BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

The Gain in Commercial Activity Gradually Increases.

Labor More Largely Employed—Effect of a Slight Premium on Gold—The Situation as Reviewed by Leading Commercial Agents.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "There are some changes for the better. The gain is slow, and in some directions not very distinct, but the signs of it are a little more definite than last week. The most important of them is larger employment of labor, answering a better demand on the whole for manufactured products. Much of this is due to the unnatural delay of orders for the winter which resulted from long prolonged uncertainty, but it means actual increase in earnings and purchasing power of the millions, and so gives promise of a larger demand in the future. Prices of farm products in the aggregate do not improve, but the prevailing hopefulness is felt in somewhat larger transactions."

Gold at a Premium. "A little premium on gold, for the first time since 1878, naturally excites some comment, even though it is only the smallest fraction, and apparently due to temporary causes. Undoubtedly it reflects a disposition to hold gold, which answers to the desire of the government to get gold without redeeming its notes. About $5,500,000 has been drawn from the treasury by redemption of notes, and it is supposed that much more will be withdrawn, perhaps after the award of bonds, so that the first payment may not raise the gold reserve higher than it was a week ago. The upward tendency of sterling exchange points the same way; the admitted need of borrowing does not increase confidence. But after the treasury reserve has been replenished greater confidence may follow."

The Bond Issue. "It is expected that a syndicate will bid for the full amount of bonds at a price making the rate 3 per cent, or a little less, and that other bids will also be large, but how much gold the treasury will get or keep is problematic."

More Factories Start Up. "Textile industries have added a few factories to the working list, against only one or two withdrawn and there has been improvement in the demand for woolens. More supplementary orders for spring have been received and colder weather has increased the demand for heavy goods. Yet on the whole the market is not active and the manufacture is much below the capacity of works."

Failures. "The failures for two weeks of November have been moderately large in amount, reported liabilities being $6,502,303, of which $1,713,465 were of manufacturing and $3,281,890 of trading concerns. For the same week last year liabilities were over $7,200,000. The failures this week have been 32 in the United States, against 385 last year, and 31 in Canada, against 34 last year."

Bradstreet's View. "The feature of the general trade for the week includes an increase in distribution of holiday goods, of heavy clothing, hats, seasonal dry goods and at various points, hardware and shoes. This was stimulated by seasonably colder weather and a continuance of the feeling of confidence in a near-by improvement in demand."

Only a fair business is reported from Cleveland and moderate gains in a few lines at Cincinnati and Detroit, the general business situation at Louisville being quiet, except the request for finished iron. Chicago reports the volume of trade maintained beyond expectations and an inquiry for bar iron and steel. The like is true at St. Louis, where the demand for sheet iron and relatively prompt collections are specified. Kansas City, Des Moines and Omaha report a fair increase in the demand for dry goods and groceries, clothing and shoes, but collections are not as prompt as at some other points. There is only a moderate volume of business at Milwaukee but collections are better. At St. Paul there is an increase in demand for holiday goods and seasonal staples, but at Duluth the end of the season of lake navigation has tended rather to check activity. At Minneapolis business is quiet, except for Christmas goods and in manufacturing flour."

Farmers Lose Heavily. PORTLAND, Ind., Nov. 27.—Neal Brothers, of this city, the heaviest millers in eastern Indiana, failed for $100,000 and no assets. THE STUDY — of the action of medicines, or vegetable compounds, used to the stomach, and tests in many hundreds of cases, long ago convinced Doctor R. V. Pierce, Chief Consulting Physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., that all cases of Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be cured permanently if the right treatment were given. In support of his belief that he had discovered an alternative extract which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," that would cure these diseases, he collected from all parts of the country the evidence of those who had used his medicine, and he has asked the public to investigate for themselves, as he would be glad to furnish the names and addresses of thousands of people who have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. All interested should send for a little medical treatise on Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea, "Liver Complaint," Biliousness, Constipation and Piles, published by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and mailed on receipt of six cents in one-cent stamps. This book also contains the photographs and testimony of many persons who have suffered from diseases of the digestive organs.

INDIGESTION; SEVERE PAIN IN STOMACH. THOMAS FLETCHER, of Clifton Station, Fairfax Co., Va., writes:

"I suffered the terrible tortures for ten years with what your Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice describes as 'Gastralgia' (pain in stomach). I employed our home-doctor—look 25 dozen bottles of sarsaparilla with no benefit; then I took one-half dozen bottles of a celery compound without any benefit; then eight bottles of iron tonic, yet I was no better; this was in 1889. I then took six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which made a new man of me. I am now fifty-two years old, and for the past five years I have worked very hard on my farm. It is impossible for me to say too much for the 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

SHOT BY A MASKED MAN.
Farmer Wickwire and His Sister Victims of an Assault.
BATTLE CREEK, Nov. 25.—An unknown masked man early Wednesday evening shot and fatally wounded William Wickwire, a farmer living near Climax, and also shot and slightly wounded Miss Wickwire, a sister of the farmer. At 7 o'clock a man knocked at the door of Wickwire's farmhouse, 3 miles south of Climax. An adopted son answered the knock and a man whose clothes were concealed by a long rubber coat and his features by a pillowcase, entered and asked for the man of the house. He passed by the lad into the sitting room, where Wickwire's sister was sitting. She noticed that he was masked and carried a revolver, and she jumped up and grabbed for the weapon. At this he pulled the trigger, the ball striking her in the side of the neck, making a slight flesh wound. He fired again, but this time the shot missed its mark. Wickwire, who was in the parlor adjoining, rushed out and grabbed the man. The murderer turned on him and fired one shot, the ball striking him in the mouth and passing directly through his head. The second ball glanced around his eye, a third struck him in the stomach, and a fourth missed him. Mr. Wickwire ran out of the parlor and endeavored to tear the mask off the murderer's face. He fought her desperately, however, and tried to back out of the room. Just as he was leaving Wickwire, who had partly recovered consciousness, raised a chair and struck him over the head. The blow stunned him and he half dropped to the floor, but rallied and ran from the place. Wickwire is not fatally injured. His sister's wound is not fatal. It is alleged that a relative and neighbor is suspected of the crime, and that it was committed for revenge.

THE GRAND ARMY.
An Old Soldier Who Marches Back Into the Republican Ranks.

The following letter addressed by Colonel Keasley to a friend is given out for publication:

120 LEXINGTON AVENUE,
New York, Nov. 24, 1894.

I wanted to say that I have made up my mind in regard to my political future. I have been doing a good deal of political thinking on my own account during the past year, and considering all things in relation to my duty I have come to the definite conclusion to no longer act with the Democratic party, but herewith with the Republican party. I can have no affiliation with Populism; don't take any stock in that movement, and have no sympathy with its vagaries.

I have just written a long letter to my old and warm personal friend, General James K. Clarke, who is now temporarily in Sals Lake City, defining my exact position. Though he was a Republican here, as now, it was to him that I made known first my intention to go with the Republican party and against his advice. Yours sincerely,
Jas. H. Keasley,
Ex-Commandant Iowa Soldiers' Home.

Competition in Cotton.
The cotton spinning industry is reported as making great strides in Japan in recent years. In 1887 there were in existence 24 mills, with 180,000 spindles, and in 1893 there were 45 mills, with 885,265 spindles. Manual labor being very cheap, the manufacturers are able to meet all outside competition, and the foreign imports of cotton goods are falling off materially every year.

Run down with DYSPEPSIA STOMACH Liver and Heart Affected. Almost in Despair But Finally CURED by Taking AYER'S PILLS

"After fifteen years, it was a great relief from indigestion in its worst form. I tried the skill of many doctors, but grew worse and worse, until I became so weak I could not walk fifty yards without having to sit down and rest. My stomach, liver, and heart became affected, and I thought I would surely die. I tried Ayer's Pills and they helped me right away. I continued their use and am now entirely well. I don't know of anything that will so quickly relieve and cure the terrible suffering of dyspepsia as Ayer's Pills."—J. C. CROFT, FRITCHARD, Brodie, Warren Co., N. C.

TEZUKA'S Cough Remedy. At length a party of us, among whom were Gutierrez, with his wife, Teuchepo, were driving to the shores of the lake, where lay canoes, and into these we entered, scarcely knowing what we did, but thinking that we might escape, for now all the city was taken. The brigantines saw us and called after us with scolding words, but the wind always favored the foe in that war—now, as we would, one of them came and would have killed us, but we were saved by the wind, which blew us away from the foe. Then Gutierrez stood up and spoke, saying, "I am Gutierrez. Bring me to Maliche. But spare those of my people who remain alive."

"Now we had come to Otomle at my aid, my boat has come, for the Spaniards will surely hang me, and it is in my mind, and if by any chance I am saved, so that I may be saved from a death of shame."

"My husband," she answered, "as I said in bygone days, while you live there is hope, but the dead come back no more. My fortune may favor you, still, if you think otherwise, I am ready to die."

"That will not suffer, Otomle!" "Then you must look your hand hard, for now, as always, when you go I follow."

"Listen," whispered. "Do not let it be known that you are my wife. Pass yourself as one of the ladies of Teuchepo, the queen, your sister. If we are separated, you must look your hand hard, for now, as always, when you go I follow."

"On," cried the soldiers, and I went with him, thinking how Gutierrez and I should meet again.

"You took me as a canoe, and we were paddled across the lake by the Spaniards as though we were on a Spanish galley. The room of the stow away where they hid me was a narrow one, and I was crowded in with the Spaniards, and through these bars I could see and hear the revelings of the soldiers during the time of my confinement. All day long, when they were not on duty, and most of the night also, they gambled and drank, making time pass, and led to the top of a house which still stood, where Cortes had made ready hurriedly to receive his royal prisoner, and to his escort, the Spanish general stood, with his hand, and by his side was Marina, who had been a witness of the scene, and now met for the first time since we had parted in Tebasco.

"Gods vengeance! she started, when she saw me, she knew me again, though it must have been hard for Marina to recognize that Cortes and I were together, stained, starting and tattered, who could scarcely find strength to climb the stairs. She looked at me with a pained glance, as if she saw me as a man, and not as a woman, for all eyes were bent on the meeting between Cortes and Gutierrez. Between the conqueror and the conquered, still proud and defiant, though he seemed but a living skeleton, Gutierrez walked straight to where the Spaniard stood and spoke, Marina translating his words."

"I am Gutierrez, the captive, Maliche," he said. "What a man might do to defend his wife I have done. Look on the fruits of my labor," and he pointed to the blackened ruins of Tenocchtitlan that stretched every side as far as the eye could reach. "Now I have come to this pass, for the gods themselves have been against me. Deal with me as you will, but I will be best that you kill me now," and he touched the dagger of Cortes with his hand, "and thus rid me of the misery of life."

"Fear not, Gutierrez," answered Cortes. "You have fought like a brave man, and such I honor. With me you are safe, for the Spaniards love a gallant foe. See, here is food," and he pointed to a table spread with such viands as we had not seen for many a week. "Eat, you and your companions together, for you must need it. Afterward we will talk."

"So we ate, and heartily, I, for my part, did not eat until I was almost sick with the full stomach, having faced death so long upon an empty one, and while we devoured the meat the Spaniards stood on one side, watching us without pity. Presently Teuchepo was brought before Cortes, and with her Otomle and six other ladies. He greeted her graciously, and they were given to eat. Now one of the Spaniards who had been watching me whispered something into the ear of Cortes, and I saw his face darken.

Knew Her Rights.

There was no one but the Recorder there when she came in and she proceeded at once to business.

"My name is Jane Ann Slocum, an' I come to see how much you've got me taxed for this sewer business." She said, "I want you to know, young man, that, jest because I'm a widow an' aint got no vote, you can't take any advantages of me, an' fo to work an' pile up taxes agin me, lessen I'm goin' to have my say, any way."

"But madam you don't"—began the Recorder, but she shut him off with

"I guess I got 's good a right to look this matter up 's anybody. I pay my taxes an' the money spends jest as well 's though I had a vote, and you needn't give me any sass, fer if I can't vote, I've got influence an' can fix some other voter."

"But madam, you don't"—but she interrupted.

"Now you can jest make up your mind that they aint' goin' to bamboozle me into payin' no extra tax, an' you might's well know it first as last. I shan't pay no sewer tax an' if you don't like it you can just lump it, an' I don't want no lip neither."

"But madam"—He began again.

"Don't 'But Madam' me I guess I know a thing or two. You needn't think 'cause you set up here smokin' a five cent cigar 'th yer feet cocked up on a table, that you're bigger'n any one else. I want you to understand that you're workin' fer me an' I got a right to come here 'thout takin' any sass, so you jest want to come off your perch an' treat me like a lady an' not go to given' me back talk. I'm here fer business an' its my business an' dont you fergit it, I've knowed you a good many year an' just because you happen to hold a little two-by-five office you needn't think you can put it on over me. Now come down an' tell me about this sewer tax. I won't pay it, you might jest as well understand it first as last, and she folded her arms and look of resignation over her face.

"You are not in the district and needn't pay anything." He assured her.

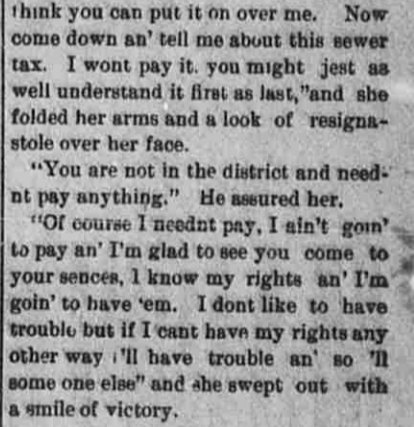

"Of course I needn't pay, I aint' goin' to pay an' I'm glad to see you come to your senses. I know my rights an' I'm goin' to have 'em. I dont like to have trouble but if I cant have my rights any other way 'll have trouble an' so 'll some one else" and she swept out with a smile of victory.
