

OK Budget; Police Seek Overtime Raise

Lowell's budget for fiscal 1970-71 was approved Monday night by the city council, but there's a strong possibility that some projects included for consideration may have to be shelved.

Council okayed City Manager Blaine Bacon's proposal to spend $445,746 . . . an increase of $50,723 over 1969-70 . . . following discussion relating to police pay.

Patrolman Al Eckman, representing the Lowell Police Officers Association, said that members of the association felt they should be given time and a half for overtime instead of straight time over and above 40 hours per week.

Under Bacon's budget, most city employees will receive a three percent increase. This would be in addition to a similar pay adjustment given to employees last January.

In addition, the city manager proposed to place several department heads on a salary schedule instead of an hourly rate.

Councilwoman Virginia Myers voiced the opinion that Lowell police were entitled to time and a half for overtime after

Eckman offered figures indicating that Lowell's base pay for patrolmen was be-tween 3.8 and 31.7 percent lower than most area cities.

There was no immediate objection from any council member nor from the city manager, but Mayor Harold Jefferies told Eckman that it might be necessary to trim other projects from the budget in order to accommodate the request.

The city manager's pay was raised to $11,000, which is $1,200 more than Bacon has been receiving. However, former manager Bernie Olson was paid at the rate

The total payroll budgeted for the com-ing fiscal year was set at $135,544 pending disposition of the LPOA request.

The city has been operating for the present fiscal year on a budget that will create a deficit of about $18,000. Much of this was due to greater costs on the Hudson Street project.

Local property taxes will bring in about $147,000, based on council-approved 12mill levy, representing a gain of almost $9,000 over 1969-70.

Court Date Nearing on Dam Transfer

A number of moves still have to be made before Cascade Township can become the owner of the Cascade Dam. At the present time the facility is owned, operated and maintained by Consumers Power Company.

Supervisor Al Heemstra revealed that he has been holding work sessions with Frank Bouma of the Kent County Drain Commission, members of the board of directors of the Cascade Thornapple Association, and representatives of Consumers

Following this series of meetings, a public hearing will be scheduled in June for informational purposes. In the meantime, Heemstra said that he would be pleased to receive constructive criticism from individual property owners in connection with the transfer of the ownership of the dam.

At the present time, it is expected that final determination on the transfer of ownership will be made in July by Judge John H. Vander Wal in the Circuit Court.

Heemstra said that in all likelihood, operation of the Cascade dam will be completely under the supervision of the Kent County Drain Commissioner. In this respect it will be comparable to operation of the Ada Dam, which is owned by the Thornapple River Association, Incorpora-

The Cascade Businessmen's Association heard a guest speaker at the May meeting that possibly inspired better golf games or old hands and beginners alike.

Tom Leamon, pro at Forest Hills Country Club, introduced the new square to square method of handling the old stick. Five years ago the PGA decided to standardize methods of teaching. The results brought a simplification similar to the change in bridge. From Culbertson to Goran doesn't spoil that game for old fans, but makes it easier for the untried to get Today's golf system minimizes the hand-wrist manipulation.

But the best news that Tom gave left-handers was that they were better off playing with right-handed clubs than right-handers are. The reason behind this attitude is not that Tom himself is an old lefty, but that it really is a left-handed game; that's where the power lies. After all of this free advice . . . go get 'em, Tiger!

1969 Water Accidents Claim 347 in State

Michigan suffered record high totals of 347 deaths and 269 persons injured in 683 water accidents last year, according to State Police water safety unit records.

The accident total was the second highest in the last 10 years of record-keeping.

These figures indicate the scope of the problem which resulted in May being recently proclaimed "Water Safety Education Month" by Governor Milliken.

The unit annually compiles water accident facts for Michigan from information received from law enforcement agencies

Vacation Earnings Vital to Students

Over half a million students 18 to 22 get $36 million a month in social security benefits because they are in school and are the children of retired, deceased, or disables workers.

This amounts to more than the scholarships at all the colleges and universities in the country, according to Raymond C. Backus, district manager of the Grand Rapids office.

Ordinarily, benefits to children of disabled, deceased, or retired workers stop at 18. But beneficiaries who continue their education in an accredited university, college, high school, or a vocational school approved or licensed by the state are eligible for monthly checks up to the age of 22.

For these students, benefit payments can continue during a vacation period of not more than four months if the student was a full-time student before the period started and intends to return to full-time attendance after the period ends. By completing the Students Statement Regarding School Attendance form, normally sent to student beneficiaries about a month before the end of the school year, the student can ensure the continuance of his benefit payments during his vacation.

However, students who don't receive one of the forms by June 1 should contact their nearest social security office. If they fail to do so, their checks may be delayed.

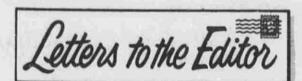

What should a student do who finds that his earnings are likely to top $1,680 for the year? He should get in touch with his nearest social security office and get a form to report his expected earnings. If he fails to do this he will have to make an adjustment after the end of the year. And this could turn out to be more of a hardship to the student than keeping earnings and benefits in proper balance as he works.

For more student benefit information, contact the Grand Rapids social security office at Rm 200, Keeler Bldg., 60 N. Division Ave. The office is open Tuesdays through Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Mondays 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Or call 456-2241.

Gauge Public Advertising of Greenville has been retained to assist in a promotional campaign designed to familiarize the Midwest with the recently-organized Progressive Affiliated Lumberman (P. A. L.).

The organization is headed by Don Norris of Grand Rapids with Bruce Walter of Lowell serving and vice president and gen-

Through central purchasing, 170 members located in Michigan, Indiana and northern Ohio are able to pass along volume discounts to customers, Walter points out. The headquarters is located in Grand Rapids.

A couple receiving Social Secuity who gets $180 a month or more is not eligible for surplus food. Many have been refused because of receiving only a few dollars over $180.

The $180 has been the number for years and years. Why hasn't this figure been raised in line with inflation? Is this another way to beat the aged?

When Social Security is again raised, no one will be getting surplus food. Then it can be sent overseas. Charity doesn't begin at home anymore. Complain to R. Bernard Huston, Director of State Social Service, Lansing. It might help.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rolfe Marne.
