They want to be let alone, to the end that they may not only deprive the freedmen of their political privileges, but also reduce them to a state of slavery worse than that from which they were delivered in 1855. And now the ones. delivered in 1865. And now the quesdelivered in 1895. And now the question arises, whether there is any way of putting a stop to this outrageous violation of the supreme law of the land. The Bourbons, with one voice, say there is not. They insist that a "sovereign" state may bid defiance to the law of the land with entire impunity; that the nation had no power punity; that the nation had no power and no right to see that its will is ex-ecuted; that the slavery barbarism, with all its horrors, may be re-estab-lished, and there is no power in the natiou to interfere. The Bourbons will find themselves egregiously mis-taken. The Indian Troubles.

A dispatch from the White River Indian agency in Colorado on the 17th inst says: This afternoon Gen. Merritt and command returned to this point, orders from Washington being to suspend operations against the Utes and await orders either at White or Bear rivers, as negotiations for peace are in progress, it being understood that the hostiles have agreed to surrender the warriors engaged in the recent depredations. It is probable that the combined commands of Merritt and Gilbert will remain for the present at this point, although nothing definite is known as to the future movements. In event of peace being established it is altogether probable that a permanent military post will be constructed either at Bear river of the agency.

A telegram from Gen. Sheridan, dated Chicago, October 19, was received by Gen. Sherman, which says: I received your dispatch of yesterday last night. at Pagossa, and beyond a column of eight companies of infantry and four companies of cavalry, there is now being organized at Garland, which is a better point than Alamosa, a column of six companies of infantry, to which can be added two more companies of infantry, and I can also add six more companies of cavalry, now at Rawlins Station, making a force of 19 companies, aggregating at least 900 men. Gen. Merritt had followed the hostiles in the direction of the Uncompaghre agency, as he has notified me, but turned back on receiving your dispatch of the 13th. Had he gone on it was my intention to have supplied him from the south, by his own request, so that there need have been no fears on the part of the interior department regarding his supplies. My telegram related to the pass between Rawlins and the White River agency. We now understand this affair in all its bearings, and will not give you any further trouble, except to send information as it arrives. I regret that Merritt was not permitted to go, as I have not trouble, except to send information as it arrives. I regret that Merritt was not permitted to go on, as I have not the slightest belief that Ouray can deliver up the murderers, and I fear valuable time will be lost. After your dispatch of the 13th I directed Crook to send to the White River agency supplies in abundance before the deep snows come on, and will assume the risk of keeping Merritt, with his present force, at that point, to await further developments. I understand that country pretty well. My last summer's trips give me a very tair knowledge of the country in the vicinity of Los Pinos agency and south of that place.

The affinities between Danish and English are too well known to call for remark here, and may it be studied in Trench, "Upon Words." It may be noticed only, while on this subject, that in Lincolnshire, and such English country districts as were occupied by the Danes, many purely Danish words still exist among the people which do not form part of the "Queen's English," while in Jutland the country people have many of what we should call "English" words, which do not exist in the Danish language as spoken and written in the capital—London Society.

In former years it was a common occurance to find 80 per cent. of the field hands in Lousiaians, Mississippi and Alabama struck down with the Swamp Ferer, Chills and Ferer or Dumb Ague, just during the busiest time of Summer. Now, we are glad to bear that the planters succeed in curing every case of the disease in a few days by the use of Dr. F. Wilhoft's Anti-Periodic and Ferer and Ague Tonic, which is sold by all Druggists throughout the country.

It was a Frenchman who said that "a long and careful scratiny of mankind had con-vinced him that most men were mortal." Still we are of the opinion that the frquent and judicious nee of Mott's Vegetable Liver Pills would tend to keep the system in good repair and prolong life beyond the ordinary average.

It is AMMERTED that the ordinary cosmetics used by ladies are productive of great mischief. We believe this is so, and that a better means of securing a beautiful complexion is to use some good blood medicine like Rosadalis, the great Sonthern Remedy, which cleanses the blood and gives permanent beauty to the skin.

Never let a cough, cold, or croup go too far. On the first symptoma send to your druggist for "Dr. Sellers Cough Byrap." 25c per bottle.
