

Water Level Hearing Set

A hearing on Kent County Drain Commissioner Frank Bouma's request to lower the Thornapple River water level behind the Ada Dam during winter months to prevent ice jamming and flooding has been scheduled by Circuit Court Judge John H. VanderWal for 1:30 p.m. on October 26.

Bouma is seeking the court's permission to lower the water level up to two feet in winter when ice jamming at the dam could cause flooding of low-lying property.

Preliminary review of Bouma's request has drawn approval from several riverside residents, while others have complained.

One resident said part of her front yard flooded last year, and she has no objections to Bouma's plan. Another complained there'd be nothing but mud in her yard if the level was lowered.

One other resident added, "we're paying for that river (dam fees) and we want it up there. We're not paying for mud."

The outcome of Friday's hearing will determine if the water level will be lowered, or remain the same.

Hundreds Attend Open House

Interest in Lowell's new Middle School and the High School addition was reflected in the hundreds of people attending open house last Sunday.

Dedication ceremonies took place in both schools prior to the tours at each school.

Highlight of the High School dedication program was the unveiling of a portrait of former superintendent, Carl Hagen, in whose honor the portrait will hang in the new Media Center of the High School. Present for the ceremony were the late superintendent's wife, Beverly, daughter, Patricia, and brother, Eugene.

Beautiful weather combined to make it a perfect day for parents and other interested area residents to tour the grounds as well as the buildings. Many were impressed with the little lake and area north of the Middle School as well as the facilities and design of the buildings.

"It was never like this when I went to school," was expressed in a variety of ways, but Lowell can be justly proud of their new schools.

Ada Firemen Hosts For Annual Halloween Party

To be held in the Ada Township Hall, the firemen will treat the Halloween attired guests to cartoon movies at 6:30 p.m. A snack of cider, donuts and candy will follow.

The firemen cordially invited all the trick-or-treaters of the area to be with them on Halloween night.

County-Wide 'Community' Effort

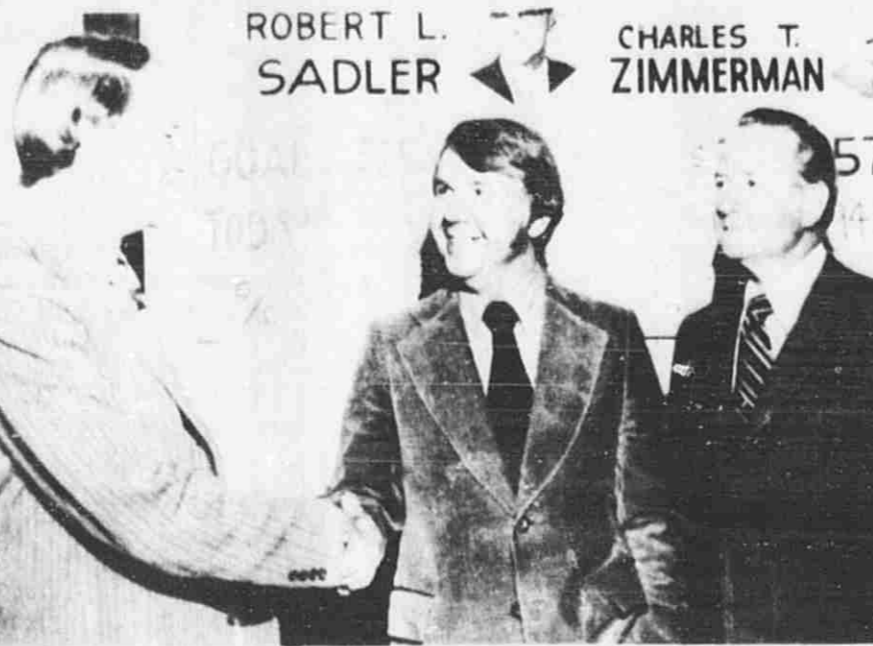

Lowell was one of eleven communities spotlighted in the 1973 United Fund campaign's second report meeting October 16.

Lowell Campaign Chairman Gordon Gould addressed the volunteers, urging them to think of the Kent County as a whole as their community, not just the particular area in which they reside.

Gould, a Lowell High school counselor and master of ceremonies for the Lowell Showboat, said the drive is truly a county-wide "community" effort because it results in agencies being able to provide services to residents throughout the county.

"We in all of Kent County are a community committed to helping each other. No man is an island," Gould said.

Time spent on volunteer work such as the United Fund can be viewed as "rent" paid to the community for what one has received from it, Gould said. "We have all taken much from our communities and now we're giving some of that back."

Lowell's Campaign Chairman, Gould, reports that the local United Fund campaign has raised $1,325 to date.

That total is 15 percent of the community's goal for 1973, Gould said. The figure was reported as of October 16, with three weeks remaining in the six-week campaign.

The over-all Kent County campaign has raised a total of $1.3 million, 43 percent of its $3 million goal.

NEW IMPERIAL HEAD . . .

Jack Jeakle has purchased an interest in Imperial Motors—Lowell, Inc., and has been named vice-president and general manager, according to George Weiss of Weiss Imperial Motors, Grand Rapids, who will remain president of the Lowell firm at 1450 West Main Street.

Prior to his association with Imperial of Lowell, Jeakle spent 19 years with Road Equipment, Inc.

SMALL OVER BIG . . .

The full and part-time employees at Eberhard's Warehouse Economy Mart on West Main Street have a 'good' reason to be mighty proud of their recent pledges given to the United Fund Campaign.

Coming up with a 95% pledge, the Lowell store outranked all other stores in the Eberhard chain.

MONUMENTS TIPPED OVER . . .

Seven upright grave monuments tipped over by vandals between October 5 and 8, at the Lowell Granite Company on East Main Street, has resulted in damages nearing the $1,400 mark.

Working on the case with firm owner, Jud Wiltink, the Lowell Police are investigating several leads.

LOWELL STATE SAVINGS BANK SAYS . . .

We are proud to announce that on the eve of October 24, 1973, we mailed to our area customers 477 Christmas Club checks totalling $70,621.05. This is a 20% increase over the dollar amount of checks mailed last year. We hope that the 1974 club, which begins November 1, 1973, will be even more successful. The new club will again pay 5% per annum, if completed, and can be opened for as little as 25¢ per week. It's a great way for you to teach your children systematic savings.

$70,621.05 represents a lot of buying power. Please consider keeping this money in our area by purchasing from the merchants in this area. Our City can prosper if each of us will contribute a little.

TO ENFORCE OFF-STREET PARKING . . .

Chief of Police Barry Emmons has announced that the City's off-street parking ordinances will be enforced on all completed streets and asks the cooperation of city residents by not parking in the street overnight.

Bikes, Tape Deck, Lamps Among Stolen Articles

Flooded with calls reporting missing bicycles, the Lowell Police Department has solved several cases, with three recent thefts remaining on the books as unsolved.

A 26" older boy's model bike with a banana seat, owned by a student at Lowell Middle School was reportedly taken October 1, while the student was in school.

Ted Feuerstein, the owner of a Schwinn 'Sting Ray' three-speed bike was taken October 4. The bike is valued at $105.

A green, five-speed, with purple forks, belonging to Steve Cook was reported missing from the Lowell Middle School on October 4.

Lamps Taken

Ralph Townsend of The House of Townsend on West Main Street reported the theft of two early-American lamps October 13.

Taken from the store without being paid for, the lamps came up missing between 12 noon and 1:30 p.m.

Townsend revealed to Lowell Police the lamps are valued at $109.95.

A tape deck installed in a car owned by James Geldersma of Lowell was reported as being stolen October 17, while the vehicle was parked in the high school parking lot.

The theft was discovered by Geldersma when school was dismissed. The unit is valued at $70.

District Governor Challenges Rotary

Paying his annual visit to the Lowell Rotary Club, Rotary District Governor Joe Brozak (center) is greeted by Rommie Moore, club secretary and Phil Schneider, president.

"America the Beautiful" was one of the songs used during the singing segment of the October 17 meeting of the Lowell Rotary Club.

Highlighting the meeting was an address by Rotary District Governor, Joe Brozak, of Wyoming, Mich. Mr. Brozak, now retired, was a teacher and coach at Hastings and administrator for the Wyoming Public Schools. Mrs. Brozak's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Kent, once ran a jewelry store in Lowell.

During his address, District Governor Brozak presented several challenges. He challenged the Lowell Rotary Club to achieve 100 percent attendance at a number of their meetings. There will be an award to the club with the most perfect attendance meetings.

Increasing membership was a second challenge given by Mr. Brozak. He stressed the need of having both younger and more mature (older) members in Rotary. The Lowell Club has 43 members.

Mr. Brozak complimented Lowell's program of having high school youth attend their meetings as Junior Rotarians, and of sending a high school senior each year to Rotary's Leadership Development Camp at Camp Emory.

The Rotary Group Study Exchange program was discussed by the speaker. This year, for the first time, Rotary will send a group of young businessmen to Denmark. Rotarians of Denmark will, in turn, send a group of young businessmen to America. The Rotary Scholarship Program to enable graduate students to study in a foreign country was also outlined by Brozak.

Concluding his address, Mr. Brozak emphasized that every member of Rotary is important, important to himself and to his community. Likewise every Rotary Club is important, important to the members and to the community.

Charles Cooley, of Grand Rapids, was a club guest.

ATTENDS SCIENTIFIC WORKSHOP

H. R. Myers, D.O. recently attended the 16th Annual Scientific Meeting and Workshop on Clinical Hypnosis of The American Society of Clinical Hypnosis held in Toronto, Ontario.

Meeting Set To Organize Ada Historical Society

Organization of an Ada historical society to be linked with plans for observance in Ada Township of the nation's bicentennial anniversary will be held at 7:30 p.m., October 30, in the Ada Township Hall for citizens interested in local history and heritage.

It was the consensus of the township board that such a group should be organized to work with other community groups such as senior citizens, volunteer firemen and the Ada Athletic Association in the planning of a bicentennial observance.

Working under an outline of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, Ada, will investigate participation along lines of three suggested themes, Heritage '76, Festival USA and Horizons '76.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Ask For Hearings

Two requests for preliminary hearings have been entered in the Kent District Court by two Ada men.

Thomas S. Wierenga, 17, of Ada, charged with receiving and concealing stolen property, demanded examination and was released on a personal recognizance bond. The stolen item is an emergency siren taken in July from a Cascade Township volunteer fireman's home.

The siren was recovered from another youth's car. Wierenga allegedly sold it to the other boy, charged earlier with possessing stolen property.

Terry L. Richards, 26, of Ada, who allegedly pointed a 12-gauge shotgun at Richard Moyer, owner of the Lena Lou Inn, 7815 E. Fulton Street, Ada, asked for a preliminary hearing on a charge of felonious assault. He was released on a personal recognizance bond.

Meat Labels . . . Shopping Should Become Easier With Standard Meat Names

The first part of the label, "beef," describes the species of meat (beef, pork, or lamb); the second designation, "rib" describes the part of the animal from which the cut was taken; the last part of the label, "eye steak," is the new, standardized retail name for that cut of meat.

The U. S. Cost of Living Council has endorsed standardized labeling and is urging the nation's largest stores to let the council know by November 1 when the stores plan to start using the system. David H. Stroud, president of the meat board, predicts that standard labels will be used in 80 percent of U. S. food stores within six to eight months and universally adopted within a year.

The National Livestock and Meat Board last week introduced a plan intended to take some of the mystery out of meat buying. The trade association's plan is directed at the fanciful but meaningless descriptive names that butchers sometimes use to describe various cuts of meat.

If supermarkets and meat retailers adopt the meat board's plan, which is voluntary, shoppers would no longer have to puzzle over cuts.

For example, under the new plan a rib eye steak—which has also been sold as Delmonico steak, Spencer steak, and Beauty steak—would be labeled "beef rib eye steak." That new label will tell you three things;

Committee Elated With Success of Fall Festival

The committee for the Fallsburg Fall Festival is elated with the success of the event of October 13 and 14.

The weekend was partially marred by a rainy Saturday morning and an unfortunate detour to the park. When the weather cleared in the afternoon and all during the beautiful autumn Sunday, the Arts & Crafts Show, the food concession and the Country Store were bustling and profitable scenes.

The chairman for the festival Joy Marie Whittemore, Pat Babcock, Connie Odell, Irma Richmond and Evelyn Briggs, along with Ferris Miller, Clynis Benson, Dr. Kyser, Gene Whittemore, Carl Kropf and the many others who graciously helped are to be commended for the fine job.

This was the first annual autumn event of this type. We will have a more thorough report and give proper credit to participants in the near future.

Everyone who contributed has the sincere gratitude of the board of the West Central Michigan Historical Society, sponsors of the show.

SHIPS O' BUSINESS

Shipments of canned apple sauce declined to 22,099,748 cases in the 11 months ended July 31, from 24,090,000 in the year-ago period. Stocks on August 1 were only 3,815,230 cases, compared with 7,398,264 a year earlier.

The engaged couple are making plans for a Spring wedding.

Dr. Donald Gerard Receives Fellowship In AAFP

Donald G. Gerard, M.D., from Lowell has been named a Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians.

The degree of Fellowship may be attained in either of two ways: successful completion of 600 or more hours of accredited continuing medical study, or achievement of diplomate status in the specialty of family medicine as a result of passing a certifying examination administered by the American Board of Family Practice.

Fellowship entitles the conferee to use the title, "Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians," or "FAAFP." The degree was conferred October 2 upon some 3,000 members of the Academy in conjunction with the AAFP's annual convention and scientific assembly in Denver, Colorado.

Jerry Ford - In Retrospect

No matter the personal political party persuasion, a certain amount of almost family pride was felt by many people in the naming of Gerald R. Ford as vice-president designate by President Nixon October 11, upon the resignation of Spiro Agnew.

Throwing his hat in the political ring for the first time in July 1948, Jerry Ford has been representing the people of the fifth district for 25 years.

Ford is being remembered these days by many people whose lives he has affected, as their representative in Congress, directly or indirectly.

Ed Laux, who operated the Lowell Construction Company for many years, keeps a framed telegram he received from Ford in 1956 informing Laux of the awarding of a half million dollar contract to the Lowell Construction Company.

Even Lowell's improved appearance might, in some measure, be attributed to Ford, for as Mayor Carlen Anderson said at a recent Council meeting after Ford's selection by President Nixon, "If any one person could be said to be significantly responsible for Lowell receiving federal money for the Storm Water-Sewer Separation project, it would be Jerry Ford."

The Ledger has received many calls from other persons who, in some way, Jerry Ford has helped or remembered down through the years in serving his constituency.

Oldsmobile has expanded its popular Cutlass line in 1974 with the introduction of the Cutlass Salon as a top-of-the-series line. Available in both two and four-door models, the Salon features reclining front contour seats covered with corduroy-like velour fabric or perforated vinyl and a handling package built around 15-inch GM specification steel-belted radial-ply tires.

Oldsmobile Adds New Series

Oldsmobile's 1974 model lineup includes a new Cutlass Salon series, a Ninety-Eight Regency coupe, Toronto Brougham and two new intermediate station wagons. Extensive design changes in the Delta 88 and Delta 88 Royale hardtop coupes and a long list of engineering advancements also are featured for 1974.

The Cutlass Salon, introduced in 1973 as an option on the Cutlass Supreme sedan, has become a full-fledged series with the addition of a coupe for 1974. Based on Oldsmobile's most popular body style, the Salon coupe is equipped with nylon velour-covered or perforated vinyl reclining front seats and a handling package built around 15-inch GM specification steel-belted radial-ply tires.

All intermediate models for 1974 feature new grilles, bumpers and rear end appearance including flush mounted taillights. The Cutlass colonnade hardtop coupe and sedan have a bold, horizontal-bar grille.

The intermediate station wagons are extended to the Cutlass Supreme series with two and three-seat models available. Both two and three-seat Vista Cruisiers continue to be available with the Vista Vent glass roof ventilator and vinyl woodgrain applique among the standard equipment items.

The new Ninety-Eight Regency coupe features nylon velour fabrics formerly available only on the Regency sedan and a 60/40 divided front seat with dual controls. The standard Ninety-Eight coupe has been discontinued. All Ninety-Eights have a new front appearance with large dual grilles mounted in the fiberglass front end panel. A deflectable stand-up hood ornament is standard.

Another new model formerly offered only as an option on the front-drive Toronto Brougham, Velour fabrics in five colors and white vinyl are available on the standard 60/40 front seats with dual controls. Center armrests front and rear also are standard.

Exterior changes to the Toronto series are confined to the front end with the addition of a horizontal-bar grille between the hood and bumper and elimination of the dual grilles in the bumper.

Exterior design changes for 1974 are most extensive in the Delta 88 and Delta 88 Royale hardtop coupes. The new upper design features more glass area with improved visibility.

The Custom Cruiser continues to be offered in four models with two and three-seat versions with or without vinyl woodgrain body side inserts available. On three-seat models, the rear seat faces forward and stows beneath the load floor. The 455-cubic-inch four-barrel engine is standard.

The compact Omega, introduced in 1973, receives new front end appearance changes including a bright plated die-cast grille with a hydraulic energy-absorbing bumper system front and rear replacing the rigid system used in 1973.

A full-length vinyl body side protective molding is available to enhance the side view of the 1974 Omega models.

All 1974 Oldsmobile models are equipped with the hydraulic energy-absorbing front and rear bumpers designed to meet the federal five-mile-per-hour barrier impact and pendulum tests. The Cutlass models and full-size Delta, Custom Cruiser and Ninety-Eight models feature swing-away grilles that move out of the way on minor impacts. Bumper rub strips are standard on all models, except Omega, where they are optional.

All Oldsmobiles also are equipped with the General Motors combined lap and shoulder belt restraint system including starter interlock. Belts must be fastened in both occupied driver and front-seat passenger positions before the car can be started with a persistent warning before the car can be started with a warning buzzer and flashing light on the instrument panel when the car is placed in drive. Full-size cars have a "polite-tone" warning beeper to replace the buzzer for a persistent but pleasant reminder to buckle up.

The shoulder belt is anchored with an inertia-reel in the roof that allows freedom of movement except during car deceleration when the belt is locked into position.

Pontiac, The Car You'll Be Seeing More Of In '74

GRAND PRIX... Grand Prix has a reputation for being a very special automobile. A car that has remained uncompromised... strictly first class. In the way it looks. Feels. In the way it moves.

Anyway you look at it, the 1974 Grand Prix's styling carries out Grand Prix's classic image. No settling for second best here.

The Wide-Track Pontiac ride is no compromise, either. Grand Prix is a magnificent road car.

GRAND VILLE... A lot of people will be very surprised to discover that the 1974 Grand Ville is a Pontiac.

That's understandable, really. Because, until now, there has never been a Pontiac so luxurious.

Grand Ville's distinctive new die-cast grille and special formal roofline start to hint at the luxury inside.

BONNEVILLE... Bonneville is a big comfortable car. But it's a very special big comfortable car. Because of the way it handles a road.

Bonneville is what Wide-Track is all about. The springs are computer selected. And the full-coil suspension is tuned.

So Bonneville rides very smoothly and still feels good in corners.

To the people who love great cars.

Letters to the Editor

I am a member of the Lowell High School Band and I am sick of not getting recognition. You always put in something about tennis, football, little kids going someplace, but never a word about the band. I know I am not the only person that feels like this, so here is a short account of what we did Friday evening:

After practicing and warming up at the high school we marched to Richards Park where we led the homecoming parade down Main Street and then to the football field. Our 80-piece band under the direction of Mr. Robert Rice marched for pre-game. At half-time we went out on the field and did a routine to one number, "Son of a Preacher Man." While the floats were going around the track we played "Love Song," "Yesterday," and "The Morning After." Then we marched off the field playing our school song, "Varsity." We also played "Varsity" when our team made both touchdowns.

Sincerely,
A High School Band Member

Dear Band Member:

If you feel so strongly that the band needs to have more recognition then I suggest you do something about it.

I'm not a mind reader, nor do I read a crystal ball to foresee what's in the future.

The band, like all of the other groups, should have a reporter—someone who can keep us informed. Our action stems from their reports.

The band reminds me of "the mouse who snuck off to grab a piece of cheese, telling no one until the trap sounded the alarm."
