SLEIGHING IN CHEYENNE.

itx Inches of Snow in Wyoming-Great Injury to Stock

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 9.-There was excellent sleighing here Sunday morning. Snow had fallen to the depth of a trifle more than 6 inches. At 11 o'clock there was a hot sun for a few moments, melting somewhat, but it was decidedly cool again in afternoon and evening, calm and more snow. The injury to range stock by the severe weather of December last and the late storms is appalling. The loss is estimated at over 80 per cent. Owners say the calf crop will scarcely be worth branding. A county officer made a trip into the country last week and on favorite winter grazing grounds counted fifty carcasses in one afternoon. There are hundreds of dead animals in all the large pastures, and the emaciated, lifeless frames are almost in piles in the open and among the foothills.

TWO GIRLS DROWNED

Sad Ending of a Pleasure Party Near Cincinnati.

THIRSTED FOR BLOOD.

Terrible Mania of a Man Who Spent Sev.

enteen Years in Chains. BENTON, Ia., May 9 .- Joseph Hamilton, who has spent the last seventeen years of his life in chains, died here Sunday. He had a terrible mania, a thirst for human blood which nothing could appease, and he had to be kept in irons all the time. When about 25 years of age, Hamilton acquired this appetite by tasting blood in a fight. He was watching a sparring match when he saw blood flow from the nose of one of the boxers and went wild instantly. Drawing a knife he plunged it into the heart of a bystander and drank his blood as it flowed. He killed another man before he was arrested.

A NATURAL TOMB.

For Ages a Death Trap for Wild Animals.

A Montana Cave That Has Caused the Disappearance of Many Buffiloes A Curious Subterranean Charnel House.

The cave recently discovered continues to be the center of attraction to all interested in the wonderful and phenomenal freaks of nature, says the White Sulphur Springs Husbandman. The cave is located in the dry range, twentyfive miles northwest from town, in the vicinity of the Len Lewis and John Moore ranches. The mouth of the cave is from two to three feet wide and six feet long, located on the southeast side near the top of a pocket in the mountain. The cave is almost the shape of a flask, thirtyfour feet deep, and the bottom being sixty-two feet long and thirty feet wide. sixty-two feet long and thirty feet wide. the water ditches. They get out in the We speak of the bottom of the cave but grass where there is a little water, and mean the top of the debris and vast amount of bones of animals which fills are very large. being adorned with crystals and stalactite and stalagmite, is a regular charnel house, and evidently has been a death the cave is peculiarly constructed for they are not introduced in other streams the purpose of relentlessly swallowing and lakes." any living thing that ventured near its brink. The mouth of this destroyer of the living is composed of limestock rock somewhat on an incline, the depression being at its widest part.

Along the upper side is an old animal trail. It is easy to see how the buffalo or elk passing this way when the trail was slippery with ice or snow would easily lose their foothold and be precipitated into the cave. It is also a plausible theory to believe that at times during the winter the mouth of the cave is entirely covered with snow, so that the unsuspecting animal passing over the familiar trail would at this point, if diverging a few inches to the south, slide through the snow and be swallowed alive. Many animals, doubtless, were killed by being suspended by the head and fore part of the body, as the buffalo, or by the antlers, as the elk, while many were evidently directly mangled and killed by the fall. But there are also evidences that some landed at the bottom of the pit with sufficient powers remaining to drag their bodies to remote corners of the cave and there perish from wounds and starvation. Some of the largest skulls and skeletons of buffalo were thus found.

We could not determine the depth of & Son. the bones in the bottom of the cave, as we did not have the necessary tools for making such exploration, but we counted in sight twenty-nine buffalo skulls, several elk, bear, wolf, etc. I have brought with me a specimen skull of the buffalo, bear and wolf, which is on exhibition at the office of the Husbandman. It is probable that for centuries this wonderful cave has been performing the ghastly office of swallowing these living creatures.

Old hunters, who have gathered their information from the Indians, say that it is at least half a century since the buffalo was last seen upon the Dry range. It would not be surprising that when further explorations are made human bones should be found. For should the lonely hunter, prospector, or Indian chance to break through when the cave was covered with snow he would be comed to certain death, for there as no visible means at present whereby a man could extricate himself from that horrible pit. The discoverer has securely constructed a ladder into the cave whereby ladies and gentlemen can enter with safety.

MOQUI INDIAN ALBINOS.

Supposed to Take Their Characteristics

from an Extinct Cannibal Tribe. There are several albinos among the Moqui tribe of Indians on the Moqui reservation in Apache county, Arizona, says the San Francisco Chronicle. Some set them on fire, the other that she of these albinos are pure white, with regular Indian features-reddish velhouse of her sister, Mrs. R. F. Cleek, low hair and blue eyes. Others, again, with whom she lived, and accidentally have pink eyes, which are constantly twinkling as if suffering from some nervous affection. There is one of the albino girls, about twelve or thirteen years old, attending the government school at Kearn's canyon. She is one of the brightest scholars in the school. Her parents are pure Indian and unusually dark colored. I saw another albino among them, a man of about forty or forty-five years of age, and small in stature. His hair was long and coarse and of a light yellow, eyes a bright blue with a reddish glint, and constantly moving. I understand there are sev-eral more of these people among the Moquis.

The late Pivte princess, Saran Winne mucca, makes mention of these peculiar people in her book. She speaks of the woman over whom they quarreled, and tradition among her people that a tribe once existed there having yellow hair and pink eyes, who were cannibals, and were driven by the Piutes and other tribes southward, presumably to New Mexico or Arizona. They were driven into the mountains and there massa cred, only a very few being known to have escaped.

Trap-Doors Under the Seats. Some ingenious and some idiotic de vices to insure the safety of an audience in case of fire have been lately projected. One is to have a trap-door arranged under each seat in the theater, so that by simply pressing a button the occupant is gently lowered into a comfortable and fire-proof vault below the floor, and where, presumably, the frightened and half-fainting person is treated to a drink and a schweizer sandwich, says the Stage. This idea comes from Paris, and is open to one objection. What are the poor gallery people going to do? They would be apt to break their necks if put through a hole in the floor, and it would prove rather an expensive arrangement to provide everybody who bought a balcony or a gallery seat with a special ele-

The manager of the Laguna de Tache Rancho says the carp which were introduced in the Kings river a few years ago have grown so plentiful that they are thinning out the ducks and almost all other water fowl except the wild geese, says the San Francisco Examiner.

"They pervade the river in large numbers," said he, "and are very thick in the irrigating ditches. They seem to eat the grass. They devour the various kinds of small animal life, and, though the ducks and other fowl dive down deep, they can find little to eat.
"I cannot imagine what the United States fish commission was about in sending out such a coarse-fleshed, ravenous fish as these carpare. They are certainly worse to eat than almost any fish we have in California and they are thinning the good fish out.
