Ada Christian Reformed Church To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

The Ada Christian Reformed church will celebrate its 50th Anniversary at a special program to be held on Thursday, June 11, at 8 p. m.

Organized in March, 1909, this congregation worshipped for many years in the small white frame building on Rix St. In November, 1958 it occupied its new building on Bradfield St., west of the Ada Christian School. The present membership of the congregation is 305 individuals in 64 families.

The church has been served by seven ministers in its 50 years of ministry. These include Rev. M. M. Schanf (1911-1915), Rev. J. K. VanBaalen (1916-1920), Rev. H. Dekker (1921-1942), Rev. A. E. Rozendal (1942-1947), Rev. W. K. Reinsma (1948-1951), Rev. B. A. VanSomeren (1952-1955), and the present pastor, Rev. A. J. Verburg who came to the church in 1956.

At the program on June 11, several of the former ministers will be present to bring greetings. There will be various special numbers by the congregation. An anniversary booklet has been prepared, and a display of old photographs of church activities in former years is planned.

All friends and former members of the congregation are invited to attend.

A social hour will be held following the program.

Plan Annual Renovation Of Forest Hills Schools

Lyle DeArmond and Harold Chambers are setting up a schedule for the annual renovation and repair of all the school buildings and grounds in the Forest Hills School District.

There are some repairs that must be made in order to have school in the fall, while others may have to wait to see how far we can go with the money available.

Equipment in all schools will be gone over to see that it is in good repair.

Mrs. Wegusen Sells Studio; To Visit Central America

Mrs. Beatrice W. Wegusen, Honey Creek Rd., Ada, Mich., is flying to San Pedro Sula, Honduras, C. A. on June 2, for an extended stay. While there she will visit her brother, Robert Wedemeier, who has been living in Puerto Castilla for the past ten years.

Mrs. Wegusen has sold her Honey Creek Ceramic business and rented her house furnished to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wagner who will move here from Mt. Pleasant. Mr. Wagner will teach High School Spanish in Grand Rapids.

TO PURCHASE NEW BUSES

The Board of Education of the Forest Hills School District has authorized the purchase of four new 60 passenger busses for use next year.

Robert Mankoski Dies Of Crash Injuries

Robert J. Mankoski, 62, of 1241 Forest Hills Rd., S. E., died Friday night from injuries suffered Thursday noon when his pickup truck left the road and struck a tree on Cascade Rd., near Rexford Rd. S. E. He was unconscious when taken to Blodgett Memorial hospital and was unable to tell police how the accident occurred.

He had skull and rib fractures, internal injuries and multible lacerations. He was employed by the city as sexton of Fulton Street Cemetery.

He was a member of St. Adelbert's church and a veteran of World War I.

Besides his wife Sophie, he is survived by three sons, Raymond, Robert and Donald all of Grand Rapids; two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Jurewicz of Grand Rapids, and Mrs. Patricia Jones of Spring Lake; a sister, Mrs. John Randall; three brothers, Frank, Joseph, and Louis all of Grand Rapids, and 13 grandchildren.

Requiem funeral mass was offered at 10 a. m. on Tuesday at St. Adelbert's church, and burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Complete Plans For 4th of July Events

The events in the Cascade 4th of July celebration will begin at 12:30 p. m. with a parade, and continue on through the afternoon and evening.

After the parade, there will be a Canoe Race, a Water Safety demonstration, a demonstration of the new fire truck by the Firemen, a ball game at Lions Park, music at the gravel pit before the fireworks display, and a dance to end the days festivities.

It would be nice if neighborhoods would organize a little committee and make floats for the parade. It would add much to the color of the parade.

TYPING PROGRAM TO COMMENCE ON JUNE 8

The Personal Typing class will be offered to anyone interested, at the Forest Hills High School, beginning June 8, at 1 p. m., and continuing until 3 p. m. The class will be for three weeks, and the charge will be $20.00.

An important day in the brief but eventful history of the Forest Hills School District will be Monday, June 8, when a special proposition to increase the voted millage for operating to 5 mills for 5 years will be on the ballot and the election of two members of the board of education.

The election will be held in the Collins School, with the voting from 12 noon to 8 p. m. In the vote for special operating millage there has been a general cooperation throughout the district by the board of education, P. T. A., Citizens Committee, Boosters Club and other school organizations to support the special request for extra millage. All of the candidates have come out acknowledging the need for these extra funds.

Four Candidates for Board

In the race for the two offices to be elected to the board of education the incumbents, John Adrianse and R. Dale Charters are seeking re-election. Mrs. Robert D. Burkhead and John C. Hoekje have also filed their petitions as candidates for the board. The importance of well qualified members of the board cannot be underestimated and it is vital to the operation of the schools to turn out and vote on Monday.

Itemized Use for Extra Millage

1. Employ additional staff for art, music, physical education, audio-visual instruction, corrective reading, guidance and testing, especially in the elementary schools.
2. Increase teachers' salaries.
3. Provide the following materials and facilities:
   A. High School Library books at least to the extent required by the University of Michigan and the North Central Association.
   B. Dictionaries, supplementary readers, library books, music books, art and science supplies, etc. for each elementary school building.
   D. Athletic fields.
   E. Improved grounds around all buildings, including leveling, spreading gravel, installing limited hard surfaces, fences.
   F. Playground equipment to meet actual needs.
   G. Some other items such as making up for any deficit caused by failure of the State to provide its expected revenue.

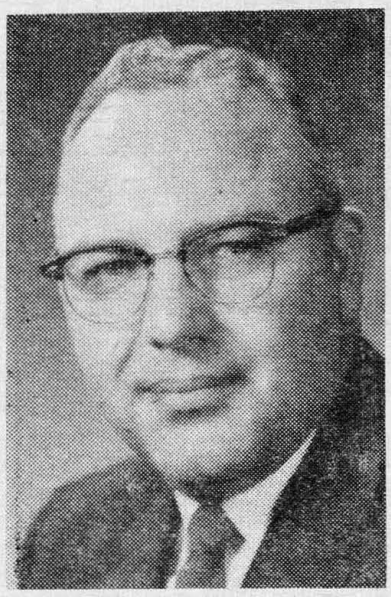
The cost of this improvement program is large in total, but, if spread over a number of years, it becomes reasonable and well within the community's ability to pay.

Hot Grease Accident

The Leroy VanWyk's of Thorncrest Ave., would like to thank their neighbors and friends for all their kindnesses at the time of the accident in their home recently.

Their 8 month old son pulled a fryer of hot grease over himself and his mother, and both were very badly burned, but are coming along nicely now.

Lear's, where Mr. VanWyk works supplied the family with their meals for a week, and neighbors helped in caring for the eight children. It is nice to know that Cascade residents are neighborly and considerate of anyone in trouble.



R. DALE CHARTERS

R. Dale Charters is also completing his first three-year term as a member of the Forest Hills District, previously president of the Cascade School Board. Mr. Charters graduated from South High School, attended Wayne University and Davenport Institute. Until recently he was with the Kelvinator Co., engineering department. He is now zone manager for Investors Diversified Services, Inc. He has been active in the Cascade Christian Church, now chairman of the Membership and Evangelism Committee. Mr. and Mrs. Charters reside at 7245 Dennison with their four children. They have been residents of the Cascade area for nine years.

JOHN ADRIANSE

John Adrianse, a native of the Ada community is completing three years on the Forest Hills School Board. He previously had been on the Ada School Board for nine years. Mr. Adrianse attended school in Ada and Central High in Grand Rapids. He is foreman with the Buob Plumbing Co. in Grand Rapids. He has been active in Boy Scouts and is now serving as chairman of the troop committee, vice-president of the board of the Ada Community Reformed Church. Mr. and Mrs. Adrianse live at 7641 Fase; he has two boys, Jim, a freshman at Hope College, and Kenneth, a junior at Lowell High School.

JOHN C. HOEKJE

Mr. Hoekje was born in 1923 and raised in Kalamazoo, Michigan, graduating from high school there. He attended Western Michigan University obtaining his B. S. Degree and Life Teaching Certificate (Secondary), and also did graduate work at the University of Michigan. Mr. Hoekje has taught school for seven years; 2 years as a classroom teacher, coach and athletic director at Comstock, Michigan; 3 years, physical education teacher, coach, East Grand Rapids; 1 year, guidance counselor and coach, Flint Central High School. He worked 4 years in life insurance and management work and has been with the Union Bank and Trust Co. for the past 5 years as officer in charge of personnel, also working in Trust Department. Mr. and Mrs. Hoekje live at 8375 Bailey Drive N. E., and have six children; three in school and one starting in the fall.

MRS. ROBERT D. BURKHEAD

Mrs. Helen Burkhead was born and raised in Grand Rapids, graduating from Central High School in 1936. She attended Rockford College, Rockford, Ill., two years and graduated from Western Michigan University in 1940 with a B. S. Degree. She taught school at Lexington School in Grand Rapids for one year. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burkhead live at 2561 Cascade Springs Drive, have four children; a son graduating from Lowell High School; a daughter in the ninth grade at Forest Hills; a son in the seventh grade; and a daughter in the first grade. They have lived in the Cascade area for the past five years. Mrs. Burkhead has been interested in education and has taken an active part in school organizations. She has assisted with school projects and recently has written a column on the schools for Suburban Life called "Looking In On Our Schools."

LANSING Observer

You are liable to be paying a state income tax after all.

By the time this column is in print, Republican leaders of the State Senate will have gone to the people with a new tax package. It may be the last offer in the series of compromises they have urged on Democrats in a determined effort to block income levies.

It will be made public at a time when the House of Representatives will be debating the income tax bills supported by Democrats.

What if Gov. Williams turns down this offer, as he has all others, in his stubborn insistance that the only answer to the state's financial crises is an income levy?

Somebody must yield.

The fiscal year ends June 30. After that date, there would not be one dollar appropriated to operate the government and its institutions.

The whole shooting-match would be out of business.

Republicans won't let that happen.

If Gov. Williams says of their new tax package "I won't buy," then the Senators must throw up the sponge and adopt the income tax so violently opposed by an overwhelming majority of the people of Michigan.

They will plead for exoneration from the people for what will amount to a double-cross.

But they cannot and will not let Michigan's government crumble into complete chaos.

Republicans in 1960 would make repeal of the new income tax their major issue. Polls by newspapers throughout the state make it obvious they would have a popular issue.

In their final attempt to compromise, the Republican Senators are offering the Governor at least three levies that should be acceptable under his "soak the rich" program.

They would amend the Business Activities Tax to relieve the burden on small business. This certainly is a desirable move. And they would increase the rate for the bigger corporations.

They would enact higher taxes on banks and insurance companies at rates recommended by Gov. Williams in his original program.

They would tax stock transactions, thus hitting directly at the citizens who are targets of the program designed by the Governor and the UAW.

In return, the Republican Senators ask only that Williams permit the people to meet the increased costs of government mainly through sales tax channels, instead of by a new income tax that would cost at least four million dollars a year to enforce and would require about 800 new employees.

Coupled with this package, Republicans are committed to rigid economy. They are readying a program that would lop $28 million dollars from the Governor's proposed budget.

The economy plan will create fiery protests from a dozen sources. But if the people want economy, the GOP leaders will show how it can be achieved.

All 22 Republican Senators have had a hand in the architecture of the new peace plan. Particularly active were the two floor leaders—Senators Lynn O. Francis, Midland, and Frank Beadle, St. Clair—as well as Senator Carlton H. Morris, Kalamazoo, and Senator Clyde H. Geerlings, Holland, chairman of the taxation committee.

Gov. Williams still wants a corporation income tax.

This levy might be acceptable to most large industires, in lieu of other taxes, except for one glaring danger.

This is the Democratic Party's pledge to make income taxes the main source of the state's revenue.

As government expands and Democrats demand spending increases year after year, rates would go up. A personal income tax would be added as a permanent fixture.

The threat of constantly increasing rates would become a menace preventing industry from expanding in Michigan.

And the Republican Party is as much interested as the Democratic Party in preserving jobs and creating new ones.

They demand an attractive business climate throughout the state, thus promoting full employment and prosperity for all.

Asparagus Season When Grass Grows Greenest

When "grass" grows the greenest, it is Michigan asparagus season. The "grass" is asparagus and it is eating-best when it is homegrown. Michigan asparagus comes into production about May 6, and the season lasts until the middle of June, according to Virginia Helt, Michigan State University Food Marketing Agent for Grand Rapids area.

If you plan to can or freeze asparagus, plan to do it at the peak of the asparagus season. What is "peak season"? That's when supplies are biggest, quality is best and—when supplies are biggest, that's when you usually get the most asparagus for the least money.

Sometimes you see a food ad that says, "fresh snapped asparagus." Is "snapped" asparagus any different from any other? Does "snapped" mean it is better? Answers to these questions are "yeas" and "probably." So now you want to know why.

Asparagus is harvested by snapping off the stalks, or cutting them off. When asparagus is snapped off, it "snaps" at a tender spot. This means—when you buy "snapped asparagus," the whole stalk is tender. You have nothing to throw away. Snapped asparagus simply needs washing and cooking.

If asparagus is harvested by cutting, the stalks are usually cut close to the ground—and cut asparagus stalks may have some white or light green color at the bottom. The white or light green part of the stalk is usually tough or woody—and you'll need to cut it off and throw it away. It is waste.

What does it add up to? Cost for a pound of snapped asparagus will, no doubt, be greater than the cost for a pound of cut asparagus. But when you compare the cost of an edible pound, you may find they are the same. For instance: If cut asparagus is 25 cents a pound, you can pay as much as 50 cents a pound for snapped asparagus. And you can still have the same amount of asparagus to eat! That is because snapped asparagus just doesn't have "throw away" pieces. You will do some comparing before you buy, won't you?

Keep Your Head After Accident

By Martha Johnson

REMEMBER these important rules if you're ever involved in a traffic mishap:

Notify police or highway patrol.

Don't panic. Keep calm. It will help set the pattern for others involved.

Give first aid to the injured. Don't move them.

If your car can be moved, drive it off the highway, but don't leave the scene.

Exchange name and address, license number and name of insurance company with the other driver.

Get names and addresses of witnesses.

Make notes of pertinent details that may be useful later.

Don't admit liability to anyone. Don't sign anything. Leave it to the legal authorities to decide who is at fault.

When released by the police, have your car towed to a garage if repairs are necessary.

Call your insurance company and give them the facts.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

And be ye kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.—(Ephesians 4:32.)

When we stop to think that God forgives us of our sins not once but many times, that He loves us despite our unworthiness, how is it possible that we can keep unkindness, hatred and resentment in our hearts?

Preview of Trip on "Dream Highway Of the Future" in Michigan

The driver brings his car to the entrance to tomorrow's super-highway. He selects the blue route to Detroit and sets the controls of his vehicle.

Electronics take over. This car of the future skims along, automatically controlled. It barely touches the surface of the highway because the weight of this futuristic vehicle is supported on a column of air.

The driver can read, play cards, or he may watch television or talk to business associates over the same set. Electronics does the work of controlling his car.

Fanciful thinking? Not at all says J. Carl McMonagle, assistant director of the Michigan State University Highway Traffic Safety Center.

"Every item in this prediction of future traffic," points out McMonagle, "is in the laboratory or on the designers' drawing boards today."

As proof that we are headed for greater safety and scientific developments in motor transportation and traffic control, McMonagle cited the new electronic communications system demonstrated recently at the General Motors Technical center in Warren, Michigan.

The new device that puts electronics and radio to work for highway safety and traffic control is called "Hy-Com." The new system allows a police officer to broadcast emergency and traffic control warnings to drivers in their cars.

Hy-Com utilizes the car's radio which will be turned on automatically if it is not operating at the time.

Hy-Com was given as an example of an important step forward in applying modern electronics to highway transportation. Its development forecasts other far reaching advances.

Among those predicted by McMonagle was a system of electronic control for the vehicle. Operated by a metalic strip in the pavement, such controls can do the driving for the operator of the vehicle.

When can we expect such miracles as electronic "drivers," "airborne" cars and colored routes?

Probably by 1980, perhaps sooner, McMonagle feels.

McMonagle's predictions were based on 25 years experience in the field of traffic. He was with the Michigan State Highway Department for 21 of these years, 15 of which he served as director of the traffic and planning division. He is also past national president of the Institute of Traffic Engineers.

"If someone would have been able to accurately picture today's traffic conditions and scientific developments 40 years ago, he would have been accused of fanciful daydreaming," McMonagle commented. "Yet such projections into the future are far more important than just idle speculation."

They help guide highway planners, designers and builders in constructing roads to meet future needs.

McMonagle pointed out that the billions being spent for the superhighways that will make up our new interstate system are bringing us the best highways we know how to construct today.

When electronic controls are completely developed and mass produced, many of these highways can be converted to the automatic system. Still others will be used to serve local traffic on trips where electronic control of the vehicle would not be feasible.

McMonagle emphasized that while the Michigan State University Highway Traffic Safety Center has not conducted research in vehicle design or electronic controls, Center staff members have studied highways and traffic with an eye to the future.

Recently completed research has developed data for use as a yardstick by highway planners in predicting future volumes on any facility.

"The only way we can keep our streets and highways from becoming obsolete before the concrete dries," McMonagle said, "is to continually look into the future.

"Sometimes it's entertaining, sometimes frightening. But unless we're able to come up with accurate estimates of what lies ahead no amount of scientific gadgets can keep our modern, mechanized transportation system out of a king-sized traffic snarl."

Take it easy when you sew, and don't push yourself. Clothing specialists at Michigan State University suggest you plan a definite time for sewing—uninterrupted, if possible. Set a time limit and stop before you get tired.

TV NEWS

NO SENSE OF HUMOR

Bob Hope, long noted for his seemingly limitless vitality, has been forced to curtail his activities since his illness. "He's supposed to slow down to a normal busyman's pace," Hope's agent and friend, Jimmy Sapphier said. Hope, while adjusting to his new schedule, looks back fondly on busier days. "I work hard, harder than most people, I guess, but I've always enjoyed it. It's always been fun. I said this to the doctor, you know, and he came up with a great line. He said, 'Yeah, but your blood vessels didn't know you were getting laughs.' "

NOT IN THE SCRIPT

The big network TV shows have no monopoly on laughter-provoking "goofs"—the embarrassing on-the-air incidents that amuse everyone but the victim. In a round-up of the more amusing fluffs on local programs, it is reported that the host of a children's show in Cleveland gave a ginger ale account quite an inaugural commercial. After extolling the product he took a large swig and went into a full minute of coughing and choking. Another soft-drink vendor, in Atlanta, was handing out his sponsor's beverage to the children in the studio audience. Said one youngster, loud and clear: "Take it away. I hate the stuff."

Nat'l Magazines Feature Michigan's Travel Attractions

Michigan's natural and manmade wonders are featured in two national magazines during April and May, with special emphasis on the state's vacation travel attractions.

The April issue of National Geographic Magazine and the May issue of Esquire highlight points of interest around the state, according to Robert J. Furlong, executive secretary of the Michigan Tourist Council.

National Geographic heralds Michigan's recreational, scenic and industrial advantages in a 53-page article, "New Era on the Great Lakes." The feature includes dramatic color photos of the Mackinac Bridge, Soo Locks, Isle Royale, industrial Detroit, Mackinac Island and other points of interest.

Esquire magazine editors have announced plans for a feature on the Mackinac Bridge and Michigan's northern vacation areas in the May issue of that publication. Emphasis will be on the Bridge area, the Upper peninsula and Mackinac Island.

"This nationwide publicity is certain to give a boost to our promotion of vacation travel in Michigan," Furlong said. "We have been pleased to cooperate with the editors of National Geographic and Esquire in the preparation of these timely and interesting features."

At the end of a dull evening you at least expect a kiss, but all you get is a rebuke.

Letter to Editor

Dear Sirs:

A copy of your May 7, 1959 issue, Volume 5, No. 7, is before me. As the masthead of the publication, you have simulated the trademark LIFE.

The trademark LIFE has been registered by Time Incorporated in the United States Patent Office. Your unauthorized simulation and use of that mark constitutes not only trademark infringement but also unfair trading upon and appropriation of the good will and reputation of LIFE Magazine.

This will constitute a formal demand that you forthwith cease and desist from any and all such use and simulation of the trademark LIFE. I suggest that you change your masthead so as to eliminate completely any similarity between the trademark LIFE and your use of the word "Life," and that the words "Suburban" and "Life" both appear in the same size type and in a type face other than plain block capital letters. If you so desire, I would be glad to examine any proposed new masthead you may design so as to avoid any possibility of further trademark infringement and unfair trading on your part.

I would appreciate your prompt assurances in this regard so that it will not be necessary for us to take any further formal legal proceedings.

Very truly yours,
E. Gabriel Perle

EDITORS NOTE:

We are distressed to find that we are infringing on LIFE magazine's good will and reputation and as you can see we have changed our flag to comply. We are aware that Suburban LIFE has grown from a handful of subscribers to what we feel is a comfortable representation of the Forest Hills residents, over 1300, and perhaps this really infringes on the giant of the magazine industry. At least we are gaining national recognization as a community weekly.

LOOKING IN ON OUR SCHOOLS

by Helen Burkhead

Recently I was privileged to hear Dr. Ernest Melby, distinguished Professor of Education at Michigan State University, speak to delegates at a White House Conference on Youth. His subject was "Education for Renewed Faith in Freedom." The article that follows will in part be taken from my recollections of that speech and supplemented by my own views on education.

If the term "education" were given serious and provocative thought surely no one reading this column would doubt its importance second to none. Education, used in a broad sense, includes all forms of training; that which comes from the home and family life, that which is given by the church or religious institution, and that which is taught by the school, be it public or private. Also it should be mentioned that there are other private forms of education such as dancing, music, art lessons, etc. but since this article is emphasizing public school education, that will not concern us here even though such education might be extremely valuable in certain individual cases.

Family life is the earliest type of education that affects a child. Psychologists tell us that attitudes and basic concepts of living are permanently formed by the time a child reaches five years of age. The things a baby observes and feels, the love he receives, the security he knows is there or not there, the way his parents react toward him and toward each other, make an indelible mark upon his personality, never to be erased. How important it is then, for young married couples to be well educated, well adjusted, self confident, and secure. Education never stops, since the young people who are now in our high schools and colleges will in a few years be parents vitally forming the pattern of life for a new generation.

Education at home cannot be over estimated in its importance. Basic concepts of honesty, cleanliness, sociability, and many many more things are formed in the home. The home used to be more of a center of education than it is today. In past generations girls received their training in cooking, sewing, and care of children from their mothers. Now, since the home often neglects this, the schools must supply education in homemaking, personal grooming, etc. Boys were taught to use tools, do carpentry and repairing by their fathers. At home they often developed skills that led to a vocation. Now the pressures of making a living are so great that the average father has insufficient time or knowledge to effectively train his sons, so the school has taken on the task to furnish shop, auto mechanics, drafting, and other specialized kinds of education. We increasingly expect our schools to do more and more, gradually replacing family responsibility. How sad this is, since by so doing a boy and his dad, and a girl and her mother have less and less to do together. Delinquency occurs most often in homes where parents have little in common with their children, and family communication has broken down.

Religious education, of necessity, must be handled privately through the church that each family elects to attend. Unfortunate indeed are the children who are deprived of belonging to a church—who cannot know the importance of religious education. In some cases public schools have gone as far as they can by teaching Bible History, Bible English, and Comparative Religions as elective subjects. But primarily the religious education of a family is its own responsibility and should be considered one of the most important forms of education a child can receive. The old practice of family prayers, Bible reading as a family group, and other forms of family participation in their religious life has also diminished in the modern home.

So now we come to the third major form of education, and for our purposes we will consider only public school education as contrasted to private or parochial. In America everything great and good can only come from the desires of the people, and it can only be made possible by a democratic equal sharing by each of us of the expense involved. There is no greater service performed for the people than education taught through the schools. I can think of nothing that surpasses the importance of public education in this respect.

The only answer to world problems and peace is education. The only answer to mental and physical health, delinquency and crime is education. The only answer to progress; social, scientific, medical, whatever it may be, is education. Why, then, are Americans reluctant to pay the price for something valuable? Why, then, do we hear people complain about school taxes when so much is done for so many people with comparatively little money?

Part of the answer is due to the continuous prosperity in America. We have so much and obtain it so easily compared to any other country in the world, that we are blinded to the real values in life. Success in this country is determined by the making of money—by the aquisition of material possessions. We are the richest people on earth and also the most wasteful. Our government is spending money on a prodigious scale. We can no longer comprehend the amount of spending that goes on every day—every time a rocket is launched, every time an airplane becomes obsolete in deference to a bigger and more expensive one.

Where are our moral and spiritual values? Where are our basic concepts of freedom and democracy? How have we let the simple good way of life become replaced by the chaotic race for more and more money—more and more possessions? Why are our mental institutions, houses of correction, and jails so overflowing? Our only hope lies in more and better education. A firm foundation of truth and a renewal of the real values of life, in the tradition that is America—this is what our children must receive.

We must re-evaluate our present conditions and raise our sights to again believe primarily in the dignity of man everywhere. There must be a turning point to renew faith in freedom. Only the educated can accomplish this. We seem to have lost our capacity to inspire freedom loving people around the globe. Are you familiar with the poem written at the base of the Statue of Liberty?

"Give me your tired, your poor,

Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,

The wretched refuse of your teaming shore;
Send these, the homeless, tempist-tossed to me.

I lift my lamp beside the golden door."

Once this was symbolic of our great country. Now our neighbors around the world and even we, ourselves, are beginning to doubt if we can any longer assure hope and freedom to the earth. Only an educated and inspired generation can restore the lamp of freedom. Light and enlightenment come only from knowledge—learning that can be made available to your children and mine with but little sacrifice for each of us. Think about this when you have the opportunity to vote for a millage raise on June 8. It may seem but a little thing in our small school district, but it is all part of the whole picture of progress and renewed emphasis on education in America.

Letters to Editor on School Vote

Dear Editor:

Because of the needs for the Forest Hills Public Schools, some of which are obvious and some that are not, I am prompted to write this letter in an attempt to clarify for your readers the urgencies for voting the extra millage for operating the Forest Hills Public Schools.

Among the less obvious needs is that of making every effort in the use of the monies available to accomplish the many things which our schools must have in order to become accredited by our North Central Accrediting Association.

A specific item of major concern to accomplish this accreditation is that of obtaining an adequate library for our high school.

A few weeks ago the Suburban Life did an excellent job on reporting the facts about the millage. I think, however, a reminder at this time is necessary on at least two counts. (1) That the millage money has not been ear-marked for specific purposes but has been kept free of these restrictions with the idea of making the best possible use of this money for the entire good of the school. This does allow a little more flexibility in administering these funds which is commendable. (2) At the same time it behooves us as voters to be sure that the board of education is made up of the most qualified people available in our district to assure us of the most efficient and wise use of these funds.

I recommend that the backgrounds and experiences of the various candidates for election to the board be examined very carefully and that each voter use his best judgment as to which of the candidates is most qualified to do this job.

Sincerely yours,
Mel C. Buschman, President
Forest Hills High School PTA

SUBURBAN LIFE
Lowell, Michigan
Dear Mr. Jefferies:

The electors of the Forest Hills School District are again being asked to support increased millage to apply against school operating costs.

There is no question but that this millage is needed for the purposes outlined by the Citizens' Committee. However, the question of increased millage should be considered only with the most serious thought relative to the school board membership.

Since it is the school board which determines how school money is to be expended, the members of this board must be carefully selected to make certain that the most effective use is made of the money provided.

In the coming election on June 8, 1959, the voters have a choice of candidates for this board. This is a healthy condition. In Mrs. Helen Burkhead and John Hoekje, the district is fortunate in having available for election to the school board people with sound backgrounds in education, both candidates having been trained as teachers and having worked in that profession.

As so many school boards do, Forest Hills can and should have the experience and viewpoint of a woman such as Mrs. Burkhead. Certainly Mr. Hoekje's experience as a teacher, coach, and personnel director will allow him to contribute greatly to a school board faced with setting up athletic programs and improving personnel policies.

We must remember that the Forest Hills School Board is responsible for spending over $500,000 per year for operating expenses alone. The bonded indebtedness is approximately $1,650,000 at the present time.

From the above it is apparent that the proper selection of the school board members is of the utmost importance if we are to obtain the educational standards which we desire at a price which we can afford.

Very truly yours,
C. T. Beall
