Another terrible disaster at sea to add to the long list already chronicled. The Steamship Schiller which started from New York for Hamburg April 28, was wrecked off the Scilly Islands on the night of May 7th, and the total number of lives lost is reported to be THREE HUNDRED AND ELEVEN. This is the latest report and is probably correct. A dense fog was the cause of the disaster. There were only forty passengers saved. The Captain of the boat proved himself a hero and then went down. Several Detroiters were on board and are probably among the lost. A gentleman from Fruitport, named Dwight Klineke, was one of the passengers. But few catastrophes have ever occurred equal to this in horror. The Scilly Islands are situated near Land End of the south-west Coast of Cornwall, England. They consist of 130 islets and rocks and their area is about nine square miles. The steamship Schiller was wrecked on the great German port and was a magnificent vessel. $300,000 in gold went to the bottom and nearly 200 bags of mail were lost.

THE POWER OF ONE VOTE was repeatedly shown in the last legislative session. By the official record, Senator Christman had the exact number necessary to elect him; but it is said that all who pronounced his name on the first roll-call thereby committed themselves, and had enough withdrawn to cause no choice, he would have contested for the seat. The county tax bill—a measure of the greatest financial importance ever proposed in the state—failed in the senate by one vote. A very important law to provide new legal remedies on ditch orders succeeded in the senate by one vote. The liquor taxation bill also succeeded there by one vote. The house concurred in certain amendments to this bill by one vote. The celebrated Beard claim was beaten in the house by one vote, although Mr. Stephens, representative from southern Ingham, changed from a negative to an affirmative over night. The bill reducing taxation on life insurance premiums from 3 to 2 per cent passed the house by one vote. Other measures were lost or carried by a single vote.— Lansing Republican.

Johnson's New Universal Illustrated Cyclopaedia.

As a Cyclopaedia of useful knowledge it certainly stands far above any publication of the kind yet made in America or elsewhere and will supply a want that has long been keenly felt by all who need a convenient and reliable book of reference. A careful examination of Vol. 1 convinces us of this fact. It may be said to be a condensation and boiling down of all the other cyclopaedias extant, with the addition of a vast amount of new and original matter, to which no reference whatever is made in the other works. Professional men especially will appreciate this advantage. Facts of detail are given in a nut shell and one can get in a few lines the information he desires instead of reading through as many pages. It is a dictionary comprehensive yet concise. The work was originally suggested by Horace Greeley, who had long felt the need of it in his daily labors. The existing encyclopaedias he claimed were too voluminous. They were spread over too much paper and entirely too wordy, requiring too much time and patience to find the information they contained. The busy man's cyclopaedia, according to Mr. Greeley, "should be something different in every one of these particulars; it should be, first of all, a table book; it should be a book of facts and to a very limited respect, if at all, a volume of discussion or of critical opinions. Finally, it should be severely and uniformly accurate, and should be brought up, in every article, to the actual state of knowledge at the date of publication."

The publisher, Mr. Johnson, a warm, personal friend of Mr. Greeley, has endeavored to prepare a volume according to Mr. Greeley's idea. He has spared nothing in the way of talent or money that would contribute to this end. The editorial corps, comprising an array of Philosophers, Scholars and Statesmen that has never been equalled on any work in this country. The editors in chief are President Barnard of Columbia College, New York, and Prof. Arnold Guyot whose name is familiarly associated with maps and geog. applies now so popular in our public schools. Then there are some twenty associate editors including President Woolsey, of Yale, Rev. O. B. Frothingham, New York, Alex. H. Stephens, Georgia, and others equally distinguished, while the list of contributors contains the names of some hundreds of the best writers in the country. With such an array of talent it is not wondered at that a really choice and most valuable book is the production of their labors. The illustrations are numerous and finely executed. The volume before us contains 1,607 pages. The work will be complete in four volumes. The subscription price per volume is put so cheap that it is within reach of many who could not think of purchasing the "New American Cyclopaedia," or the "American Cyclopaedia," each costing in the neighborhood of one hundred dollars. We discover in the following points of great excellence.

(1) It is for such a very comprehensive work, very cheap. (2) The list of contributors to its pages is not exceeded by those in any similar work in our country. Almost every one is an authority in the department in which he writes. (3) It contains a much greater number of topics under the letters, than some larger works. They are treated, it is true, more briefly, but to many persons, more acceptably than to that account. (4) As a book of reference in the family, or office, as a help in educating a family, to assist parents in answering intelligently the innumerable questions which the expanding minds of their children are constantly asking, nothing can be better. It is the great circle of knowledge what Webster's Unabridged Dictionary is to the English Language. It is a Dictionary of all knowledge.—Springfield Transcript.

The combination of the McKean-Campbell is a failure as regards paying printers' bills. A $1,000 check is allowed to the secretary of the State Board of Health, for the time it may be necessary. One Cornelius Sugar, a grass-hopper canvasser, is posted as a swindler and a dead beat. Capt. Craw has gone east, for the purpose of purchasing a locomotive and construction train for the Chicago, Saginaw & Canada railroad.

A number of people from Niles, Dowagiac, Decatur and Paw Paw, have departed for California by special car. The price paid was $1,200 to San Francisco. They intend to locate in Southern California if satisfied. Lansing has two chess clubs, one, the Lansing club, organized some time since, and the other, the Capitol, recently organized. The officers of the new club are Wm. Lighton, president; E. P. Shine, secretary, and Eugene Hewitt, treasurer. They are going to play the Battle Creek club. To succeed in a difficult undertaking one must have grit, grip and gumption.— Jackson Citizen. We would add to the above the three C's, Cash, Canning and Cussedness.—Charlotte Leader.
