Ada taxpayers parade to appeal board

Several hundred Ada Township property owners sat in line for up to 5 hours last Wednesday and Thursday to have their new assessments explained by representatives of the Doane Appraisal Service.

The line formed early on Wednesday, several times there were as many as 33 waiting. Many just wanted to know how the new figures were arrived at. Others who had enjoyed lower than average appraisals over the past years were shocked at the new figures.

There has been some talk by a few citizens of forming a committee to appeal their new appraisals but on the average after talking with the professional appraisers the property owners have accepted the new figures.

The appraisers explained their methods of appraising property and how values were set by comparison to sales in various areas. A few mistakes were adjusted but in the main, a fair accurate valuation of the township has been made, officials say.

Object.... Success

I am a retired policeman after more than 40 years of service to my city. I learned many things in these years of dealing with the public and especially the teenagers. I am very glad that I had the opportunity to talk with and advise many of these young boys and girls, and to encourage education to many who were on the road down. Most boys and girls, I believe, go wrong because of the lack of education. The youths who are interested in making the world a better place to live in through their every day efforts, neither have time to get into trouble, nor do they desire this way of life.

Those who think they can set the world on fire by breaking the law and getting into trouble are indeed insecure and unhappy individuals. These are the young people who end up in jail because they are always running away from something, e. g. themselves, tomorrow or honest work. A "successful" criminal thinks he has outwitted the law. There has never been a successful criminal because he not only suffers emotional problems and a miserable existence but he also suffers spiritually.

Self respect and the respect of your fellow man is one key to the right door of life. Our state laws are patterned on the laws of God. Insure yourselves against unhappiness by living in accordance to the rules set by those who govern us.

There are a few who laugh and sometimes scorn at what people refer to as "the cop." Today, however, there are many interesting specialized fields opened to the educated: crime investigation work, scientific research in crime and various types of challenging jobs of keeping peace and order in our society.

Yes, I am happy to have been associated with the Police Department. There is not much thanks given out, but a lot of self satisfaction in trying to start the young people of today on the right road of life. It is good to hear someone say that if it hadn't been for your advice and understanding, I wouldn't be where I am today.

Keep the education wave going and the crime wave will dissipate.

Sincerely yours, W. O. S.

Gerald R. Ford, our dedicated and talented 5th District Congressman has graciously taken time from a very busy schedule to honor us with a letter which will appear next week.

Please accept the challenge we pose of writing to us in hopes of making ours a better society for all. Write to Object Success, Box 128, Lowell, Michigan.

Mr. VanVolkenburg is survived by a niece, Mrs. Doris Savers of Arcadia, California; and a nephew, Fred Carr of Cascade.

Variety Show is March 19

Don't forget the Annual Variety Show, with its World's Fair theme, will start March 19th and continue through the 21st.

The show will start at 8 p. m. each evening and there will be a matinee on Saturday. Tickets are $1 for adults and 75c for students.

Crews are busy working on props, adding the final touches, and working out the final details. The acts are busy rehearsing, working on costume details, etc.

The results of all this work can be seen next week, so plan on attending. See you there!

Superstitious fish fry is Friday

The members of the Order of the Eastern Star of Ada put all their superstitions aside in the planning of a fish supper which will be held Friday the 13th.

Serving of the Superstitious Fish supper will be from 5 to 8 p. m. in the Masonic Temple in Ada, at the corner of Bronson and Main Streets.

This supper is open to the public, if superstition will let you enjoy this deliciously planned and cooked meal.

Take a walk for winter sag

Are you suffering from mid-winter sag?

This is a common malady about this time of year when most people are beginning to tire from winter's icy blasts and "inconvenient" snowfalls and start "hanging on" for the arrival of spring.

Symptoms of winter sag include finding it more difficult each morning to drag yourself out of bed and get going for the day's work ahead. The torture of facing the crisp, cold morning air seems to increase each morning. And your spirits parallel the kind of day it is—they sink when the days are dark and gloomy and rise in anticipation of warmer, brighter days ahead when the sun breaks through.

If you're a victim of winter sag and would like to pull yourself out of the doldrums which strike at this time of year, you may find this prescription, offered by your City-County Health Officer, Dr. W. B. Prothro, quite helpful. A lot of people have.

"Get out of the house or out of the office once or twice a day and take a brisk walk. Even if it's only for a block or two, you'll be surprised at the almost instant effect it will have. You'll start feeling better and start regaining immediately the pep and zest for living you noticed you were losing lately. The winter sag should disappear almost overnight."

Even though many different forms of exercise have been developed over the years, walking is still one of the best, according to Dr. Prothro. He recommends taking some deep breaths during the jaunt to fill your lungs with the crisp, healthy fresh air. Swing your arms and really loosen up. Before long, you'll be feeling so much better that even though you may be pushing 60 or 70, you may almost be tempted to break into a skip along the route like you used to do on the way home from school during those happy days of childhood.

If you give in to winter sag, like most other maladies it will get worse.

If you act now and decide to do something about it, you can literally walk right away from winter sag. And spring will arrive a lot sooner than you expected, Dr. Prothro claims.

TRAFFIC TOUCH-UPS

Halls, doorways and heavy-traffic areas of your wood floors should receive an extra coat of wax occasionally to retain a matching shine to the rest of the floor.

Band to compete at Hudsonville

The Senior High Band will journey to Hudsonville on Saturday, March 14, to compete in the district No. 10 Band Festival, which will be hosted by the Hudsonville schools.

Due to the size of our school enrollment, the band will be competing in the class "A" division for the first time in our school history. The band will be judged on three concert numbers by three separate judges. They will then be taken to the sight-reading room where they will sight-read two numbers.

They will be allowed five minutes to discuss the two numbers with their band director and then will be judged on the performance by one judge. The four judges' rating will be averaged for the final rating.

Bands which receive a division I rating will then compete in the state festival to be held in Lansing on April 25th.

Centennial theme is selected

"Open Doors—Open Hearts—Open Minds—100 Years in Christ" is to be the centennial theme of Cascade Christian Church throughout its centennial observances in the 1964-65 church year. Out of over fifty themes and slogans offered to the centennial committee, this was the final choice of the committee and congregation. This winning theme was presented in competition by the John Hamer family, 6460 Burton St.; and best described the philosophy and policies of the Cascade Church, to their way of thinking.

Plans for the centennial are moving rapidly forward under the guidance of the centennial committee (Fay Johnson, chairman) and the centennial history committee (Mrs. Roger Wykes, jr., chairman).

The first big event of the centennial year will take place Sunday, July 5, 1964, at which time Fay Wing of Woodland, Michigan will be named pastor emeritus of the church. Mr. Wing entered the Christian ministry from the Cascade Church over seventy years. He and his brother, Jay (both 89 years of age) are Michigan's oldest living twins. Throughout his 100 years of service to Christ and community, the Cascade Church has only honored two other ministers with the title "pastor emeritus." They were Dr. J. Frank Green and the late Lester Doerr.

The original church charter of the Cascade Church included but 16 members. Today's congregation numbers over 400 members, and the congregation is looking forward to the erection of a new church sanctuary during the centennial year to house more adequately its fast-growing church membership. The historic white frame church, presently used by the church body, was built in 1880. Prior to that time, the congregation was housed in homes and an old school house, at the corner of Kraft Ave. and 28th St.

S. Government, and is a member of the Board of Preachers of Harvard University. The Park Church Chancel Choir, Benjamin W. Lehn, director, will furnish the music for this service. ## Cafeteria manager says, 'What's a school lunch?'

In the primary grades it's a threat: "You can't go out to play until you eat."

In the elementary grades it's a contest: "My plate's clean first; can I have my seconds now?"

In high school it's a tool for asserting new found sophistication: "I can't eat this slop!"

In the faculty room it's a wail: "If I eat this I'll get fat."

In the kitchen it's a worry: "Will they like it today?"

To the manager it's a challenge: "How can I make it on this budget?"

To the Federal Government it's a Type A Meal: 1 glass of milk, 2-oz. of Protein Food, 1 1/2 cup of Fruit or Vegetable, Bread and Butter.

To the busy mother it's a blessing.

HELEN WHITE, Cafeteria Manager Cedar Springs High School

Year books blossom in secondary schools

America's "school spirit" is big business. Students' enthusiasm for their schools not only helps win championships in sports and debates but will account this year for sales of year-books valued at more than $100 million, leading publishers report. To help student editors produce snappier and more attractive yearbooks one of the larger publishers each year sponsors more than 50 conferences. The firm also produces an "edi-kit" to show editors how to put year books together and boost their circulation. Strangely enough, editors seem to face their toughest circulation-building job at the big universities. Student populations at these institutions are so large, publishers report, that the average student regards the year-book as an album of people he "never saw before." The University of Minnesota, with an enrollment of about 30,000 students, reports a circulation of only 2,100 for its yearbook. Publishers note, however, that yearbooks are becoming increasingly popular in the secondary schools and even in non-school circles. One company reports, for example, that it has received yearbook orders from about 200 junior high schools as compared with less than 20 three years ago.

Glaucoma tests save sight

The sight of at least 55 people who were destined for blindness was saved last year in Michigan by public health glaucoma testing programs conducted by the Michigan Department of Health and local health departments. In the screening programs, more than 4,700 people were tested by an extremely sensitive instrument called a tonometer which measures the amount of pressure within the eyeball. Persons who exhibited an abnormal amount of pressure were referred to their personal physician or ophthalmologist for further testing. "Glaucoma is a disease that literally squeezes the sight out of your eyes," said Dr. John A. Cowan, director of the health department's Division of Adult Health. Gradually increasing pressure of the fluid in the eyeball presses against the nerves in the retina. At first, the increased pressure damages only the nerve fibers which enable one to see objects on either side, a condition known as "gun barrel" vision. In the final stages of the disease, the pressure destroys the nerves which permit front or central vision, and all sight is gone. According to Dr. Cowan, it is not known how the condition develops. However, it is possible to detect glaucoma at an early stage and check further progress either by surgery or drugs, or both. Unfortunately, the damage that has already taken place cannot be repaired. Glaucoma is the second leading cause of blindness in adults, affecting one out of every eight blind persons. The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness estimates that one out of every 50 adults over 40 years of age—one million men and women—are slowly losing their sight from this eye disease. In an effort to spot potential victims of glaucoma, screening programs were held in five locations last year. In Mt. Pleasant, 631 persons were tested with 21 referred to their physician for further tests. Of these, at least five have been diagnosed as having glaucoma. Nearly 2,000 patients in Detroit's Receiving Hospital were screened, with 37 glaucoma victims discovered. A similar program for out-patients at Sinai Hospital detected six persons with the disease out of approximately 1,000 tested. In Oakland County, 375 senior citizens were tested for glaucoma in connection with a multiple screening program, and seven were found to have the disease. A fifth program was held in Manistee County in October, where a total of 587 persons were screened. Twenty-five are glaucoma suspects, however diagnostic follow-up reports have not been completed as yet.

Soil and Water Conservation Local men named as officers

The first regular meeting of the Kent Soil Conservation District Directors after the Annual Meeting of the Districts is usually given over to discussion of the annual meeting and the election of officers for the Boards for the coming year. At the March meeting held on the 2nd the following officers were elected: for the Northeast District, Chairman, Harold Williams, Greenville; Vice-Chairman, Edw. Parmeter, Rockford; and Sec'y-Treasurer, Kenneth Anderson, Ada. For the Northwest District, Chairman, Carl May of Sparta; Vice-Chairman, Milton Wylie, Kent City and Secretary-Treasurer Gerald Kayser of Caledonia. The two other members of the Boards are: Northeast District, Irvin Rodgers of Alto and Harry Yeiter of Lowell. For the Northwest District, Amos Brearley, of Caledonia; and Frank Rasch of 6001 Stage NW, Grand Rapids. All Directors reported that they had received much favorable comment on the place where the annual meeting was held, due to the greater parking space and the large amount of room available. The program also came in for its share of favorable comment. One thing about the annual meeting that the Directors are not satisfied with is the small number of votes cast in the election of directors. This is particularly true of the Northwest District where only 32 votes were cast. All persons holding 3 acres or more of land outside of the incorporated areas of the county are eligible to vote. Husband and wife are both eligible. Each Director knew of several people that were able to vote but did not do so. The Directors would like suggestions from anyone on how that situation could be corrected. Both Districts have again entered the nation wide Goodyear Contest for Soil Conservation Districts. The award for winning this contest is that one director and the farmer selected by the board as the most conservation-minded for that year, are given a trip to the Goodyear Farms in Arizona. The award is a very minor item in the Board's decision to enter the contest. At the end of the contest in December the Directors must turn in a report to Goodyear in which they evaluate their own program. This points up to the Directors, where their weak and strong points are and allows them to make corrective measures for the weak points. The Directors, along with the S.C.S. Staff, would like to have you read carefully the report of the accomplishments of the Districts as found in the Annual Report, issued just before the annual meeting. Among other things it shows that we have about 1100 cooperators with the two Districts. This is about 20 per cent of the possible co-operators in the county. After 17 years of existence this is not good enough. We urge each of you that has not as yet become a cooperator of one of the Districts to talk to one of the Directors about the program or come into our office at 3321 Plainfield, N. E., Grand Rapids, and talk it over with one of us.

All-out War

We've had a foretaste of spring, and the pussies on the willows can't wait. They are bursting out of their hard shell coats. Soon we'll waken to bird song and golden daffodils, and we'll want to sing: "Oh, what a beautiful morning!" But why does nature so often turn on herself and destroy, in one frosty night, all the beauty she has so wonderfully produced? Much the same often happens in summer—a sudden downpour of rain and hail may destroy the golden grain that has been months developing. Is God fickle? Is He like a child that builds a tower for the fun of knocking it down? Oh, no! If that were true, life would be chaos; and what would be the use of trying to be good? Christianity has an answer to the puzzle of nature's contradiction. There are two powers, and they are at war. Good and evil are struggling for mastery, all-around us and also within us. God has an enemy who tries to undermine and overthrow all that God does. The Bible also assures us that God, because He is God, will win. And all who are on His side will be victors with Him. When nature seems fickle, she reminds us of this all-out war, and she reminds us that we must choose sides. Are you on the winning side? —M. Schoolland

Big Challenge in Recreation

Michigan's big push in outdoor recreation has put an all-time premium on land and water. Scenes and signs like these tell the gist of this challenge. In the wake of today's recreation explosion, there looms a rather wide gap between leisure-time demands and present facilities as seen last year when more than 43,000 families had to be turned away from state parks. The state parks bonding program has been a good "starter" in meeting part of the outdoor challenge, but a much bigger effort must be made to answer long-range needs. More work also needs to be done to provide sportsmen in southern Michigan with larger areas for public hunting. As the March 15-21 National Wildlife Week theme states, "America Needs Outdoor Recreation—Act Now To Provide For The Future."—Mich: Dept. of Conservation

Cordless appliances increase in use

Like many other gadgets once considered luxuries, cordless appliances will someday be considered necessities. The list of such appliances is growing rapidly, but keep in mind the following advantages and disadvantages. First, since cordless appliances carry batteries, they are heavier than conventional appliances. Where an operator is drilling downward with an electric drill, this extra weight can be useful. Otherwise, it is a disadvantage. Second, cordless appliances are more expensive than ordinary appliances, chiefly because of the cost of the batteries and charger. Third, because of lower voltages, cordless appliances may have less power than conventional appliances. This obviously will be no disadvantage where the cordless appliance has all the power that's needed for a given job. But it's something to check into. Fourth, the batteries do run down. The length of time the appliance will be used should be checked in advance against the usable time between charges. Against these disadvantages should be weighed the advantages of portability and safety, the article points out. The low voltage of cordless tools makes them safer, and they need not be grounded—another safety factor. The batteries, though, they run down, can be recharged hundreds of times. And, the magazine concludes, "You can take your TV on a picnic and your electric drill on your boat."

Maple syrup time is here

Spring is not far off when maple trees wear sap buckets and "sugar bushes" throughout the state begin to earn dollars for farm families. Michigan stands sixth in the nation as a maple producer. Because of weather conditions last spring, the 1963 crop was greatly reduced. Only about 52,000 gallons, worth $286,000, were produced in the state. Sugar bush owners are hoping for a better sap run this year which always starts before winter gives way to spring. Maple sap, which tastes like slightly sweetened water, drips from a spout driven into a tree. The sap is collected in a bucket or similar container or by tube. The collected sap is carefully boiled down into maple syrup, Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre explained. Pure maple syrup must weigh not less than 11 pounds per gallon. It is always higher priced than other syrup because of the distinctive flavor and limited supply. It is unlawful to add foreign substances to pure maple syrup. Unscrupulous persons sometimes seek to market cheap maple syrup imitations as "pure maple syrup." This is easy for chemists of the Michigan Department of Agriculture to detect. Aside from chemical differences, the color, flavor and weight differ from real maple syrup. The state's maple sugar law is enforced by the Foods and Standards Division of the Department. Its chief, J. L. Littlefield, said the quantity and the name and address of the producer must appear on maple syrup containers. Read the classifieds today!

School doin's

Tuesday, March 3, being Election Day, the lobby of the Multi-Purpose Building was used for voting. No students were allowed in the lobby. As a result, the normal confusion became mass confusion. Due to the happy results of the election, however, the students would probably be willing to go thru it again.

Pictures of the National Honor Society, the Criteria Committee, and Office Practice were taken during first hour on March 6. Pictures of some of the acts in the Variety Show were taken after school.

The Junior High kicked off its annual magazine drive on March 6. Here's hoping that it is a rousing success and "good luck" to the students.

During the Activity Period on Friday, March 6, those students interested in taking Driver's Training attended an assembly to hear the instructors explain what will happen during training and give other necessary information. To enroll, students must be 15 or older by June 1st of this year.

There was a brief Pep Assembly, Friday, in preparation for the big game Saturday with the Kenowa Hills Knights. What our cheerleaders, being boys, lacked in looks they made up in numbers. It was the largest group of cheerleaders Forest Hills has had this school year, even recruiting more cheerleaders from the audience. Robert Dangi and John Wardrop participated in the proceedings with great enthusiasm. Let it now be known: Mr. Wardrop should become the cheerleading coach and Mr. Dangi should change his profession—with that sober face of his, he would be a great funeral director!

All interested Juniors who have signed up and paid their one dollar fee by March 9 will be taking the National Merit Test on March 10. The test will last three hours and covers five areas: English Usage, Mathematics Usage, Social Studies, Reading, Natural Sciences Reading, and Word Usage.

There will be two MC's for the annual Variety Show. They are Stan Robinson and Wayne Brown. On Friday, March 13, the acts in the first half of the show will practice from 9 to 12 p. m. The acts in the second half of the show will practice from 1 to 4 p. m.

Michigan farms fewer and larger

Michigan farms are becoming fewer and larger a trend that has been in progress in the state for the past 31 years and follows the national pattern. The Agricultural Statistics Reporting Service of the Michigan Department of Agriculture reports Michigan currently has 105,000 farms, but in 1933 there were about 200,000. Expressed as a percentage the 1964 number is down 48 percent from the 1933 level. The size of farms in the state however has reached an all-time high of 136 acres. In 1933 the average size was only 92 acres. Despite this, the total land in farms in Michigan is decreasing. This year total land in farms is 14,300,000 acres as compared to 18,300,000 in 1933. Because of mechanization, better land use, improved varieties and breeds, and better farming methods generally, production in many crops has increased in the state, Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre explained. Bigger yields on fewer acres seems to be the rule today.

Hospital requires a large larder

Mom's six-month supply of groceries for her family of four would last only one day at University Hospital. The hospital's daily shopping order wouldn't even fit in the average kitchen. Imaging having to store hundreds of pounds of flour—186 are used by the Hospital bakery every day. The bakery makes all baked goods fresh each morning, with the exception of bread, hot dog and hamburger buns. Ninety-six loaves of white bread appear on the daily grocery list. Hot dogs and hamburgers are favorite choices of patients, and staff and visitors who eat in the Hospital cafeteria. Five hundred pounds of weiners and 3,000 pounds of hamburger are prepared by the hospital's chefs each month. A lot of malted milkshakes can be made from the eight gallons of malt mix that the kitchen uses each week. In addition to the milk used in cooking, the hospital's "milkman" delivers 3,000 half-pint cartons each morning. But despite the best efforts of the dietitians and kitchen crew, they've found that "an apple a day" doesn't always "keep the doctor away".
