PROPERTY VALUE START

The Lowell City Manager, area Township Supervisors and Assessors have put the finishing touches on the 1972 assessment rolls in preparation for their annual Board of Review meetings. By law, the assessment rolls must be ready by March 1 for inspection by the various local Board of Reviews.

New houses, additions to old houses, and new divisions of land must appear in their proper places on the rolls, so the public can inspect their individual assessment, if they care to do so. Property owners whose property assessments have been increased have been notified by first class mail as to the new amount. If they are unhappy about the figures, they can visit their own local Board of Review and petition for some relief.

March 13 and 14, the various Boards of Reviews will convene and hear the petitions of the property owners. Those owners who do not live locally can petition by letter.

Forty-eight teachers from Lowell Area Schools attended an Art Elementary School.

A free educational service provided by Binney & Smith Inc., manufacturers of Crayola crayons and other school art supplies, the Workshop was conducted by Mrs. Betty Ohlrogge Dabbs, who has taught extensively and holds a Master's degree from Indiana University.

The teachers spent fifteen hours of their own time learning about modern creative art education and some of its material and tools. They learned by doing, rolling up their sleeves and trying out the techniques presented by Mrs. Dabbs.

These techniques included some of the uses of crayons, water colors, poster paints, finger paints, colored chalks, and mod-eling clay. Simple craft techniques were shown, giving teachers an opportunity to work with paper, paste and other materials to gain three-dimensional effects. All of the Art Workshop activities were experiences which the teachers can relate to their own classroom teaching.

School officials responsible for the Workshop arrangements be Superintendent Leonard Sinke, and Director Vonema, Director of Elementary Education.

een Center Eyes April Opening

A year's lease on the second floor of the former State Savings Bank on East Main Street has been granted to Teen Challenge for the use as a teen center for Loweli.

Under the promotion of Dave VanderStelt, a Teen Challenge director, Lowell's center will provide a wide variety of activities for the youth of the community.

The floor plans, drawn by assistant director Chris Yalacki, show a special room where Rap sessions will be held, a complete library, office space, a stage area, a recreation area equipped with pool and ping pong tables, a coke machine and adequate space for any new ideas.

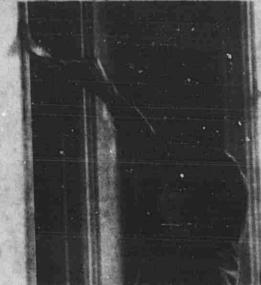

Teen Challenge, a nation-wide organization, operating out of Grand Rapids, backed by a Christian format, has stepped into the Lowell area hoping to solve some of the problems that have been prevalent during the past several months.

There's a lot of hard work remaining to get the Teen Center off and operating, but Teen Challenge has already commenced renovating the Center above Zzano's Pizza, and are diligently working towards an early April opening.

VanderStelt said the center could use some good used furniture and Teen Challenge would be canvassing the area to see if they could come up with something.

If you have any useable furniture or would like to know more about the Teen Challenge program call 897-8564. When completed, the center will be open to youth of all ages.

Pushing a paint brush is easy for Dave VanderStelt, when it means the youth of the community will benefit.

and fishing." That's the way Ted VanOcker put it when his coworkers assembled at Keiser's Kitchen Thursday evening to pay tribute to his many years of service at the Lowell Light and Power

The get-together given by AFL-CIO Local 481, honored Van-Ocker on his retirement after 40 years of dedicated service. Ligh! Plant manager John Jones presented him with an engraved wall clock and a gift of money.

After being hired in June of 1929, VanOcker played an important role in the progressive changes that have kept the "pow-er on" in rural and city homes down through the years.

In 1930 and '31, VanOcker worked on the construction of the dam, took part in the construction of the new building, and the installation of the 350 KW and 400 KW diesel engines.

In 1941, they installed a new 856 KW diesel engine and moved the Power Company's office from the East side of the unit to the West side. Five years later, 1946, a 1400 KW diesel was put into use, and VanOcker aided in erecting a new office.

During the years, 1955 and '56, an 1136 KW diesel boosted the Power Company's voltage, and again VanOcker was on the scene doing his job.

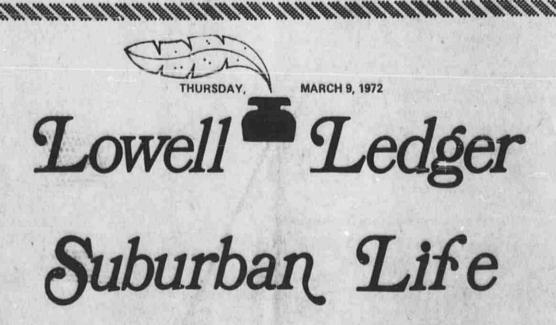

In 1965, when the interconnection was made with Wolverine Electric, VanOcker was again required to make drastic changes and begin a new phase of operational procedures.

"The progress made in providing electricity to homeowners has kept my job interesting," VanOcker revealed, "and I'm going to miss the constant, consistent roar of those engines, but I'm also looking forward to the relaxation of my retirement."

A special guest at the dinner was VanOcker's wife, who remarked, "It'll seem good to have him home." They reside on Whites Bridge Road.

After studying the problem of pollution in science class and learning how minor problems become major ones, how recycling saves not only our resources, but also cuts down on the amount of pollution, the students became concerned and decided to become involved in helping our nation with its problem of ecology on a local level. As a starter they wanted an ordinanced passed banning open fires in the City of Lowell.

In social studies classes they found out that although they were not able to vote, they were citizens with rights and could have their voices heard through a petition drive. They could indirectly become a part of our government at work.

Students, with the cooperation of many parents are now cir-culating petitions in Lowell, hoping to secure 200 signatures of registered voters. These signatures are necessary to initiate an ordinance banning open fires in Lowell.

If you are a registered voter in Lowell and would like your name on a petition, call 897-9822 leaving your name and address. A student will bring a petition to your home for your signature.

New Office Building Awaits First Tenants

First tenants will occupy offices May 15 in the new Frey Building, Union Bank's $5,000,000, eight-story office building located just north of its main office building on Ottawa Ave., N.W., in downtown Grand Rapids.

The new building, now 35 percent leased, has been named in memory of John E. Frey by the board of directors of Union Bank and Trust Company. John E. Frey organized the original bank in 1918 which was first known as the Morris Plan Industrial Bank and specialized in consumer and installment credit and savings accounts. A native of Grand Rapids, Mr. Frey died in 1962 at the age of 82.

The Union Bank and Trust Company building, with the Frey Building and adjoining areas, will comprise the Union Bank Plaza and will be the largest single privately-developed and owned complex in the original 40 acre urban renewal area.

The Frey Building, with 95,000 sq. ft. of leasable office space, is the first building in the downtown area in 40 years to be built solely for office use. The building's 270 parking spaces are in addition to the 210 other spaces now in the Plaza.

By mid-March, George S. Bera, leasing agent for Union Bank and Trust Company, will open in the Frey Building a model suite of offices for prospective tenants to visit. Offices will feature vinyl covered walls, and carpeting throughout. The building has been designed to provide the highest degree of sound-proof-ing available, both in the walls and ceilings.

The Union Bank Building and the Frey Building will be connected underground, and the two buildings will therefore be joined by underground passageway with the City, County and Justice Buildings in Vandenberg Center. Tenants in the Frey Building will have ready access to the service and restaurant fa cilities in the bank building

In addition to its undergound parking and space available in the ramp and ground level areas of the Union Bank Plaza, the Frey Building will provide transient parking space off Ionia Ave. on the East side of the building. Included in the complex will be a walkway between the two buildings connecting pedestiran traffic at Crescent Street, between Ionia and Ottawa Avenues.

Trinity Lutheran

Calls Assistant

Trinity Lutheran Church has decided to call an assistant pastor with special responsibility for youth ministry, Christian education and social ministry, it was announced by Dr. Raymond A. Heine, Pastor of the congregation. The decision was made at a special congregational meeting Wednesday, March 1, and was the result of the report of a long-range planning committee, which found that the congregation's membership and program have grown to the point where an additional clergyman on the staff is needed. The church council will now begin to im-social ministry program with a priority rating that is second only to the worship of our Lord and the teaching of His Word."

Trinity was instrumental in organizing the "Meals at Home" program, which is a community service in cooperation with Blodgett Hospital to deliver meals to the homes of persons re-

Two Lowell Wrestlers traveled to the State Tournament at Alma over the weekend; bringing home with them one second in State title.

Senior Dave Wisner's quest for a State title came to a peak when he took second in the M.H.S.A.A. State Wrestling tournament. Wisner is the second Lowell wrestler to win a position in the State tourney since Leo Taylor became champion five years ago. Last year three Arrow wrestlers traveled to State and one, Tom Rasch brought back a second in the 145-pound division.

Wisner's long road to the State finals has produced an outstanding record of 36 wins and four losses, pinning 22 times. Wisner had taken a third in the regionals held the week before at Lowell and his second place was quite a feat. In the first round Dave overwhelmed his opponent for a 3:19

Wisner's next match against Monte Poorman of Buchanan went better than planned. In the tourney with Buchanan earlier in the season Wisner was defeated but this time the tables were turned and Dave took a 4-1 win to reach the semi-finals. Wisner's next match proved even tougher. Wrestling against Dennis Souheaver of Avondale, Dave had to take a drawn out

The other Arrow to reach the State tourney was 98-pounder sophomore Gary Weimer.

Last year Wiemer wrestled J.V. but had seen limited varsity action. Wiemer took a second place in the regionals last week to qualify for State after taking two straight victories and then losing in the finals for a second. Weimer took his first win over Pat Walsh of Kalamazoo's last year, took first. A surprise in the team championship came when, in the finals, Sparta edged out Fremont by a half point for a second place behind Fenton with a top 511/2. Lowell tied Charlotte in

In that victory high point man was senior Chris Collins, hit-ting for 25 points, followed closely by junior, Dan Murphy with Central Montcalm held a slight height advantage over the Arrows and in the first period led almost continuously. Sophomore Rusty Steffens quickly learned to let attempted shots go inchallenged after having two fouls called on him. Central Montcalm's scrappy offense held the Arrows to a tie in the first period, mainly due to a mistake in Lowell's defense. Central was fast breaking and using long passes to a loose man for quick points. The Arrows second quarter put Central Montcalm in their place. Rusty Steffens began out jumping his opponents and

If anything besides Greenville's shooting defeated the ARrows, Arrows lost the ball 15 times. Chris Collins and Dan Murphy shot through the Yellow Jacket's defense, driving underneath. Lowell was behind only seven points at the end of the first quarter.

Greenville put the game away in the third period when Low-ell lacked teamwork but the fourth quarter was a different story. Collins made eight points in the final period before foul-ing out and Kris Kropf pitched in with five of his 11 game points while Steffens held his own on the rebounds.

USDA Orders Stores To End Cash Change

Effective today, food stores must issue credit slips or tokens to Food Stamp customers when the amount of change due to program participants does not exceed 49 cents, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service announce-

The stores will continue using unendorsed 50 cent coupons when the amount to be returned is 50 cents or more.

Previous Food Stamp regulations allowed authorized food stores to return up to 49 cents in cash change to recipients. This practice is no longer permitted because the Agricultural Appropriation Committee felt that giving change in cash threatened the success of the food aid program.

The credit slips will be good only in the stores which issue them and may be used to purchase eligible food items only.

Another immediate procedure change deals with payment by food stamp customers for deposits on re-usable bottle. Previously the payment could be made in food coupons. Now stores are no longer allowed to accept food coupons for the bottles.
