City Explains Position On Fair Lease

The City of Lowell and the 4-H Fair Association have been unable to come to an agreement on the renewal of the Fair Association's lease that expired this year. The 4-H group have had the use of Recreation Park, in Lowell, for the past 40 years at no cost, except for services they have received from the city.

The problem of the renewal of the lease has brought the 4-H leaders to look for a new location for the annual fair. Lowell city officials have made several offers to meet the 4-H requirements, but none appears to be acceptable.

Analysis of Problems

The Problems appears to be as follows: The 4-H wants a 52 week a year lease for 10 years covering the entire Recreation Park area outside the football and baseball fields.

The 4-H wants to be able to construct new buildings in this area as they deem necessary.

The city has made the following proposals to the 4-H: The city has offered a 10 year lease for 52 weeks a year on the land the present buildings built by the 4-H occupy and for such future buildings or facilities the 4-H build as long as they are located according to a master plan for developing the park area.

The city has also agreed to a yearly lease for the entire grounds for the three or four week period needed to stage the annual fair.

City officials feel that the park should be primarily for the use of the citizens of the community and their needs should be considered first.

Control of the park should be in the hands of the city, and the park developed for year around use of the citizens. The city has discovered that because the park was under lease to the 4-H, they were unable to obtain any state or federal funding for improvements or acquisition of additional land.

No single group or organization can control the grounds and have exclusive use of the area for any period of time, under State and Federal regulations.

The city has made every effort to meet the needs of the 4-H, as long as their needs were compatible with the needs of the community. It appears that if the 4-H must have control of the grounds for 52 weeks a year when their fair is only a one week a year affair they will have to purchase property that will give them the control they would like.

Amway Charged With Illegally Fixing Prices

The Federal Trade Commission has accused Amway Corporation of Ada of illegally fixing prices and placing unfair selling restraints on its distributors.

The charges have been called 'unfounded' by Company officials who said they would ask the Commission to dismiss the complaint. A May 28 hearing in Washington has been scheduled.

The complaint charged that Amway's multi-level marketing plan falsely holds out to prospective participants the hope of making large sums of money through an unlimited chain of recruiting additional distributors. In truth, the FTC said, participants are not likely to profit from sales to other distributors because the area eventually becomes saturated and the recruitment collapses.

Amway reported gross sales of more than $230 million in 1974 and listed 200,000 distributors.

"Contrary to what the complaint says," Amway Chairman Jay VanAndel said, "prices are not fixed. Retail customers are not allocated, and advertising is not restricted except to the extent necessary to protect valuable trademarks and to insure compliance with FTC and governmental regulations."

The FTC issues a complaint when it has reason to believe that fair trade laws have been violated. This action simply marks the beginning of a formal proceeding which will include public hearings before final judgment is made by the commission.

Experimental Theatre To Stage 'Summertree' April 17, 18 And 19

Lowell High School's Experimental Theatre Class will present "Summertree" April 17, 18 and 19. The play is both a joyous expression of the good things in life and a powerful indictment of war.

Thursday, the 17th, is YFU Night, with all proceeds going to the Youth For Understanding students; also Junior High students only pay half price.

Friday is Parent's Night. Any student who comes with a parent gets in free when the parent pays. Price is one dollar all three nights. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Jaycee's May 10 Walkathon To Aid Burn Victims

Two-year-old Jeannie was playing in the kitchen while her mother cooked breakfast. As she turned from the stove to the table, little Jeannie, eager to help her mother cook, braced herself against the oven door and reached as high as she could. She grabbed the handle of a bubbling pot of cereal, pulling it off the stove and over on herself.

Jeannie was burned over 15 percent of her body on her face, chest, abdomen, back, arm, buttocks, forearm, hand, wrist, thigh and lower leg. Her one-month hospital stay cost her family nearly $4,000.

Jeannie's accident is "typical of the accidents suffered in the toddler age group. Yet it, and thousands of others like it, could have been prevented."

More than 70 percent of all burn accidents are preventable, however, year-after-year, more than 75,000 people are hospitalized from burns, and year-after-year, burns continue to be the nation's third leading cause of accidental death.

Some mothers are not aware of the hazards that lead to serious burn accidents... such is the case when Jeannie wanted to be mother's little helper.

This tragic episode and others like it have embedded a deep concern in the Lowell Area Jaycees, and as a result, the group will hold a walkathon "Footsteps For Burns" on Saturday, May 10.

The proceeds from the walk, will be turned over to the National Institute for Burn Medicine, dedicated to saving lives of burn victims and reducing the degree of disability and disfigurement. The goal of the NIBM is to make the best possible care a reality for all burn victims, not just the one victim in ten now lucky enough to receive it.

Sheffer is Chairman

The May 10 Jaycee Walkathon, under the general chairmanship of Don Sheffer, will begin and end at the Kent County 4-H Fairgrounds in Lowell.

According to Sheffer, registration begins at 7 a.m., with the walk, over a 25-mile route, to begin around 8 p.m. The walk will end at dark. There will be seven check points along the pre-planned course, with Jaycee Walk officials, police officers and safety/communication workers providing detailed supervision.

"If there is rain on May 10, the walk will still take place," Sheffer explained. "In case of high winds, hail, or tornado warnings, the walk will be held the following Saturday, May 17."

"Anyone wishing to enlist sponsors and join the walk can secure additional information on the May 10 walk by writing Footsteps For Burns, 805 East Main Street, Lowell, or call me, 897-8071," Sheffer added. "We invite everyone to join us for a mile or 25, for this worthy cause."

Film Available

A documentary film, "A Fighting Chance," about the burn problem, produced by the NIBM and narrated by George C. Scott is available for showing through the Lowell Area Jaycees.

"The film tells the story of the burn problems in the United States, and explains what needs to be done," Sheffer said.

"We've already shown it to several clubs and organizations, as well as some school classes," Sheffer revealed, "and would be glad to show it to any interested group in this area."

Arrangements for a film showing can be made by calling Mr. Sheffer at 897-8071.

Watch next week's Ledger for more detailed information on the May 10 Walkathon and the growing list of youngsters and adults who are joining in on the Footsteps For Burns.

Steelheads Spawning In Lowell

The chill days of April, when streams break the icy lock of winter, have become synonymous with steelhead fishing, when these silvery lake-run trout make their way up spawning streams.

This year, for the first time, the steelheads are swimming the waters of the Flat and Grand Rivers, mainly due to the new fish ladder constructed by the DNR on the Grand in Grand Rapids.

While many predicted the big fish would not migrate as far as Lowell to spawn, they have been proven wrong by local anglers who have reported successful catches in this area.

Steelhead fishing is open year-around on Lake Michigan's tributary waters, with a 10-inch size limit and five-fish bag limit until the regular season rolls around in May. Fishing is restricted to the hours of 5 a.m. to 7 p.m., and hooks must have a point-to-shank gap of no more than one-half inch.

Spawn sacks are the preferred bait on most steelhead streams, but some anglers do well with night crawlers. A few even make good catches on streamers flies and marshmallows, which work best when teased in front of spawning trout that are in the shallow riffles, building nests.

Whatever bait is used, it should be bounced along the bottom as naturally as possible.

On smaller streams, such as the Grand and Flat, you can often spot the big steelheads in shallow waters and work on one specific fish. Many of these spawners may ignore all offerings but usually some can be coaxed into striking. Early-morning fishing is best, before the fish get spooked by too many anglers.

Stout tackle, either fly or spinning is a must, since the angler may be slugging it out with a 10-to-12 lb. steelhead, sometimes at very close quarters, which leaves little room for finesse.

Rescue Unit Lifts Tractor Off Victim

Ernest Gould, 26, of Ionia, was taken to Butterworth Hospital Friday with an arm fracture, bruises and is under observation for a head injury all suffered when a tractor tipped over on him.

The accident occurred about 6:05 p.m. Friday when Gould was tearing down a barn on the Laux property at 1170 Grindie Drive, Lowell, and had just picked up a load of dirt with the front end scoop of the tractor, when the tractor hit a rock and flipped over.

The Lowell Police rescue unit used a Hurst tool to lift the tractor which landed right on top of him, but didn't crush him.

Gould apparently must have sunk into the soft ground and snow just enough so the full weight of the machine didn't get him.

Extraction and response time by the Rescue Unit, took less than 15 minutes.

Lowell angler Art Backstrom caught this 13-pound, 34-inch, steelhead last week on the Flat River, in the waters behind King Milling Company on Main Street. Reports have it that there are just as many spectators as there are anglers at the Main Street dam, as the big fish try to scale the dam's wall.

CELEBRATING HER 86TH

Mrs. Edna Johnson will celebrate her eight-sixth birthday on April 18, and she would enjoy hearing from her Lowell friends.

She now resides with her son, Ernest Tinney, and cards should be sent to 3750 Miller Road, Kalamazoo, Michigan 49001.

Lowell Lions Club Sponsors Emergency Medi-Card Program

The Lowell Lions Club is sponsoring a new program called "Emergency Medi-Card."

the event of an emergency, Emergency Medi-Card contains specific instructions to doctors or emergency medical personnel regarding an individual's particular chronic ailments or allergies, medication and dose schedules, and other current medical information.

Just exactly what is "Emergency Medi-Card"? Emergency Medi-Card is a composite medical information card. The card itself is copyrighted and the name has been registered with the U.S. Patent Office in Washington, D.C.

To be more specific... Emergency Medi-Card lists the individual's name, address, phone number, employer and vital information regarding hospitalization insurance, personal or family physician and social security number. It also lists the persons to be notified in

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

It was exceptionally nice this week to receive a brief subscription renewal note from our dear friend, Charles Lawyer...

It has additional provisions for emergency treatment, surgery and blood transfusions and an optional parental consent form for the cards to be carried by a dependent child.

If you were suddenly admitted to a hospital emergency room for any of hundreds of reasons, where would the emergency room doctor or personnel get this information, especially if you were unconscious...

It's been a few years since I was in school, and I had somehow assumed that in spite of everything one reads in the papers today about a few noisy students, most of them were mainly interested in getting an education and our schools were doing their best to give it to them.

Understandably I was quite surprised to read in a recent edition of the Michigan State University State News that MSU's Academic Council has tentatively approved a measure to make the ability to read and write a requirement to enter college!

This same article went on to relate that although the average scores of entering MSU students on the College Qualification Tests have been dropping over the past 15 years, the students' college grade point averages have increased due to a phenomenon referred to as "grade inflation."

Elsewhere in the same issue, there was an article by an assistant professor at MSU who explained how her teaching methods had changed over the years, and how she was now placing more emphasis on expression of thought and less on the mechanics of writing.

Amid all the complaints of overtaxing and the increase in the state income tax base, it was refreshing to learn that the average American taxpayer (wherever he may be) will pay taxes enough to pay the interest on the national debt for only about three seconds in the year 1976.

Due to numerous repeated requests our "Mystery Picture" series, dropped several months ago, will be back with new rules, etc., on May 1.

Forensics... An Art Of Speaking

Three firsts, one second and three thirds were won by the Forensics Class at Lowell Senior High School in District competition April 5 at Grand Rapids Christian.

Forensics consists of a variety of speech related areas for competition such as serious and humorous interpretation, story-telling, multiple reading, original oration, extempore speaking and radio broadcasting.

On the district level, the Lowell class taught by Priscilla Rogers, recorded the following finishes:

"On Friday, May 9, 7 p.m. a Forensics Awards Banquet will be held at the high school, Ms. Rogers said. Awards will be given, and the Forensics Team will present the program."

Invitations will be issued, and reservations must be made," she concluded. "It will be a 'bring a dish to pass' affair."

Girl's Groups To Entertain 'Dads'

The Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds of Lowell will entertain their fathers at a "Dad-Dinner" on Thursday.

The meal will be a potluck planned by each of the eleven groups participating. Table decorations carrying out a Bicentennial theme will also be arranged by the Blue Bird, Adventure, Discovery, and Horizon Club members.

Leaders will meet at the Coons' home at 9:30 a.m., Friday, May 2, to complete plans for the Council Fire, scheduled for May 15. Training will also be offered on the use of Indian symbolism in the Camp Fire program.

Members of all groups will be taking part in the Hike-a-thon on April 26 and bake sale on May 17.

Girl's Hike-A-Thon To Raise Camp Funds

Lowell area Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls will be participating in a hike-a-thon Saturday, April 26, to raise funds to send underprivileged girls to camp this summer.

Since this day is also "Keep America Beautiful Day," the girls will be picking up litter on their hike. The hike will be 5 miles long and will travel at a slow pace so even the youngest Blue Bird will be able to "give service" to her community.

Girls (or other interested persons) are to meet at the First United Methodist Church parking lot at 10 a.m. Bring a sack lunch and your own litter bags.

Arrow Track Team Opens 1975 Season

The Lowell Red Arrow track team will open its season this week with meets on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Last week's meet against Belding was postponed due to the weather, and will be run on May 1.

Tuesday's meet will pit the Red Arrow Trackers against the Coopersville Broncos. Thursday, Lowell will travel to Hastings for a meet at 4 p.m.

This year, Lowell is fielding a very young team, but not necessarily an inexperienced one. Several returning lettermen will be competing. Among them are Juniors, Brian Doyle, Bill Grummet, Dave Hendrix, Brian Odell, and Gary Ayres.

Numerous sophomores are returning, including Mike Dey, Kent Groenboom, Mark Thonet, Joe Callier, Kevin and Jim Doyle, Bill Heintzleman, Tom Mendez and Mark Stinchcomb.

The Arrows have several outstanding distance runners and will be relying heavily on them for their meet points. Two miles, Dey and Groenboom, are expected to excel, and will be helped by a newcomer to the track team, George Kilts.

Milers, Odell and Kent Holt should fair well, as should half-milers, Brian, Kevin and Jim Doyle. Lowell's numerous sprinters and hurdlers are young, composed mostly of freshmen and sophomores, with Heintzleman, Stinchcomb and Jim Perdaras leading the pack.

The Arrows should be strong in the field events, helped by Juniors Bill Grummet and Gary Ayres, throwing the shot and long jumping respectively. Mendez and Heintzleman will be pole vaulting. Jim Doyle, long jumping, Dave Frazer and Dave Hendrix putting the shot.

Again, Lowell will be competing against Hastings Thursday at Hastings at 4 p.m.

Peggy Roth Rides In MSU Horse Show

Peggy Roth of Lowell competed in the recent Block and Bridle Horse Show held at Michigan State University.

Miss Roth, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph G. Roth of 945 Marble Road, is majoring in veterinary medicine at MSU and is a 1972 graduate of Lowell High School. She rode an Appaloosa gelding to a fourth place in the hunt seat pleasure class and third place in western pleasure competition.

The 27th annual event featured competition among 95 MSU students from across the country. Riders participated in various events to test their horsemanship and also entertainment features such as roping goats.

An estimated 1,000 persons witnessed the two-day show held in MSU's Livestock Judging Pavilion. Proceeds will be used to finance club activities and sponsor future competition among livestock raisers on campus.

LHS Class of 1945 Plans 30th Reunion

Telephones have been ringing, typewriters clicking and meetings taking place. The 1945 graduates of Lowell High School are preparing a reunion May 17 at Deer Run Golf Club.

Classmates have received letters and are sending responses. A committee of seven has been working on planning details and has had good luck contacting everyone.

If a class member did not get a form letter and wish further information they can call Alice (Haddan) Bauer (897-7204) 369 Flat River Drive, Lowell 49351.

Others on the committee-in-charge are Marje (Dozema) Post, Mary (Rittenger) Lewis, Marge (White) Metternick, Marion (Kilgus) Price, Lois (Metternick) Winger, and Gladys (Johnson) Shade. The committee has enjoyed planning this and hopes everyone is looking forward to this reunion.

Davenport To Sponsor Second Secretarial Seminar

On Saturday, April 26, Davenport College will sponsor its second Secretarial Seminar to be held in the Academic Center from 8:45 till 2 p.m.

The first Seminar, held two years ago, was so successful that people had to be turned away.

Among sessions planned for local secretaries are a letter-writing clinic, word processing, and non-verbal communication. A luncheon, door prizes, entertainment, fashion show and business machine exhibit are also part of the package.

The cost is $8 and reservations must be made in advance by calling or writing Terry Berryman or Cy Glass at Davenport College, 451-3511.
