5-Alarm Fire Destroys Turkey House; Cascade, Lowell Fire Trucks Scorched

Fire started by lightning destroyed a Lowell Township poultry house Saturday morning and severely damaged a truck operated by one of the five fire departments dispatched to fight the blaze.

A 60 x 380-foot turkey house, owned by R. A. Wittenbach of 3476 Snow Ave. burned to the ground for a total loss only partially covered by insurance.

A truck from the Cascade Volunteer Fire Department, the first piece of fire-fighting equipment to reach the scene, bogged down in sand near the building and was damaged when smoldering wires touched off the wood structure into a mass of flames.

A pumper from the Lowell fire department, which answered the call along with Cascade, Ada, Vergennes and Alto fire-fighters, also was scorched, as were nearby trees and buildings.

Notes Smoldering Wires

Mrs. Wittenbach reported that she heard the "popping" sound made by the lightning as it struck at 7:45 a. m. Saturday, but nothing amiss was discovered until the smoldering wires which led to the blaze were first noticed at 8 a. m. by the Wittenbach's daughter, Mrs. Beth Ulrich, who lives with her husband and children in a trailer parked near the Wittenbach house.

The Cascade fire department was quickly called, and when the blaze threatened the Ulrich trailer and the nearby Wittenbach home, pleas for assistance were sent to the down in the soft, sandy ground surrounding the building.

Buttrick said that the driver's side of the truck, which was parked almost 60 feet from the building, was scorched and that hose, canvas, lights, gauges, and a rear tire on the vehicle were burned. He estimated the damage at $3,000.

Buttrick added that the vehicle is still usable but said that it has

ACCIDENT FOLLOWS FIRE

George B. Strain, 6650 Cascade Rd., S. E., a volunteer fireman with the Cascade Fire Department, was on his way to work Saturday morning, after having helped to fight the fire which blazed through the poultry house at the R. A. Wittenbach farm in Lowell Township, when a car smashed into the rear end of his automobile at the intersection of Cascade Rd. and the E. Beltline. Strain, the manager of a Grand Rapids laundry company, had stopped for a red light when the accident occurred shortly after 9 a. m. An estimated $700 damage was sustained by Strain's vehicle.

been driven to the factory in Lansing for repairs. The Lansing firm has loaned a demonstrator truck to Cascade while the damaged equipment is being replaced.

11,000 Turkeys Safe

The large turkey house consisted of a central building containing grain bins and the heating plant, with a wing off each side.

When the coop was in operation, the birds were fed and watered by automatic equipment. The eleven thousand turkeys normally housed in the building, however, had previously been turned out on the range.

Mrs. Wittenbach said Tuesday morning that the loss of the building and equipment will not immediately hamper the farm's turkey raising operations.

Parents Attention!

Parents! Please cooperate with your schools in the manner in which you bring or send money to school to cover book rental and fees. School opens Friday morning, September 8. Bring your fee money at this time.

Be sure to keep money for Student Insurance separate from all other. Keep Junior High monies separate from Senior High if you have students in both. Having the correct change will help tremendously.

These requests will be understood when it is realized that the schools are not equipped, primarily to handle money. However, it has to be done and every effort will be made to take care of the business in a proper manner. Every cent must be accounted for on behalf of the Board of Education.

New Freeway Opened Around Cascade; Boom Predicted, Rte. Numbers Altered

Michigan's freeway mileage has nearly doubled in less than two years, an official of the Michigan State Highway Department said at the opening of nearly eight miles of Interstate 96 Freeway around Cascade on August 30.

Chief Engineer John E. Meyer said Michigan will open its 600th mile of freeway "within a few weeks." Michigan now has 585 miles of freeway open to traffic.

"Less than two years ago, we completed our 300th mile of freeway just east of the highway we are opening today," Meyer said. "Michigan's freeway system will double again in length within another two years."

Meyer said Michigan's present accelerated road building program and all projects planned during the next five years are possible "only because highway user taxes are constitutionally earmarked for highway construction and maintenance."

"These funds—gasoline taxes and license plate fees—must continue to be earmarked for highway uses if we are to meet the demands of our expanding economy," Meyer said.

Scenic Route

Meyer added that the section of freeway opened Wednesday, which replaced the final mile of two-lane highway between Detroit and Grand Rapids, is not only a congestion-free route but includes one of the most beautiful sections of unspoiled scenery on the entire Detroit-to-Muskegon freeway.

The freeway cuts through the Thornapple River Valley near Cascade, a suburb of Grand Rapids, and the highway was designed to take advantage of the topographical features. The roadways are separated by as much as 900 feet for a distance of about a mile and have independent grades tailored to the terrain.

Economic Aspects

In remarks at a luncheon following the brief ribbon-cutting ceremony, Meyer said the State Highway Department paid contractors an estimated $21.5 million for work done in Kent county during 1960 and expects to pay out an estimated $30 million this year.

"The economic impact of our highway construction program has been felt in every segment of Kent county's rapidly-growing metropolitan area," Meyer said.

"The economic impact of this building effort will be felt for generations to come. Already, new business enterprises are being attracted in clusters along the great new thoroughfares being opened or improved throughout the state.

"Access to markets and raw materials through the easier movement of people and products is enlarging the potential for economic growth in Michigan to an impressive degree."

Route Number Changes

Highway Department officials said today that complete changes in route numbers will not be made until the Interstate 96 Freeway is completed around Grand Rapids.

In the meantime, Highway Department and Grand Rapids officials will meet Sept. 13 to discuss future highway numbering changes in the Grand Rapids area.

The Highway Department said the south belt line (28th St.) and West belt line (Wilson Ave.) will continue to be known as US-16 and M-50, and will carry through traffic around the city. Eventually, the number of this route will be changed to M-11.

In addition, the Highway Department said the US-16 and M-50 business routes will continue thru the city.

The only new numbering at this time will be a US-16 and M-50 business route designation on the new freeway between 28th St. and Cascade Rd., the Department said.

The highway is a good place to reflect on the day of judgment, but why speed up its arrival?

Bos Sisters Display Baton Trophies

Displaying the championship form which has earned them five trophies within the past month are baton twirlers Debra and Kendra Bos, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Don Bos, of 1576 Spaulding, S. E. The large trophy in the center was won by Kendra, right, who copped the title of International Baby Doll Princess at the International Baton Twirling Contest held in St. Louis, Michigan, on Saturday, August 26. Contestants from both the U. S. and Canada entered the event. The other trophies were won by the girls both at the St. Louis contest and the United Twirling Association Contest in Vicksburg, Michigan. Debra, 9, is a fourth grader in the Forest Hills School system, and Kendra, 5, began kindergarten this week. The girls receive baton twirling instruction from Bonnie DeLaat of Ada.

four other volunteer departments in the area.

Officers from the Kent County Sheriff's department arrived at the scene to direct the large crowd of onlookers who gathered to watch the destruction. Neighbors from nearby farms brought their tractors to aid in the removal of farm equipment from the path of the spreading flames.

$3,000 Damage to Truck

Assistant Fire Chief Grover Buttrick of the Cascade Volunteer Fire Department said that, when the Cascade truck arrived, wires were still only smoldering in the turkey house, but the building suddenly exploded into flame as fire-fighters were jumping off the vehicle to handle equipment. He said he tried to move the truck but that the wheels only spun and bogged

What Every Parent Should Know About Help With Homework

Homework—kind, amount, and frequency—often produces worry and tension for parents as well as children. More and more parents are asking anxious questions about homework: Is their child getting too much (or not enough) homework? Should they (or should they not) help them with their homework? Should they let him play the radio while he does his homework?

Parents have widely varying ideas about homework. Some are so enthusiastic that they criticize teachers for not assigning more homework in order to prepare their children for difficult college study schedules. Others feel their children do enough studying during the school day and should have time for sports, hobbies, and family activities in the evenings.

If you're like most parents; however, you favor homework, provided it's reasonable in amount, geared to your child's abilities, really teaches something, and is the type that doesn't upset the whole household.

The right kind of homework, according to the Michigan and National Education Associations, reinforces and extends your child's classroom activities. Homework benefits your child when it is based on a specific need—for example, his need to explore a subject more deeply or his need for additional practice in a certain area of learning. Homework also should involve projects that give classroom learning new breadth—additional reading in textbooks or other books on the same subject, working math problems to impress your child's mind principles he has learned in class, writing themes that require more time and concentration than the class period provides.

On the other hand, homework is bad when it is given as a punishment for infractions of discipline in the classroom, when the teacher does not have the time to check it, or when all children are required to do the same assignment.

Parents should provide a quiet atmosphere for evening study. The achievement of a quiet situation is a small modern house is not easy. A radio or television set, even with volume lowered, can be a distraction to your child. Younger brothers and sisters are often at their liveliest and noisiest during the early evening hours. Despite these difficulties, parents should make a serious effort to provide a quiet background for home study. Studying in a bedroom, with the door closed, is the solution in some families.

Parents should take a positive attitude toward homework. If you have criticisms of the kind or amount of homework your child is being assigned, take up your complaints with his teacher, principal, or guidance counselor. Do not complain to your child. Your spoken disapproval may lower his confidence in his teachers and weaken his desire to work seriously on his home assignments.

Parents should help very little with the actual work for the following reasons: if you help your child solve arithmetic problems, you may only confuse him, since you may be using different methods or approaches than those employed by his teacher; parents are so emotionally involved in their child's success or failure that they frequently make him nervous or tense when they try to help; when you do the lion's share of your child's homework assignment, the teacher is evaluating your work, not his, and has difficulty determining his strengths and weaknesses. You will also make your child dependent on you, rather than making him more mature and responsible. Don't forget, you won't be with him when he takes his exams.

Parents can help with assignments in the following ways: you can help your child select topics for themes, find books and magazines articles for research in various subjects, pronounce spelling words as he writes them, or listen as he checks his learning of a foreign language vocabulary list.

And finally, if you don't understand the school's homework policy, have a talk with your child's teacher or principal.

Immunization Programs, Hearing and Vision Tests Slated for County Schools

This year's vision and hearing screening tests and immunization programs for county schools have been announced by Dr. W. B. Prothro, director of the Kent County Health Department.

Immunization clinics are scheduled in all school areas during the school year.

The best protection against diphtheria, tetanus, polio, whooping cough and small-pox is immunization begun with infants and pre-school children and followed in three years with booster shots.

After these initial and booster immunizations, medical research shows that school-age children maintain their immunity by receiving booster injections every three to five years.

Each year the Health Department routinely offers boosters for the Kindergarten, 1st, 5th and 10th grades. Parents of children who are not in these grades and who have not had booster shots for a period of 5 years, may secure an Immunization Request Form from the child's teacher just prior to the time immunizations are given at the school.

Clinic Set at Ada

Infants and pre-school children will not be immunized at the school clinics. For such cases a Permanent Health Department immunization center has been located in Ada at the Ada Township Hall where, on the fourth Wednesday of every month between 9:30 and 11 a. m., shots will be given.

Vision screening will include all children in grades 1, 3, 5, 7, 9 and 11. If the number of students prohibits covering all those children, the upper grades will be dropped rather than specific schools. In the small county schools all the children are screened at two-year intervals.

Hearing screening will be conducted in grades 1, 3, 5, 7, and 9, in the larger schools, and at two-year intervals in the smaller schools.

Citizens' Advisory Committee to Hold First Fall Meeting on September 12

On Tuesday, September 12, at 8 p. m. at the Cascade School the 6th annual meeting of the Citizens' Advisory committee will be held.

The group was organized in July of 1956 by a group of residents in the newly consolidated area who are interested in the quality of education their children were to receive.

At the present time the committee is comprised of 36 representatives; three from each Elementary school and three from the High School.

The purpose of the Citizens' Advisory committee is to assist the Board of Education, the Administration and the teachers; to give the best mental, physical and social education to the children of our community; to promote the development of a new high school; to conduct their impartial studies regarding the education; all issues of the welfare of the children whenever necessary; to make the findings known to the citizens of the community; to the end that the best educational opportunities for our boys and girls will be promoted.

The election for the coming year will be held, and nominations from the floor will be taken.

The regular meeting of the committee is held the first Tuesday of each month. Each meeting is open to the public and you are urged to attend.

The following schools do not have the required number of representatives: Cascade, Knapp, Martin, and Murphy. Anyone interested in becoming a member can write to Mrs. Ferris Post, 4823 Luxemburg S. E., Grand Rapids 6, Michigan.

Patricia Kozminski Becomes Bride of Mr. Maksymowski

Miss Patricia Ann Kozminski's marriage to Gerald V. Maksymowski took place Saturday at 10 a. m. in St. Adelbert's Church, Msgr. John Maksymowski officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Kozminski, Fifth St., and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent H. Maksymowski, Berger Dr. Cascade.

For her wedding the former Miss Kozminski chose a chapel length gown of silk organza styled with fitted bodice, short sleeves and scalloped neckline. Her bouffant veil of French illusion was held by a princess crown of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade arrangement of white gladiolus.

Miss Carmelita M. Kozminski was her sister's honor attendant. The Misses Sharon and Marilyn Kozminski, cousins of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. Gowns of royal blue organza, styled with street-length bouffant skirts were worn by the attendants. They wore matching bows in their hair. The maid of honor carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations tipped with royal blue and the bridesmaids' bouquets were colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

Ronald Wozniak assisted as best man. Seating the guests were Daniel Kozminski and Herman VanVieren.

At the wedding breakfast held in the home of an aunt and uncle of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Kozminski, Carpenter Ave., and at the evening reception held in Mister Bill's Dinner House, Mr. and Mrs. Herman VanVieren acted as master and mistress of ceremonies.

Back To School

Vacation is over. The children are back to school. That means study and work for the children, and more peace and quiet for mother at home. Life becomes a little more regular and normal for all of us. We try to impress our children with the importance of going to school and studying to prepare themselves for life. I wonder if we adults recognize the importance of applying ourself to the "school of life". Are we learning the lessons God is teaching us every day? Is the meaning of life becoming more clear? To teach us these things, God has given us His textbook, the Bible. Be sure and study it faithfully. The first lesson it teaches is our need of Jesus as our Savior.

THE Picnic Basket

By Barbara Ballast

The summer is drawing to a close and so is the picnic season. If you have enjoyed reading this column and using the various recipes we have featured this summer, would you kindly let me know in a letter addressed to Barbara Ballast, 3855 Burton S. E., Grand Rapids 6, Michigan? Also in this letter I would urge you our readers, to tell us if you would like to have this type of a column continued the year around. If you do, please send in your favorite recipe, address and telephone number.

Before I give you the recipe for this week, I found this poem concerning the American housewife:

LEFTOVERS

A little too little to keep,
A little too much to dump,
And nothing to do but eat it,
That makes the housewife plump!

ODDS AND ENDS COOKIES

1 cup of fat or oil
1 cup of brown sugar
1 cup of white sugar
2 eggs
2 cups of flour
1 teaspoon of vanilla
½ teaspoon of soda
1 teaspoon of baking powder
1½ cups of uncooked oats
1 cup of dry cereal (corn flakes or rice crispies)
1 cup of nuts or coconut

Sift flour three times before measuring. Then sift with soda and baking powder. Cream fat and sugar, then add eggs and beat. Add flour, oats, dry cereal, nuts and-or coconut.

Please write us, won't you?

Shrimp Listed As Plentiful

Large cold storage holdings and big catches of shrimp places this delicacy on the United States Department of Agriculture Plentiful Foods List, says Virginia Helt, Michigan State University Food Marketing Agent for Grand Rapids area.

Shrimp are customarily sold according to size or grade. This is based on the number of "heads-off" shrimp to the pound. The count or number designation may also be described by such general terms as jumbo, large, medium and small.

The largest size or grade runs 15 or less shrimp to the pound while the smallest suze runs 60 or more to the pound.

Jumbo or the large shrimp generally cost the most, but take less time to peel and devein. On the other hand, small shrimp cost less but take longer to prepare. Both have the same fine flavor and food value.

If time is no factor, homemakers can save by using the smaller sizes.

The high rate of traffic mortality is due to the low rate of driver morality.

Scouts Work on God & Country Award

Additional land purchased by the Cascade Christian Church for the building site of its new sanctuary has been put to good use this summer by nine Boy Scouts working on their God and Country awards. Displaying the vegetables that were planted, cultivated and are being sold by the organization are Michael Fritsch, David Cope and Jimmy Woodall.

To date, over sixty dollars in profits have been earned by these young men, who, in turn, will turn all money over to local church projects and a missionary venture as well. This garden is but a small part of the total God and Country Award program which Cascade Christian Church Scouts hope to receive next February.

Bible memory work, maps of church colleges, mission stations and benevolent institutions, regular attendance at church services, Sunday School, and youth groups, systematic giving, studies in church doctrine are all a part of the work that must be done for this coveted award in Scouting.

In addition, each of the Cascade Scouts is giving one hundred hours of volunteer labor at the church. All the lawn work and much of the janitorial and secretarial work at Cascade church these past months has been done by the Boy Scouts.

Boys working on the God and Country Award at the Cascade Church include the following: John Banta, Donald Taylor, Michael Fritsch, Sybrant Dykhouse, Jr., Charles Cribley, David Cope, Jas. Woodall, Cary Cartmill and Lyle Dykhuizen, Jr.
