Split Vote Gives Sewer Service To Lowell Township

A special meeting of the Planning Commission-Citizen's Advisory Committee for the City of Lowell, June 11, met with some opposition from several area residents and members of the commission itself, as it discussed sewer extension services into Lowell Township.

Committee Chairman William S. Doyle stated that the purpose of the meeting was to consider plans to be submitted by Lowell Township for the construction of sanitary sewers at the Key Height's Trailer Park on M-21 for connection to the City's system.

Lowell Township Supervisor Elmer Smith presented plans and stated that all the property for the existing trailer park and the proposed addition to the park was already properly zoned for mobile home park use. There are now 113 trailer sites, with development of about 200 in 1975, 276 in 1976, and approximately a total of 350 by a completion date in 1977. Smith also stated that the contract between the City of Lowell and Lowell Township for sewer service had been approved by the Township Board. Key Heights owner, Mr. Covington added that state approval has also been given.

James Topp, a resident adjacent to the trailer park, raised a question on recreation areas being included in the plans for development. He stated that as it is now there are no places designed for children in either the mobile home park or the Ea tgate development, and children are in the streets. He feels that the situation will be even more dangerous.

Wayne Spillane, also an area resident near the park, stated that the perimeter of the park is not maintained now, how will it be controlled with 350 units, and there will be a control of traffic on Cumberland Ave.

Supervisor Smith replied that there will be an exit road to Parnell Avenue built and maintained by the Kent County Road Commission in the near future.

Lowell City Manager Blaine Bacon then read an excerpt from the Sanitary Sewer Capacity Study that was done in 1971, as a joint effort by Key Heights, the township and the city. A discussion followed on several points of the study.

It was noted that Lowell and Vergennes Townships do not have Master Plans and cannot control growth patterns, and plans for acities needed for many services, such as police are the protection, and a known committed service are the sewer service. However, since the City's Master that shows growth patterns to the west of Lowell, it was felt that the City could handle the township's growth in that same general area, and that the proposed plan falls well below the density of population according to the study for the present time.

RAIN—Rain, go away, come again another day! This is a thought in most area residents' minds (especially the farmers) as plans are being made for annual vacations, gardeners prepare for late crops, and the kids are out of school. Lat's hope the extended forecast will change when summer officially begins at 2:38 p.m. on June 21.

Also discussed was the size of pipe that would be used. Key Heights had proposed a six inch pipe, to be paid for entirely by them, and Lowell Township had proposed an eight inch pipe to include future development, with the difference in size to be paid for by the Township. It was especially noted that there would be no cost of any kind to the City of Lowell, either for construction of the original project, or for maintenance after completion. All costs will be borne by the Township customers.

Discussion continued on rate charges for said service. The City would set all rate charges for the Township at the same rate as charged in the City, but they in turn could charge more to cover the cost of maintenance of the service.

Commissioner Harold Jefferies stated his opposition to allowing the build-up in this area without an environmental impact study. "Over six hundred dwellings in a small area of Key Heights and Eastgage, with no provision for all the facilities needed is poor planning and should be settled before extension of the sanitary sewer is permitted. The mere fact that the Township has put no limit on the number of trailer units allowed, shows they have no way of knowing what the final construction of the trailer park will be when complete. The Township is asking us (the Planning Commission) to approve their decision, and I feel their decision is wrong."

Mrs. Beverly Spillane asked to be put on the record as being against such a project, stating that since the development of lower class homes in the area, that area will not now be able to attract a higher class of homes.

By a five to three vote, the motion by Commissioner Bacon that the plans as submitted by Lowell Township be approved contingent upon the signing of the contract with Lowell Township on sewer service, and with the stipulation that the October, 1971, density study be adhered to, was approved.

Plan Ahead!

The Lowell Ledger staff will take their annual vacation June 29 through July 7.

All copy (ads, news stories, want ads) for the July 4 publication must be submitted prior to noon on June 26.

Seven Runaways Caught In Lowell

In the past two weeks, Lowell Police Department officers have apprehended seven runaways in Lowell.

Two were caught as they walked on South Hudson Street at 12:45 a.m. on June 7. They were running away from their homes in Grand Rapids, because they didn't want to go to summer school.

Two more runaways were apprehended Monday,
June 10, when they departed from the Honey Creek
Boy's Home

Sunday, June 17, three more boys were picked up, when they got cold and tired. The youths were from the St. John's home in Grand Rapids.

In Muskegon. . .

Miss Sue Stephenson, 1973 Miss Lowell Showboat, is in Muskegon this week taking part in the Miss Michigan Scholarship Pageant. Sue, daughter of Merrick and Virginia Stephenson, is one of twenty-eight local, pageant winners competing for the title.

Thursday, June 20, she will be in the evening gown and swimsuit competition. Friday, June 21, Sue presents her talent, a reading entitled "Eve." Saturday will be the finals where Miss Michigan will be crowned.

Miss Lowell Showboat is being sponsored by the Lowell Area Jaycees. It is their hope that many home town people will go to Muskegon's L.C. Walker Arena at 8 p.m. any of those nights to give her our support. This is another means of telling the people of Michigan about Lowell's Showboat.

Eager riders, young and old alike, await the start of Saturday's fund-raising Bike-A-Thon.

Riders Raise $2,500 For Showboat's Amphitheatre Fund

A large number of Lowell area residents combined exercise and community concern last Saturday, and came up with almost $2,500 for the Showboat Amphitheater project. They were riders in the Showboat Bike and Trike-A-Thons, an event staged to raise money for the $60,000 facility now under construction.

Each rider solicited a certain amount of money for each mile ridden from various sponsors. The total amount of money pledged depended upon the number of total miles ridden by each rider. The Bike-A-Thon started at the First United Methodist Church, and followed a five mile course through the city and outlying area. Those riders wishing to ride additional miles lapped the two Grand River bridges. Some of the participants went as many as 30 miles.

The Bike-A-Thon ended at the 4-H Fairgrounds, where refreshments were served, and the Trike-A-Thon was held. Area toddlers participated in this event, where they rode their tricycles around a special course at the fairgrounds. Trike-A-Thon entrants raised money by entry fee donation only, but again, each participant had several sponsors.

Showboat President Chuck Lippert was pleased with the results. "The large turnout of young and old at both events proves the concern for the Showboat project," said Lippert, who rode in the Bike-A-Thon with his wife, Jan. "We have hopes of making the Bike and Trike-A-Thons an annual event," continued Lippert, "with all proceeds going to Showboat projects."

Lippert thanked the entire project committee for their efforts, making special mention of the committee chairpersons, Bob and Patti Elzinga. Mrs. Elzinga, in turn, thanked Sgt. James Hutson and Reserve Sgt. Art Farley, of the Lowell Police for providing an escort for the group, to Dick McNeal and Jim Doyle for caliope music during the event, to Keyline Freight and State Savings Bank for donating the prizes, and to Thomet Chevrolet and Buick, Jackson Motors, ERB Lumber Co., Eberhards, Highland Hill Dairy, Rosie Drive Inn, Keiser's Kitchen, The Lowell Ledger, and the Buyer's Guide for donating various services or merchandica.

Mrs. Elzinga explained that the prizes for the events, a 10-speed bike for the Bike-A-Thon, and a tricycle for the Trike-A-Thon, will be given away at Lowell Day ceremonies at the new Amphitheater. The winners will be determined by the most money collected and turned in to Mrs. Elzinga at 827 N. Washington.

She said, "all money pledged is due by Saturday, June 22. Those who participated in the two events should collect the money pledged from their sponsors and mail or deliver it to her."

Cascade Township To Hire Planner

The Cascade Township Board has moved to meet citizen demands that a competent planner be engaged to guide future growth in the township.

The board first voted unanimously to hire a planner on motion of Trustee Marjorie J. Somerville. Then, on recommendation of Roland Cole, chairman of a subcommittee named to recommend a planner, the board voted to work with the Southfield firm of Vilican & Lehman in formulating a planning package for the township.

If the cost of the planning proposal meets funding available to the township, the board would consider a contract with the planner to work on a regular basis.

Cole said his committee interviewed seven planning consultants, including three from the Grand Rapids metropolitan area. He said his committee was unanimous in recommending Vilican & Lehman.

Board approval was given Manager Lee Patterson's recommendation for use of $20,578 in federal revenue sharing funds including $2,000 to purchase land for a second fire station, $1,000 for a second payment on the township's fast recreation center, a 55-acre tract, and $1,000 for the library.

Also included was $800 for the newly-organized Cascade Historical Association. The money will be used for photo reproduction, microfilming, township records and restoration of artifacts. Other expenditures would be $2,500 for planning, $2,500 for a utility study and $1,778 for recreational operating expenses.

The Showboat Caliope, played by Jim Doyle, joins in on the festivities.

The trike riders had their fun, tool This young peddler was eager to go a few more laps.

Letters to the Editor

Sheer disgust flowed through my veins last week when I read in the Above the Board article in your paper that the Board of Education accepted bids for summer elementary carpeting.

This has got to be the 'joke' of the week-our tax dollars being used to carpet these areas. Why? I would like to have the Board publicly reply, giving their sensible reasons for this action. Carpet cleaners are not more economical than soap and water and a little wax.

Perhaps it's time, we, the bill payers (taxpayers) ought to start voting on any expenditures over a set amount (one good vote would have been the purchase of the St. Mary's property). I'd rather see a kid learn to write his name and be able to read adequately than have a soft carpet under his feet. I'm sure the monies allotted to this project could and should be put to bet-

How, I hope the board can tell me, can carpeting help an elementary student learn any more. All it does is put envy in their heart because most students do not have such a luxury at home.

Besides, I'd rather spend the $3.00 for a throw rug, so my kids can take a 'ridiculous' daytime nap, a requirement of a student who enters the kindergarten, and goes to school only a half day.

Co-Workers Honor Mrs. Lila Thaler

"We never promised you a rose garden," but we'll give you one anyway!

This was the sentiment expressed at a luncheon last Thursday as nearly a hundred co-workers gathered to honor Lila Thaler, reading consultant for the Lowell Area Schools.

Mrs. Thaler, along with her husband, is retiring this year after teaching twenty-seven years, nineteen of which were in the Lowell system. Nearly all of these years were spent in first grade classrooms helping a total of over 600 children master the art of reading. Bob Titcombe, Kindergarten teacher at Alto, was a representative of those 600 first graders. He not only "learned to read" but is one of several former students who went on to become fellow teachers in Lowell and neighboring schools.

In recent years Mrs. Thaler joined the Reading Consultant staff serving Alto, Bushnell and Runciman elementary schools as well as St. Mary's and St. Patrick's parochial schools.

Principal Roger Buck delighted the luncheon guests ith some original verse and songs, followed by remarks by Principal Dirk Venema.

The "Rose Garden" quote referred to the presentation made by Mr. Venema on behalf of the group, a gift certificate for a start toward a rose garden. The Thalers have indicated an interest in gardening during their retirement, along with volunteer work and "maybe a little

Pioneers In Field Of Added Curriculum

Readin', 'Ritin.' and 'Rithmetic still hold the prime position in today's education but no longer are they the whole picture.

Lowell Middle School continues to pioneer in the field of added curriculum and has, in some instances, been under fire for it. There are those wno criticize, for example, what is known as "exploratory" periods in the new building and consider them a waste of time

Exploratory is mostly non-academic. Students can choose what they want to learn . . . games, the making of ceramic-like figures out of such unusual materials as bread dough, fishing or canoeing on the pond or, as illustrated here, pioneer construction. The purpose of exploratory is three-fold: it gives the student an insight into fields he might be interested in for possible future employment but might never, otherwise, be exposed to; it opens up new areas for constructive and satisfying leisure time activity, and it provides a tension-free physical break from "bookish"

Not the least of these reasons is the second-constructive leisure time activity-since time wasted is said to be time lost and statistics indicate that by the year 1990 the average individual will have 60 percent more leisure time due to a shorter work week. Sociologists are looking upon this as a real problem unless people are trained to use their leisure time wisely and Lowell Middle School is already dealing with it.

One of the most ambitious exploratory undertakings is the construction of a log cabin behind the Middle

Under the direction of science teacher, George Stegmier, sixth, seventh and eighth grade students have actually felled trees, stripped the bark and notched the ends to build what will be a 12 foot structure at the erected behind Lowell Middle School by sixth, seventh and eighth grade students under the supervision of Science Teacher George Stegmier. The students are not only building the cabin, but also cut down the trees and stripped the logs. It is well worth the time it takes to walk behind Middle School and look a at it. It's scheduled for completion next year.

The cabin, when completed, will have one room and a loft. Students also plan to make a corn cob mattress for the loft and at least one table and hand carved chairs for the main room

Present plans call for at least two oil-paper windows and a door to be cut in after the structure is chinked. The building will probably not be used except for such activities as soap-making and outdoor baking which will take place outside of the cabin. It will, however, be a monument to the proud satis-

Chuck Wiersma believes you should pick the candidates.

How's that for an old idea?

We thought political parties were supposed to represent people. But, last election, the Democrats handpicked their congressional candidate. And now, the Republicans are trying to do the same.

TRAINING AS PLASTERERS

About 800 jobless or underemployed workers, with priority for veterans, will be trained as plasterers and cement masons under a $850,000 on the job training contract between the Labor Department and the AFL-CO plasterers union.

Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan, in announcing the $849,098 one-year contract, said it would provide apprenticeship entry training for 630 jobless workers, with Vietnam-era veterans given priority, and 160 journeymen to be upgraded.

BITS O' BUSINESS

will continue to grow in the decade ahead, but at a slower rate than in the past 10 years. A decline in the number of new workers entering the labor force is cited as one of the reasons for the slacking off.

Ladder Accidents Can Be Prevented

Ladders in various shapes and sizes can be found in almost any home, business or factory. They seem to be the simple solution when you want to work in areas that are otherwise hard or impossible to reach.

But that simple solution may not be simple after all. The State Labor Department reports that the unsafe use of ladders in Michigan results in about 1,000 compensable job accidents a year. The department says workers should follow these safe practices when going up or down ladders: Hold on with both hands when going up or down. If material must be handled, use a rope. Always face the ladder when ascending or descend-

Never slide down a ladder. Be sure that your shoes are not greasy, muddy, or slippery before you climb.

Do not climb higher than the third rung from the top or straight or extension ladders or the second tread from the top on stepladders. For a free pamphlet on ladder safety write to the Michigan Department of Labor, Bureau of Safety and Regulation, Safety Education and Training Division, al Home Builders Association, opposing the inclusion of P.U.D. as a part of an ordinance. The article stated that the P.U.D. should be a supplementary section to the zoning ordinance.

A discussion followed on the study and time spent by the Planning Commission and City Planner, J. Paul Jones and Attorney, Walter Freihofer, and that the new ordinance can be amended if the need should arise. Some questions were raised on other areas to be covered in the ordinance revision, such as, flood plain, swimming pools and the Zoning Board of Appeals being abolished. Manager Bacon explained that it would neither help nor hinder any flood plain insurance that might be offered, and that the swimming pool section would not change at all, and that the Zoning Board would be abolished, and those appeals would then come before the City Planning Commission. Councilman Hall then stated that he felt that there had not been enough discussion by Council on the fine points of the ordinance, and MOVED that it be tabled until the next meeting. There was no action taken on the revision of the Zoning Ordinance No. 22. Manager Bacon then read the recommendation of the Planning Commission-Citizen's Advisory Committee to rezone a parcel of land on Alden Nash Avenue from AA-Agricultural, to D-I Industrial. IT WAS MOVED by Councilman Rogers that a Pub-

Sidewalk & Street Improvements

The City council Monday night approved the rebuilding of sidewalks removed on North Jefferson St. during last summer's street program. The council is also reviewing the best way to rebuild sidewalk on South Hudson Street from the C & O RR to Bowes Road. This sidewalk was damaged by installation of driveways over the old walk and may have to be rebuilt next to the curb.

The council also approved resurfacing portions of Gee Drive, James St., Grindle Drive and Division St.

May Contract Solid Waste Disposal

The city council has been considering contracting for pick-up of solid waste and disposal by private operators and received bids Monday from 9 area firms. Present cost to the city under their own operation has been some $36,000 per year; among the bids received and are now being tabulated were offers to do this for the city for as low as $27,500 per year. With rising labor and equipment costs the change to private operation is under serious consideration.

Appointments Made

In other action appointments for three year terms were made by the mayor; Planning Commission, Bill Jones, Duke Thomet; Light & Power Board, Dr. Orval McKay; Board of Review, Richard Schlernitzauer.
