THE CRUEL FLAMES.

DOVER, N. H., Feb. 11.—The county farm insane asylum 4 miles from this city was burned Thursday night, forty-four of the inmates perishing in the flames.

A PANIC.

When Watchman William Cheever made his rounds he found the fire coming out of the cell occupied by A. Lafamitane, a woman, and gave the alarm.

COULD NOT ESCAPE.

By this time the fire was under such headway that it was impossible to see any of the inmates. Some got into the yard only to find themselves imprisoned and there to be slowly roasted to death.

Of the inmates only four escaped. They were William Twombly, Rose Sanderson, William Daly and Frank Donsion.

The main building, in which were over 100 of the county poor, caught fire, but was saved by the heroic efforts of the inmates, who carried pails of water and extinguished the flames, although many were burned in so doing.

TERRIBLE SCENES.

Those who arrived on the scene will never forget the horrible spectacle. The fire brightly illuminated the country for many miles. The inmates could be plainly seen as they tossed about in the fire.

When the rescuers from the town reached the place the fire had almost burned itself out and soon there was only a mass of charred embers.

The accident was near the extreme end of the quarry, far under the hill. The killed and some of the injured were buried under tons of rock, and the work of rescue was necessarily difficult.

Victims Were Insured.

It was at first reported there were 180 quarrymen in the vicinity when the disaster occurred, but there were less than 100 in the quarry.

AGAINST PINKERTONS.

Important Declarations by a Special Committee of the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Mr. Gallinger from the select committee appointed by the senate to investigate and report the facts in relation to the employment for private purposes of armed bodies of men or detectives in connection with differences between workmen and employers submitted the report of the committee Friday.

1. Rights of employers and workmen are equal. 2. Employers have an undoubted right, provided they fulfill their agreements, to employ and dismiss men at pleasure.

3. Workmen can legally organize for mutual protection and improvement. 4. When dissatisfied with wages or hours they should attempt to arbitrate.

5. Failing in this they have a right to discontinue work either singly or in a body. 6. Having discontinued work they have no right, legal or moral, by force or intimidation, to keep others from taking their places or to attempt to occupy, injure or destroy the property of their employers.

7. In all controversies, arbitration having failed, reliance should be placed upon the power and adequacy of the law.

8. Employment of armed bodies of men for private purposes either by employers or employees should not be resorted to, and such act is an assumption of the state's authority by private citizens.

9. States have undoubted authority to legislate against the employment of armed bodies of men for private purposes; but the power of congress to legislate is not clear, although it would seem that congress ought not to be powerless to prevent the movement of such bodies from one state to another.

In conclusion the committee says that its investigations have led it to conclude that the fault is not wholly on one side; that middle ground seems to be in the direction of arbitration. Without making any recommendations, the committee closes with a plea for arbitration.
