WANTED, immediately, two good men in every township to learn the cement well trade. It is the best and cheapest way a well was ever made. We dug and cemented ninety feet at Dwight Peterson's 2 miles ne of Alton in 6 days time at an expense of 7½ barrels of Buffalo Cement, and 10½ days work on top. 1 man can do the top work for the first 20 feet after which it takes two. All letters of inquiry promptly answered. We dig a round well 34 inches in diameter the first eight feet and 32 inches the rest of the way to water, and use sheet fron hoops for curbing which are removed as the cement is put in the well packed around a 23 inche spinder. The well is dug and the bottom of cement brick or 2 foot tile placed in the bottom before any cementing is done. A well made in this way will last FOREVER without any REPAIR. We may be seen in the neighborhood west of Barney McGree's in Vergennes for the next 10 days. P.O. Alton. W. H. H. DAVIS & Co., see Ad.

Responses at roll-call on the subject of Death, were all well chosen. many were exceptionally fine. The president then read a telegram from Mrs. J. H. The financial affairs of this government have been badly managed, have they? Credit all gone, is it? Country going into bankruptcy, eh? Your hard money Republican party has brought the nation to financial ruin, has it? Well, here is the latest from London. "United States 4 per cent. bonds are selling in England at 1191." And here you -ah', where are you? Um, gone away kind o' sudden.

Many years ago-and not so many either-Detroit was called "Old Fogy." It no longer deserves that appellation. The promptness with which Detroit responded to the call of the fire sufferers and the depthness to which she plunged her fist into her pocket, do not indicate a large degree of Old Fogy in her present make-up. Detroit is Old Business and we've about made up our mind not to sell her at any price.

The President for the past week has not much more than held his own, judging from the various dispatches sent out. Dr. Bliss would have him much better, however, quite well in fact. The general symptoms seem to show some improvement and if his lung difficulty does not prove serious it is thought that the patient will stand a fair chance of recovery. Dr. Bliss had him "convales, cent" a week ago. The President doesn't seem to have reached that point yet. The Journal cannot agree with some Republican papers in predicting an entire change of administrative policy should the president die and Arthur take the chief executive seat. Should Gen. Arthur become president, we believe that he will see that it is the greatest opportunity of his life, and announce to the country his determination to pursue thesame line of action so auspiciously begun by President Garfield. Vice President Arthur knows that the Republican party stands firmly and unswervingly by President Garfield's administration, and that the whole country is with him, and he (Armer) knows, too, that to announce or pursue a different course of action, such as would put an end to fraud investigations, &c, would be to him a fatal step. There might and doubtless would be some Cabinet changes, but we do not make a discount from that. But Mr. Arthur would not offend the public feeling by calling about him men hostile to the knows of the present administration. Vast numbers midst one, a guest, unbidden, unseen, of charred remains have been found and buried. Here the remains of a group of so much strength before we met again? Shortly after, on a bright Sabbath morning, like thousands of other summer mornings in the smile of sunshine, the fragrance of flowers, and the song of birds, as our friend was busy with the countless "little things" that greet the careful housewife on Sabbath mornings suddenly, without sound of knocker or dreds who were fortunate enough to escape would be too dreadful to believe were the facts not so well known. How many lives are lost cannot yet be told.

They did not see as she did, that the flashing was but the crossing and recrossing of unwinding strands. For she had recognized the messenger when first he steel her the messenger, when first he stood be-side her on that Sabbath morning. She knew from whence he came, and the nature of his errand.
