VIEW REVIEW — Lowell Lions Club member Bernie Pankowski looks on as a youngster takes vision screening test held as part of the club's continuing sight program.

Like many folks, I have long had a fetish for proper spelling and proper grammar . . . and I was somewhat startled when the man on the other side of the table said that jolly was spelled with only one "l".

There's Jolly Old St. Nick . . . and Jolly Good Fellow . . . to mention two with a "double l", but not so with John (One L Please) Joly, who takes over with the next edition as editor, advertising manager, public relations expert and, no doubt, chief plugger-inner of the coffee pot in the morning.

Which is about as good a way as I can devise to introduce you to the man who will steer this ship of journalism henceforth while The Smithy keeps track of the bills (we got 'em, that's for sure) and hustles a living in PR and advertising back in the old stomping grounds on either side of the Detroit River.

This is not to imply we will vacate the joint. There is work to be done here that will require our attention and the plan is to do it. So, instead of working here all week and commuting to Detroit . . . chances are we will simply reverse the procedure.

So much for what The Smithy has in mind. Right now, you are more interested in the young man who will be responsible for many of the words, pictures and ideas emerging from this desk.

I may have explained at some past date that this particular newspaper had an appeal to me because it continued to utilize "hot" metal . . . which means we have on the premises (and extract type from) machines that set letters and words from molten lead.

Every man who has ever been through the hot metal phase of the business has a soft spot in his heart for putting out a product utilizing this method.

John Joly is one of this breed. To use the expression, he has printer's ink all the way up to his elbows.

By training and experience, John also is an accomplished writer and advertising layout man. The readers care more about the former and the advertisers care more about the latter.

And he's also a printer (far better, believe me, than The Smithy) and our various clients who have suffered through some of my many mistakes are now encouraged to see John about quality printing.

Good man, I'm sure you'll like him as much as we do.

As an aside to our long-suffering golfing opponents, I can only ask you to keep some free time available on the weekends. This is one source of revenue we don't plan to lose!

To all our friends who claim they enjoy this particular bit of nonsense each week, we will continue to inhabit a small niche each week . . . unless regular news forces us out, as has happened in the past.

To those of the staff who have suffered from our bumbling, sorry about that, gang!

And to members of the family who, for reasons too countless to spell out in one sitting, were unable to share our enjoyment for having passed this way we say: Shape up, the boss is back!!

None of the offices maintains Saturday hours and will be closed as usual.

Planners OK Re-zoning for Mobile Home Park

Plans for construction of an elaborate mobile home park in Lowell were forwarded to the city council with a favorable recommendation by the city's planning commission.

The development, projected to be built on the south side of M-21 west of Valley Vista Drive, was considered by planners to be proper usage of the land.

Doug Dok, representing Lowell Development Corporation, had requested a change in zoning from residential to C-3 general business district, which is established in the city ordinances to accommodate a mobile home park.

Attorney Larry Howard, representing Mrs. Evelyn Denny, asked that a parcel of his client's land, which abuts the proposed mobile park, be considered for similar re-zoning.

The monthly meeting of city planners drew a turnout of more than 35 residents of Valley Vista, several of whom questioned the desirability of a mobile home park in Lowell.

Many of them apparently turned out as the result of a handbill circulated Sunday which outlined some of the same questions. A number also appeared confused as to the exact location of the proposed park site.

Mrs. Laura Rogers sought and received assurance from the planners that there was virtually no chance of re-zoning on the north side of M-21, in the basic Valley Vista residential area, for a mobile home park.

Dok also outlined a plan to the commission and to assembled home owners indicating the desire of Lowell Development Corporation to assist in establishing a recreation facility for Valley Vista in the area of Sibley Drive (extended).

John Ramjeet, manager of Cumberland Leisure Estates located in Lowell Township, was on hand and answered a number of questions posed by Planning Commission Chairman Ralph Townsend and other members of the panel.

The vote to forward a favorable recommendation to the city council for C-3 re-zoning was unanimous, 7-0.

As Dr. Orval McKay of the commission told the large audience:

"It is our responsibility to determine land usage and I can't see any other use for this piece of land."

Dok told the planners that he projects a 142-lot park with parking available for almost 300 cars, a swimming pool, tot lot, tennis courts, basketball courts and pool house, plus a community house and office.

Value of the completed project, he said, would be in the area of $150,000.

In other action, the commission heard reports on a request (since withdrawn) to amend the zoning ordinance to permit 10-foot marquees or canopies and approval by the zoning board of appeals to permit a request for variance by Michigan Bell Telephone to allow expansion of its facilities.

Highway Jam Seen

With good weather, the coming Memorial Day weekend may be a repeat of last year's holiday when it seemed that everyone who owned a car was on the highway.

Department of State Highways traffic analysts predict that motorists will drive an estimated 610 million miles in Michigan during the holiday period, from Thursday through Sunday.

Generally, northbound traffic will be heavily concentrated Thursday from 2 to 10 p.m. and Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 4 to 9 p.m.

A MEMORIAL DAY TRIBUTE

This poignant Memorial Day tribute to his brothers, was written by Peter Jan Walter, 11th grade student in Mrs. Mary Richards' creative writing class at Lowell High School, and is hereby dedicated to the younger brothers of all of those who serve their country. Peter, 16, is the youngest in a family of seven, including one daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Walter, 606 Riverside Drive, Lowell.

*Five friends of mine
Each very close to me
Who face the same old problem
That has chained eternity.*

*The problem rose from seeds of time
And feeds upon the land
Not here, not there, yet everywhere
And where my five friends stand.*

*The oldest of this group of five
Was born when times were right.
The problem was, when he was not
So never did he fight.*

*The second friend had not this luck
And now reserves his time
As one small spot in Coast
Guard files
In six years, out he'll climb.*

*The third friend listened and he heard
The calling of his name
And off to 'Nam the third friend went
To play the Army's game.*

*The fourth, he too has heard the call
And went as those before*

*The Army quickly welcomed him—
Behind him closed the door.*

*The fifth and last of my dear friends
Just left the sixth of May
To be one of our Nation's Guards
And fight, come riot day.*

*My friends are gone and I am left
With empty room and halls,
But I will go just as my friends
In case my country calls.*

OK Bank Sets June 9 Branch Opening

The newest in a growing "community" of commercial buildings is fast nearing completion atop the 28th Street hill overlooking the Village of Cascade.

The new facility will house the Cascade branch of Old Kent Bank, which had occupied quarters on Cascade Road at Thornapple River Drive.

Workmen are speeding completion of the new branch bank for formal opening ceremonies on Tuesday, June 9.

The familiar exterior style and color scheme of Old Kent branch banks surrounds 4,500 square feet of office, safe deposit, conference, and window area. Charcoal grey bricks with white aggregate facia are used on the outside of the bank and its two drive-in windows.

The ground floor will include six windows on the east side in front of which is a strip of mosaic tile. The balance of the lobby and lounge areas are completely carpeted in green.

Chairs in the lounge are plaid, an innovation, as are the gold leather-like wall coverings. Gone is the stodgy, somber bank decor of the past. Conference rooms and offices have become pleasant areas where the customer is invited to consider his financing problems at leisure. Even the rooms which hold safe deposit boxes are as well considered as the outer areas with acoustical ceilings and papered walls.

Black leather chairs for customers will be in the loan area and green chairs will complement the office space. Strictly new in banking is Russ Brown's golf hole. It's in one corner of the office and should bring forth an uncountable number of jokes.

Below the ground floor is the heart of the heating and air conditioning for the building. Two thermostats have been installed allowing each side of the bank to be controlled. While men work on the west side in their shirts and suits and require more cooling in the summer, the women will be able to regulate the amount they desire on the east side.

Separate rest rooms, a snack room, and additional vault space are also located below. Of interest is the tunnel which allows travel from the outer drive-in window to the downstairs vault without having to leave the bank. A future use of an additional drive-in window was considered a possibility and an additional tunnel has been prepared.

The exterior landscaping has been completed by Harder and Warner Nursery. Near the highway a stone area shares the entrance drives. Closer to the bank, a small lawn, green hedges, and birches have been planted. The night depository is located on the south side of the building.

General contractor has been William Boersma.

Pfc. Van Haisma was assigned to the 1st Battalion, 46th Infantry, Americal Division.

Survivors include his wife, Charlene; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Van Haisma of 3634 Highgate SW; a sister, Diane of Wyoming; and maternal grandfather, Ralph Bronkema, also of Wyoming.

Parade Route Outlined for Lowell

Plans for the annual Memorial Day parade in Lowell have been set, according to Roger Bieri of American Legion Post No. 152 of Lowell.

Parade participants will assemble at Richards Park at 9:30 Saturday morning. The parade will follow the traditional route down Main Street to Oakwood Cemetery, with the salute and presentation of flowers to be delivered at the bridges on Main Street and at the cemetery.

Several local civic groups will participate, and band representatives from area schools will perform. Services at the Veterans Memorial will be conducted by Rev. Bernard Fynaardt of the Calvary Christian Reformed Church of Lowell. Representatives from the American Legion and VFW posts in Lowell will combine to form the color guard and firing squad.

Plan Memorial Tribute to Cascade Heroes

Led by members of the Forest Hills High pep band, under the direction of Steve Banta, the traditional Memorial Day parade in Cascade is scheduled to start at 8 a.m. this Saturday.

The parade will assemble at the Cascade Township Administration Building and proceed to the Veteran's Memorial Marker on the Cascade Road Bridge at Thorncrest.

Fr. John Stanley of St. Michael's Episcopal Church will deliver the memorial service to the nation's military heroes and Cascade Township Supervisor Al Heemstra will deliver a brief address.

Steve Banta and Bill Vanderploeg will serve as buglers. Sound truck facilities will be provided by Thorn's TV.

The color guard and firing squad will be provided by McDonald-Osmer Post 451, American Legion, with Sybrant Dykhouse serving as commander.

Cascade 'Fourth' Meet Tuesday

Plans are beginning to move for the annual Cascade Fourth of July celebration. A meeting has been set for next Tuesday (June 2) at 7:30 p.m. in the Old Town Hall on Thornapple River Drive at which time groups interested in reserving a booth should have at least one representative present. Others who plan to help are asked to be in attendance.

Consultant Quits Post, Planners Hire Him Back!

For several minutes Monday night, the City of Lowell was without the services of a planning consultant . . . but all ended well before the city's Planning Commission finished its monthly meeting.

John Paul Jones, whose services were retained a year ago, had informed the planners by letter that new employment with Williams and Works, a Grand Rapids engineering firm, has created discussion on possible conflict of interest.

The firm not only provides engineering services for the city, but for private firms as well, including the city's leading developer, Lowell Development Corporation.

The commission accepted Jones' resignation, and then approved retention of Williams and Works . . . and the firm's foremost planning consultant, John Paul Jones . . . to handle future planning!

The move was made after Williams and Works notified the planning board that it would sever all connections with private developers.

Doug Dok, representing Lowell Development Corporation, hailed the move as being in the best interests of the city and his company.

"All of the work we are now planning is being handled by another engineering firm," he said. "Williams and Works and Mr. Jones are tops in their field and I'm happy to see them serving as planning consultants for the City of Lowell."

The planning commission, with William Doyle and Dr. Orval McKay leading the discussion, agreed that Jones had been instrumental in setting up programs designed for long-range civic improvement.

"It may seem to some that our plans are not moving fast enough," said Dr. McKay, "but this is simply because we, as planners, are dragging our feet in some areas."

Jones is reputed as an expert in the area of urban renewal specializing in procurement of government grants and loans.

C-C Seeking Volunteers for New Office

Volunteers are needed to man the new Lowell Chamber of Commerce office at least two days a week and during the week-long Lowell Showboat.

The office is located next to Christian-sen's Drug Store on Main Street.

C. of C. officials also announced that the annual Showboat Trailer Rally will be held July 31 through August 2 with facilities available for trailerites at the 4-H Fairgrounds.

For information on the rally, contact George Dey, Jr., 404 Lincoln Lake Avenue or call 897-9939 or 897-7736. Registration will take place on July 31.

Plans also are being formulated for a number of events, including the annual Sidewalk Sale.

John Joly to Become New Editor Monday

Appointment of John Joly, 30, to serve as editor and assistant to the publisher of the Ledger-Suburban Life was announced this week.

Joly, former editorial-circulation supervisor for the Detroit Free Press, will take on his new assignment Monday.

Fran Smith, who purchased the newspaper in 1968, retains ownership of the Ledger-Suburban Life and will continue handling the financial operation of the company. He will contribute to the editorial side, including the "Village Smithy" column weekly.

Smith plans to devote time as well to public relations and advertising in the Detroit area.

Joly comes from a newspaper family. His father was a linotype operator at the Lansing State Journal and The Detroit News for more than 30 years and his older brother has published three weekly newspapers in California.

Joly has written articles for several magazines and newspapers. He is a journalism graduate of the University of Detroit and a journeyman printer.

In announcing Joly's addition to the staff, Smith said he hopes to intensify the paper's editorial coverage and expand its circulation in eastern Kent County.

"When John was in town last week,"

JOHN JOLY

Smith said, "he was quite impressed with the communities we serve and with the paper. I'm glad he's decided to join us."

In addition to assuming overall editorial responsibility, Joly will handle most of the paper's advertising and print shop work and write a weekly column, "Ham on Wry."

Mrs. Joly, a daughter, Jennifer, 2, and a son, James, 1, will move to the Lowell area from Detroit in early July.

All About Lowell

Late for Last Week
Mrs. Opal Bartlett and Gayla Rathbone of Lake Odessa called on Mrs. Louise McDiarmid one morning last week.
On Sunday, Mrs. McDiarmid had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goodridge in Lowell. Afterward, they went for a drive, picked up Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, and all stopped at Mrs. McDiarmid's home to visit awhile.

Mrs. S. R. Cobb and Mrs. Albert Duell attended the D.A.R. meeting at the St. Cecilia building in Grand Rapids, last Thursday.
On Sunday, the 24th, they went to a home-coming dinner at the Masonic Temple in Pawtaw.

Children's Day
The Children's Program at First Congregational, Sunday, was a credit to all concerned... children, parents, teachers and superintendent, Mrs. Vera Kain.
The way the children are brought up from the basement Sunday school rooms and presented to the congregation, class by class, is in itself, a feat worthy of commendation.
Moreover, every word spoken in union, song or recitation was clearly discernible. And of the 51 children, including nursery through sixth grade, no one was prompted.

The 39ers
The 39ers held their monthly dinner meeting a week earlier because of the upcoming holiday on the last Saturday of this month.
The business meeting produced a new team of officers: President, Al Schrouder; vice president, Mrs. Harriet Thurlert; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Lucile Knowles.

The program that followed was under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. C. Al Schrouder. Mrs. Schrouder gave a memory test that proved most of us rather lacking in that attribute. The questions were from 28 advertising slogans of the past fifty or more years. The contestants won down the names of the products advertised. Very few got even half the answers.
After that, we played Bingo until they ran out of prizes, all very simple, useful gifts.

The next and last meeting, until September, will be the annual picnic, held by choice in the church dining room.
Admission: One "White Elephant."

Did You Know?
We have two professional ballet dancers in our midst. Chuck Lipsett and Bud Thurlert performed in the Butterworth Hospital Folks at Kooftrees Auditorium on May 21st and 22nd. The production was under the direction of Howard Miller of the Jerome H. Cargill Producing Organization of New York, with all costumes, props and lighting effects provided by the New York company.
Chuck sang several songs from The Follies.

Excessive TV Harmful, Says Family Specialist

Television can be a thief. When it occupies most of your child's spare time, it robs him of the chance to experience things. It substitutes "viewing" for "doing."
"Educational television is fine," said Gail Imig, family life specialist with Michigan State University. "And entertainment shows are also good, to a point.
"But if television leaves no time for a child to experience things on his own, then it is robbing him of valuable self-learning experiences."
Parents should choose which programs their children may watch. They should also provide or suggest other activities when it's time for television to be turned off.
"Don't just tell the child he can't watch television and leave him to ponder aimlessly around the house looking for something else to do," Mrs. Imig said.
A child also needs interaction with his parents, the specialist said.
"Read to your child, or play ball or some other game with him. Or just plain visit with him. Not only will this assure him of your love and interest in him, but it will also teach him that as a person he has something to offer in activities and conversation."

Michigan State Police will operate special traffic patrols beginning Friday, May 29, for the three-day Memorial Day weekend.
Cal. Frederick E. Davids, department director, notes that traffic accidents in the five major holiday periods in 1969 claimed 135 lives, the worst of the tolls occurring during the Memorial Day weekend when 34 were killed.
He added that the department's traffic division experience shows that deaths during holiday weekends average about 25 percent more than on comparable non-holiday periods. The rate of fatalities per mile traveled is 16 percent higher.
"Sensible driving practices can contribute to safer holiday motoring," he emphasized, urging motorists to obey speed limits, to give ample notice of maneuvers, to follow at proper distances, to pass only when safe to do so, and to refrain from driving after drinking.
The department's three single-wing planes and its helicopter, weather permitting, will complement daytime patrolling. No pass days will be scheduled for uniform personnel at the department's 59 posts. District traffic officers and detectives will be used as backup personnel as needed. Check lane activity will be suspended for the period and officer inspections will augment patrols which will continue through to midnight Sunday, May 31.
Maximum patrol coverage will be provided from 3 p.m. until at least 9 p.m. each day of the holiday period with special attention devoted to highway sections having had accident experience.

Forest Hills Hi-Lites

The Francis William De Pews recently entertained his cousins from Paris, Ontario. Arriving here in time for the annual tulip festival in Holland were Robert, Clara, and Helen. Unfortunately, the weather wasn't too sunny, but Clara, who is a camera buff, was able to take some exciting pictures. She belongs to two camera clubs at home and plans to show her shots at their meetings.

The shapes, colors, excitement, et al that go with the festival in Holland attracted other house guests. Up from Chicago, where they have been living for the past two years, were the Don Mangames. They stayed with their parents, the John Appletons, here and took in all of their old favorite spots around the area.
They attended the scrubbing of the streets in pouring rain, but thoroughly enjoyed the fifty-three bands. They were entertained here by former neighbors at a progressive dinner. From hors d'oeuvres at the Hal Manteis, to soups at the Rob Gales, to salads at the Ron Johnsons, to entrees at the Bob Ellsworths, to dessert at the Jack Harbys, and to fruit and cheese at the Bill Ellsworths, the evening was a gastronomical success. Finally everyone moved to the Toward Appleton where new menus were made of the group and old ones of by-gone days were shown.

MEMORIAL

... a time to pause in tradition and tribute ...

On this solemn occasion, we proudly pay tribute to our honored dead . . . and most especially express our thankfulness to those who have given their last full measure of devotion for our country, on the fields of battle. Now, as we are enabled to pause in respect and gratitude, we observe Memorial Day in the tradition of our great nation . . . and we feel privileged to be a part, and to take our part, in all that has contributed to our precious freedom.
