It's Our 'Week':

Events of Vivid Past Recalled in Newspapers

The massive cholera epidemic in Michigan during the bleak winter of 1849 is recorded there along with the 1953 discovery of Salk vaccine and Michigan's first polio vaccine clinics. You can find the strained faces of Flint GM strikers confronted by the State Militia in 1937, or the exuberant glee of "Iffy, the Dopester" in that Tiger "series" year of Armistice, November 11, 1918, is recorded. Gettysburg, Bull Run and Shiloh hold their hallowed spot as do V-E and V-

Week ending October 10, the State Department of Education calls attention to the State Library's collection of "Michigan Newspapers on Microfilm," some 30,000 reels of film containing editions that date back to 1817.

The films are available for viewing at the State Library in Lansing or through inter-library loans to public and private libraries throughout the world.

A major source of first-hand historical information, the collection is a boon to researchers, historians, geneologists, students and "just interested" citizens, according to State Librarian Francis X. Scannell.

"Much of Michigan's past is recorded only in the newspapers of the times," he

Until the advent of "Newspapers on Microfilm," many of these records were being lost. Fires, basement floods, periodic housecleanings and the process of simply "going out of business" were destroying changed over the years, but whose continued service to communities, small and large, told the local story of people and events on a day-to-day basis.

In the early 1960's, the Michigan Department of Education's Bureau of Library Services (State Library) and several other major libraries in the state recognized the need to preserve these files and make them available for research.

The collection has grown to be a major research file, with more than 300 newspaper runs from more than 100 Michigan cities and villages, Scannell said.

Earliest newspaper in the collection is the Detroit Gazette, which began publishing in 1817 and ceased in 1830. It records life among Michigan settlers in territorial Michigan's oldest newspaper still publishing, the Detroit Free Press, is preserved from its beginning in 1832.

Use of the collection is heavy and rapidly increasing, according to Scannell. Mail requests come not only from Michigan, but from all over the United States and, in a few instances, from foreign countries.

The State Library, to assist people in their use of the collection, has compiled a listing of all newspapers available on microfilm. The listing can be obtained free of charge on request to the State Library, Lansing 48913.

Offer Aid to Launch Area JC's

An offer to help form a local Junior Chamber of Commerce for Lowell area men between the ages of 21 and 35 has been made by Kentwood Jaycees. Donald H. Ludwig, president of the Kentwood club, points out that the Jaycee movement is the fastest growing young men's organization in the world.

Though not connected with a Chamber of Commerce or political organization, the Jaycees have been active in affairs considered vital to these groups, Ludwig notes.

Primarily, the Jaycee movement is designed to build young leadership within the community, he adds.

Among community projects undertaken by Kentwood Jaycees have been a Christmas shopping tour for underprivileged children and a tour of Yule lighted decorations for senior citizens.

Information on establishing a Lowell Jaycee club may be obtained by contacting Ludwig at P.O. Box 8718, Grand Rap-

Thornapple Lions Set to Roar

Candy for all of those little Halloween goblins and ghosts that surely will appear at everyone's door en masse may be purchased from members of the Thornapple Valley Lions Club.

Knocking on doors during the coming weeks, the men of the Lions will be selling large bags with 160 pieces of mixed candy. The proceeds from the sale will be used for the Lions Youth Park on Thornapple River Drive. This will include equipment for the baseball leagues facilities as well as for the park and picnic areas, according to Hugh Weaver, chairman.

One of the major projects with which the Lions have long been associated is that of furnishing white canes to the near-sightless and fully sightless. If you know of anyone in such need, call Jim Walquist at 676-

PROGRESS REPORT: A note of thanks to those who were kind enough to drop a line to A. P. Smith, still hospitalized in St. Joseph's Hospital, Mount Clemens.

"Senior Goat," as he is known to most of the Smith clan, is recuperating from a broken hip . . . no small matter for a fella of his years. Many hours of therapy still ahead, but he seems to be doing well and passes along his regards to one and all in this area.

By the time this item sees the light of day, we will have launched the harness racing season at that internationally-famous track at Windsor.

Several business establishments in Lowell will renovate the fronts of their buildings as part of a major development to give the town a "riverfront" motif with fancy grillwork and the like.

The project at State Savings Bank hit a snag, however, when all the fancy ornamental iron arrived in something less than satisfactory condition.

There have been many words written and spoken on the subject, but we'll add our own on Proposal C on the November

As outlined, the proposal would severely restrict many forms of aid to schools and, in essence, goes beyond changes long sought by practically all educators . . . public and non-public alike.

There is no doubt that all taxpayers are entitled to the ornefits of education for themselves, their children and their children's children.

But legislation must be constructed in such a way as to provide maximum benefits for minimum cost ... and without the ballyhoo that was prevalent in Lansing during this election year.

In addition the act of voting on the proposal will not of itself, change things drastically. The proposal seeks only to set up authorization to call for amendments to the state constitution.

Now that we have enlightened one and all, vote November 3 as your co dictates. But above all, be sure to vote!

Last year, she tried without much luck to bring in a crop of tomatoes. So GFW decided against the project this summer . . . and reaped a harvest of tomatoes apparently grown from last year's seeds.

One year she planted flowers in an old wheelbarrow, which I decorated with some leftover paints and immediately dubbed "Betty's Folly." The results were practically nil . . . but they've been coming up ever since without any care at all!

I've got to admit, though, that this year's crop of mums has been outstanding.

But wouldn't you just know it, they were all planted in the backyard where not too many folks can see and appreciate 'em. A Luther Burbank she ain't.

Amway Announces Plans to Install Treatment Plant

BY PATT BAMBRICK

Amway officials have announced a voluntary move to install one of the "most modern sewage treatment plants along the Grand River, without legal action by any local, State or Federal water or pollution authority.'

The Ada firm has engaged the services of Metcalf and Eddy, a leading waste treatment consulting engineering firm located in Boston, Massachusetts. Due to be in operation by the end of October 1971, the threestage system will process industrial and sanitary waste from existing Amway buildings, and promises to be free of noise and odor. All future buildings in the Amway complex will dispense their sanitary wastes into the Ada Township lagoons in accordance with the Ada Township Sewer Ordinance.

According to public relations manager R. L. Teachout, automatic measuring devices, new noise control procedures and additional dust control devices are being installed for the company's powder silos. A new powder building is being planned and will incorporate the new features.

A 10,000 gallon underground tank will receive all industrial wastes from Amway's aerosol mixing building. Wastes will periodi-cally be pumped out and hauled to a dump area approved by Michigan State Water Re-

Supplementing the two waste compactors presently in use will be two additional compactors, eliminating all burning, according to Teachout.

Plans call for at least 80 percent of the phosphate content of drain wastes created during the cleaning of the plant to be re-

The 1970 Kent County United Fund campaign is in full swing following a kickoff luncheon and torch lighting ceremonies last week. Volunteers are diligently working to insure that the goal of $2,300,-000 is met.

Lowell's share of the 1970 campaign goal is $8,800; Ada's share is $11,678; and Cascade's share is $7,483.

These figures represent a 4½ percent increase over the dollars contributed by residents last year and include all contributions: neighborhood business, residential, professional, industrial and other major employers.

During the past year, 2,192 Lowell families; 2,035 Ada families; and 983 Cascade families were recipients of United Fund help through one of the 66 member agen-

Those agencies supplying help in the Lowell-Ada-Cascade area were: Child Guidance, 31; D. A. Blodgett Homes, 30; Big Brothers/Big Sisters, 19; Salvation Army, 121; Legal Aid, 100; American Red Cross service to military families, 202; Urban League, 4; Information and Referral, 31; Boy Scouts, 557; Camp Fire Girls, 534; Girl Scouts, 830; Y.W.C.A., 568; Y.M.C.A. 2,037; Camp Blodgett, 7; Community Health, 21; Family Services, 45; Catholic Social Services, 33; Blind Association, 10; Hearing and Speech Center, 18; and Hospital Free Work, 12.

Not included in the total of families served by United Fund agencies are the 2,249 first aid certificates and 9,128 swimming and lifesaving certificates issued to Kent County residents in 1969 by American Red Cross.

At 10 a.m. next Monday, Oct. 12 "koffee klutches" will be held throughout Kent County to officially kick-off the residential division United Fund campaign effort. During the first half hour, from 10 until 10:30 a.m., women volunteers will view a United Fund special on WOOD-TV.

Bieri Fund Growing

The coffers of the Kenneth Bieri Kidney Machine Fund swelled to $2,608.34 as of this Tuesday.

Two recent events, the Lowell Lions pancake supper and the Lowell Chamber of Commerce Home, Sport and Auto Show, both contributed handily to the fund.

The Ladies of the VFW Auxiliary will hold a flea market and rummage sale the 14th, 15th, 16th and 17th of this month at the VFW Hall on Main Street in Lowell. All proceeds will go into the fund.

Patterson Handles Melange of Concerns at First Meeting

Putting it all together was Cascade Township's new supervisor, Lee Patterson, at his first monthly meeting on Monday evening.

Requests for watermain extentions by two separate corporations could result in and sustained interest in both our neighbors service to residents along the routes without the necessity of providing special assessment districts.

Williams and Works have been empowered as an arm of the township to help K and R Corporation, developers of Cascade Estates, proceed with a project to extend a watermain from the village of Cascade across the river, following the roadway to Cascade Springs Road and so to a two hundred and fifty lot development. All costs will be borne by the developers. Residents along the trunkage will be able to connect by paying a proportionate charge. There will be no cost to the township.

In a similar move Kawasaki Midwest, Inc., over the signature of David P. Manee, president, requested an extention from the watermain on Patterson Avenue at 36th St. to the facility. Other users would share proportionately in the project. The requests were forwarded to Fred Timmer, engineering consultant with Williams and Works.

A uniform Nuisance Fire Ordinance that defines and regulates the need for permits to burn both interior and exterior fires and consequent fines or incarceration from lack of requests for such permits was placed under a study group composed of Grover But-trick, fire chief; Jack Buys, deputy fire chief; and George K. Vogt Jr., member of the Board of Review.

The board gave approval to a plan by Consumers Power Company to change six street lights at the intersection of Cascade Road and 28th Street from incandescent lamps to mercury vapor lights of a power not exceeding 10,000 watts.

Clerk Minor Cook opened two bids received for purchase of fire-fighting equip ment. One bid for a chassis was for $8,419. 28. Chief Buttrick stated that such equip-ment could probably be obtained within two months. The cash for this purchase would be needed at the time of ordering On the other hand, monies for installed equipment on such a chassis would not be needed until delivery date which would probably not be for a year from the ordering date, according to Buttrick. A bid for such equipment was received at $14,665.

A special meeting will be held on October 12 at 1:30 p.m. to discuss bids on the fire equipment and any other township bus iness that needs attention.

A letter from James Porrit, maintenance engineer of the Kent County Road Commission regarding plat grades, sewers, stabilization of raw soil, erosion, open excavations, and sediment control was referred to the Planning Commission.

A communication was to be sent to a special committee of the Board of Commissioners of Kent County interested in the problem of securing a landfill site for the use of several municipal governments indicating possible cooperation with other communities.

In other action Supervisor Patterson expressed an interest in the EDP program (Electric Data Processing) being organized by the county. He indicated that Cascade Township might become the pilot area for the program when the 1972 tax roll-would be spread by the electronic method. Because Cascade Township now has a permanent parcel code number, whereas some units of government do not, county officials have considered this a likely area for

Judy Goodwin Proves Knots Can Be Beautiful

BY PATT BAMBRICK

What do you have after you've spent 36 hours of work and planning and used 2,160 feet of string, 124 different sized wooden beads and 43½ inches of wire?

If you're Judy Goodwin, you've got a work of art that is a prize-winning example of macrame, an old art that is currently enbying a resurgence in popularity.

Macrame is the art of creative knotting, which the 18-year-old Miss Goodwin learned last year through the art department at Lowell High School. Miss Margaret McDonald, a student teacher from Western Michigan University, introduced it to Lowell students for the first time.

Judy's first big project was the 2½ x 6' wall hanging pictured at right. Miss McDon ald and Mrs. Mullen, head of Lowell's art department, were so impressed with Judy's work, that they encouraged her to enter it in the Youth Talent Exhibit sponsored by the Grand Rapids Museum and Wood TV last spring. It took first place in the stitchery category. Now she is willing to sell it to elp pay her way through college.

Another of Judy's talents lay in the field of Old English Text, the essay she copied Judy is the daughter of Mrs. Alice Goodfor the competition proves her to hold tal-ent along the lines of free verse poetry as I have learned many things in these past years, God. I have learned what it is like to love someone who cannot love you back. It's a sad and lonely feeling. It's a hard and empty feeling I have learned what it is like to want him, to hold him, to tell him how much I love him. I have had many people tell me ways, but none of them seem to be right. I am going to ask you, God, because I think you are really the only one who can help me. I know you can tell me how to do it, God, because you are the Father of man and of women. Please help me, God, because I love him so much. I could never tell him though. I think that's why I feel so onely and sad, I could never tell him, God. I wanted to; I just couldn't get the words out of my mouth. I miss him, God, I want him back. God, would you please tell him, that I love him with all my heart. I have always loved him and I always will. I want him back so badly, God, please - I want my father

A LETTER TO GOD

Although her original essay is not for sale, Judy is willing to make copies of it.

Egg Buying Suggestion

Follow the seven-cent rule when comparing prices between egg sizes, says Maryann Meldrum, extension consumer marketng information agent in Kalamazoo, Mich.

If a dozen is selling for less than seven cents over the next smaller size, the larger-sized eggs are the best value, Miss Mel-drum explains. If the difference between the two sizes is more than seven cents, the smaller size is probably the best buy.

Injuries, penalties, fumbles and one interception hurt the Forest Hills football team when they came up against a well coached East Grand Rapids last week. According to the coaching staff of the Rangers, Scott Vashaw had a fine first half by running with the ball often, but his injury which may not allow him to return to action this week, lost him to the Rangers early in the game. Jim Bacon, who was also injured early in the struggle, could possibly return to the contest with West Ottawa on Friday although it is doubtful. The offensive line performed well against East, but could not sustain a full drive down the field.

The Red Arrows evened their Tri-River Conference mark at 1-1, and boosted their overall mark to 2-1, with a 12-8 victory over Coopersville last Friday. The victory moved Lowell into a third place tie with Coopersville! Both trail Sparta and Greenville who tied for the league leadership at 2-0.

Lowell's running attack made the difference in the game. "The defense did another good job," said head coach Al Rowe, "but we won it because we finally got the offense going," he added. The Red Arrows piled up 209 yards on the ground while Coopersville was held to only 105. "It was a combination of keeping things together," said

Alton Bible Church to Hear 'Youth Alive' Team

Four African young men and their sponsors, currently on a three-month tour of the United States and Canada as "missionaries in reverse," will present an informative and evangelistic program at the Alton Bible Church this Sunday, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Labeled the "Youth Alive Team" from South Africa, the young men will sing tribal music, play indigenous instruments, tell of witch-craft practices and witness to their faith in Jesus

With them will be directors Jeri and Mavis Nkosi and a missionary couple, Alan and Lorry Lutz.

The Nkosi's had been involved in youth work in Africa for a number of years when they were introduced to the Lutz's, who also were interested in working with the Johannesburg youth. From this meeting the idea for "Youth Alive," a program directed at and for the youth of Africa, eventually grew.

In 1960 the first clubs were started in existing mission properties and soon a network of clubs for different age groups was

Each of the four young men, Diamond Atong, Sam Bodibe, Caesar Molebatsi and Archie Sitole, has a life story that resembles a best selling novel, including elements that the average American might find difficult to visualize as more than fiction.
