LOWELL JOURNAL

JAS. W. HINE, EDITOR.

This is brief is Senator Ferry's record on the question of finance. It is the position of the Republican party as laid down in its National Conventions. He is now, as he ever was, for honest money, an honest payment of the national debt, and free unrestricted national banking. The people are with him, let his detractors say what they may.

The notorious Navin, Adrian's mis-sing mayor, did not skip any too soon. About $100,000 in forged mortgages have recently come to light, and Navin is the chap who did the work. The vicinity of Adrian is badly stirred up over the new discovery. Navin is the shrewd villain that has operated in Michigan for some time. And he is probably shrewd enough to keep out of the way of those who want to see him most.

—Wm. Brown, of Kentucky, is the man who wrote that dirty libel on the character of Garfield. He is a Republican and was a Blaine delegate to the Chicago convention, he says. We are glad Blaine is not responsible for that. Mr. Brown may vote the right ticket but it's our opinion that he is a conscienceless scoundrel.

JOURNAL JOTTINGS.

Not a very good maple sugar season. H. B. Fallas Esq. of Grand Rapids was in Lowell Monday.

Capt. J. M. Weatherwax has returned from California.

Work on the bridge is progressing rather slowly. It's a slow job, anyhow.

Mr. & Mrs. H. E. Clark of Cannon and Geo. Anderson of Cannonsburg were in town last week.

Messrs Fletcher and Chapman examined a large number of teachers last Saturday.

The Lowell township board will meet next Saturday at the supervisor's office to audit accounts, etc.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Friday afternoon at half past 2 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. M. C. Barber.

M. M. Perry went to Jonesville last week, returning Monday night with his wife and her sister, Miss Lizzie Sinclair.

The New England furniture factory at Grand Rapids was burned Monday night. Loss $25,000; insurance about half.

A subscriber asks: "Which is correct, spite-driver or pile-driver?" Both are correct. For particulars see Worcester or Webster.

The JOURNAL begins to circulate quite extensively in Dakota. We hope it will be a welcome weekly visitor to every reader there.

Clara Louise Kellogg, at Powers' Opera House, Grand Rapids, Friday night. Quite a number of Lowellites have secured tickets.

The Democrats of Vergennes hold their caucus on Thursday, March 30, at one o'clock. They will meet at the Watters school house.

The township Republican caucus will be held at Music Hall in this village Thursday, March 30, at 2 o'clock p. m. Let there be a good representation.

Several car loads of freight left Lowell for Dakota last Sunday and on Monday afternoon the parties mentioned last week started. Success to them all.

Rev. Mr. Van Wagner will lecture on Friday evening, this week, before the Literary Society at Saranac. Subject: Reminiscences of distinguished men.

As we have many times stated, church announcements will be published free of charge if those interested will take the trouble to hand them in. This applies to all churches, in Lowell and vicinity.

This is the season of the year when the hen steps around on her dignity and feels her importance. We can excuse her if she will go to work and lay eggs for 10 cents a dozen, just as our forefathers' hens used to.

Hon. E. G. D. Holden of Grand Rapids was in town Monday. He is the same "Old Guard" that "never surrenders," and we are glad to note that his yoke is easy and burden light. In other words he is happy and prosperous.

Dr. G. T. Hine and W. F. Sandell have purchased a drug store at Pawama. The doctor will establish a practice there and Sandell will remain in the store. The JOURNAL wishes them a full measure of success.

We have in our mind a man in Grand Rapids who ought to have been hired to drive those spiles in the river. He never took hold of any kind of business that he didn't run into the ground with marvelous rapidity.

Reported that a real live minister is connected editorially with the Detroit News. Must be the Rev. G. Osmon, who runs the state news department of that paper. Elder Osmon is an old friend of the senior deacon of this paper.

The pupils injured by the breaking down of the seats in Powers Opera House during the "Great Republic Allegory" have been awarded $75 each by the Grand Rapids board of education. One of the injured, Miss Searles, it is feared will be permanently crippled.

Programme for the Ladies Literary Club, March 31st: Life sketch of N. P. Willis, Mrs. F. B. Hine; Reading, The Wife's appeal, Mrs. J. W. Hine; Original Article, Mrs. E. A. Chapman; The Mendelssohns, Miss Ecker; Essay, Domestic Infelicity, Mrs. Ransom; Recitation, Tillie Robinson.

Programme for the Ladies Literary Club, March 31st: Life sketch of N. P. Willis, Mrs. F. B. Hine; Reading, The Wife's appeal, Mrs. J. W. Hine; Original Article, Mrs. E. A. Chapman; The Mendelssohns, Miss Ecker; Essay, Domestic Infelicity, Mrs. Ransom; Recitation, Tillie Robinson.

Subject at the Congregational church next Sunday morning—"Hearing by proxy." (Luke 14:18). In the evening the second lecture of the course on "Divine Revelations." The question box to be circulated for objections, and questions to be answered. Preaching at the same church on Thursday evening. All invited.

The Michigan State Press Association held its annual meeting in the Senate chamber at Lansing last Wednesday. The attendance was not large but the meeting was profitable, not so much for what was accomplished, as for laying out work to be accomplished in future. The next meeting will probably be held in Detroit. Murat Halstead of the Cincinnati Commercial will be invited to deliver an address, and an effort will be made to have every Michigan editor present. An editorial excursion to Washington, Florida, or some other place of interest will be announced in due time. The following were elected officers of the Association for the ensuing year. President, Jas. E. Scripps, of Detroit News; Vice Presidents, Jas. W. Hine, of the LOWELL JOURNAL; Don Henderson, of the Allegan Journal; H. B. Rowland, of the Hillsdale Standard; Secretary, E. S. Hoskins, of the St. Louis Leader; Treasurer, E. F. Grabbill of the Greenville Independent.

Subscribers will oblige us by informing us at once if the JOURNAL does not reach them regularly. We desire and strive to have every copy reach its proper destination in time. In a few instances subscribers have complained that their JOURNALS are called for by other parties who do not always deliver them promptly, and sometimes not at all. If we hear any more such complaints we shall endeavor to make it interesting for the culpable parties.

Helen Coleman's Widow Bedott comedy played to a rather light vaudeville audience here. Helen is not the charming young widow history speaks of as having been met on the train. Far from it. Her impersonation of Mrs. Bedott may be true to the perfect "ideal," but we doubt it. Helen shames herself up too much. She slops over. She makes ugly faces when she ought to appear winsome and captivating. We felt sorry for Elder Sniffles. He was an excellent character and it must have been terribly straining on his nerves to feign such a degree of happiness. The other characters were passably good. With a more desirable widow to take the lead the company would be a very good one. But Helen Coleman makes a poor widow. As "Jack, the Giant killer," she might perhaps score a big success.

While B. R. Wheeler was at the depot Thursday night, loading his Dakota car with goods, the freight train came in from the west. Wheeler's team started to run and, being in a tight spot, unfortunately brought the wagon tongue in collision with the engine. In less time than it takes to tell the story the horses were thrown into a heap and so badly mangled that they had to be shot. It was a hard blow to Mr. Wheeler who could ill afford to sustain such a loss, but on the following day several good Samaritans went around with a subscription paper and raised $170 in cash for him. Other contributions since make the amount over $300. Mr. Wheeler desires to express his gratitude to his friends, one and all for their prompt and generous assistance. And we know he felt what he said.

Judge Freeman broke into Pat Kelly's saloon in this village Sunday evening and extracted from the till $98 in cash. Pat discovered his loss a little later and sent for Officers Coates and Edie. Pat in a suspicion that the Judge was the guilty one, and Edie and Coates hunted up the Judge, took him over to Kelly's and searched him. The filthy lucre was not found on the person of the Judge. The officers then proceeded to the house of Mr. Bills where the Judge has been living, and in one of the Judge's leisure coats found the money. It was easily identified, there being several clipped coins in the fund which Kelly described with such minute exactness as to leave no doubt concerning the gone "boodle." Judge Freeman stoutly maintained his innocence, and the village court stoutly confirmed his person until Monday morning, when he confessed the theft. He was escorted to the office of Justice Hunter, pleaded guilty, refused to seek bail, and was committed to the county jail. Deputy Sheriff Edie being his guide to that secure retreat. Judge Freeman is a young man about 18 years old. He has started out in a career of crime and where he will bring up the future will show. He is now in jail to await the action of the circuit court. It is suspected that this is not his first offense. Not long ago Rosbach's saloon was broken into by somebody, by whom it is not definitely known. An attempt was also recently made to break into Hine & Hine's hardware store by some unknown person. It may be that the offender will not have a chance to repeat the attempt. It is a sad thing to see a young man enter upon such a course, which if pursued must lead directly to the penitentiary. Let all boys take due warning, for if reports are true there are others in Lowell who need watching—and who are being watched.

Almost a Tragedy.

He is a member of Miss Cara Louise Peck's large class in elocution here and his enthusiasm in the study runs high. Miss Peck has repeatedly urged the importance of home practice—the more the better—and as she is recognized authority on the subject, the members of her class have been doing what they could to follow out her instructions. So the other night, when all without was still, he (whom we shall dub Cassius, for present use,) betook himself to his room—block and began to "throw himself" on the expulsive sound of O. It sounded from the street as though somebody was having a tooth pulled or an ear amputated, but as this was in a locality where no dentists or doctors are wont to dwell, one of the anxious hearers below suggested that it might be a case of murder. The expulsive sound of O, imperfectly expulsed, does make one feel that way. Then came the said sound of O, and the party below said he must be dying. Up stairs they went with cautious tread, arriving at the door to the apartment just as Cassius had struck an attitude dramatic and was about to throw a few chunks of tragedy around the room. They stood trembling at the door. Cassius opened up—

"Hence, horrible shadow!
Unreal mockery, hence!"

"He's got 'em, by George!" said the one whose ear was at the key hole.

"Be thou a spirit of health or goblin damned:
Bring with thee airs from Heaven or blasts from hell!"

"Got 'em bad, too," said another, "lets go in and put him to bed if we can."

"A horse! A horse! my Kingdom for a horse!" yelled Cassius.

"You don't catch me in there," said No. 3.

"Back, back, I say!" hoarsely whispered Cassius, taking up the aspirate exercise.

"Gosh, boys, that's awful!" remarked the one at the key hole. "We mustn't let him go on in that way. He'll have a fit and break his neck or tumble on to the stove or something." Just then Cassius turned over a few leaves and resumed:

"O woman! lovely woman! nature made thee
To temper man; we had been brutes without you,
Angels are painted fair to look like you:
There's in you all that we believe of Heaven."
"Gone daft on his best girl, sure as guns," whispered he at the key hole.

"Bah!" exclaimed Cassius to himself, and turned over a few more leaves.

"Aha—here I have it." But just then the party outside opened the door and rushed in. Cassius, not to be frowned down, went into the dramatic action business right and left. He passed rapidly from the effusive to the explosive and on to the explosive.

"What do I see? Friends be gone!
Ye wretches vile, whose breaths
Do smell of Kutcher's beer, begone!
Go thou to hence thou knick!
I am my father's ghost,
And up'll rise for a light
On this very minute, GUT!"

By this time Cassius had thrown 13 books, two chairs, two paper weights and one inkstand at the intruders. They went down stairs as though rattled from a coal scuttle and the orator turned to the "Charge of the Light Brigade" and rehearsed it all through without missing a note. Miss Peck's entertainment will be held at Music Hall, on Wednesday evening, March 29. Admission 35 cents. Don't fail to hear her.

Teacher's Institute.

The State Teacher's Institute for Kent county will be held in Lowell, commencing at 2 o'clock p. m. on Monday, April 3, and closing on Friday, April 7. Prof. W. E. Ransom, principal of the Lowell Union School, has been designated as the local committee, to whom teachers may apply for further particulars. In announcing the above the State Supt. of Public Instruction adds: It is desired to make the Institutes of this series of the greatest practical benefit to Teachers. For this purpose some of the most experienced and successful instructors have been engaged to conduct the various exercises. With revised outlines of institute work as a guide, and with the experience of the past to aid us, it is believed the present series will be of unusual value to all.
