The Detroit Free Press tries hard to brace up over democracy's crushing defeat, but it's "drefful" hard work. Like the boy that got licked in school—"the schoolmaster can't do it again." But he did, and wailoped the conceit all out of the youth, too.

With a gain of eight, and perhaps in the cock wo states the Republicans have reason to believe they can win a majority in the next House. Let every Republican then do his utmost to that end. Propositions will be made by Democrats to trade votes. They will offer two to your state for their congressional candidate. Beware of all such propositions. It is of the highest importance that every Republican nominee for congress be electrically and perhaps in the conditions to believe they can win a majority in the next House. A frightful collision occurred at Pittsburg, Pa, about 12 o'clock Saturday night between two sections of Wall's accommodation going east, at the 28th street crossing of the Penn-sylvania railroad. The first section left the with a large growd east, at the 28th street crossing of the Femsylvania railroad. The first section left the Union depot at 11.31 p.m. with a large crowd of excursionists who had come into town to witness the democratic demonstrations and the closing exercises of the exposition. The first section stopped at the regular Twenty-eighth street station, where it was delayed by another train just ahead, and meanwhile the second section came along at considerable speed. The locomotive crashes into the rear car with terrible force, and literally buried itself to the cab windows among the dense crowd of excursionists, mangling all who were in its course. The boiler-head of the enz ne was also broken off by the shock and a torrent of scalding water and steam fell upon the occupants of the car. 27 were killed and others will die from severe wounds and scald.

A convention met at Chicago on the 14th, to adopt measures to secure cheap transportation. Four hundred delegates were present. The points chiefly insisted upon in the discussion were that ruilways should be held to the strict-est accountability as to the manner of conducting their business, and that national legislation was necessary to enable the country to get the cheapest possible transportation at living rates to consumers. Resolutions were adopted affirming the necessity of the government controlling the railroads to prevent extortion and discrimination against producers and shippers, also against the publication of swindling addiscrimination against producers and shippers, also against the publication of swindling advertisements in papers, also advocating the formation of a national alliance co-operative with all other organizations in the interests of agriculture. After the convention adjourned the National farmers' alliance of the United States was organized with W. J. Fowler, New York, president; I.L. S. Coffin, Iowa, vice president; Jas. W. Of business at the post office in Constantinople an amusing description appears in the Cologne Gazette. In London or any city in Western Europe the transactions would be concluded in half a dozen words. "Two shillings worth of foreign stamps, please." "Change for half-a-crown, thank you." In Stamboul this sample transaction assumes the following form. A turbanned Ottoman approaching the pigeon hole of the post office, bows repeatedly to the official, and laying his right hand on his breast, exclaims, "May the noble morning be fortunate for you, sir!" Official, returning the salutation, inquires, "What is your pleasure?" "Thy servant desires a few stamps, postage stamps, in order Of business at the post office in Conbeller Dec. 1 12 68 1 6995

Sales of English wheat during the week 50,110 qrs. at 41s, against 19,361 qrs. at 48s 8d the corresponding week last year. The imports into the United Kingdom during the week ending October 2 were 875,571 cwts, wheat and 168,758 cwts. flour. paper? Why not? Surely it is good money of the Padishah, in whose realms you are! Well, well, I give you able women, married and unmarried alike, is to make their bedrooms beauti-ful. The lately acquired taste for decoration is taking that turn just now to the utter neglect of parlors and other apartments. Pillowshams and bed-spreads are laboriously and expensively covered with needlework and lace:

In short, the rage for sleeping in beautiful rooms has possessed every woman. Even her toilet crockery must now be of no ordinary ware. She washes her hands in a ceramic bowl, colors her

Unmarried women effect white and the most delicate colors for these canopies, and put white doves atop, as emblems and put white doves atop, as emblems of purity—so that the midnight marauder, may comprehend the situation at a glance. A novel device is a rack, handsomely constructed of black walnut or ebony, with hocks for hanging a woman's underwear handily. The chemise, the corset, the stockings, the shoes, all have their places, so that a woman may be as orderly as she likes in undressing and without the old. in undressing and without the old trouble of using all the chairs in the room. Some of the bedrooms of the period are really marvels of exquisite taste—too sweet and dainty by far to deserve the rude occupancy of hus-bands. The natural result of all this will be an unusual number of To the police Grady was a most valuable man, because of his great influence with and thorough knowledge of the criminal classes. Detectives had redress to him many a time for the recovery of watches, jewelry and valu-able papers stolen from prominent persons, and it was rare, indeed, that persons, and it was rare, indeed, that he falled to cause a restitution of the articles desired. Of course these ar-rangements were not made openly but it would be intimated to him by some official that the return of somebody's The lake of Tescoco, a short distance The lake of Tescoco, a short distance from the capital of Mexico, and communicating with the city by means of a canal, is one of the greatert natural curiosities of that country. In the center is a barren Island, with a hill composed of volcano rock, and known as El Penon de los Bancos, or rock of the baths, rising from the surface. This desolate spot is famous for the manufacture of crude soda, or tequesquite, a manufacture not more remarkable for its primitive method than its lower grade of criminals were some-what shy of Grady because of his fre-quent visits to Police Headquarters and many of these men looked upon him as a "stool." But while Grady was extremely useful to the police, he was ble for its primitive method than its vast resources. The earth of the val-ley adjoining the lake is impregnated with a species of soda, and Lake Teshim as a "stool." But while Grady was extremely useful to the police, he was in no sense a Jonathan Wild and none knew this better than the leading "crooked men" who trusted him fully and generally fellowed his advice. A calculation of the contents of the lake was made in 1851, when the lake was considerably contracted, and the proportion of solid matter was accrtained to be not less than 18 per cent. The Penon soda stills are not numerous, but illustrate the rude principle at work all around the lake. They are simply mounds of accumulated dark, bluish mould, on which large round holes are made here and there. In these holes bags are placed, and in the bag the impregnated, frosty-looking earth found every morning along the lake. Over this earth water is poured, and the liquor which sinks through the dirt, and is drained from the bag, passes into a vessel below. The solution thus caught is evaporated over a fire, and tequesquite is the result. This is the whole process, which is the same that was used in the days of Montezuma. With this primitive system of manufacture, the lake, according to the estimate of the School of Mining in the city of Mexico, produces annually 1650,000 neurols of exceptions.

The Burglar's Banker.

John D. Grady was found dead on the floor of his diamond broking office in New York, a few days ago, death having resulted from pueumonia. For the past twenty years Grady, while on the very best terms with the police authorities, is supposed to have been the friend and confidant of the most noted and daring cracksmen in the country. He was known as the "bank burglar's banker," and it is said that of all the crimes committed by three or four of the best known gangs of burglars he invariably received a portion of the proceeds. There are a number of very important robberies in which the police have no doubt he shared, and yet they could not fasten that fact upon him. When it was first deeided to rob the Manhattan Bank on the corner of Broadway and Bleecker street men met in his office to discuss their plans. The attempt failed at that time, but how successful it was later the public well knows.

To the police Grady was a most valu-

... A TERRIBLE REVENCE.—The Alta California tells this yarn: "An awful case of the consequences of refusing a young man's honorable love is reported on the West Side. A really nice young man fell in love with a handsome girl, the only daughter of a handsome and well preserved widow of 38, and offered her marriage. She ridiculed him beher marriage. She ridiculed him be cauge he was 26, and said he was old enough to be her father, and so on, and with her taunts drove him to such a pitch of frenzy that he swore he would be fearfully revenged. Accordingly he proposed to and married the wretched girl's mother. When a young man comes round to see that wretched girl, her stepfather bounces him down the front steps, throws his him down the front steps, throws his hat after him, and tells the wretched girl that the young man is not a fit companion for her, and that he is as solicitous for her future as he would be for that of his own child, and altogeth-er, in the kindest manner possible, he makes that wretched girl even wish

A French inventor, M. Clemandot, has devised a shade for reducing the glare of electric lights, which he claims to be much more economical than ground glass globes. He makes his lantern of glase tubes filled with finely spun glass threads or glass wool. By reflection from the glass threads the light is given the desired diffusion, with a loss of illuminating power not exceeding 15 per cent. against 30 or 40 per cent. with opal or ground glass. The natural blueness of the electric light can be corrected by tinting the glass tubes or the inclosed wool.

Commander Huntington, of the United States Navy, has discovered in the South Pacific a submarine volcano, the South Pacific a submarine voicano, and his description of it reads like Jules Verne's "Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." As the ship approached, black masses thrown up were distinguished as mud and ashes. The upheavals were accompanied by dull reports, like those from submarine mines, and by an odor of sulphur. Commander Huntington did not think it prudent to approach part in his vessel but dent to approach near in his vessel, but a boat was lowered and pulled within a hundred yards of it.

We remember a child who used to be puzzled with those miracles of our Saviour, who in restoring an impotent man directed him to take up his bed and walk—his idea of a bed consisting in a four-pest bedsted, with its mat tress and feather-bed, blankets, sheets tress and reather-bed, obtainers, ancers and pillows. But even in very cold countries the beds are closely allied to the Eastern carpet. In taking a furn-ished house in Russia, on inquiring for the servants' bedrooms and beds, it came out that the Russian servants are in the habit of lying anywhere— in the passages, on the floors, on the mats at the room doors, or even on mats at the room doors, or even on the carpets in the sitting-rooms—generally as near as possible to the stove in the winter season. The emperor himself sleeps on a leathern sofa in a sitting-room, lying down in a dressing-gown, but not removing his under clothing. But in Russia the houses are kept so warm by the stoves, that much bed-covering is no more required in winter than during summer.

Mr. Archibald Ferbes, the famous war correspondent of the London News, has arrived in New York. In a recent interview with a World reporter, he talked of his success at reporting battles as follows: "Of course that newspaper will succeed best that gives the news first, and a correspondent that makes his mark must beat all others in time if nothing else. My idea has always been that, in order to get the advantage in time, the correspondent must be in front. Those who remain back out of danger waiting for information at second hand from peoremain back out of danger waiting for information at second hand from people in no condition to observe do not aucceed as war correspondents. Well, while I always took my chances in the hottest part of the battle, I will not be foolish enough to say I felt no trepidation. I did, and a great deal of it, and so did every other man in those battles or any others. Even men who really lust to get into battle are not free from this feeling, which becomes more and more akin to fear as the bullets grow thicker and the casualties multiply. No, if soldiers, moving, firing or otherwise diverted, are nervous in battle, what must be the state of the correspondent as he lies, down or ing or otherwise diverted, are nervous in battle, what must be the state of the correspondent as he lies down or stalks along armed only with a lead pencil and a note-book? To say the least of it, there is a great deal in the atmosphere of a battle to make it very difficult to observe things with accuracy. In order to keep my feelings as composed as possible I made my notes very elaborate. I wrote in the present tense and limished each sentence with all the pains I could bring to bear. If the apt word did not occur to me I I would rack my brains for it with the intentness of a boy at school who must answer or be soundly flogged. In this way I forced myself to be in a measure oblivious to the danger. Another advantage in making full notes was this. When the battle was over, my work preparatory to sending off my despatch was barely more than a transcription from my note-book. After the physical and mental strain of the field-work this was oftentimes as much as I was capable of, and frequently even this required the exercise of a deget resolution. In some in-
