EDITORIAL TALK.

The Lowell Postoffice.

Mrs. Emma B. Hine has been temporarily appointed postmistress of Lowell to succeed Jas. W. Hine, P. M., (resigned) who, being a candidate for the office of state senator, is required by law to resign his office as postmaster prior to election day. The new appointment is only temporary and was recommended and made with that distinct understanding. It was and is the desire of the several aspirants for the office that the matter of permanent successorship should be deferred until after election, when ample time will be given to circulate petitions, giving each a fair show. This, all will agree, is perfectly fair to all concerned. If Mr. Hine is elected Mrs. H. will at once tender her resignation to take effect as soon as her successor can be appointed and qualified. This temporary appointment enables Mr. H. to comply with the requirements of the law, in letter and in spirit, which he could not do if the matter of permanent successorship were taken up before election and, as would very likely be the case, not decided until after election. We make this plain statement of the case because certain opposition papers and a few opposition talkers are trying to make it appear that we are, as one paper says, "going to retain the post-office in the family and be senator, too." We are of course thankful for their expressed confidence in our election, but if elected the post-office will not be "retained in the family." Will they be honest enough to correct their misstatements?

—The Hon. Chas. May spoke for the fusion ticket at Grand Rapids a few nights ago. In his speech he (by the way he is a democrat) referred to the greenbackers as "our allies," saying that there were only two political parties in this country—the Republican and Democratic. This made some greenbackers, who were present, come to their feet and ask Gen. Innes, the chairman, to get up and say something. The General failed to respond, but Mr. May was informed by a few greenbackers that they were not quite yet swallowed by the Democratic party. Evidently Mr. May had not properly sized his crowd.

—Hon. Lemuel Clute, of Ionia, a lifelong democrat until a few weeks ago, is heartily supporting the Republican ticket and making speeches in his county against fusion. Mr. Clute says it is better to keep the Republican party in power than to make a change and put in a party with no principles and no motive except to secure the spoils of office.

—The editor of the Agricultural World went to the Republican county committee and asked that committee for money to support the Republican ticket. The committee didn't see it in that light and the World sold out to the fusionists. And the fusionists have found out that it was a mighty poor investment.

—Wonder if Mr. Murray has got back the ten dollars his hired man of the Agricultural World offered the editor of the Saturday Review, if he, the latter, would publish the lie Mr. Murray's hired man had written? If not he must be about ten dollars out.

—L. M. Sellers, the Republican nominee for representative in the third district, ought to receive a good deal more than his party vote. He has done a vast amount of hard work for the good of the people in his district.

—Gov. Jerome is making friends everywhere. People have found out that he is infinitely superior to Bogole as a man, and stands on a platform that they endorse.

—The editor of the Agricultural World has been looking for a hiding place for a few days. Give him a gimlet and let him bore a hole that he can crawl into and pull in after him.

—E. R. Johnson, the Republican nominee for representative of this district, is a first-class man in every respect. His record is without a blemish and the Republicans may well be proud of their candidate.

—Congressman Horr is one of the most effective stump speakers in the west. His speech at Grand Rapids Friday night was a rouser.

—Hon. Thos. B. Reed, of Maine, one of the finest political orators of the east, will speak for the Republicans at Luce's Hall, Grand Rapids, on Friday evening of this week.

—Go to your town clerk in person and leave your name for registration. Do this now. After Nov. 4 it will be too late.

—The Agricultural World man is an object of pity. He ought to be sent back to the asylum until he stops raving.

—Protection is a shield to American industry. Free trade is the lance that would shatter the shield.

—The Republican party has taken every advance step that has been taken and will continue to do so.

—All voters must re-register on or before Nov. 4, or they cannot vote Nov. 7.

—See that every voter in your school district is registered.

—Republican prohibitionists should not throw away their votes this fall.

—Vote for Wm. O. Webster for Congress.

—Michigan will follow Maine.

JOURNAL NOTINGS.

Two or three political opponents are industriously circulating the report that the editor of this paper "proposes to keep the post office in the family and be senator, too." He proposes to be senator if he gets votes enough but he doesn't propose to keep the post-office in the family if elected, and any man who says he does asserts that which is false.

As the Semi-Annual Meeting of the Ionia District Association of the W. F. M. Society commences in the M. E. Church Lowell Oct. 31st the committee on entertainment—Mrs. C. T. Moore and Mrs. J. C. Hare, invite all ladies, who can and are willing to entertain guests to notify them. A large delegation is expected and assistance will be gratefully received. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested, to participate in all the sessions.

Saturday's edition of the Grand Rapids Eagle was an exhibition of spunk and enterprise creditable not only to the publishers but to that spunky and enterprising city. It showed up the great industries of Grand Rapids, filling a seven-column quarto sheet with instructive and entertaining matter touching the manufacturing and commercial interests of that model city. Grand Rapids against the world—aye including Canada.

The M. E. Social will be entertained at Mrs. L. C. Hildreth's on Friday evening. Give us a call, and encourage the new officers which were elected Oct. 13, 1882.

Refreshment Committee: Mrs. Elias Sayles, Mrs. Sandall, Miss Lillian Polhemus, Kattie Carr, Miss Flora Hildreth, Nettie Sayles.

Some days since an eleven-year old boy applied to one of our citizens for shelter over night, claiming that his father died a few years ago and that his mother had since married and died, thus leaving him to the tender mercy of a step-father. The citizen took him in and later found a home for him with a farmer living near here. He was questioned by several persons, and always told the same story. The gentleman wrote to Sheridan where the boy said he came from and Saturday a lady came to Lowell claiming to be his own mother and that he had left home without cause, as he had always been treated with the utmost kindness. She was directed to the farmer and got her son. If this youngster keeps on improving in lying for the next eleven years as he has in the past eleven, he will stand some show of rivaling the editor of the Agricultural World.

Specimen Villainy.

From the G. R. Eagle.

The editor of the Agricultural World evidently has taken the contract of electing Lyman Murray, fusion nominee, State Senator, if the most vigorous work on his part, whether honorable or decent, or not, will do it. Some time ago he made a most false and malignant attack on the position of Mr. J. W. Hine, the Republican nominee, on the subject of immigration, and won, as he deserved, the disapprobation of even the members of the party he was trying to serve, and the scorn of all honest, fair men; but this didn't prevent the fusion candidate for senator from taking great pains to circulate and give away copies of that paper.

Now this same Carroll has hit upon another scheme equally disingenuous, and false in the spirit in which he presents it. A week ago he announced that Mr. Hine, the Republican candidate, was the tool of the liquor dealers, their pledged servant, if elected, hoping thereby to make capital against him among the temperance people in the agricultural regions. He well knew as does every one, that Mr. Hine stands squarely on the platform of the party which nominated him, so far as any official action or purpose may be concerned, no matter what his private views might be, and that he is not pledged to the measures or schemes of any faction or set of men. The Eagle asserts that the World man knew this well, and proves it by his subsequent action, for he went to the editor of the Saturday Review, the recognized organ of the liquor dealers and offered that paper $10 to publish the following as an editorial which he had prepared, as the editor of the Review positively states:

"The Review need not waste space in endorsing J. W. Hine for State Senator because there is probably not a liquor dealer in the county who will not heartily support the gentleman. He is well known to be on our side of the main question, and both the wholesale and retail associations in this city have endorsed him. Murray is a Prohibitionist and must be beaten."

Now he offered $10 to have these few lines published, not because he wanted them in the Review especially, but because he wanted to copy and credit them and thus array the temperance element among the few farmers who read his villainous political lies, against Mr. Hine, at the same time.

Right here it may be premised that this Carroll of the Review is not a wealthy man and has no $10 to spare, of his own for such purposes. It was intended to help Lyman Murray and was one else.

But it was not published. The Review scooped a rat in the meal bag, and would not stoop to such villainous plans, as it is well known that Mr. Hine has neither pledged himself to the temperance nor the liquor element, and has not been endorsed by either. He stands on his record as a good, intelligent, Republican citizen, and on the platform of the party which nominated him and expects the votes of men in sympathy with good government, no matter what their personal opinions or other views on the liquor or other questions. And all such villainy as the World and its backers are concocting will be emphatically rebuked Nov. 7 by good men of all shades of opinion.

The above article from the Grand Rapids Eagle, brands Mr. Murray's hired man of the Agricultural World as a scoundrel of the lowest order. And Mr. Murray endorses his rascality. The situation must be desperate indeed, when a candidate attempts to bribe a paper to lie about his opponent. The "shrewdness" of such an act is buried in its disgrace. We will be fair with Mr. Murray. We will publish, in full and free of charge, any explanation he may see fit to make. We have offered to do this before, but have not heard from him. This is a standing offer. If he doesn't desire to go into the "details," it would perhaps interest the public to know if he has got back the $10 with which his hired man attempted to bribe the Review. The JOURNAL will be pleased to publish his explanation.

Mr. Murray and his hired man know that we stand squarely upon the Michigan Republican platform and any effort of theirs to falsify our position will avail them nothing.

Died.
(Republished from the Jonesville Independent.)
At her mother's residence in this village, on Sunday, Oct. 8, in her thirty-seventh year, Mary Agnes Sinclair, wife of H. M. Newton, of East Saginaw, Mich. Mrs. Newton was born in Jonesville, and spent all her early years here. Though most of her life for the last fourteen years has been passed elsewhere her strong attachment to her native place never lessened. As a teacher she labored one year in Lowell, four years in Owosso and four years in East Saginaw. These were years of constantly increasing success and widening influence. In 1877 she was married to Henry M. Newton, of East Saginaw, and centered in her new home that devotion, all that bright cheerfulness which makes home heavenly. A rare capacity for friendship and a tenacious, silent power of loving, endeared her to all who knew her daily life, but most of all to those who lived within the inner circle of her affections. The death of her little daughter anchored her faith and her hopes in Heaven, and a merciful unconsciousness spared her the pain of parting with her infant son and her devoted husband. Seven weeks of painful illness closed her life here, and the ministrations of loving hands followed her as far as is permitted to mortal effort.

"Believing this, I joy, although I lie in dust, I joy, that I ask or choose, but simply that I must."
