask me who pinned him with it—(I think it was a joint effort by a few of us with tender ears)—but Gene has become Mighty Mouth! Or MM, for short.

Yep, nicknames sure are funny. You shoulda heard the gal reading proof on this column. She can't even spell, let alone read.

Tell me . . . what's a "jerque?"

Plans have been completed for Lowell-area participation in the annual United Fund Community Service campaign, according to Dr. Robert Reagan, local secretary.

The drive for funds will begin on October 1 and will continue through October 31.

General chairman for the Lowell area and Vergennes Township is Stanley N. Gardner. Assisting him as sub-chairman are Herb Reynolds of the Rotary Club and Dr. Clark Vredenburg of the Lions Club.

Workers who will be calling on small businesses will be from the local Lions and Rotary Clubs.

Any civic club or group that wishes consideration to receive funds from Lowell's share of the fund should submit requests in writing to Dr. Reagan by September 22.

The nature of the requests to be considered for approval by the board must be for capital expenditures or approved operating and incidental expenses.

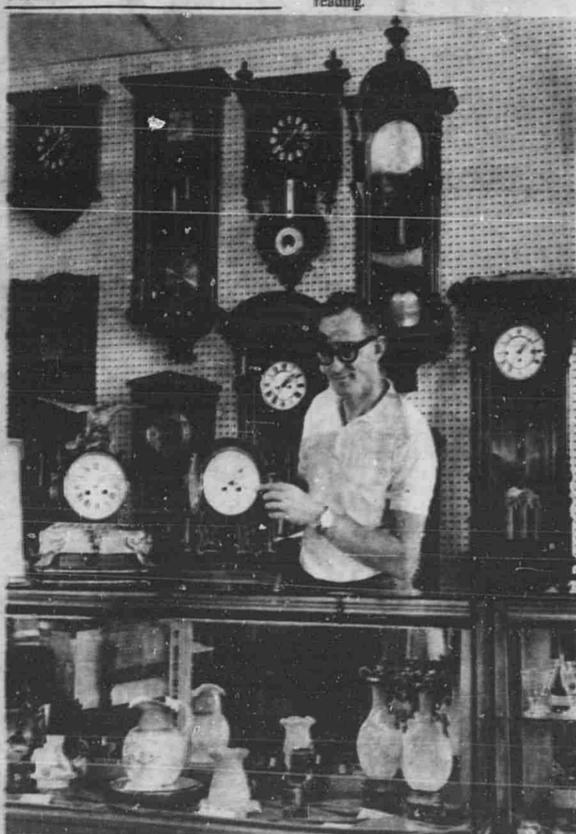

Last year, local Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Campfire groups received a total of $1,000 from the fund.

Antique Clock Collectors Rely on Lowell Craftsman

Every summer hundreds of avid American antique clock collectors journey to Europe intent on bringing home those sturdy old timepieces made famous by master-craftsmen of the long ago.

As a result in countless American homes may be heard the soothing tick-tock sounds emanating from gracious living rooms.

But the American collectors failed to reckon on one important factor . . . what to do when the old time recorder gets out of order. Where do you find a clock-craftsman trained in the old country to do an expert repair job?

A valuable assist is being given to the old clock buffs by antique collector's magazines. Articles in these publications point out that an "European-trained clock craftsman is located in Lowell, Mich."

His name is Kornelius Bronsema, 47, known to the trade as a "horologist," one versed in the art and science of timepieces.

He and his wife, Pat, operate a shop at 220 West Main, where hundreds of old clocks are on view.

Just how they picked Lowell as a place in which to locate makes for interesting reading.

Both are from Kollem, Frisia State, The Netherlands, where Kornelius spent a long apprenticeship as a horologist, and where he also was employed as a master-craftsman.

But the hours were long and the pay relatively small. So Kornelius and Pat decided to try and improve their lot by moving to the United States.

They found a "sponsor," and after the usual red tape fashioned by immigration authorities, finally landed in Grand Rapids.

One day while driving into Lowell, both exclaimed: "This town looks so much like Kollem!" And that is the reason for their moving to Lowell, and for setting up shop on Main Street.

Besides running the clock repair business, Kornelius has gradually picked up a goodly number of old, beautiful timepieces from dealers as well as from individuals.

Recently he received an old timer from Europe, which is now on display.

The couple attend prominent antique shows, where Kornelius makes the acquaintance of old clock collectors, and from whom he gets assignments for repair work.

Meanwhile, Pat displays other antique items, such as china, glassware, prints, and lamps.

LHS Student Scholarship Semifinalist

A Lowell High School student today is receiving congratulations from classmates and teachers for an outstanding scholastic achievement.

He is David Boone, who has been named a semifinalist in the 1969-70 National Merit Scholarship Program.

Davis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boone of Flat River Drive, Lowell.

According to Principal Donald Kelly, David was rated among the nation's most intellectually talented high school seniors by the National Merit group.

As a semifinalist he is eligible to compete for a scholarship to be awarded on April 30, 1970. See picture page 5.

Believe Arson Involved in Grass Blazes

Law enforcement officials today are seeking citizen cooperation in efforts to track down an arsonist who touched three grass fires in recent weeks.

A two-alarm call Sunday brought out Lowell firemen, and three pumpers, to put out a fast-spreading field blaze on 36th St., about a mile west of the new Alden Nash Highway.

At the same time, a small grass fire was in progress on 36th, about a half-mile east of Alden Nash. Firemen used an auxiliary pumper to douse this blaze.

But still further east on 36th another field was blazing and quick work by firemen prevented this fire from spreading.

Protest Ban on Garbage Cans

A group of homeowners from the Valley Vista area showed up at the Lowell City Council meeting Monday night to protest against a ban imposed on the use of 55-gallon garbage cans.

One spokesman for the group, Mrs. Gordon Rogers, of 1264 Valley Vista Drive, exclaimed:

"How can you expect us to put all of our trash in smaller containers? We can't do it; this would mean that we must use plastic bags to get rid of papers, magazines, and wrappings.

"Now these plastic bags cost money, especially when we must use several of them each week.

"Besides I think the rubbishmen are too rough on the garbage cans. After they empty the cans, they throw them around."

Then Mrs. Rogers let go a salvo of criticism at the city itself. She said:

"You're against our using 55-gallon cans but you are using them right here on Main St. The city ought to abide by its own ordinance."

Also voicing criticism of the city's ban on the larger containers was Mrs. Victor

Smith, of Valley Vista.

However, Mayor Arnold A. Wittenbach defended the city's ordinance restricting the size of rubbish cans to 30-gallons.

The Mayor said:

"The 55-gallon cans are too heavy for two men to handle. Sometimes the containers are filled with old tires, broken concrete, and rocks, all sorts of heavy stuff."

Wittenbach also was quick to defend the two trash collectors. He said:

"These men are fine workers, they are polite and they try to do a good job for the city."

It was left to City Manager Blaine Bacon to explain the use of 55-gallon containers on Main Street. He said:

"The containers are there for use of the public for disposal of paper, wrappings, and the like; in other words light stuff. They obviously are not the type of can used by homeowners."

At this point the question of burning trash came up. One homeowner said it was her understanding that it was against the law to burn rubbish, leaves, and the like, on residential property."

This caught Councilman Herb Reynolds by surprise. He said:

"Why people have been burning trash at the rear of their yard for years; I do it myself. Of course, you have to have the right type of receptacle, and keep an eye on the wind."

Some of the homeowners indicated that perhaps the burning of rubbish might help solve the disposal problem.

At its September 2 meeting, council authorized a public hearing to be held to determine the need for sanitary sewer extensions on Foreman Street from Beech to the C&O Railway tracks, and on High Street from Division to the east end of the street.

Homeowners in the area voiced approval of the sewer extensions, stating that many septic tanks in that part of town were overflowing.

In other action, the council approved a request of Dok Realty for rezoning portions of Valley Vista Plat No. 6 from A-1 to A-2 classification. However, certain modifications in the plat must be made and given final approval at a later date.

Long Nose, Hair Don't Bother Him!

BY BUSTER GRANT
(as told to Shirley Dygert)

If you are a sports fan, you have probably heard of Ken Harrison. He is that controversial, long-haired first baseman with the Cleveland Indians who prefers to be called "Hawk."

I recently read his biography and I must say I found that he and I have several similarities. And then there are some vast differences too.

The Hawk got his nickname because of his extremely large nose. He claims that he is very proud of this outstanding feature, but I sometimes doubt it. He also says that in order to balance its size, he lets his hair grow long and then spends hours at a beauty shop getting it set.

Now I have a pet name; it is "Buster" and comes simply from the friendly feeling of those around me.

I also have a very long nose, but that is perfectly natural with fellows like me. I wear long hair too, but not to balance my protrusion. I'm sure I would look strange in a crew cut.

Then there is this matter of clothes. The Hawk admits that he pays up to $350 for specially-designed suits. I own only one coat. Of course, it's able so I have no need for a huge wardrobe as long as I continue to wear good health.

There are a lot of other things about the Hawk and me that keep me wondering if he is a happy soul the way I am. He is forever getting himself traded from one club to another, for instance. My owners and managers, Sandy and Ruth Grant, have been in charge of my career since the beginning. In fact, when representatives of a foreign government came to Ada a year ago trying to buy me, they just said, "no." That's a bound to anyone's confidence in the establishment.

Hawk once received the title Most Valuable Player of the Year, but I like mine much more. I am called Champion Sandcrest Salute, Champion Dog. I won this in Chicago last winter when I took the show over several other champions from various districts.

It all started when my sister and I were born. Sandy, who is an architect and has an eye for good confirmation, took a look at me and thought that I might make it in show biz.

Ruth understood my training. She drove my sister and me to Columbus when we were nine months old and entered us in a novice match where the competition was not too challenging. Since we did well there, we were able to get out of the bush leagues and into tougher competition.

It was almost a foregone conclusion that one of us ought to do well since there have been nine champions before on our paternal side.

As it turned out, I loved to show. Ruth says that she wouldn't encourage a dog who didn't like the life. I do. It's hard to win in the Collie class, but I took a first place blue ribbon in my first big show in Detroit. In those days Ruth was my handler. Now Stephen Hurt of Rockford is with the out there in front of the crowd. Once in awhile Doug Grant, who is 14, shows me at Junior Showmanship competitions. Then I really do my best to look great because he gets the points, not I.

Ruth says sometimes that I have a little bit of a ham and that I down around a bit, but she also has said that I am warm, friendly, happy, and graceful. She doesn't know that I heard her say that, but I like the management so we get along just fine.

I'm glad that I haven't been traded to another team. Here we live in the country on Bailey Drive. We have four other Collies and a Shetland dog for company as well as the horses. I get to run with them when the family is out riding and I live in the house too.

When lady friends come to visit me, Sandy and Ruth provide clean, spacious quarters. Poor Hawk; he worries about his pad, how it is decorated and whether it should be in Boston or Cleveland or Philadelphia. While he has problems with money, appearance, trainers, managers, and owners, I have none.

I'll bet that Hawk never had a lady reporter pat him on the head and scratch him behind the ears when she was nonchalantly interviewing his owners.

Believe me, if this is a dog's life, I'll keep it!

Council OKs Paving of Gee Drive

The Lowell City Council, at its regular session Monday night, voted to drop a plan to seal-coat certain streets scheduled for 1969.

Instead, the city legislators voted to pave a portion of Gee Drive and authorized City Manager Blaine Bacon to negotiate a contract for the paving job.

The council also considered a request from Richard Denkers for a lease on land at the city airport. After some discussion, the council voted to instruct City Attorney Don Oosterhouse to draft a master lease which would cover all leasing requirements for the airport.

Minors Fined

Judge Joseph White of 63rd District Court today had imposed heavy fines against three minors charged with possession of intoxicating liquors.

Gordon A. Sharpe, 19, of 13274 Vergennes Rd., Lowell, was assessed $50 cost, $50 fine, and a $3 judgement fee.

Anthony Howard Otowski, 19, of 1185 Sargent, Ada, also was fined $25, $20 in cost, and a $3 judgement fee.

In other court action, Judge White sentenced Kenneth Taylor, of 544 Cottrell, Detroit, to pay a $50 fine, $5 in cost, a $3 judgement fee, or serve five days in jail for reckless driving. He served the jail sentence.

Judge Stuart Hoffius, of Kent County Circuit Court, sentenced Charles Hobbs, 20, of Alto, to pay $1,000 on a charge of negligent homicide in the auto death of James Hachuel, 16, of 1186 Eastmoor St. N.E., on Nov. 4, 1968.

JACK MEYERS AND HIS FATHER, RUSSELL, ADMIRE SCENIC WATERFALL LOCATED BEHIND HOME ON SHAGBARK DRIVE IN CASCADE.

Man-Made Waterfall Is Place for All Seasons

BY SHIRLEY DYGERT

Watching a waterfall tumble down the hillside behind his home, Jack Meyer can relax to the sounds of eight cascades splashing over rocks... yet there is no stream nearby.

Jack and his parents, Russell and Irene, have made a hideaway that could fool Mother Nature.

In the spring this is a place for dreaming, in the summer it becomes a recipe for cooling, and in the fall, the colors of the rustling leaves grant a background worthy of any painter's palette.

I all began a few years ago when an addition was to be placed on Jack's home. Bulldozers discovered some huge boulders that were almost too much to move. Jack's mother suggested that they "plant" a few of the larger ones on the hillside. She had an idea then that she would someday build a waterfall.

Landscaping includes large spreads of flowers and plants that charm in all seasons.

The lighting effects that Jack has created for evening viewing turn the scene into a virtual fairyland that intrigues every visitor. Sprays of water are highlighted while spotlights posted behind trees point deep into the woods behind terraced lawns.

Slender metal waterfalls are placed in nooks and turns of the long, meandering chute. The observer's eye is drawn at last down to the final fall into the large pool at the bottom of the sluice where the last sounds of splashing settle into a calm murmur.

Since this is all man-made and not the brook at all, it must be filled at the top by a recirculating pump. As time goes by, Jack has to feed more water into the pool at the base because of evaporation. He uses a two-horsepower pump to raise the water fifteen feet to the beginning of the "spring." He believes that he is pumping about a hundred gallons a minute, but to start the whole process, he had to have approximately three thousand gallons of water in the pool.

Jack's mother says that there is always more that could be done, but the great thrill was in first accomplishing the dream. Now it has become the dream of at least one other neighbor to have a similar miniature Niagara.

NOTES AND NONSENSE FROM "WINDY NOB"

After all the fuss and bother of teaching the chickens to swim earlier in the year, the weather turned on us and I put in a small wading pool just to keep them (the chickens) happy. Three days now I've listened to the radio and every once in a while I would hear it thunder. Yep, it's going to rain. The man on the radio said it was raining all around us. So what happened? It did sprinkle once. I think that was Friday night. But what happened to the rain? Guess I'll just have to fish it. I Goodie!

Last week I dragged the hose out there this a.m., they wouldn't even look at me. I'll swear I even heard one of them pee me the raspberry. Oh well, maybe it will cool off a little, but they won't be so ornery.

CONSERVATION LAW TIPS

The annual Hunters Calendar was in the Press Sunday, along with a few other articles that cover the situation in detail. Much more fully than space permits here.

Called the office this morning and found that most dealers should have received the "70" hunting licenses this past week. ODDS AND ENDS FOR FISHERMEN

Salmon fishing has been up and down to say the least. The creel survey information at Muskegon on August 30 showed nine chinook, three lake trout, three coho.

September 1, three chinook, six coho, one lake trout. Panfish— evening fishing has been best in deep water. Best method has been trolling wigglers or worms slowly with bobber. Try the Grand River and its bayous in Kent and Ottawa Counties. Also, try crickets in Jordan and Tupper Lakes, Ionia County. These lakes are also good for specks. Fishermen are using small flatfish, pinkies and Spencer's Ladies.

Bas-fair on Grand River bays in Ottawa County; Bostwick and Silver Lakes in Kent County; Morrison and Long Lakes, Ionia County. Best ball—crawlers.

Pike and Walleyes—action reported. Artificial units seem to be best. Walleyes started biting on the Grand and Maple Rivers in Ionia County.

ASSIST DRIVE — Five musicians from Forest Hills schools who will help in the annual paper drive September 20-27 are shown above. From the left, they are Chip King, Bob Schoof, Kathy Black (standing), Holly Chadwick and Julie Miller. They attended summer music camps on scholarships provided by the Forest Hills Music Association. Other scholarship students not pictured were Wright McCarger and Jeff Schuster.

Paper Drive to Aid Musicians

A week-long drive to collect discarded paper gets underway this Saturday, according to Ed Starnard, project chairman for the Forest Hills Music Association.

"We will accept discarded paper at any time between September 20 and 27," he said, "and will make pickups on the 27th. We ask only that people call us and, if possible, ahead of time."

Paper will be accepted at three collection points: The Chadwick barn at 5883 Burton SE, the Gaskell garage at 4990 Ada Drive, and the Starnard barn at Bailey Drive and Pettis Road.

The numbers to call for pickup are 676-9325 or 676-9351. Starnard said that funds raised will go toward three projects now being undertaken by the association on behalf of band and choir members of Forest Hills schools.

"We are seeking to establish a scholarship fund to send a senior musician to college each year," he said. "We also are purchasing robes for the choir and, with the junior high student council, are helping to buy blazers for the eighth grade band."

In the past, the association has raised money toward purchase of band uniforms and summer music camp scholarships. Seven local youngsters (see picture) participated in the camps last summer.

The band will make its initial appearance in new outfits at the home football game against Wyoming Park on September 26, Starnard said.

A major project of the FH Music Association, of which Dr. Ray Stevens is president, is the annual turtle candy sale in mid-fall.

Poll Favors Foreign Policy Toward S.A.

The Community Opinion poll sponsored by Union Bank & Trust continues to show citizen interest in many of the nation's problems.

One question: "Is the foreign policy toward South America effective?" drew 1,330 ballots, with 1,021 citizens voting "No," while 309 persons registered a "Yes" vote.

Another question: Should J. Edgar Hoover retire as head of the FBI? produced 638 ballots that he should, while 692 voters said he should not.

Four interesting subjects have been chosen by Union Bank for the month of August.

They are: "Would you like to see America head for the planets?" "Is the U. S. pull-out a first step to peace in Vietnam?" "Should those who pilot boats be tested and licensed?" and "Do you favor most large retail stores keeping Sunday hours?"

Anyone may ballot at any office of Union Bank.

Average State Dairy Farm Doubles in Decade

The average Michigan dairy farm has doubled in size in 10 years.

In 1958, Michigan State University's farm record program showed the average dairyman had 27 cows.

The 1968 report for cooperators in MSU's TelFarm record program showed the "average-sized" dairy farm had 54 milking cows.

MSU agricultural economists believe this trend toward larger herds will definitely continue.

Bonneville

This is the way it's going to be. Pontiac's 70's

Surprised that Pontiac's setting the style for the umpteenth straight year? Of course not.

But you may be a bit dazzled to find out that Pontiac finally outdid Pontiac.

Take Bonneville. From the strong, new bumper grille to the standard 455 under the hood, it's a rouser.

Inside, instant limousine. So luxurious some of the traditional big boys are already screaming.

One of the nicest things we could have done for Grand Prix's luxury was to leave it alone. We did. But we popped in a 455 V-8 for you to order. (It's an old Pontiac proverb that luxury should have power.)

Enter LeMans Sport. A brand-new series in the Pontiac stable. Wait'll competition sees it pull the new 400-cubes-under-the-hood "ick." We'll show you that one if you check the right box on the order form.

By now, you've spotted our '70 GT0. But maybe you haven't heard it. A sound so tough we've thrown modesty to the wind and dubbed GT0 "The Humbler."

This is Pontiac '70. And we figure this is the way driving's going to be. So why wait?

It's at your Pontiac dealer's store.

Most Valuable Swimmer Awards were presented to Rusty Steffens and to Margo Norton, who was unable to receive her award because of knee surgery, and was still in the hospital.

Following the dinner, a splash party and dance was held at the pool building. Music was presented by The Unrelated Sound, headed by Mark Ritzema of Lowell.

Rare Blossom Appears at Stroke of Midnight

The night-blooming cereus is a mysterious flower that opens only at midnight once a year.

To owners and lovers of the almost-magic blossoms, it little matters that it is part of the cactus family or that the plant can look rather ugly as it stretches and twines around a support.

They don't mind at all... because they are "hooked" on the great event that follows twelve months of patience.

Rewards came to Mrs. Jack Breidenfeld when five brown pods began to puff. That was the signal for the coming display of delicate white flowers whose fragrance is long to be remembered.

Almost oriental in appearance, many viewers of the exciting few hours of the blossom's life, say that they are reminded of the lotus.

Mrs. Breidenfeld has had her plant several years. It was only three years ago that her waiting was rewarded. In fact, she had been tempted to throw the cereus away, but hesitated one more year.

Her perseverance allowed her to witness the opening of one blossom that year. Last year she saw three more flowers in their glory and this year a total of five.

The rare moment of sudden beauty catches the breath of those who are usually not "green thumbs" oriented.

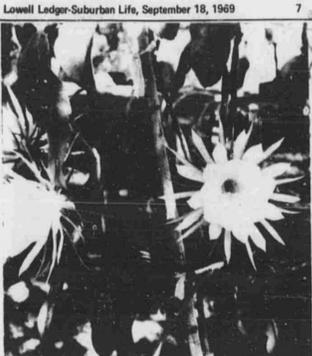

Several of Mrs. Breidenfeld's friends like to be called when the debut takes place even though they are not gardeners.

Now they will have to wait another year.

Hobby Art Classes

The East Grand Rapids Community Art Center will offer a series of Adult hobby art instruction classes in "Simplified Oil Painting for Adults Beginners" starting the week of September 22 with both afternoon classes at 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and evening classes at 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. open for enrollment. The instruction courses will include painting landscapes, seascapes, drawing, sketching, color mixing and painting demonstrations.

Lowell Ledger-Suburban Life, September 18, 1969

Members of the Party Time Club got their season under way last Saturday with a County Fair steak fry and dance at the Grand Rapids Ski Club.

Making all of the arrangements was a committee headed by Doug and Mary Bitson as chairmen with Floyd and Nancy DeVos, Al and Dolores Gustafson, and Nick and Harriet Armstrong.

Thoroughly enjoying the outdoor dining and the indoor dancing, to the music of Ben Keith's Trio, were Pat and Bob Troke, Carolyn and Dick Lynch, Dottie and Bill Blackport, and Bea and Fred Vanderploeg.

Looking over the decorations, which included posters announcing pie baking contests, hay raking races, and quilting bee times, were Fran and Jack Sulwold, Dolores and Dean Loe, Jean and Louis Lamphart, and Elaine and Tom Horning.

Casual clothes and blue ribbons were the order of the evening and in the glow from the candles on their table, Joe and Bob Burnham Pat and Bud Budnick, and Janice and Pat Barr discussed the price of eggs with Eileen and Curt Arundson.

Please save your old newspapers for the Music Boosters Club. The monies will go toward purchase of band uniforms. Even small bundles will help. Call the numbers listed above.

Hazel and Jake Knoop have just returned from a five week trip that took them away from the local area only to find to their humor that they hadn't left home altogether at all.

First they spent two weeks in Otago visiting a son and learning all about the rolling and stretching of aluminum.

Then it was on to the Thousand Islands, the Skyline Tower overlooking Niagara Falls (that's the dining room that continually turns as you feast), the St. Lawrence Seaway, the Moses Saunders Dam, lots of forts and villages, canals and beaches.

As they parked one day where the mosquitos were pretty thick, a woman in the next camper told them that she had the best scented mosquito spray that she had ever found. Enthusiastically she brought it out from her traveling home and the Knoops were presented a can of Amway! It not only was fragrant, but did the trick as well. You just can't leave home behind.

The Cascade Businessmen's Association held its first luncheon of the fall season last week. Bob Tholl, president, described a coming period of activity designed to put the village on the map. With new businesses moving in constantly and more traffic flowing by, the members are planning to let everyone know that they are here and active.

Naturally one way is for the members themselves to become a little social so the possibility of an evening party is being pursued. Then other committees are investigating other attention getting signs-of-the-times.

Support your local businessmen; they help make this a better place to live.

Connis Storm called to remind all golf nuts that the FH Country Club second annual professional invitational tournament will take place next Sunday at 12 noon. Hopefully there will be as many as forty in the field and you can see all of this for one dollar. The parking will be free... at least something is these days.

A welcome gesture was made by our new principal at FHHS and his assistant following the Rockford football game; they both climbed aboard the players' bus and congratulated the team. It was a spontaneous move that was well appreciated.

Arrows Sag, Drop Opener— Comeback Wins for Rangers

Lowell High School opens the conference portion of the 1969 football season this Friday... and Coach Al Rowe is hoping that his Arrows can control the ball against Comstock Park for a full game as well as they did for the first half last week.

The Red and White gridders had a virtual stranglehold on the pigskin for the first 24 minutes, but couldn't hold off rugged Ionia in the second half in taking a 20-8 loss in the season opener at home last Friday.

"We made mistakes in the second half that cost us," explained Rowe. "Many of them were the result of inexperience... but a lot of them, especially late in the game, came about simply because our guys were exhausted."

The statistics prove Rowe to be 100 percent right about his initial coaching effort with the Arrows.

Lowell gained 88 of its game-total 124 yards rushing in the first half by controlling the ball for 31 plays to 16 for Ionia. In the second half, Ionia rushed for 169 yards and passed for 45 more on 33 plays from scrimmage while the Arrows snapped the ball only 19 times while gaining 36 yards rushing and none in the air.

Much of Ionia's yardage came on a 71-yard burst off tackle by Fullback Mike Perry, who appeared touchdown bound before hauled down from behind by End Ted Hoshoff of Lowell on the Arrows' eight-yard line.

Four plays later, following an offside penalty that moved the ball back to the 13, Perry went one yard to give Ionia a 14-8 lead and the victory.

The Arrows appeared to be en route to a go-ahead score on the ensuing kick-off, but a fumble by Quarterback Mitch McMahon at the Ionia 23 with less than six minutes remaining snuffed out the drive.

Ionia picked up its offense quickly at that point and rushed 59 yards to the insurance TD on an end sweep by Pat Foltz from the three-yard line.

A key play in the series was a 22-yard end run by Quarterback Mike Fuller, who utilized the run-pass option to good advantage during the drive.

Lowell scored its only marker with 4:25 remaining in the second quarter on a clutch pass from McMahon to Hoshoff covering 11 yards.

What made the score all the more dramatic was the fact that Ionia's defense stiffened near the goal line after Lowell smashed from its own 23 to the Bulldogs' 17 on 10 plays with Fullback Ken Roth, Halfback Pete Olson and McMahon alternating the ball-carrying chores.

Two smashes by Roth and one by Olson gained only six yards and brought about a fourth-and-four situation, which McMahon overcame with his lob to Hoshoff in the end zone.

The same combination clicked for the two-point conversion, an innovation to high school football this season.

Ionia scored its first touchdown by taking the second half kick-off and crunching 65 yards to the end zone on 12 plays. Included were a pair of nifty passes from Fuller good for six yards to End Paul Gallert and 13 yards to Halfback Pat Foltz.

Ferry ran for the six-pointer from the one-yard line, then barely reached the end zone on the two-point try to make it 8-8.

Lowell's defensive line turned in a yeoman effort throughout the game with Hoshoff and Guard Ray Smith coming up with excellent performances.

Rowe advised his players in a quiet post-game discussion that the loss to Ionia "should be forgotten... we've got a league championship to think about and there's no reason why we can't win it."

The league campaign gets underway against a Comstock Park team that suffered an embarrassing 34-14 setback at the hands of non-conference rival Northview.

Lowell will be seeking to snap an 11-game losing streak that dates back to the 1967 season.

JV, Frosh Teams in Action

Lowell High School's junior varsity football team will seek its first win of the season when it meets Comstock Park at 6:30 this Thursday at Recreation Park.

Action gets underway at 4 p.m. with the Lowell and Comstock Park freshmen meeting in their season opener.

The JV's, coached by Chuck Bostrom and Dick Brennan, dropped a 14-0 decision to Ionia last week in a tight defensive battle that was broken up by two long scoring runs by the Bulldogs.

Lowell's only threat was a drive that carried to the Ionia five-yard line.

The freshmen are coached by Michael Clark and Zoltan Kosocny and have six games on the 1969 schedule. A total of 35 boys have been working out for two weeks, according to Clark.

CONTINUOUS GIFT
An anonymous donor proves not only generous but helpful in giving a new 12-passenger Ford station wagon to the Cascade Christian Church.

The vehicle, which has already provided transportation for several outings, will be maintained by the donor with the exception of gas and oil.

The first in what is expected to become a classic series of football games sends Forest Hills High's junior-dominated team against powerful East Grand Rapids on the latter's gridiron this Friday night.

And, in the words of Ranger Coach Frank Rosengren, "we've got to do more things right against East than we did last week if we hope to win it."

Rosengren's comment was a reflection on Forest Hills' 14-12 squeak over Rockford in the opening game of the season in which the Rangers rallied for two touchdowns in the final 15 minutes of play.

"It's always nice to learn and win," said Rosengren. "We made quite a few mistakes, but overcame them with some heads-up football at times."

Rosengren is concerned that East Grand Rapids may have too much depth for his Green and White squad. "We ran out of gas a couple of times at Rockford... and that's something that could happen a few times this season," he said.

This will be the first get-together in football between the two neighboring schools and it's a non-conference battle that was originally scheduled at Forest Hills but was transferred due to work on new bleachers on the Ranger gridiron.

Next season, the two schools are scheduled to begin competing in all sports as members of the Ottawa-Kent Conference.

Forest Hills' victory over Rockford was the second straight over the Rams, who appear once again to be the powerhouse of the Tri-River Conference.

A daring gamble by Rosengren backfired and set up Rockford's first touchdown in the second quarter.

Confronted with a fourth down and short yardage on the Forest Hills 40-yard line, Rosengren elected not to have the Rangers punt.

The play failed to gain a first down and Rockford rolled to pay dirt on eight plays with Halfback Steve Statz rushing off tackle for the six-pointer from three yards off.

There were 18 such special events in the fun outing, which saw Lena Heinlein take second place with a 94.

A victory party is scheduled for September 14 at 2 p.m. and will feature a mixed golf event and awards dinner. All couples are invited to participate.

Most of the first half was played in Forest Hills territory and things didn't change much in the third quarter... starting with a rare 15-yard penalty against the Rangers for returning to the field late following the intermission.

Midway through the quarter, Rockford took over on its own 35 and drove to its second score... another three-yard burst by Statz... on nine plays.

With 3½ minutes remaining in the quarter, Forest Hills mounted its first sustained drive of the night as Fullback Doug Griffith ripped over center on eight of the nine plays required to negotiate the 65 yards.

Griffith to make it 12-6. Quarterback Ron Vander-Baan's attempted run for a two-point conversion failed.

Two plays later... and just seconds into the fourth quarter... Tackle Rob McCormick of Forest Hills recovered a Statz fumble at midfield.

The Ranger attack bogged down, but Vander-Baan punted dead on the Rockford one-yard line to keep the Rams penned deep in their own territory.

Forest Hills got the ball back on a third down punt and quickly moved 40 yards for the tying touchdown as Griffith carried in from the Rockford 5 on the seventh play of the series.

The versatile Ranger runner carried five times on the drive and got help from Fullback Craig Wynant and Halfback Ken Strohmeier, each of whom turned in six-yard gallops to keep the drive alive.

Griffith ran over center for the two-point conversion to make it 14-12 and keep Forest Hills' win streak intact.

The Rangers now have seven in a row over a two-season span. Rockford roared back in a desperate effort to win the game and pushed 47 yards to the Forest Hills 17 before stopped just inches short on a fourth-and-five situation with less than a minute to play.

Rosengren praised the work of Griffith, who gained 178 of the team's total 179 yards rushing while carrying the ball 28 times. "His stats speak for themselves," exclaimed the coach.

Four interior linemen who played much of the game both ways also drew praise... guards Jim Meiere and George McCarger, tackle Rob McCormick and Center Bob Roy... as did Vander-Baan on his initial effort as a varsity quarterback.

"Another boy who really helped was Ken Strohmeier," said Rosengren. "He was tough on defense and this helped minimize the pass threat."

Arrows Place 3rd in Cross Country

Three Lowell High competitors placed in the top 12 at the Northview Invitational Cross Country Meet last week.

Blake Johnson was 10th followed by Mike Oberlin and Craig Wittenbach in 11th and 12th, respectively. Other members of the team that finished third in its division were Bob Bewell, Orin Comdure, Mark Murphy and Don Graham.

Coach Tom Star's team swings into action in the Tri-River Conference this Thursday afternoon with a dual match against Comstock Park at Sparta at 4 p.m.

New Golf Coach Named at FHHS

Acceptance of Dan Pappel to serve as the new Forest Hills High School golf coach was announced last week at the Athletic Boosters Club meeting.

In addition, the possibility of girls' intermural tennis and golf teams is being explored.

Men's Night for fathers of football players and other men interested in the game will be held every Monday evening throughout the season. Films of the previous week's game will be shown in the Home Economics room at 7:15 p.m.

Wins Golf Meet

Darlene Topp was the winner of the Morrison Lake GC Women's Field Day recently, shooting a 92 under some rather unusual circumstances... such as throwing a ball across a creek, hitting off the tee with a bent driver, putting with a pool cue and using a single iron for every shot on a particular hole.

There were 18 such special events in the fun outing, which saw Lena Heinlein take second place with a 94.

A victory party is scheduled for September 14 at 2 p.m. and will feature a mixed golf event and awards dinner. All couples are invited to participate.

Proper Drying, Storage of Grain Important

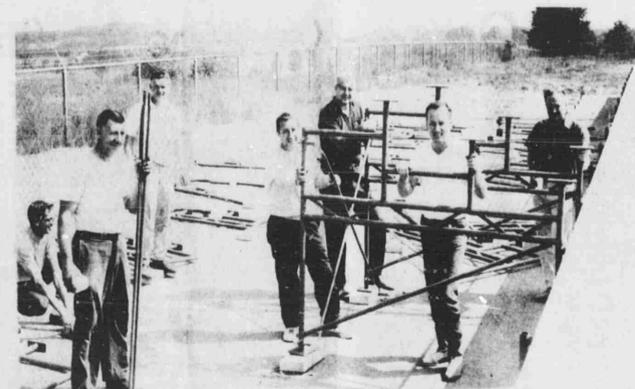

Even though most grain drying equipment is considered automatic, much management is needed to make sure grain drying and storage are done right, says Robert Maddex, Michigan State University agricultural engineer.

With corn harvest only a week away, the agricultural engineer says farmers should be making plans for the proper drying and storage of their crop.

Placing the equipment where it is convenient often makes it easier to operate and inspect, Maddex says. "Full consideration of the capacity of both the dryer and the harvester at various grain moisture levels can prevent a piling up of wet grain at a rate faster than the dryer can handle. Never plan to dry in 16 hours any more than you can harvest in eight hours," the engineer explains.

He advises that any storage unit containing more than 3,000 bushels of grain have an aeration system to insure quality of the grain after drying. This low-flow air system circulating through the corn maintains even temperatures and eliminates hot spots that could damage grain.

Prevention of over-drying is also very important. Maddex says over-drying by three or four points can reduce the cash value of grain by two to four cents per bushel.

WORK 'STOPPAGE' — The volunteers were on hand... and work went well toward erecting new bleachers at Forest Hills High football field by Booster Club members. But not all the parts arrived. It will take major effort and plenty of volunteers to complete the project when remaining parts arrive next Wednesday.

Need Help to Erect Stands

Attention volunteers: Do you like the feeling of being needed? Can you wield a screwdriver or a monkey wrench? Football fans want you!

There will be no blue ribbons, gold medals or fantastically beautiful trophies to place on the mantle, but the monument to your efforts will be a huge grandstand, 150' long and seating 1,500 people.

The Athletic Boosters Club of Forest Hills High School purchased the bleachers and the first load of material arrived in good time for a dozen volunteers to start work last Saturday morning. They appeared at the field before 7:00 a.m. and before long had managed to erect the front side and lower steps.

Now the steps are there with no place to go! Assurances from the firm that sold the bleachers gave hope that the balance of the material would arrive this week. Some-one goofed! Now additional material for construction will not arrive until noon on September 24.

And there is a game scheduled with Wyoming Park on September 26.

Sometime between those two dates, the stands must go up! No one is being asked to commit himself to any particular hour. If you can devote one or two hours anytime from noon on the 24th or all day on the 25th and 26th, just appear on the field. Directors will be available.

Salmon Fishermen get Cooking Tips

Lucky salmon fishermen who want to know how to prepare their catch for the dinner table can get the latest advice from a new bulletin published by the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University.

Entitled, "Getting Your Salmon Ready for Dinner," the bulletin was written by Dr. Eugene Dice, extension specialist in recreation resource development. It tells in detail how to select, clean and cook your salmon (including the best ways to remove pesticides) and is amply illustrated with black and white photos.

Single copies of the publication can be obtained free of charge by writing for Extension Bulletin E663 at the Bulletin Office, Agriculture Hall, Michigan State University, East Lansing, 48823. Additional copies are available at 10 cents each.

Data Computer Firm Buys Cascade Plant

Although Cascade Data Computer Systems, Inc., has been in business for only nine months, the firm already is in need of expansion, according to K. David Miller, 32-year-old president of the company.

As a result Cascade Data has purchased the 35,000 square-foot plant recently vacated by the National Water Lift Co., at 3000 Kraft Ave. SE.

Cascade Data manufactures its own economically priced computer system and expects to produce about five of them by the end of this year, Miller said.

Geared for the needs of small and medium-sized businesses, the computer system sells in the $20,000 to $40,000 range.

In addition to holding down the presidency of Cascade Data, Miller is also its operating officer.

Chairman of the board and chief executive officer is Dr. Arnold C. Ott, who handles the financing. Dr. Ott was the founder of Ott Chemical Co. of Muskegon.

Presently Cascade Data has 18 employees, which is eight more than were employed two months ago.

Recent additions to the firm are two engineering specialists, James D. Ballew and Ralph W. Jones, both with wide experience in the instrument field.

Realtors and other persons interested in real estate, in the Lowell, Ada and Cascade area, will be offered night class courses this fall in real estate law, finance, selling methods, appraisal, building, taxation, government relations, and right-of-way acquisition.

Sponsored by the University of Michigan Extension Service, the courses will open Sept. 11, at the U-M Extension Service Center, 105 Division Ave. N., Grand Rapids.

Cooperating with the university in promoting these courses are the Michigan Real Estate Assn., and the Division of Vocational Education in the State Department of Education.

Draftsmen, Hospital Aids Needed by Civil Service

Positions currently offered by the Michigan Civil Service department are for architectural draftsmen, hospital aides and hospital children's workers, State Rep. Stanley M. Powell (R-Ionia) announced today.

Salaries for the draftsmen range from $8,750 to $11,550, while hospital aides and children's workers range from $5,700 to $6,650 annually.

Rep. Powell suggests that anyone interested in these positions contact the nearest state employment office or write to the Michigan Civil Service department, Lewis Cass Bldg., Lansing.

Inflation, Inflation

Inflation has hit the vehicle title business. Starting August 15 in implementation of Act 93 of the current Legislature, vehicle owners in Michigan began paying $2.00 for titles. Previously, title fees were $1.00.

Revenue for the state highway fund from title fees totaled $2.6-million last year based on 2,263,745 title transactions and late fees. Fees are expected to be close to the $5-million mark for the current fiscal year.
