The Village Smithy BY FRAN SMITH

This is spring and a time when young men's fancies turn to thoughts of love. I suppose it's true that young men look apon life somewhat differently at this time of the year . . . but can't the same be said for young women ... or even older folks like ourselves?

I remember a spring day now some 30 years removed when I thought the world was going to come to an end . . . and for the simple reason that I was suffering the pangs of what our elders referred to as "puppy love."

There was this girl who lived a couple of blocks away, but whose parents had a few bucks and were able to send her to a more exclusive school.

This was during what was called "The Great Depression" and my folks were do-ing all they could to keep their brood of eight in food and clothing.

At some time during this particular spring, I got up nerve enough to ask for the use of the family car. Under direct questioning, I admitted the venerable old hunk of junk used to transport my mother to the grocery store and back would serve as a means of conveying my first "big

April 'Boom' for Housing in Cascade BY SHIRLEY DYGERT

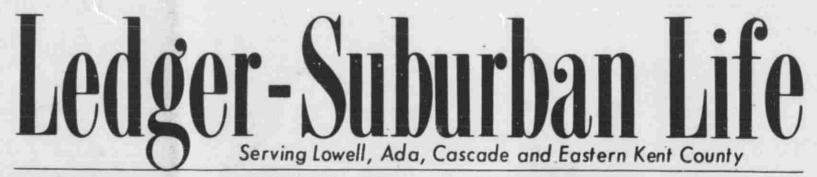

It may be a harbinger of things to come ... or just plain impatience at the mortgage interest rates . . . but Cascade Township recorded its greatest number of new home starts in more than a year during the month of April.

Building Inspector Stuart Bradley reported issuance of 22 permits for the month, including 14 for new residences with a total valuation of $356,000.

Bradley also reported to the township b ard at its monthly meeting that permits were issued for three new swimming pools and five remodelings for an additional valuaiton of $27,050.

The 14 new home starts topped by four the total such permits issued in the first three months of 1970 and almost doubled the best previous months (June and November) in the preceding 12-month period.

Supervisor Al Heemstra reported that he will have a conference with Grand Rapids' City Engineer, Jack Hornback, township attorney, Walter Freihofer, this Friday to complete arrangements for the adoption of a proposed township water and sewer ordinance. The new ordinance would establish procedures on placing of liens on the property of water and sewer system users who defaults in payment and on permitting Cascade residents in areas where sewer and water lines have been laid outside of special assessment districts to connect if they so desire.

Middle School Plan Revived; Seek Special Funds for Land

A potential 16 percent increase in student enrollment within the next four years has prompted Lowell Area School officials to give a long, hard look at the district's building needs.

For this reason, the board will ask qualified electors at the June 8 annual election to approve a special 1.5 mill tax levy for two years to create a building and sites fund Though much additional planning and negotiation faces the board, the possibility that a 14-acre tract of land will be available for purchase from St. Mary's Catholic School authorities in the near future prompted the millage request decision.

Four Seek Lowell School Seats, No Change in FH

Four candidates have emerged to contest for two seats on the Lowell Area School Board of Education, but there will be no change in Forest Hills.

At the closing hour for filing of nomin-ating petitions Monday at 4 p.m., only incumbents William Zoelmer and Mrs. Mary Price had filed to seek election to four-year terms on the Forest Hills Board of Education.

A late-comer to the Lowell school race is Paul Nauta, who served for a number of years with the McPherson School Board prior to consolidation with the Lowell sys-

Seek Action on Railroad Crossings

Three area railroad crossings will be the subject of public hearings to determine safety and convenience if the Michigan Public Service Commission acts favorably upon a petition from the Kent County Road Commission.

The crossings are located at Thornapple River Drive SE and the C & O Railroad in Cascade Township, Spaulding Avenue SE and the Grand Trunk RR crossing in Ada Township and Bailey Drive and the C & O in Vergennes Township.

term of Dale Shade also expires, but he will not seek re-election.

Elections in both districts are scheduled for Monday, June 8.

Steve Allen, Wife Coming to Showboat

Negotiations have been completed to bring the famed husband-wife team of Steve Allen and Jane Meadows to Lowell for the final three performances of Lowell nowboat '70. Keith Caldwell, treasurer for Showboat, Inc., said the popular stars of television and films have agreed to terms to headline the Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening performances.

Showboat '70 is scheduled for six nightly trips down the Flat River starting Monday, July 27 and continuing through Saturday, August 1.

Caldwell also said there appears to be no problem involved with the appearance of Gary Puckett and The Union Gap, popular recording group that will headline the show Monday through Wednesday.

"There was a newspaper report out of New York that the group is breaking up," he said, "but we have been assured that they will honor their contract with us."

In addition, the 100-voice Showboat

Chorus and the famed Endmen will be in

Showman...and Watchmaker action on the Showboat stage.

Another featured attraction, who will perform all six nights, is Vic Hyde, famed one-man band.

In all likelihood, the land, if eventually added to the public school system, would be used as a site for the proposed middle school housing grades five through eight.

Based on state equalized valuation of $30,401,825 for the district, according to most recent figures released by the county, the special millage would produce almost $92,000 in two years.

No other monies in the system are earmarked for buildings and sites except a small fund remaining in the Runciman Elementary account, according to Superintendent Carl Hagen.

The board indicated during lengthy discussions that it will move ahead on plans for the middle school with a possible early fall bonding proposal election despite the fact this is a heavy year for state and local elections.

Our enrollment projections indicate we are growing at an alarming rate," said Hagen. "Preparations for housing of students should be made before they are, in fact, physically ready to occupy the classrooms."

Plans for a middle school originated late in 1968, but were shelved in view of the district's distressed condition from lack of operating funds.

Board member William Jones said it was obvious that "the year of the pill", referring to oral birth control measures, had not yet brought about a slowdown in the enrollment rate.

"If we keep adding students at the rate expected," he said, "there just won't be enough classrooms to handle a regular program.

In other action, the board:

Accepted resignations submitted by Jay Tans, Jr., and Ronald Moore;

Awarded bids for a 48-passenger special education bus to Royce Ford for the chassis ($3,438.15) and to Hoekstra-Superior for the body ($5,110);

Authorized use of computer scheduling for senior high students at an expected cost of $500; and Approved use of school facilities for various Lowell Showboat functions, but declined a request that the high school gymnasium be used as a back-up site in the event of rain.

PFC JACK A. NOON Area Soldier Killed in Viet Action

Full military honors will be accorded PFC Jack Alden Noon during services Saturday at 2 p.m. at Roth Funeral Home for the 20-year-old Lowell area soldier killed May 1 in Vietnam.

A special military honor guard is being displatched to Lowell from Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., to pay tribute to the fallen hero, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd R. Noon of 2375 Marble Road in Keene Township.

The body was scheduled to arrive with military escort late Wendesday and will lie in state at the funeral home Thursday and Friday

PFC Noon was serving in the northern sector of South Vietnam when his unit, the 3rd Battalion, 21st Infantry Regiment of the Americal Division, reportedly was overrun by enemy troops. He was one of a number of U.S. casualties in the bitter fighting that followed.

In addition to his parents, the dead soldier is survived by three brothers, Harvey of Saranac and Samuel and Randall, both at home; three sisters, Mrs. Terry (Beverly) Fisher of Saranac and Jill and Pamela, both at home; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Emma Blough of Alto, and several aunts, uncles, nieces and nephews.

Services will be conducted by Reverend Daniel Zook of Bowne Mennonite Church with burial in Pinckney Cemetery.

date" to the local cinema of a given future evening

Permission granted, I then approached the fair damsel in question with the proposition that perhaps she would like to accompany me to the movies.

Much to my astonishment, she not only said "yes," but called for a meeting of her entire family to announce that we were going to the movies and that neither her dad nor older brother would have to drive us there since we would have our own transportation, thank you!

The great day arrived and I was up bright and early to prepare the family limousine for this tremendous outing. But, to my dismay, the car had a flat tire.

As I reported earlier, this was during the depression and there was no room for frills ... like a spare tire, for example.

So, I got out the patching kit and proceeded to fix the flat tire myself. Or at least I thought I was fixing it.

Wheever had driven the car last must have run it across a box of nails! I used up one entire patching kit, then another .... and the tube still wouldn't hold air!

Finally, after many hours of work, the tire was repaired. Then I went to work polishing the outside and sweeping out the inside. That old jalopy never looked so good.

Tired, dirty and sweath, I just had time to take a quick bath before embarking upon this night of nights. And I was just about to step into the tub when, it seemed, the entire world exploded in my ears.

Looking out the window, I could barely see the car for the cloud of dust that rose from the area of the recently-repaired tire. You guessed it: A blowout!

As a result, my first "big date" ended ignominiously with her dad driving us to the show.

Looking back, we refer to them as "the good old days." If they were good, you can have them, friends. And welcome!

The senseless killing of four young people at Kent State University points up, intensely, how far out of hand matters have gotten in this country.

If laws designed to curtail the activities of would-be revolutionists and insurrectionists 'uve lost their sap due to a weak-minded judicial system, it is then time to either re-write the laws or fire the judges who would let these hoodlums run us into chaos.

Better yet, perhaps we should pull all of our troops out of Indochina and let them confront the campus radicals. I would hazard a guess that some attitudes would be changed in a helluva hurry.

LOWELL BEER STORE-Open every day and evening until 10 p.m. Sunday until c od 9 p.m.

The board took action to refer to the Kent County Planning Coordinating Committee a motion regarding D-1 zoning for a mobile home park in Section 17.

In other action, the board adopted two resolutions concerning water and sewer extensions on 28th Street. These resolutions provide for a special meeting of the township board to be held next Tuesday, May 19, to review the roll and hear any objections. Notices regarding the special meeting have been published and individual notices to each affected property owner concerned have also been sent.

Letters from two students in Cascade School were read into the minutes. They were written by Ken Parrish and Tommy Winquist, who offered suggestions to the board regarding the burning of leaves.

MICHIGAN WEEK

Engineer-manager Don Schofield of the Kent County Road Commission said that the county annually attempts to improve conditions at two crossings. Financing of the projects, if they are deemed necessary. will be shared by the county and by the railroads involved, Schofield said.

County road officials also expect to begin developing plans soon for the proposed extension of Leonard Street east to Mc-Pherson as part of a major arterial development connecting Grand Rapids to the Fallasburg Park area and western Ionia Coun-

Tornado 'Season' at Hand

Though April has been the biggest month for tornadoes in Michigan over the past 50 years, the start of the tornado season" for 1970 is believed to be now at hand.

Most twisters in the state occur between April and July, though they have struck in Michigan as late as October.

Col. Fredrick E. Davids, State Police Director and head of Michigan's Civil defense unit, has advised citizens to be alert for tornado activity and to report sightings promptly.

"There were eight known tornadoes in Michigan last year," Davids said, "Fortunately no one was killed." He pointed out that early warning and public awareness can do more to protect lives than anything else.

Civil Defense officials advise knowing the difference between an announced tornado watch" and tornado "warning." A tornado watch is used to alert the public to the possibility that tornadoes may develop over a certain area. A tornado warning means that a tornado has been sighed in the area or its presence is indicated by radar.

When the tornado signal or alarm is sounded, officials advise taking cover immediately. In open country a ravine or ditch affords some protection while basements or underground cellars will all rd shelter for those at home or work.

The honor of attending the eight-day session is given to young men who have reached their fifteenth birthday, but who are not eighteen. Male members of the jun ior class were asked to nominate students for representation on the characteristic of leadership. In addition, candidates must be physically clean, mentally alert, vigorous, enthusiastic and of good personality.

Heilman Resigns Vergennes Post

Vergennes Township Clerk Arvil Heilman has announced plans to resign the position effective June 1 due to change in residency.

Township board officials announced that Mrs. Irene Osborne has been appointed to serve out the balance of Heilman's term, which expires next January.

City of Lowell will be flushed each Fri day between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Residents are urged to plan water usage in accordance.

Joe's Hobbies Widely Diversified

BY ALGENE FEUERSTEIN

It's quite a change from the lights and applause of the Showboat stage to the peace and quiet of watch repairman's workbench, but Joe Vezino enjoys both hobbies.

For the past two years Joe has been one of the endmen on the world famous Lowell Showboat. He admits that while he wanted to try out for the "boat" years ago, it took the urging of a friend to finally talk him into what he now describes as the "two fun weeks of my life." Starring on the Showboat those two years were Dinah Shore and Milton Berle.

His interest in watch repairing goes back much further. What has evolved into a facinating, pay-as-you-go hobby for Joe began in his teen years as an informal on-the-job apprenticeship in watchmaking at the Meyer Jewelry Company in Detroit.

In 1947, after finishing a hitch in the service, he attended the American Institute of Horology for some advanced training in watch repair. Later Joe owned and operated his own business . . . the West Park Gift and Jewelry in Wyandotte. Still later, Joe became associated with the chemical business and eventually joined the Amway Corporation in Ada. There he is coordinator in charge of packaging.

"Believe it or not," Joe says, "the tensions of the day just fade away when I get out my tools and immerse myself in the problems of watch repair." Almost anyone can take a watch apart, he went on with a chuckle, but its the putting together again that tells the story.

While most of Joe's watch repairing time is spent on the everyday watches of his friends and neighbors, he also has a collection of antique timepieces. The art of modern watch and clock making dates back to 1395, according to Joe, when the first mechanical clock was installed in a town hall belfry in England. This same clock, still ticking away in good condition, is now on exhibit in the British Science Museum.

His collection of antique watches includes several made during the early to middle 1700's, an earlier one with an unusual chain drive dating from 1525 and one of the five still in existance made in 1759 by John Harrison.

Bowling and golf fascinate Joe and he has been secretary of the Amway Lowell bowling league since it started. He also classes himself as a confirmed do-it-yourselfer, but admits the size of his family makes that more of a necessity than a hobby. Joe lives at 9795 36th Street, south of Lowell, with his wife, daughter and seven sons.

Easy-going as he is, Joe does have one pet peeve ... he can't stand people who are not on time!

Delay Rotary Club Auction Until May 23

Plans for holding a community auction have been postponed three weeks by the Lowell Rotary Club, but residents are still urged to have saleable items ready for pickup this Saturday.

The project, originally scheduled for May 23, will be held instead on Saturday, June 13. A conflict in the schedule of buildings at the 4-H Fair Grounds necessitated the change.

Remember our Easter Egg lady? She was Pat Ayars who is so talented in many crafts. She is starting a new series of classes this Thursday at 1 p.m. If you'd like more information, call her at 949-2574.

You know the old bromide, "learn something new everyday?" Well, while searching for the principal one day during the noon hour when I was directed to the stage in the multi-pu pose room, my guide said, "The teachers eat up there behind the curtain so that they don't have to look at us ugly little kids during lunch."

The Medieval Fair held at the Ada Elementary School was a smashing success . . . over one hundred dollars was raised which was donated to the library book fund. Even more importantly, the students, teachers, and parents had a chance to work together in a different way. It was a learning experience for everyone connected with the project. Now the library, the halls, and the nooks and crannies are quiet again, but the memory of that effort will linger through many student's lifetime.

Mrs. Spielmaker wants to thank so many who helped; Mrs. Bernard Baer, Mrs. Robert Jarmer, Richard Lynch, Mrs. Glen Raymond, Mrs. Faye Hinbaugh, and Mrs. Neil Weathers. In fact, there were so many who aided in the effort, so many who will never forget it.

The Forest Hills Swim Club Boosters will be holding a super car wash on Saturday, May 16. Drive to the parking area adjoin ing the pool located off Greenbriar just west of Forest Hill Road between the hours of 10 and 3 p.m. You may buy coffee and doughnuts while your car gets its spring cleaning job.

Those ladies of the Ada Christian School Mothers Club are busy, busy, busy. They held a mother and daughter meeting one night when they all arrived in their wedding dresses . . anyway those that could still fit into them. One mother had worn her mother's wedding dress at her own wedding so she arrived in a gown that was slightly older than most.

Then they gave a luncheon for approximately 265 ladies to hear William Ackerman, director of the World Home Bible League. This is a non-profit organization that places Bibles in homes in this country and around the world. It is an interdenominational project and if interested, call Mrs. Ralph Bruxvoort at 676-1698.

The choir of Ada Congregational has some get-togethers too. In fact, they got together over Phyl Johnson's birthday on the same day that turned out to be Mrs. Cox's birthday. Following the serving of cakes for each, someone started the singing . imagine that! As the saying goes, a good time was had by all, especially the newer members who found out what a real choir they had joined.

New board members were elected to the Thornapple River Association Board at the annual meeting. Joining Dan Wallace, Bill Gilbert, and Bob McIntire on the board are Al Terrell, Bud Somerville, John Zanella, Al Savageau, and Stan Brown. ....

That Spring Dance that the St. Roberts members are giving on May 16 is to begin at 9:00 p.m. It's informal so you'll have time to picnic before leaving for the country and round dancing at the Fairgrounds Riding Stable (now Briancliff) on Schaffer Road. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

The appropriately named "Cascade Zippers" finished their season early after completing at least two regular projects for themselves. Mrs. Hansen suggested that each girl make an extra dress, this time size 3, 4 or 5, to be given away to a needy child. Part of the volunteer project was to do the work by asking as few questions as possible. This way Mrs. Hansen felt that the girls learned to be independent and to have confi dence in their work.

By choosing smaller garments to sew, the girls were able to make them complete with added touches, such as rick-rack in three weeks. They left the sleeve casings open and the elastic loose so that the young recipients could be better fitted. The girls gathered Monday afternoon in front of Second starting next Sunday.

The appeal for funds is conducted in the 130 parishes and 51 missions which comprise the Catholic diocese of Grand Rapids in 29 counties of Western Michigan. The drive is under the leadership of Bishop Joseph M. Breitenbeck who assumed spiritual jurisdiction of the diocese on December 2. Assisting Bishop Breitenbeck in the campaign are James M. McInerney, a Grand Rapids industrialist as lay chairman, and Father Robert J. Rose, dean of college students at St. Joseph's Seminary of Grand Rapids, as clergy chairman. Funds raised are used for the education of young men for the priesthood, for religious education of children not in parochial schools, for migrant workers, for assistance of programs in the inner city of Grand Rapids and Muskegon, for social services and for similar causes. The formal drive among parishioners will continue for one week. Extension of the campaign will be allowed in those parishes where all potential donors had not been contacted during the first week.
