Christmas Eve at the churches was well spent. At the Baptist and Congregational churches Christmas Arches were erected and laden with beautiful presents and at the M. E. Church a Christmas House was a store house of treasure for the young. All the churches were filled to overflowing. Appropriate and interesting were the exercises at each and hundreds of little hearts thumped with joy. It does the young heart good to thump, and it doesn't little tolder hearts to thump.

Saturday in Lowell was a big day, albeit the rough roads were unfavorable and kept many at home. Still our streets were crowded with teams and the stores with people and an immense traffic in Christmas goods and staples was had. It was a beautiful Octoberlike day and from all directions the people poured in. The aged, the middleaged and the blooming youth were here and they all wore smiles broad as a planter's hat and sweet as honey smothered in new mown hay. All because to-mor-row would be the "Merry Christmas." Home they went at dusky eve laden with presents for the children, and late at night the little stockings were filled, and some big ones, too. Did you ever think that by filling one little stocking When she calls on you examine the with Christmas gifts you fill at least two hearts with joy? You fill your own heart first by your giving and you fill the heart of the little one that owns the stocking so full that you can almost hear the joy in it turning somersaults. Never let a Christmas go by without filling those little stockings. You will not always have little stockings to fill,

All voted the party a success, and returned home well pleased carrying with them the benediction of host oxen. Inquire of Curtiss & Church,

When W. S. Stocking, brother of F. D. Stocking of this village, went west some years ago he hadn't a dollar in cash that he could call his own. But he had nerve and pluck and after a time he huddled up a little herd of cattle and went into stock raising. With what succèss is recorded in a recent number of the Benton Daily Record, published at Fort Benton, Montana, which says that Mr. Stocking has just sold his entire herd for the sum of $24,530, which added to his profits hitherto realized makes him a rich man.

Christmas in the Churches.

(By several special Reporters.)
The congregational church was beauti fully decorated. The evergreen arch was 11 feet wide and 16 feet high, the apex crowned with a golden star. The chandeliers, windows and doors were gracefully wreathed and festooned. The white cross in the center was relieved by vergreen in the background and stood on a pedestal; all being arranged in excellent taste. On Christmas Eve, the house was well filled and presents for old and young were hung on invisible wires strung across the arch, bringing each present clearly to view. Costly presents were interdicted by previous notice, notwithstanding there were many glad surprises to children of larger growth, noticeable among which was a full set of Dickens' works to Mr. Sunderlin by his class, (surely he will now 'Raise the Dickens,") and many others which can't well be mentioned. The little ones were happy. Sabbath evening was given to the quarterly S. S. Concert. The house was packed and many left, unable to get in. The exercises were ntensely interesting from first to last and the people will await with longing interest the coming of the next. J.

The Christmas exercises at the M. E Church, on Saturday evening, were of the usual character and consisted of remarks by the pastor, music, and speaking by the children. The feature of the occasion was a "Christmas House," from which Santa Claus, who was impersonated by J. C. Hare, issued with his pack, to the great delight of the little ones. There were about the usual number of presents, many of which were quite valuable.

At the Baptist church a beautiful Christmas arch was laden with gifts, and young. The house was packed with happy humanity.

A Happy Surprise.

Last Friday eve., as we had just seat-ed ourselves to make out reports and finish school work generally, and were saying "there must have been over 400 pupils in attendance the past term," we heard a light tap on the door. Our surprise can better be imagined than described, when upon opening the door, we saw the hall and stairs filled with High-school scholars. But we told them to come in for we were glad to see every one of them. Now we are not prepared to swear as to what happened prepared to swear as to what happened in the next few moments, but we think it was something like this—Abe Peck came forward saying: "Mr. and Mrs. Ransom, in behalf of the pupils of the Lowell high school, I take pleasure in presenting—" we really do not know what he did say; but the next thing we were sure of, we were holding in our hands a beautiful silver berry-dish. This is one of the many tokens of regard and kindness they have shown us all and kindness they have shown us all through the term, for all of which they have our sincere thanks; and our worst wish for them is that their friends may make their pathway through life as pleasant as they have made ours during the past four months.
