EDITORIAL COMMENT.

-Reviving an old scandal concerning Mr. Blaine thirty years ago, and which was investigated by prominent democrats and pronounced false and without foundation, is likely to cause some of the scandal venders trouble, among whom is the editor of the Indianapolis Sentinel, who was immediately sued for libel as soon as Mr. Blaine knew he had published the villianous stuff. Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, and other prominent democrats investigated the lying charges years ago and found them false and without a shadow of truth in them. It is too silly for Mr. Blame's enemies to attempt to make political capital out of an old lie so long ago exploded. If they desire to draw the public eye away from Mr. Cleveland's unsavory record let them withdraw Mr. Cleveland from the field. They will find no "offset" in Blaine's record to divert attention from their candidate's private history.

-Ben Butler wants to get enough electoral votes to throw the election into the House of Representatives, where he can hold the balance of power. Ben wouldn't be elected, of course, but he thinks he could elect Cleveland, perhaps, and thus place democracy under such obligations to him as to compel that party to nominate him for the presidency four years hence. Cleveland declares for one term only in his letter of acceptance and that clears the way for the cockeyed son in 1888. Doesn't this seem to be about the size of it?

-The democratic party of Michigan is a great big coward. With a vote four times greater than that of the greenback party in this state it meekly folded its hands and permitted the greenbackers to name the conditions and dictate the terms of fusion in every particular. Such deference could come from that source only through fear. The democrats fairly trembled lest the greenbackers should fullfil their promises to repudiate fusion.

-The Union Prohibition Party state convention meets at Lansing to-day to nominate a state ticket. The democratic party of Michigan, although strenuously opposed to "sumptuary legislation," has a warm spot in its heart for this prohibition party. The democrats take very kindly to any scheme calculated to aid the democratic ticket.

-Gov. Cleveland is severely criticised for omitting to say anything about the tariff question in his letter of acceptance. Now we propose to come to Mr. Cleveland's defense in this instance. He showed good sense in steering clear of the democratic tariff plank-with its slivers running both ways.

-The New York Sun says: "Let Frover Cleveland withdraw and let Allen G. Thurman be nominated in his place." This, coming from the leading Democratic paper of the country, must make Cleveland's 19 inch collar feel like wilt-

-After many weeks of intense suffering with political cholera morbus the fusonists of Michigan fixed up a dose for themselves last Wednesday that ought to keep them in a comatose condition for at least the next two years.

-F. W. Cook of Muskedon for Attorney General and Jno. Dennis of Barry for Land Commissioner, on the fusion state ticket! Well, well,-No. 5 hats must be all they had left when they trotted those chaps out.

-Ex-senator Thomas F. Grady of New York has resigned as a member of the democratic state committee and repudiates Cleveland like a little man. Ma-

-Gov. Cleveland was in the far off depthy woods when his letter of acceptance was made public. We don't blame him. He will probably stay there until the affair blows over.

-Wilbur F. Storey, proprietor of the Chicago Times, is a mental wreck. There is a certain head-line editor of that paper who must certainly be a moral wreck.

-The crack of Ben Butler's whip made the anti-fusion greenbackers toe the mark and pronounce fusion "licking good." Hey, Fuller? Hey, Hampton?

-Begole says he will explain all about those free passes. His letters to the railroad officials asking for free passes explain more than enough already.

are anything to beat the Republicans, it seems. They will probably deny it, though, after election. -Ben Butler to the anti-fusionist:-Chloroform your conscience, if you

The prohibition party of the third legislative district of this county held a convention at Rockford last Saturday and nominated Rev. G. W. Tuthill of that place as their candidate for representative. The Republicans of that dis trict will probably renominate Representative Sellers, who voted in favor of submission of the prohibitory amendment, just as Mr. Tuthill would have done had he been a member of the last Legislature instead of Sellers. The action of the political prohibitionists in the third district shows that they are a good deal more zealous than wise.

The GrandRapids Post has been forced by a relentless mortgage to come out ation with a wry face and manifest discomfort. That his pen and not his heart will be engaged in the Union party cause is clearly shown in the follow-County man. The Kent delegation will ing extract from his editorial announcing

"For the past eight months The Post has, without any reserve capital, and with a large and comparatively unproductive subscription list, contended against not only hard times but against the combined opposition of the Prohibi-tion party and the liquor element. In spite of all odds it could have breasted the current but for a troublesome mortgage which, owing to the general stringency and the impossibility of getting money on ordinary security, could be refunded. This mortgage the Union party men have now taken possession of which gives them the control of the paper. I have offered to abandon all financial interest in The Post rather than continue in a position where my person al views cannot be at present fully resented, but after a full and frank d cussion of the questions involved it seems to be the unanimous desire of charge, and while I undertake the task with regret, I shall give them earnest and honest work, nor stop at any half way house. The Post will endeavor to oice the doctrines of the Union party.

Mr. Hallack, who has so strenuously and conscientiously opposed the new party movement, will probably find that talking against his own personal convictions will be a "demnition grind" such as he will be glad to escape from. We cannot believe he will remain in that

Editor Hallack accepts the situ- and patriot and every young man desiring to be well informed, since the principles and policies and measures of that party have really been the saving and inspiring spirit of the Nation's progress, and its very life-blood. Immediately after the Republicans came to power in the nation, a rebellion evils and perils, plunge into a deeper was started among their opponents; and | gulf by any seeming indifference as to the saving of the union, the crushing of the rebellion, the abolition of slavery, the reconstruction and all the beneficent acts and measures to which our Nation owes its prosperity to-day, have been the work of the Republican party. against persistent Democratic opposition, all the way through. The history of this party, therefore, should be in the hands of every young person to be read and thoroughly studied.

Such a work has been written and compiled by Mr. Frank A. Flower, of Madison, Wis., who has devoted several years to its preparation, and the book is issued from the press of the Union Publishing Company of Springfield, Ill. It is a substantial, well printed volume of about 640 pages in plain binding, and contains portraits of Alvin E. Bovay, (a pioneer Republican of Ripon, Wis.) Horace Greely, John C. Fremont, and the republican presidents (except Johnson) from Lincoln to Arthur, also of Blaine and Logan, with several other appropriate pictorial illustrations.

The author frankly says in his prefatory remarks that his history is partisan as it was designed to be. But devotion to Republicanism does not imply untruthfulness, and "the book contains nothing not known or believed to be true." It is essentially historical. It begins with tracing the causes, and the growth of the principles of freedom and equality, which led up to the organization of the Republican party. It gives sketches of the Republican movements in the several States in 1854, when the party was named; of all the National Conventions of party; its platforms and its campaigns, including the convention at Chicago this year, with letters of Logan; accounts of the several Republican Administrations; also of the prominent achievements, questions and political issues and policies with which the partp is identified, and statistical and other matters of interest. This work is only sold by subscription, at the reasonable price of $2. The Union Book Company of this city are State agents for Michigan.

The New York Independent, the great religious paper which some time ago

dent purists in support of Cleveland, has

Gaines-Charles Anderson, C. H. Fin. investigated the character and record of the man it blindly championed and makes haste to spew him out. In other words the Independent has abandoned the Independents and in a double leaded editorial demands the withdrawal of Cleveland on account of the Buffalo scandal as follows: "The crisis and our duty: we published last week in our correspondence columns a communication from Dr. Kinsley Twining, one of our editorial staff giving the result of his investigation in regard to the Cleveland scandal. The grave and serious part of this scandal which he declares that he found to be true is that which imputes personal impurity to Mr. Cleveland in a specific instance that has come to the knowledge of the public. We cannot, in view of all the facts, resist the conclusion that this part of the to determine our course. This damaging charge came upon us wholly unexpected and with the sudden, stunning force of a thunderbolt out of a clear sky. None were more surprised and overwhelmed by it than the governor's friends and Intimates among the Independents of Buffalo, and it was a case that called for thorough and fearless investigation. That we felt this in every fibre, and that we intended to impress this feeling on our readers, and to hold ourselves absolutely free to act as circumstances required, is the simple truth, and our silence as to Cleveland's nomination from that day was intended. We utterly refuse to accept the two standards of character. We repudiate with contempt the doctrine that a public man's private life is not to be inquired into. Dr. Twining's investigation went on a recognition of this principle. On this subject, as it now stands, we will not be slow to give advice. The conditions have whotly changed since the independent conference. Then we were without one word in derrogation of his

We hence desire to have all our readers columns of the Independent favorable to fhe election of Gov. Cleveland was said prior to the recent sickening disclosures in regard to his private character which have justly shocked the moral ple. The attempt now to force such a candidate upon the people would, in our opinion, disgrace the party which nominated him and the whole nation if he should be elected. We have had no hand or voice in helping on this matter. and we will not advise the readers of the Independent to smother their conscience and disgrace themselves by engaging directly or indirectly in any such movement. We are now in serious difficulty as a nation in regard to the unchecked progress of Mormonism, and shall we now, in the face of threatening the private character of one who has been nominated to the highest office in the gift of the people? We say No, a thousand times No! Gov. Cleveland should positively decline to be a candidate and withdraw immediately from the canvass, and be compelled to do so if it is necessary. An Ancient Pledge In the blank leaf of an old Irish Bible. which has been transmitted from sire to son through many generations, and appears as the property of Robert Bolton, R. D. and preacher of God's word at Broughton, Northamptonshire, is in scribed with the following pledge: "From this daye forwarde to the ende of my life; I will never pledge or drink a whole carouse in a glass, cup, or bowle, or other drinking instrument, whosoever it be, from whomsoever it be, from whomsoever it may come, except the necessity doe require it; and to my own most gracious Kinge, nor any the greatest monarch or tyrant upon earth; nor the world, shall ever enforce me. Stimulants.

As long as the American people consume such quantities of stimulating and highly seasoned food as they do, they will want to imbibe stimulating drinks. Stimulating food and stimulating drinks go necessarily together. The one is the concomitant of the other. Many a man who seasons his dinner liberally with the contents of the castor, excites in his system a thirst for something stronger than cold water. Not that cold water would not be the best thing with which to extinguish the fire he has kindled within the vital domain by the use of such hot, stimulating condiments; but that is too insipid. Having partaken of such highly seasoned food he craves for a drink equally stimulating.

Now, it is not true that everyone who eats inordinately and of stimulating and highly-seasoned food is a drunkard, but I hold that such a one, by his manner of living, supplies a very important condition for becoming a drunkard. That he does not become one is, perhaps, because of a hig moral principle, acting in conjunction with a great will-power to restrain his appetite for diffusable stimulants; for we hold that, in such a case, this appetite, to a greater or less extent, exists. The converse of this proposition, however, is true; that as a general thing men who are fond of stimulating drinks are also fond of stimulating and highly seasoned food On the other hand it was the opinion of Liebig, founded upon observation. that persons who live mostly upon farinaceous and amylaceous food cannot take wine or alcoholic drinks seem to be repugnant to such. It is only those who daily diet consists largely of animal food who can retain spirituous liquors. Savage nations living in tropical regions, the consequences of which was the loss where they have subsisted mostly upon fruits and vegetables, the spontaneous combustion of mother earth have only on coming into contact with the red man and his fire-water, fallen victims to intemperance like the North American Indian, who, living by the chase, has subsisted almost wholly upon animal

Wise Words on the Liquor Traffic.

The New York Tribune well denominates the question of dealing with the traffic in intoxicating liquor "the quetion of the age," and says:

It paralyzes energies in every direction. It neutralizes educational agencies. It silences the voice religion. It baffles penal reform. It obstructs political reform.

And we commed to the thoughtfi attention of our readers the following paragraph, which it is somewhat strange to find in a political newspaper:

There is needed something of that saered fire which kindled into inextinguishable heat the zeal of the Abolition ists, and which compelled the abandonment of human slavery, to rouse the national indignation and abhorrence against this very much Sreater evil. Nothing short of this, it is to be feared, will impel time-serving politicians to approach in a spirit of earnestness a subject which is distasteful to them mainly because they think they cannot afford to do without the help and support of the class who derive from the degradation of the foolish and ignorant the means whereby they continue to rule and plunder those whose sagacity is not proof agasnst their snares.

The resolutions adopted by the Grand Rapids W. C. T. Unions, which were published in last week's Journal, were also adopted by the Lowell W. C. T. U. at their meeting Aug. 8th, 1884. A notice thereof escaped the attention of the compositors, and therefore failed to appear last week, as was requested by the

Dr. Bowditch, formerly Chairman of the Massachusetts Board of health, and a physician of worldwide reputation, gave important testimony at a legislative hearing, March 10. He said that though formerly he was of the contrary opinion, he now thinks that to encourbeer, with the intention of thereby lessening intemperance, is a delusion and a humbug. As he is not a prohibitionist this is unprejudiced testimony. He also said, therein agreeing with Willard Parker and Dr. Richardson, that tobacco is nearly as dangerous and deadly. He thinks that a man with a "to- ar and his family joined us. bacco heart" is in health nearly as badly off as a drunkard.

The Ionia Band entered for the 1st prize in 1st class; the Stanton Band for the 1st in the 2d class; the Rockford for the 1st in 3d class. The award to Ionia was $100, to Stanton $75, to Rockford $60. The cornet and baritone contests were as follows: W. Bryant of Flint and P. Jersey of Saginaw each scored 202 marks out of a possible 240, in cornet playing. The $60 prize was equally divided between them. In amateur cornet, A. Amsden of Stanton, scored 166, Hugh Schmucker of Ionia 144. $30 prize to Amsden. In Baritone contest Prof. Hanna of Saginaw 225. Frank Holden of Grand Rapids 214. $60 to Prof. H.

The Rockford Band was greatly admired, and the six ladies in the band playing equally as well as the gentlemen.

According to previous arrangements seven of us took the five o'clock train at Lowell for Whitehall, arriving there about eight. At Muskegon the number was unexpectedly increased by three more whom we had not seen for twenty age the use of light wines and lager years. At the Big Rapids junction another brother and sister boarded the train, increasing our number to to twelve. As we dismounted at Whitehall our brother and his family gave us a hearty welcome, and led the way to their beautiful residence but a short distance from the depot. The next day another broth-

Whitehall we found to be a town of near two and a half thousand inhabitants, very pleasantly situated at the head of White Lake, on the east side; is Montague, a town of about the same

The lumbering interest predominates, and for miles around the head of the lake tall smoke stacks indicate the place where busy hands are crowding things below; while all around are acres of high lumber piles; and in the booms are large quantities of logs awaiting their turn to be transformed into lumber.

Those little tugs flitting here and there keep the waters in perpetual motion, while the broad white wings of sailing craft add their charms to the scene. The schoolhouse we found to be a yery substantial building, where seven teachers find constant employment during the basket factory and other places of in-The next morning it was ho! for the picnic grounds. The ferry boat, Cayu-ga, owned by the Cowell brothers, and named from the lake of that name in York state, where it was built, is run by lapt. Knudson, and makes four or five trips daily from the towns at the head of the lake to the picnic grounds at the mouth stopping at intermediate points. With baskets well filled we repair to the dock and board the "lighter," a flat bottomed boat, roofed over and fitted up with seats for passengers. People kept coming on until we had nearly one hundred and fifty on board. Soon the ferry steamed alongside, well filled also, made fast to our boat, and we all move down the lake together. It takes three query the lake together. It takes three quar-ters of an hour to make the six miles, we tie up at the pier on the east side of the picnic grounds. The grounds con-sist of a strip of thickly timbered land about fifty rods wide, lying between White Lake and Lake Michigan, owned by the Cawell brothers, and containing by the Cowell brothers, and containing about seventy-five acres. It has been but a very few years since they com-menced resorting here for pleasure, and now there is scarcely a day during the warm season of the year, but there are parties resorting here to enjoy the cool breezes from the lake and bathe in its clear waters. Quite a number of cottages have been put up here among the small thrifty timber, and more are in process of construction. A large building for the accommodation of dancers has been erected in a very pleasant place near White Lake. We repaired to our brother's cottage, on the bluff facing the big lake, which was to be our home for the anext two days. Hammorks were brought next two days. Hammocks were brought out and stretched from tree to tree; out and stretched from tree to tree; lounges under the porch, and that fam ity rocking chair, too. Oh! what a lovely place to enjoy ourselves. After dinner had been disposed of, which was served in the shade of the timber, we repaired to the lake. The beach was lined with people, and we learned that the company that came down with us was a sabbath school picnic party. No long talks or set speeches had they been compelled to listen to, but here they were, teachers and scholars, old and young, male and female wading and splashing around in the enjoying them-splashing around in the enjoying them-selves like so many young ducks. Sen-sible people, happy children. Having come prepared, our party also joined in and enjoyed it immensely.

Lake Michigan is a great lake for fish, and large quantities are taken by the fishermen who live just across the channel, so after bathing to our satisfaction we must try our hand at fishing. Being accompanied by one who knew the fishing grounds and understood it, we strain our muscle for two long hours in the hot sun, then pull for shore with the conviction that Lake Michigan is good for fish and none the worse for our angling experience, as we had not even had a nibble. Before breakfast the next morning we tried our luck at the fishing shanties, and found that they bit much better at a quarter than at our hooks. Some nice large fish attracted our attention and we looked at them longingly, but as they gave us none of them, we enquired what they were and were told they were "Sheepheads." Having called for white fish, and not wishing to expose our ignorance, we enquired pri-vately what "Sheepheads" were, when we were told that they were not fit to eat but were used for manure. Concluded that white fish were good enough for our manufactory, and we would let "Sheephcads" alone.

There are sand hills not more than a S. Matice threshed 4,100 bushels of hundred rods distant, and we really thought we were little boys and girls again as we played around in the sand barefooted, or waded in the shallow ponds among the hills. If you want a little more exercise take a race over the drift wood on the beach. A half mile will satisfy most anyone. Uncle Sam's light house with its $6,000 revolving light is worth looking at to those not accustomed to them. Many more attractions can be found by the visitor at White Lake: but the quiet retreat is perhaps the most enjoyable to the overburdened mind. And I would say to anyone wishing rest and relaxation, with just enough of variety to keep from being lonesome, spend a week or two on the beach at White Lake. C. M. S. Grattan, Aug. 23.

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

Of a Massachusetts Engineer—Timery warning or Mr. John Spencer, Baggagemaster of B. & A. R. R.

Sleep after fatigue and health after disease, are two of the sweetest experiences known to man. Fourieen years is a long time in which to suffer, yet Mr. Peter Lawler, of Dalton, Mass. had led a miserable life for that period through the presence of stone in the bladder. That he sought in all directions for a cure is almost a superfluous statement. He did obtain temporary relief, but nothing more. Last January he coiled on Dr. David Dennedy, of Rondout, N. Y. who said, after examination: "Mr. Lawler, you have stone in the bladder. We will first try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy before risking an operation." A few days later the following letter passed through the Rondout post-office.

Dear Dr. Kennedy: The day after I came home I passed two gravel stones, and am doing nicely now.

Dr. Kennedy now has the stones, at his office, and they are sufficiently formidable to justify the claim that Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the leading specific for stone in the bladder. In his Dalton, Mass, June 9, 1884.

letter Mr. Lawler mentions the Favorite Remedy also cured him of rheumatism. The subjoined certificate tells its own story:
