JOURNAL JOTTINGS.

The first day of December will soon be here. We wait our back pay first.

Since the panic a great many men have worn crape in their countenances.

An exchange, evidently desiring to produce a sensation in financial circles, puts gold up to 187 1/2.

SATURDAY was a busy day in Lowell, if the number of teams in the streets indicate anything.

REPORTS of small-pox and the Beecher scandal are in a healthy circulation one more.

THE love of money may be the root of all evil, but the possession of it is the root of much good.

OUR merchants now play odd and even with the money-drawer to see which shall pay for the cigars.

REV. A. D. FLAGG has received another call by the Baptist society, but has not yet decided to accept.

THERE will be a Sabbath school concert at the M. E. Church next Sabbath evening. All are invited to attend.

"TOWN TALK," a contributor to the Grand Rapids Post, still attends the Varieties with commendable regularity.

D. RYAN, the proprietor of the eating house at the depot, has been making noticeable improvements about his premises.

A FEW have responded to our call at the head of the "Jotting" column. That notice to "pay up" means just what it says.

HUNT & HUNTER's old drug store has gone to rest on the corner of Bridge and Washington streets, west of Amphlett's block.

AT no place along the line of the D. & M. railroad are bus-men so earnest in their endeavors to secure passengers as at Lowell.

TART, the station agent, is diligent in business and when he speaks to the boys they go out where nobody can hear what they say.

THE lamp-lighter of Grand Rapids will never be promoted if he continues to permit the denizens of that city to grope in darkness.

GEN. KILPATRICK will lecture in Ionia next Friday evening. Subject—"Incidents and Scenes of the Rebellion." The Gen. is a powerful speaker.

WHEN a customer goes to a drug store and calls for Bumbandy-pitch and Red Principity, you may safely conclude that its hard scratching for him to get along.

THEODORE PARKER says he would give more for a spoonful of love than for whole ship loads of furniture. It will do to say that now when furniture is down.

SAMUEL STAFFORD, better known as "Rebel Sam," was matrimonially joined to Mrs. Samantha Hurd, a few days ago. Justice Hunter made out the papers.

A STRANGER called the other day and said he took a great interest in journalism, and always made it a point to drop into the editor's sanctum. For two successive minutes he discoursed on the glory of the press with considerable enthusiasm. The subject being exhausted he proceeded to tell us what a smart boy he had. This took just twenty-five minutes.

HON. H. M. LOOK, member of the new law firm of Look & McCurdy, Grand Rapids, has two cousins in Lowell; O. H. Look, Attorney, and J. Q. Look, druggist. All good-looking.

A MAN who travels with his eyes and ears open told us one day last week that no State in the Union was better supplied with good newspapers than Michigan; and of course we accepted his remark as a personal lusion.

A physician in this village who has traveled extensively over our rough roads this season with price and without money has come to the conclusion that there isn't much fun in a dying world.

ON FRIDAY EVENING of this week the citizens of Lowell and vicinity will have an opportunity of enjoying an entertainment to be given at Train's Hall, by the FLORANCE COMBINATION. This troupe is highly recommended, and their programme for Friday evening is an attractive one. See ad. in JOURNAL for further particulars.

WE ARE informed that a band of Minstrels is to be organized in Lowell, consisting of some of the happiest and best young men of this village. Even the sound of the tambourin is echoing now from a little closet in the domicile of one of the amateurs. "Bones" is down cellar rattling his ribs and throwing attitudes at the rats. Home talent will make Lowell a place of amusement this winter.

THE other day a traveling agent called at one of the bars in this village and ordered a gin-cocktail. The clerk who had just commenced studying the profession, told the agent that they were just out of gin-cocktails, but the boss had ordered some from Detroit which he expected in with some other choice beverages that night. The grin on that agent's face was so broad that he had to go out of the door sideways.

WE VISITED Detroit the other day and while at dinner at the Exchange Victoria Woodbull entered the dining room and seated herself at a table. In less than twenty minutes after that more than fifty persons left the dining room.

Victoria lectured in Detroit Friday night, and during the day people were seen leaving the city at all hours and on all the railroads, as if old Demosthenes were behind them. We placed 140 miles between that lecture and our body, with the wind in our face too.

ONE of our business men was out on the streets Saturday, looking for money. A man who owed him was driving along Main street in the mud and deep thought. Just as he drove by that business man he leaped forward and began to arrange things in the bottom of his wagon. The merchant said "hello!" The man in the wagon didn't hear him of course, because he hadn't got those things in the wagon fixed yet. The merchant said "hello!" a little louder, but the man in the wagon was still engaged in fixing things and was completely lost to everything else. The merchant stepped up a little nearer and said "say!" The man in the wagon bent still lower and jerked the halter six inches to the west. The merchant thought he would wade in the mud to the wagon and speak to that man, but just as he got nicely started the team went off on a mournful trot up Water street, and the man in the wagon resumed his seat, thought of his dear wife and children, pulled encouragingly on the reins, and was carried to that sweet spot which, be it ever so humble there is no place like it.

ONE of our numerous debtors called the other day and said he guessed he would straighten up his little account as it had already run a good deal longer than he meant it should. We put on our smile of approval, asked him how his family was getting along, and if he had got his corn all husked, and then told him that his account was seven dollars and forty cents. "All right" said he, handing us a note of ten dollars, due in sixty days, made by a man who has never yet been guilty of paying an honest debt, "all right," said he, "I haven't got the money to spare today, but there's a little due bill of ten dollars you may have, and—less see, there will be two dollars and sixty cents my due went they? well, just give me the change and balance the account, and you and I will be square once more." We looked at the note and then at the man and asked him a few questions not wholly irrelevant to the subject. "Why that will go, wont it?" he asked. We replied that it would go, certainly, it would go; it would go to protest but "not for Joe." After bantering some time he pulled out a wail of greenbacks which we told him would "go";—and finding that we had some conscientious scruples about throwing off the forty cents, he paid his account in full and left with the remark that some folks were altogether too particular in this world.

FRANK ROMIG AND NEWTON HENRY were arrested the other day for damaging the school house in district No. 4 of Lowell, while returning from a festive dance at Whitneyville. Their examination was held at Alaska on the 13th inst., before two justices of that place: Messrs. Wise, Hale and Malcom appearing for the people and O. H. Look of this place for the defense. It seems that Henry entered said school house and sought to trample down the cause of education by slinging books at inkstands and perching himself upon the desks and shying various articles of furniture at the stove-pipe, etc. It also appears that Romig entered the school house and tried to convince his partner that such violent exercise was unhealthy, and they had better go home. Henry wasn't ugly but was fond of books, he said. Romig said he'd better come along and when he got home he could read his testament, Henry went. The examination brought out the above facts we are informed. Some say that the boys were on a little high, but we hope that's not so; we would much prefer to know that it was temporary insanity. The court is lame we think. But the boys were set free. Yes, free to return to their homes and be good boys. Romig was innocent, but Henry was slightly frowned upon, owing to his fondness for books, and perhaps the fact that he was not arrested on a proper charge. We don't think he meant to cripple the institution for life. No such thing. Henry is naturally too good a fellow for that.

ON WEDNESDAY afternoon, Nov. 12, about thirty invited guests assembled at the residence of Mrs. E. A. Sunderlin, to witness the giving away of one of the fairest of daughters to a most promising son. The notice proper, then reads as follows:

MARRIED.—In Lowell, Nov. 12, 1873, by the Rev. L. F. Waldo, Mr. Charles N. Post of Chicago, to Miss Emma Sterling, daughter of Mrs. Ruby D. Temple, of Chicago, and sister of Mrs. E. A. Sunderlin of Lowell.

At three o'clock, on the day above mentioned, the bride and groom, followed by Miss Ada Wilson as bridesmaid, and Mr. George Love of Chicago as groomsmen, appeared before the Master of Ceremonies, in the presence of many admiring witnesses, and were made one. The bride and bridesmaid were charmingly attired in white, and looked—well when one can't do a subject justice, he'd better stop. So we pass on, merely to say that the ceremony was performed in the most approved manner by the Rev. Mr. Waldo, and the congratulations following were as earnest as they were numerous. The formal ceremonies being over, all present were requested to take seats, and all present complied with promptness. And for an hour "all present" sat and received, ate and received, sighed and still received, until the hostess and assistants were obliged to gather up the twelve baskets full that remained of the feast, which "all present" felt like having them "passover" at some other time. After another hour of social pleasure the company dispersed, and the bride and groom departed for Chicago by the evening train. Love went with them; blessings followed them; warm friends they left behind them. It was a joyous wedding day.

DARIUS HINES and his wife have not been living together in perfect harmony for a great while. Their two hearts have not beat as one. They couldn't lie down together as did the lion and the lamb, and wouldn't try. And so Darius was brought before Justice Hunter last Thursday on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, and Darius' wife caused this to be done. The trial was by jury and after a long and heated struggle, the jury was ordered to retire and do their duty with their hands on their bosoms. The jury returned eating boiled chestnuts and apples which cost a cent apiece. "We can't agree, by jingo," said the foreman. "Begone," said the court. On Friday a new jury was selected and Darius was commanded to come forth. His wife entered the room also, and said to Darius "I don't want to send you to jail if you will behave yourself." "Go on with your side show" said Darius to the court. The band organ struck up, the wife of Darius wept, and Darius took a fresh chew of fine cut. The jurors took out their jackknives and strapped them on their boots, the counsel looked severe and hungry, the court sat firm and unmoved, the scene was touching, the gloom was deepening. Finally the last word was spoken and the court told the jury to crawl off. They fled in single file, and when they returned a dark cloud, bigger than a man's hand, passed over and stood where the prisoner was. "What's the rip?" asked a small boy in the corner. "Guilty," cried the excited foreman. "Darius," said the court, "you needn't go up if you will give bonds for future upright conduct." "No you don't," replied Darius. "Go to hence then," said the court, and Darius now languishes in prison.

THE PROPOSITION to establish a high altar at Chicago meets with favor among a minority in Washington, who have a potent influence in the matter. The United States has but three altars, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Carson. It is considered that another must be established at an intermediate point between Carson and Philadelphia, and Chicago is equipped to be the place. The best equipped and most complete in the world is the one at Philadelphia. The next is that at San Francisco, and next at Philadelphia. Chicago will have an opportunity to improve upon them all, as improvements are constantly being made in mill machinery.

The Woodman and the Sandal-Tree.

BEHOLD the tall white light-house strayed the children. With morning sweet; About the steep and rough gray rocks they wandered. With hesitating feet; For, scattered far and wide, the birds were lying. Quiet, and old, and dead. That met, while they were swiftly winging northward; The first light overhead; And, as the frail mists in the summer evenings fly to the candle's blaze; Rushed wildly at the splendor, finding only one for the summer hoards. Various reasons are assigned for the fact—among others, that multitudes of those who usually frequent them went to Europe in the spring. Still if this be true, the question remains undecided whether they did not go to Europe in order to get more pleasure and profit out of the same amount of money that they would be obliged to spend here; may, whether they did not go to save money. Indeed, we are inclined to think that the lack of patronage at the hotels, and the enormous deportation of our wealthy population, are both owing to the high prices demanded at our watering places for genteel fare and accommodation. If a man can have the benefit of a sea-voyage and a delightful summer in Switzerland, for what it would cost to make a tour of the principal watering-places; he will be very apt to pack his trunks for the foreign trip; and we must honor his good taste and judgment in the matter.

PROCLAMATION.
STATE OF MICHIGAN,
Executive Department,
JOHN J. BAILEY, Governor.
To the People of the State of Michigan, greeting:
In observance of a time-honored custom, and in conformity with the Proclamation of the President, I hereby appoint Thursday, the 27th day of November, 1874, as a day of Public Thanksgiving. Let us on that day, in our respective places of public worship, and in our homes, remember with gratitude, that all our blessings are the gift of God. Our misfortunes only are our own. Let us by acts of charity to the suffering children at home and in sister States, show that our gratitude is of the heart, earnest and sincere. "Reject not the supplication of the afflicted; neither turn away thy face from a poor man."

The recent Spanish insult to the American flag, the cold blooded murder of the passengers and crew of the Virginia, by the Spanish authorities in Cuba, causes to be put on record one of the most outrageous atrocities of modern times. The offenders deserve the severest punishment and thousands of American hearts are yearning for the privilege of teaching them a lesson that will be permanent with and beneficial to the Spanish barbarians.

WHAT the future of the Republic party is to be, depends much on what is to be done at the next session of Congress. If certain wrongs are made right, the people will show their approval by standing by the party in power. If not, they will desert its ranks. The Republican party has been the People's party, and will be so long as its rule is wise and just. Any attempt on the part of Democracy to work into power, under cover of a new name will be futile. When it casts off its name it must be born again into new and better political doctrines. A People's party is what we all want, and we want the Republican party to continue to be the People's party.

The weekly edition of the Detroit Commercial Advertiser is over 40,000 copies. The Advertiser is printed on a four cylinder press each cylinder giving over fifty impressions per minute making the total number of impressions per hour, about 10,000. The foreman informed us the other day that the capacity of the press was nearly 11,000 impressions per hour, but they only require it to stamp 10,000 in that space of time, on ordinary occasions.
THE SCHOOLS SUPERINTENDENT of Lowell met at the office of Perry & Look on Saturday afternoon and granted a certain part of a petition by detaching the 1st of the 2nd school, and the 2nd of the 1st of sec 4 from school district number 1. We hope the parties interested in this matter will some time present a petition asking that these districts may be so divided as to leave them both in better shape. The map lines are frightful to look upon.
BERKE & GAY FURNITURE CO. of this city advertise their great auction sale to commence December 10, and continue ten days. This will be the most important affair of the kind ever announced in the West, and we have no doubts will be largely taken advantage of by the trade and public generally.—Grand Rapids Eagle, Nov. 15.

We see by advertisements that another era is opening in the sale of new machines, and in it the Florence Sewing Machine takes the lead. They have reduced their prices so that a machine which cost $65 a year ago, you can get now for $45. In making this reduction they do away with canvassers, so that machines are procured direct from agencies. Don't pay old prices for second rate machines, but bring in your cash and get a reliable machine at the reduced rates.

The first day of December will soon be here. We want our back pay first.

Since the panic a great many men have worn crapes in their countenances.

REV. A. D. FLAGG has received another call by the Baptist society, but has not yet decided to accept.

There will be a Sabbath school concert at the M. E. Church next Sabbath evening. All are invited to attend.

"TOWN TALK," a contributor to the Grand Rapids Post, still attends the Varieties with commendable regularity.

D. RYAN, the proprietor of the eating house at the depot, has been making noticeable improvements about his premises.

A FEW have responded to our call at the head of the "Jotting" column. That notice to "pay up" means just what it says.

SAMUEL STAFFORD, better known as "Rebel Sam," was matrimonially joined to Mrs. Samantha Hurd, a few days ago. Justice Hunter made out the papers.

A STRANGER called the other day and said he took a great interest in journalism, and always made it a point to drop into the editor's sanctum. For two successive minutes he discoursed on the glory of the press with considerable enthusiasm. The subject being then exhausted he proceeded to tell us what a smart boy he had. This took just twenty-five minutes.

HON. H. M. LOOK, member of the new law firm of Look & McCurdy, Grand Rapids, has two cousins in Lowell; O. H. Look, Attorney, and J. Q. Look, druggist. All good-looking.

A MAN who travels with his eyes and ears open told us one day last week that no State in the Union was better supplied with good newspapers than Michigan; and of course we accepted his remark as a personal insult.

A physician in this village who has traveled extensively over our rough roads this season with price and without money has come to the conclusion that there isn't much fun in a dying world.

ON FRIDAY EVENING of this week the citizens of Lowell and vicinity will have an opportunity of enjoying an entertainment to be given at Train's Hall, by the FLORANCE COMBINATION. This troupe is highly recommended, and their programme for Friday evening is an attractive one. See ad. in JOURNAL for further particulars.

WE ARE informed that a band of Minstrels is to be organized in Lowell, consisting of some of the happiest and best young men of this village. Even the sound of the tambourin is echoing now from a little closet in the domicile of one of the amateurs. "Bones" is down cellar rattling his ribs and throwing attitudes at the rats. Home talent will make Lowell a place of amusement this winter.

THE other day a traveling agent called at one of the bars in this village and ordered a gin-cocktail. The clerk who had just commenced studying the profession, told the agent that they were just out of gin-cocktails, but the boss had ordered some from Detroit which he expected in with some other choice beverages that night. The grin on that agent's face was so broad that he had to go out of the door sideways.

WE VISITED Detroit the other day and while at dinner at the Exchange Victoria Woodhull entered the dining room and seated herself at a table. In less than twenty minutes after that more than fifty persons left the dining room.

Victoria lectured in Detroit Friday night, and during the day people were seen leaving the city at all hours and on all the railroads, as if old Demosthenes were behind them. We placed 140 miles between that lecture and our body, with the wind in our face too.

ONE of our business men was out on the streets Saturday, looking for money. A man who owed him was driving along Main street in the mud and deep thought. Just as he drove by that business man he leaned forward and began to arrange things in the bottom of his wagon. The merchant said "hello!" The man in the wagon didn't hear him of course, because he hadn't got those things in the wagon fixed yet. The merchant said "hello!" a little louder, but the man in the wagon was still engaged in fixing things and was completely lost to everything else. The merchant stepped up a little nearer and said "say!" The man in the wagon bent still lower and jerked the halter six inches to the west. The merchant thought he would wade in the mud to the wagon and speak to that man, but just as he got nicely started the team went off on a mournful trot up Water street, and the man in the wagon resumed his seat, thought of his dear wife and children, pulled encouragingly on the reins, and was carried to that sweet spot which, be it ever so humble there is no place like it.

ONE of our numerous debtors called the other day and said he guessed he would straighten up his little account as it had already run a good deal longer than he meant it should. We put on our smile of approval, asked him how his family was getting along, and if he had got his corn all husked, and then told him that his account was seven dollars and forty cents. "All right," said he, handing us a note of ten dollars, due in sixty days, made by a man who has never yet been guilty of paying an honest debt, "all right," said he, "I haven't got the money to spare today, but there's a little due bill of ten dollars you may have, and—less see, there will be two dollars and sixty cents my due went they?—well, just give me the change and balance the account, and you and I will be square once more." We looked at the note (and then at the man and asked him a few questions not wholly irrelevant to the subject. "Why that will go, won't it?" he asked. We replied that it would go, certainly, it would go; it would go to protest but "not for Joe." After bantering some time he pulled out a wallet of greenbacks which we told him would "go";—and, finding that we had some conscientious scruples about throwing off the forty cents, he paid his account in full and left with the remark that some folks were altogether too particular in this world.

FRANK ROMIG AND NEWTON HENRY were arrested the other day for damaging the school house in district No. 4 of Lowell, while returning from a festive dance at Whitneyville. Their examination was held at Alaska on the 13th inst., before two justices of that place: Messrs. Wise, Hale and Malcom appearing for the people and O. H. Look of this place for the defense. It seems that Henry entered said school house and sought to trample down the cause of education by slinging books at inkstands and perching himself upon the desks and abying various articles of furniture at the stove-pipe, etc. It also appears that Romig entered the school house and tried to convince his partner that such violent exercise was unhealthy, and they had better go home. Henry wasn't ugly but was fond of books, he said. Romig said he'd better come along and when he got home he could read his testament, Henry went. The examination brought out the above facts we are informed. Some say that the boys were on a little high, but we hope that's not so; we would much prefer to know that it was temporary insanity. The court is lame we think. But the boys were set free. Yes, free to return to their homes and be good boys. Romig was innocent, but Henry was slightly frowned upon, owing to his fondness for books, and perhaps the fact that he was not arrested on a proper charge. We don't think he meant to cripple the institution for life. No such thing. Henry is naturally too good a fellow for that.

ON WEDNESDAY afternoon, Nov. 12, about thirty invited guests assembled at the residence of Mrs. E. A. Sunderlin, to witness the giving away of one of the fairest of daughters to a most promising son. The notice proper, then reads as follows:

MARRIED.—In Lowell, Nov. 12, 1873, by the Rev. L. F. Waldo, Mr. Charles N. Post of Chicago, to Miss Emma Sterling, daughter of Mrs. Ruby D. Temple, of Chicago, and sister of Mrs. E. A. Sunderlin of Lowell.

At three o'clock, on the day above mentioned, the bride and groom, followed by Miss Ada Wilson as bridesmaid, and Mr. George Love of Chicago as groomsman, appeared before the Master of Ceremonies, in the presence of many admiring witnesses, and were made one. The bride and bridesmaid were charmingly attired in white, and looked—well when one can't do a subject justice, he'd better stop. So we pass on, merely to say that the ceremony was performed in the most approved manner by the Rev. Mr. Waldo, and the congratulations following were as earnest as they were numerous. The formal ceremonies being over, all present were requested to take seats, and all present complied with promptness. And for an hour "all present" sat and received, ate and received, sighed and still received, until the hostess and assistants were obliged to gather up the twelve baskets full that remained of the feast, which "all present" felt like having them "passover" at some other time. After another hour of social pleasure the company dispersed, and the bride and groom departed for Chicago by the evening train. Love went with them; blessings followed them; warm friends they left behind them. It was a joyous wedding day.

DARIUS HINES and his wife have not been living together in perfect harmony for a great while. Their two hearts have not beat as one. They couldn't lie down together as did the lion and the lamb, and wouldn't try. And so Darius was brought before Justice Hunter last Thursday on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, and Darius' wife caused this to be done. The trial was by jury and after a long and heated struggle, the jury was ordered to retire and do their duty with their hands on their bosoms. The jury returned eating boiled chestnuts and apples which cost a cent apiece. "We can't agree, by jingo," said the foreman. "Begone," said the court. On Friday a new jury was selected and Darius was commanded to come forth. His wife entered the room also, and said to Darius "I don't want to send you to jail if you will be have yourself." "Go on with your side show" said Darius to the court. The band organ struck up, the wife of Darius wept, and Darius took a fresh chew of fine cut. The jurors took out their jackknives and strapped them on their boots, the counsel looked severe and hungry, the court sat firm and unmoved, the scene was touching, the gloom was deepening. Finally the last word was spoken and the court told the jury to crawl off. They fled in single file, and when they returned a dark cloud, bigger than a man's hand, passed over and stood where the prisoner was. "What's the rip?" asked a small boy in the corner. "Guilty," cried the excited foreman. "Darius," said the court, "you needn't go up if you will give bonds for future upright conduct." "No you don't," replied Darius. "Go to hence them," said the court, and Darius now languishes in prison.

PROCLAMATION. STATE OF MICHIGAN, Executive Department, JOHN J. BAGLEY, Governor.

To the People of the State of Michigan, greeting: In observance of a time-honored custom, and in conformity with the Proclamation of the President, I hereby appoint Thursday, the 27th day of November, 1873, as a day of Public Thanksgiving.

Given under my hand, and the great seal of the State, at Lansing, this first day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, and the Independence of the United States the ninety-eighth.

By the Governor: DANIEL STRICKER, Sec'y of State.

THE OFFICIAL CANVASS shows that the Hon. William B. Williams, of Allegan, the Republican nominee for Representative in Congress for this Congressional district is elected by 115 majority.

TWELVE iron-clads and fourteen men-of-war will soon be in Cuban waters to look after the rights and privileges of this feeble government.

SPAIN has no right to stop American vessels on the high seas except in time of war, but the capture of the Virginias is the third time her authorities have caused this to be done.

THE SPANISH INSULT to the American Flag, the cold blooded murder of the passengers and crew of the Virginias, by the Spanish authorities in Cuba, causes to be put on record one of the most outrageous atrocities of modern times.

WHAT the future of the Republic party is to be, depends much on what is to be done at the next session of Congress. It certain wrongs are made right, the people will show their approval by standing by the party in power.

THE Flint Globe, in speaking of the inmates of the Deaf, Dumb, and Blind Institution located in that city, says that the State will not have done its whole duty until it shall have found manual trades for all its male pupils, and some sort of work for the female pupils who have not the means of support independent of their own labor.

Rosencranz's trial cost Montcalm County about $1,000. It is said to have been the first murder trial ever held in that county.

Twelve full military companies are now in the service of the State. After Jan. 1, 1874, four additional companies will be allowed by law.

The expenses of the State Reform School the past fiscal year were $47,646.73. The receipts for the same period were $53,557.07, leaving an unexpended balance of $6,010.34.

Attorney General Ball and Postmaster Turner have done themselves "proud" on the marshes near Monroe, duck hunting. They have sent home over fifty to their friends.

The annual meeting of the State Agricultural Society, for the purpose of closing the business of the present year, making a premium list for the fair that will be held somewhere next year, and for attending to any other business of importance, will begin at the Vaughn House at Eaton Rapids, Monday evening, December 15.

The board of Supervisors of Ottawa county have ordered the prosecution of Mr. C. M. Dickinson, publisher of the Herald, and late county Treasurer, State Senator Clubb, and Maj. Geo. W. Woodward, on account of a defalcation of about $6,000 in the County Treasury. So says the News.

PROBATE ORDER—State of Michigan, County of Kent, vs. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Kent, holden at the city of Grand Rapids, on Saturday, the 15th day of November, 1873, the year One thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Thomas Dodge Fox of the city of Grand Rapids, Michigan county, praying among other things, that administration of said estate may be granted to himself.

It is therefore ordered, that Monday the 18th day of December next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs of said estate, and all other persons interested in said estate, be required to appear at said time and place, to show cause why the said petition should not be granted.

At COPPENS & PARKER'S

THE MEADOW KING MOWER.

WE INVITE the attention of all in need of a mower, to this machine. It is not an experimental machine, full of imperfections, as are nearly all new machines. It has been in use six seasons, (we have handled it two without selling a cent's worth of extras) and it has established a reputation second to none. We now offer it to farmers as the CHEAPEST MOST SIMPLE, and PRACTICABLE, machine in use. It is more durable and of Lighter Draft than any other mower made, and is Warranted to give Satisfaction.

See it before you buy, then TRY IT.
