A JAPAN HORBOR.

BAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—Province Kit, in the southwestern part of Japan, has been visited by one of the grentest disasters in the history of the country. Probably more than 15,000 people have been killed, several towns have been wiped completely off the face of she earth and others have been nearly demoished. The catastrophe was occustoned by floods in the western part of the pzovince and by the crumbiling of a mountain, which burfed six villages under a hoge mass of rocks and earth in the castern districts. The early part of August was remarkable for its rains, and the rapid rise of rivers soon became alarming. The banks of the Kinegwan fiver, a stream over 100 miles in length, broke near the town of Yokohama on the 19th, and a mountain of water like that which swept through the Cenemangh valley rushed out upon fields and towns, wrecking houses, bridges, fences and temples and all things in its path. In this district 300 houses were carried away and 5,000 ruined by water, leaving 30,000 people dependent upon local officials for foot. Lover down

Eight Houses, with Over Fifty Person Within Them. Buried by a Patt of Rock ered-The Search for Others.

QUEBEC'S HORROM

QUEBEC, Can., Sept. 31.—About So'clock Thursday evening people living in the neighborhood of the citadel were startled on hearing a low, rumbling sound, accompanied by a perceptible quiver of the earth. Houses were shaken, dishes rattled, and even in some cases people had difficuity in maintaining their footing.
Every one rushed into the street, and it was learned that a large portion of Cape Diamond, just below the citadel, had become detached, and, sliding down the declivity to Champlain street, had buried several residences and their finmates under from fifteen to twenty-five feet of rock, dirt and other wreckage. At the foot of the cliff is a narrow street which occupies all the space between the cape and the river, and this was filled with the debris which had crushed out the lives of at least twenty-five people. The exact number is not yet known as the enormous mass of earth and stone has up to midnight shewn but little diminution, notwithstanding that a large force of men was at work clearing it away in less than half an hour after the horrible disaster took place. It is believed, however, that not less than twenty-five have perished.

The damage to properly will amount to about $100,000. >\text{lx} hundred men are engaged in the work of rescue. The night was intensely dark, all electric lights in the melghborhood having been rendered uselies by the land-side, and the rescuers were reduced to the necessity of working with lanterns.

Those who wincessed the fak-of the rock say that they beard a long, loud noise, as of several cannon, and, on looking up toward the terrace and citadel, were horrified by the sight of a large mass of stones, rock and earth breaking, loose and rushing down the 300 feet of declivity upon the decomed houses below. Immediately the air was filled with dust, so that no one could see terr feet in front of him, and breathing was made difficult. This was fo lowed by the sound of timbers crushing and yielding to the immense power of the avalanche, and the shouting and acteauing of men, women and children in all the agony of despair. The avalanche was caused by the heavy rain of the last few days. Some of the bodies taken out show no evidence of being crushed, and the shelic is that in these cases the unfortunate victims of the terrible calastrophe were simply smothered to death. One little girl, the daughter of a family of seven. The bodies of all the others having been recovered. In the same building with the Vignaux were three other families, and it is doubtful if any member of either in accapted.

Mr. EDITOR:—When we left Michigan many friends asked to hear from us, and through your paper we can write to them all at once, and will you kindly allow me a little space. We reached LeGrand Saturday the 15th, rented a house the same day and on Monday had moved into it. Friday I bought the house and 2½ acres of land and we are now bonafide inhabitants of the Badger State. Last Tuesday LeGrand's Christian Institute opened the fall term, and our two children were registered as students. Everything is booming here except whisky, I do not know where any of that could be found. Corn is placed 10 per cent. above an average crop and there seems to be no end to oats and hay. Wheat is also more than an average crop. I thought I had seen corn before, but I give it up. We shall be glad to hear from any and all of our friends, and will answer if they will write to us. Yours forever and a day,

And flowers clustered on his grave
And were contented there to bloom
And when the wind would roar
Among the trees,
Then saked the soldier from his deep, dark
"Was it the flag this fluttered?"
"Nay!" said the wind, "my gailant hero, Nay; thou hast died in battle, but the flag Hath won the day. Thy courades Have carried it away full happily."
Then said the soldier from his deep, dark
"I am contented."

And then he hearkened to the wandering tried the virtues of closely woven cloth bandages which had been previously dipped in a solution of plaster of Paris and whites of eggs.

He must have cried "Eurekal" upon the first application of his newly discovered and curiously treated bandages, for they worked like a charm; the albumen of the egg supplied the necessary adhesive component; the plaster of Paris caused it to set firm and hold the parts immovable. The plaster cast splint was soon superseded by the light and airy albumo plaster bandages.

Trees and Light.

Trees nearly always develop best—in other words, make most wood—in the full enjoyment of light; but their capacity of developing under shade varies greatly. The yew will thrive in the denseat shade, while a few years overtopping kills the larch; the beech will grow with considerable energy under partial shade, where the cak would only partial shade, where the oak would only just keep alive and the birch would die. When planted in moist places, all spe-cies are less sensitive to the withdrawal cies are less sensitive to the withdrawal of light. In the open, mapies, elins, sycamores and others grow well and make good shade trees; in a dense forest they thin out and have but scanty foliage. Confers, such as spruces and firs, which preserve the foliage of years, have perhaps the greatest capacity of growing under shade and preserving their foliage in spite of the withdrawal of light.—Once a Week.

Only one city in the world has ever undertaken by legal supervision to put every house under positive and absolute sanitary control, and that city is Buenos Ayres. The purpose is within three years to have this accomplished. By no other means can a city be rendered safe for residence, and in no other way can the law that city residence rapidly degenerates the population be reversed. The matter of sanitation cannot in any phase of it be left to individuals; it must be a public provision, rigidly enforced. Now that two-ninths of all our people dive in cities, the subject is one that can not be deferred.—St. Louis Globe-Demo

An antiquarian searching in the Con-necticut State library has discovered several books of a very ancient date. There is a black letter Latin dictionary printed in 1477, soon after the discovery of printing with movable types and fifteen years before Columbus sailed for America. There is a Melanethon book America. There is a Melancthon book of 1501 and a notable one on logic, a queer old book which belonged to Samuel Parris, the Salem minister, in whose house the witch phenomena broke out and who himself led the persecution. It bears his signature. The book was printed in 1662 at Leyden.—New York Home Journal.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membranes of the nose and custachian tubes.
