LOWELL JOURNAL
BY JAS. W. HINE.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The JOURNAL is glad to see its esteemed contemporary, the Independent, come out in favor of law and order. The Independent does this to the extent of endorsing the JOURNAL'S position and republishing, with its cordial approval, our article of last week on this subject. We repeat, we are glad to see the Independent independent enough to unite with the JOURNAL in demanding a more rigid enforcement of the laws and a more conscientious and faithful observance of the rules of decency. We had been told that the Independent was to be an opposition paper—that it was to oppose the JOURNAL—in other words, that it was to be the medium through which the enemies of the JOURNAL could speak and strike from the shoulder. It seems we have been misinformed. We say so because up to the present time the Independent has not opposed us nor sought to restrain us in our efforts to build up the material or advance the moral welfare of this community. For more than twenty years the JOURNAL has stood up for the church, the school and for law and order. It has always been found advocating the adoption of such measures as would aid in the moral, intellectual and material growth of our people and place. It gives us pleasure, therefore, to find the Independent, instead of placing itself in opposition to the JOURNAL, "unawed by influence and unbribed by gain" come boldly over to our side at last and place itself squarely in favor of law and order, endorsing the JOURNAL'S views and recommendations. It may cost the Independent some sacrifice to do this, as it has the JOURNAL, but the consciousness of right doing more than compensates all loss in dollars and cents. We can overlook the fact that the Independent has, editorially, been somewhat reticent in expressing its views on these and other important questions, because of its youth and its inexperience in its present field of labor. But when it republishes the JOURNAL'S remarks on law and order and adds thereto its word of approval we can no longer doubt its position. It's mission after all, is not to oppose the JOURNAL in its good work in behalf of this community and its people. Should its course be different from that anticipated or desired by some of its supporters who were instrumental in bringing it here, bear in mind, brother Jackson, that so long as we "dare to do right" the ill will of a few individuals is nothing to us. Ours is a higher mission than some people seem to think.

Theodore Roosevelt, the brilliant young statesman from New York who has been doing the cow-boy act in the wild west for a year or more, is out with an article instructing the uninitiated how to shoot deer after sundown. His plan is to have the deer get up on high ground so that the sky will be the background. You can then see the deer. Mr. Roosevelt does not tell us just how to put the deer up there but we suppose he hires a boy to lead the animal up with a halter. Or, perhaps the boy uses a curb bit and rides the deer to the summit of the hill and then hitches the antlered beast to a tree. This done we presume Mr. Roosevelt crawls along up the hill on his hands and knees. We don't know why he should crawl on his hands and knees unless it would be unprofessional not to do so. If the deer remains passively tethered the bold huntsman can get up pretty close to him before he shoots. After shooting three times Mr. Roosevelt says "the mighty antlered beast came rolling down the hill, the bullet having broken his back." We understand the injury proved fatal. Whether death was caused by the broken back or by rolling down the hill, history is silent. There is no evidence to show that the deer's back was broken before it rolled down the hill, but we do not wish to rob Mr. Roosevelt of any glory, therefore it will pass into profane history that this deer died, after sundown, from a wound in the back received from the contents of a gun discharged at the spinal column of the aforesaid deer, with malice aforethought, by Theodore Roosevelt, the cow-boy statesman.

MORAL: If plain John Smith had shot that deer, under the same circumstances, you'd never have seen an account of it in print.

It is alleged that Secretary Whitney is in training on the Presidential course and hopes to be able to pass all competitors at the next national democratic convention. The allegation comes from Washington and is quoted at par by the highest priced political observers in the Capital city. Secretary Whitney's boom will probably rise and fall before it is time to begin the next presidential canvass. Due regard for President Cleveland, however, should keep him passive, for had it not been for President Cleveland, Mr. Whitney would be an unknown quantity in national politics today.

JOURNAL JOTTINGS.

The wool is about all marketed. Wheat will soon be ready for the reaper.

Col. L. K. Bishop of Grand Rapids has purchased McDonald's interest in Moran and McDonald's livery stable.

Some talk of locating a steam laundry here.

Mr. Edmund Lee went to Lockport, N. Y. last week.

C. F. Fowler of Sheridan was in town over Sunday.

Miss Jessie Stone is visiting friends in Grand Rapids.

Charley Howe's new house will soon be ready for use.

The Lowell Flouring Mill is receiving a fresh coat of paint.

Some of the farmers expect to commence harvesting soon.

The remains of the late C. R. Mabley were buried at Pontiac.

Prof. Shuart intends to visit the Upper Peninsula this season.

Some pretty good horse flesh exhibited on Train's track last week.

E. A. Sunderlin and family spent the 4th and Sunday at Pewamo.

Friday's Grand Rapids Democrat appeared in red, white and blue.

Mr. Merriman, the express-man, is suffering with erysipelas in his face.

Murphy, the butcher, bought a calf six weeks old that weighed 188 lbs.

Messrs. Geo. Povillon, Ben West, and Geo. Giles spent the fourth in Chicago.

Mrs. I. E. Strong spent the 4th and Sunday with her mother near St. John.

The people of Clare have decided to bond themselves $5,000 for water-works.

J. W. Crothers of Cleveland, formerly in business here, was in Lowell last week.

A. A. Weeks intends to open a drug and grocery store at Grattan Center soon.

Hettie King has gone to Ann Arbor to consult Dr. Frothingham in regard to her eyes.

Miss Mary Owen and Miss Carrie Scott of Grand Rapids, celebrated the 4th in Lowell.

Frost the last of June injured wheat and corn in some portions of northern Michigan.

Miss Sate Bunce goes to Ionia this week to engage in dressmaking for a short time.

John Smith's general furnishing store at Ada was entered by burglars last week and a quantity of boots, fine shoes and socks taken.

Miss Nettie Stevens has gone to Kalamazoo, where she intends to spend the remainder of the summer with her aunt, Mrs. Goddard.

The editor and wife started Monday noon for Traverse City. Expected home Friday night.

The Lowell W. C. T. U. will meet at the Baptist church, Friday, July 10th, at 2:30 P. M.—standard time. Sec.

Marquette wants the branch prison, and Ishpening and Neegaunaw want it located half way between the two cities.

The McGee-Lee difficulty was settled by the former paying the latter $75. For selling liquor to a minor McGee paid $15.

Mr. Jefferson Jackson, publisher of the National Harness Review, Chicago, has been visiting his father, Mr. Wm. Jackson, of this village.

F. D. Adams is here from Dakota for a few days. He reports crops in that territory in fine condition and the outlook very encouraging.

The break in the dam by the Lowell Mills made it necessary to hang up the street sprinkler for a few days and the dust was very annoying.

Dr. O. R. Long of Ionia has resigned as a member of the board of pension examiners. He will have enough to do as superintendent of the new asylum at Ionia.

Mrs. P. F. Remington of Lawrence Kan. is visiting her Aunt Mrs. Runtelster. She is a daughter of Mrs. Church, who is also visiting friends and relatives in Lowell.

The president of the North Muskegon village board refuses to sign the stringent prohibitory ordinance recently passed by that board, and the whiskeyies are happy.

The Lowell base-ball team did well at Grand Rapids. Without practice they held the Grand Rapids club down much better than they expected. Score, G. R. 8; Lowell 6.

The pound social at the Rev. J. T. Husted's Wednesday evening was a very pleasant affair. About $35 worth of cash and its equivalent was left with the worthy pastor and his good wife.

All ladies desiring to join the Woman's Relief Corps will please meet at the G. A. R. Post rooms on Wed. evening, July 15, when the organization is to be completed. By order of committee.

Somebody broke into F. B. Hine's hardware store Sunday night and stole eight revolvers and several boxes of cartridges. Entrance was effected through a cellar window, then by the elevator into the store.

His friends really wish that editor Watters of the Grand Rapids Leader could get one of those plums. He wants one and it does seem as if President Cleveland might let him have just one little wind-fall wormy one.

The JOURNAL would like to see a business men's association organized in Lowell and some systematic course pursued to invite manufacturers and capital here. We suggest that a meeting be called soon to discuss the matter.

Regular meeting of Lowell Dist. Council occurs on Sat. July 11 at So. Boston Grange Hall. Programme: The relation of the American farmer to the American government Dairying, by the council; and the usual work by each grange.

The new city directory of Grand Rapids shows 19,500 different names—none duplicated—and the daily papers there claim the city now numbers fully 52,000 souls, or about 58,000 including its suburbs. Call it a round 50,000 for convenience.

The body of a woman named Eliza Sage was found near Allegan a few days ago, horribly mutilated. She was murdered and the find who committed the heinous deed ought to pay a more severe penalty than so-called "life imprisonment" imposes.

Walter Tompsett, of Cannonsburg, brother of Jesse Tompsett, of this village was fatally wounded by the premature discharge of a cannon July 4. One of his legs was torn off and death resulted on Sunday, we are informed. Others were slightly injured.

For sometime a dispute has been going on between the townships of Ada, Bowne and Lowell as to which township shall support Mrs. Mary Younglove, a pauper who has been supported by each of the above townships at intervals for a long time. The matter was submitted to the county superintendents of the poor who decided that she belonged to Ada.

The Freeport Herald gets off the following: John Busby, of Hastings, has the shrewdest business head on him of any man in the state. He succeeded in getting a local notice in three Hastings papers last week with one strawberry, then went around the corner and ate the berry himself. The berry measured eleven inches in circumference. We are pleased to add that Busby is sick abed.

A West Campbell cor. of the Freeport paper says: "Most of the farmers in this section have taken their wool to Hastings where they are paid three and four cents more than they paid at Lowell, their general market place."

Will said cor. please name the highest price paid for wool at Hastings? We think he has been deceived. Our buyers here have been paying as much as buyers in most other towns.

Health officer Dr. Elsworth has called the attention of many of our citizens to the filthy condition of the river banks and pools north of and under the bridge in this village. It seems that nearly all the filth dropped and dumped into the river is stored up instead of carried off. It is evident that something must be done to remove accumulations from these disease breeding holes. Sewers should be made so as to draw off all such accumulations, and without delay. It is a sickening sight to view the situation from any standpoint that enables one to take a rear view of the buildings and on either side of the river. We trust the board of health will lose no time in providing ways and means for the removal of the evil.

The resignation of Chief Justice Cooley was filed in the office of the Secretary of State on June 30. By this event the state is deprived of the services of the ablest jurist and legal writer of this generation. He retires from the position loaded with the honors which indomitable energy and perseverance always bring when conscientiously guided, whether it be in the judicial field or in the common walks of life. Although still in the height of mental vigor, few writers can point to greater results accomplished, and his well known industry should be a gospel to every American youth who feels like lagging by the wayside in the battle of life. His public labors are too well known to bear repetition. It is enough to say that his name will ever remain in the front rank of Michigan's illustrious men.—Lansing Rep.

"The 4th" was pleasantly celebrated in Lowell under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. The Island was nicely fitted up for the occasion; a bridge was built across the river; a good platform and comfortable seats were provided, and several long tables, well laden with good things to eat, were placed on the grounds. The morning exercises were as follows: Called to order by Miss Jennings, president of the W. C. T. U.; 2, Music by the choir; 3, prayer by the chaplain; 4, reading of Declaration; 5, music by the choir; 6, address by Rev. M. M. Callen; 7, music; 8, dinner. A fair sized audience was present. The address of Mr. Callen was well delivered and contained some good points. His views concerning the responsibility attending certain evils, however, might lead to an interesting discussion. He spoke without manuscript or notes and is a very good extempore speaker. An excellent dinner was served and many partook thereof. The afternoon exercises passed off pleasantly the program consisting of recitations by Harry Vanderhule, Mamie Wright and Bessie White, singing by Mamie Randall, and recitations by Miss Mary Peck and Miss Jessie Clark, also short speeches by Rev. C. Oldfield and Rev. J. T. Husted.

Dear Again.

The Hasting's Journal of the 29th inst. offers the following:

The new railroad project is entirely flat. There is no immediate prospect for its revival, and as at least two of the directors of the road have signified that they will have nothing more to do with it, and expect soon to make their home in another section, there is exceedingly small encouragement for work in any way connected with the line. The return of the notes to those who gave them is about to be done and then the efforts of our citizens to aid themselves and the people along the line will have proved fruitless. Indeed, so much to discourage has been met in this proposed route that it may be the very best possible thing to abandon it altogether. There is, however, a suggestion or two to which we would call attention, and it may be that something practical can be brought out.

The interest of Chicago in the wholesale trade in buying Michigan products and selling manufactured goods would, we confidently believe, induce them to look with favor upon a project that would add another competing line of road over which to ship to interior points in this state and no road project in this state offers more of these opportunities than the proposed route upon which so much labor has already been spent. We are confident that with proper effort, capital from this metropolis of the west, could be induced to invest, even if not wholly, at least a part. Failing in this, it may be possible to induce the M. C., now touching this county on the south, to run a line north to Lowell and from thence to some point on the Lake Michigan shore, or make a terminal point at Grand Rapids, the local traffic being incentive enough to induce them to make the outlay. Whatever the route and however the discouragement, the effort should not be allowed to lag. If we ever expect relief we must make the effort ourselves. It will not do to sit idly down and expect some outside party to be philanthropic enough to help us out. Let us see what can be done in the directions named.

Thanks to All.

In behalf of the Union, we wish to express our thanks and appreciation to the kind friends who assisted us in making the exercises of the Fourth a success.

Those gentlemen, who we trust, will contribute to assist us in starting out on so large and expensive arrangements have our first expressions of gratitude, for without their aid we could have done nothing. The committee would not have felt it safe or proper to engage a speaker, build a bridge, clear and seat the ground, with other incidental expenses, without something to have fallen back on in case of a rainy day, when all our income would have been cut off. This contribution was the foundation upon which we built all our hopes and they were more than realized. We trust those gentlemen will be blessed in basket and store and never have an occasion to regret assisting the women in so commendable an enterprise. We remember with kindness those who gave us so much gratuitous work, loaned their dishes, organ and other useful things which we so much needed and appreciated; the ladies who helped supply our tables and assisted during the day. Thanks to all. COM.

To the Teachers of Kent County.

Grand Rapids, Mich. June 12, '85.

A two weeks State Institute for Kent County will be held at Grand Rapids, commencing Monday July 13. The institute will be conducted on the plan of class instruction, with recitations.

The corps of instructors: Prof. E. A. Strong and H. H. Pastegill of Grand Rapids and Sup. Perry of Ann Arbor are among the ablest in the State. In urging you to attend this institute, we feel that we are asking of you only that which you owe to your patrons and yourselves. The work you are doing, or attempting to do, calls for thorough preparation on your part, and we are sure you cannot afford to miss the present opportunity. Teachers who are known to do good work, need have no fear of unskilled competition and you should avail yourselves of the opportunities they afford.

A good and pleasant teaching places will be found for those desiring it and at reasonable rates.—Bring your text books as lessons will be assigned and you will need them for study and reference.—Please report your intention of attending to the Local Committee, Geo. A. HANBY, Lansing, Mich. Respectfully, Geo. A. HANBY, THE COUNTY BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

To most children the bare suggestion of a dose of castor oil is nauseating. Why not then, when when physic is necessary for the little ones, use Ayer's Cathartic Pills? They combine every essential and valuable principle of a cathartic medicine, and being sugar-coated are easily taken.
