Observes tenth anniversary

Suburban Life had a birthday this week. The tiny newspaper is ten years old. First published on March 31, 1955, by Harold F. Jefferies, the paper was edited by Roger Tusken.

Mr. Tusken has since moved to Kansas City, Missouri, where he is a public relations director for the General Practitioners Association. Jefferies has taken over the duties of editor.

The purpose of the paper continues to answer the demand of the people in the Ada-Cascade-Eastmont area for better coverage of their individual needs.

During its initial year the infant newspaper reported thirty-four new arrivals, twenty marriages, highway accidents and drownings took twenty lives. Local robberies and dramatic captures of the culprits were among the more exciting news stories of the year.

Other important events covered by the ACE newspaper included: plans for a bridge over the Grand River in the Ada area.

After two and one-half hours of deliberation in April, a Grand Rapids jury found Mrs. Shirley Swanson guilty of negligent homicide in the death of another woman. The car driven by Mrs. Swanson crashed through the window of the Cascade Pharmacy in the Spring. A retrial was held in the fall.

Second Lieutenant Robert B. Strain, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Strain of Cascade, was appointed to the first class of the Air Force Academy at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver, Colorado. Strain was one of ten appointees from Michigan.

Major and Mrs. Stephen W. Collins of Ada, quietly observed their Golden Wedding anniversary, May 27, with a dinner party with their son, Kreigh and family.

Ada High School officially closed its door in the spring of 1955, only to have a school study group meet in late July to form outlines for a consolidation plan and a future high school building to serve the anticipated 800 students in the 12 grade schools in the area. The first steps toward the merging was approved by the state in November.

In July completion of the transformation of the old Slater home on US-16 in Cascade was nearly finished. R. D. Siegle, D. V. M., of Alto, took position of the dwelling the previous fall and turned it into the Cascade Hospital for Animals.

Construction on the first two lanes of the new US-16 highway between Burton Road and Forest Hills was completed in August.

The widening of US-16 was moving at a rapid pace in August. Dividers and islands were being placed along the business section.

The first accident on this completed highway occurred at the intersection of US-16 and 28th Streets, September 1. Raymond Hendricks of Thornapple River Drive and three other persons were injured in a two car collision.

S. J. Ayres, jr., left the Lowell post office after 14 years of service to begin carrying mail for Route 2, Ada.

In the October 6th issue, the Suburban Life carried a special supplement on the Cascade Christian Church's plans for the observance of their 75th year in their present building. The church, originally founded in 1865, had only 16 members.

Racing fans in the area were thrilled with the record chalked up on the dirt tracks by area resident, Eddie VanderLaan, who won 12 feature stock car events during the 1955 season.

Cascade saluted its unrecognized founder, George Seward Richardson, who had died 71 years before. Richardson gave much of the land for Cascade, and he platted the village in 1876; yet not one street has been named for him, how cum?

Judy Wedemeier, a senior at Lowell high school and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Wedemeier, Dogwood Drive, Ada, was notified that she qualified as one of the semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Foundation's search for top students.

One of the last old-time steam engines was still roaring and clattering into Ada as it carried the daily mail.

This very incomplete rundown of the news items featured during the first nine months of the Suburban Life, show you, the readers, that we managed to keep you fairly well informed about all types of area happenings.

As the coming year lies before us, we, looking back, can see shortcomings and mistakes that were committed. For this we apologize, but we are not ashamed of them.

Undoubtedly we will make many more of them in the future, although we assure you that they will not be intentional. The old saying "To err is human" certainly applies to us as a newspaper.

We hereby pledge, in our eleventh year, to bring you the subscriber and advertiser, a better, bigger and more complete newspaper.

But we are limited in our facilities. Because our offices are located in Lowell, we are very far away from many area residents and events, and must depend upon your help.

If you know of any interesting news story, feature story or personality story, call us at TW 7-9262 in Lowell and we will be glad to give it a write up.

On Thursdays and Fridays we are relatively at ease here in the office, and would have plenty of time to talk to you about your stories, so don't wait until the last possible moment before calling us.

Gets proficiency rating with cornet solo

The State Solo and Ensemble contest was held in February at Muskegon. This contest was made up of high school musicians throughout Michigan who received a 1st division rating at the various district contests held earlier this year. There were four events, two ensembles and two solos, entered in this contest from the Forest Hills band.

The ensembles were the brass sextet and the clarinet quintet. Both events received a rating of 2nd division.

The members of the brass sextet are Jim Hamp, 1st cornet; Doug VanHorn, 2nd cornet; Jane McDuffee, French horn; Ben Wilbur, trombone; Larry Hatherley, baritone; and Rod Wilbur, bass horn.

The clarinet quintet members are Fred Rugg, 1st clarinet; Bill Shryer, 2nd clarinet; Darry Larson, 3rd clarinet; Ryan Ashley, alto clarinet; and Eric VanDerVeen, bass clarinet.

Two band members played solos, entering in proficiency I, which is the first step of difficulty beyond that of playing a solo.

In proficiency, they were required to sight read, which counts 25 percent; to play from memory several scales, which counts 25 percent; and to play a solo which counts 50 percent.

To receive a first division rating a soloist must receive a total of 85 percent or higher, and there are five possible divisions. Second division winners receive a medal, and first division winners receive a certificate and medal.

Rod Wilbur playing bass horn received a 2nd division rating, missing a 1st by only three points.

Top honors go to Jim Hamp, playing cornet, who received a 1st division rating. Jim is the first soloist from Forest Hills ever to receive a 1st division in proficiency.

Much credit for the fine work of both soloists goes to Bill Heydnberk who accompanied them.

Art show to depict Ada

Part of Ada's Michigan Week celebration will be a showing of art work depicting Ada Township, its landmarks, village, and beautiful countryside.

Anyone of any age may submit their work, which may be done in any media. All work must be framed or matted. The only requirement for entry will be the artistic integrity of the work and its obvious association with Ada Township. Further information may be obtained by calling Jeanne Rockett at 676-2551.

All entries must be submitted to Mrs. Rockett before May 19 and will be shown at the Ada Town Hall on May 22. Awards will be given by popular vote, and entries may be offered for sale.

This is not only an opportunity for people who have talent to display their work, but also for those interested in Ada and its scenic beauties to obtain for their homes and offices a piece of original work pertaining to the region.

Ada area safety patroller wins expense paid trip

An Ada area school safety patroller will take bows for 25 fellow patrollers' 4,500 hours of community service by attending the AAA National Safety Patrol Rally in Washington, D. C., on May 6 through 9.

This youth will join about 130 other Michigan patrollers from 105 Michigan communities for the annual four-day all-expense-paid trip to the Capitol as Automobile Club of Michigan's guests. Ada will be represented by a patroller from Ada Elementary School.

"This is the 29th consecutive year we have selected schools for the trip on the basis of a patrol group's general performance and efficiency," says Ernest P. Davis, Auto Club safety and traffic director. Schools named nominated the patrollers they wish to represent them, with Auto Club's assistance.

Davis estimates that each safety patroller from Ada has spent 180 hours at street corners protecting classmates during the 1964-65 school year, with no reward other than satisfaction for a job well done. They are at their posts in all kinds of weather aiding students and watching traffic.

To worship in new sanctuary

Sunday, April 14, marks another most important milestone in the history of the century-old Cascade Christian Church, as the congregation will move to its new sanctuary, located at 2829 Thornapple River Dr.

Duplicate worship services will continue at 9:45 and 11 a. m., with Sunday Church sessions remaining at the same hours.

The Rev. Raymond Gaylord has selected as his sermon topic "Holy, Holy, Holy," based on the scriptural passages found in Isaiah 6. As its first anthem in the new sanctuary, the choir has selected Gounod's "Sanctus."

Verne R. Stilwell serves as organist and choirmaster.

The new sanctuary and the administrative unit of the Cascade Church have been years in planning. O'Bryon and Nachtgall are the architects, and Boersma Builders have served as the general contractors. Of contemporary design, the new sanctuary will seat about four hundred; the cost of additional land, buildings, furnishings and a new organ, running in the neighborhood of two hundred thousand dollars.

Dedication services for the new sanctuary will take place Sunday, April 25, at 7 p. m., with these services ushering in a special centennial, dedication week.

An historical display of early relics, records, antiques and pictures will be open to the congregation and the public in Fellowship Hall throughout the week.

A centennial pageant, with Buck Matthews as narrator, will conclude this special week, being planned for Sunday, May 2, at 7.

The congregation and community as a whole are being invited to these special and significant services and events.

"Yucatan Trails" last Lions Club adventure film

"Yucatan Trails" is the theme of the last travelogue in this year's travel and adventure series presented by the Thornapple Valley Lions Club.

To be presented April 5, "Yucatan Trails" is an adventure film that takes the traveler to one of the most mysterious areas on the earth. The area has now been opened to the United States by road.

This all-color film will show the more adventurous traveler just what to expect in an ancient land. Yucatan, Mexico, is noted chiefly for its ancient Mayan pyramids.

Here the most highly developed civilization in our hemisphere's prehistory. Then suddenly all collapsed, even before the arrival of the Spaniards.

The temples were emptied of their priestly guardians, incense no longer smoldered upon sacred altars, voices ceased to echo from the plazas. Yet the cities were left untouched, without destruction or alteration, as if their inhabitants had expected to return momentarily. But they did not. Within a century the jungle had reclaimed the ill-fated cities of the Mayas.

This is the story of the land, the history and the attractions of their exotic and unknown place. Included are sequences showing the difficult and exciting roads leading into Yucatan; the Spanish fortress city of Campeche, Merida, the Island of Women, and many more exciting things.

Besure not to miss this great adventure film, this Monday, April 5, at 8 p. m. in the Forest Hills High School, sponsored by the Thornapple Valley Lions Club.

McCords club discuss curtains and draperies

There are many new fabrics to choose from when selecting curtains or drapes for your home. This was brought to light in the study topic "Curtains and Draperies" at the meeting of the McCords Extension Club.

The meeting was hosted on March 23, at the home of Mrs. J. Kleinheksel, McCords, SE. The lesson was presented to the group by Mrs. S. Huls.

Mrs. Huls pointed out that there are many different possibilities for handling each window. The choice may be made from draperies, curtains, shutters, blinds and shades—used singly or in combinations of 2 or more.

Because window treatment serves as a background or center of interest for the entire room in addition to reflecting the individual's personality, it is most important to consider the final selection very carefully. This may take sometime to find the right treatment, but the reward of a beautifully decorated window and the contribution it makes to the home are well worth the effort.

A business session was conducted by Mrs. Kleinheksel, group chairman, with Mrs. J. Folkertsma presenting the Secretary-Treasurer's report. Other members present included Mrs. R. Clark, Mrs. M. VanDiepenbos and Mrs. R. Bartz.

The next meeting will be held on April 27 at the home of Mrs. R. Bartz, Kettle Lake Dr.

April is Cancer Crusade Month; name chairmen

With April designated officially by the American Cancer Society as Crusade Month, the Kent County Unit of this organization again is in the field seeking funds with which to help finance this-way campaign against the dread disease.

The funds contributed in Kent County and elsewhere throughout the country meet the expense of the Society's program of public education and for the promoting research work by scientists in the major laboratories of the country.

The educational program seeks to impress upon the individual the wisdom of having a physical examination annually by a physician. Since this program was initiated nearly 30 years ago the ratio of cured cancer patients has been increased from one out of three. Cancer, if detected and treated properly in its early stages, can be cured in many instances and if more persons had the recommended physical examinations half or all cancer patients would be cured, officials of the parent society declare.

Herbert R. Boshoven, vice-president of the Old Kent Bank and Trust Company of Grand Rapids who has been re-appointed by Stanley J. Byington, president of the Kent County unit, to direct the 1965 crusade in this county, declared Wednesday the Unit's organization has been perfected with hundreds of volunteer workers enrolled. Before the end of the month, he predicted, this number will reach 7,500.

Countdown

Last week we witnessed, by means of television, the successful launching of the Gemini-3 space capsule. We rejoice in the successful three orbit flight of the Gemini ("twins")—Virgil Grissom and John Young, and we thank God for protecting them and bringing them back safely!

The suspense of the astronauts and of all the directors and technicians must have become very intense as the clock counted down to the moment of blast-off. This suspense was mirrored in the face of President Johnson as he sat by his television set, and he represented the attitude of all Americans.

As surely as the time came for the launching of this mighty instrument for flight through outer space, so certainly is the time approaching of the end of our life. Even as careful checks of the most rigid sort were made before the capsule and its astronauts were sent on their way, so we ought to check the "inner space" of our hearts during the time of inevitable countdown to see if all is well with our souls. We cannot see the clock of our lives; but God runs it with utmost accuracy. Are you facing your countdown through faith in Jesus Christ?

—John Guichelaar

Is there an adolescent in the house?

If you're a parent, there are times when nothing in the world seems more unhappy than the trials of adolescence. And if you're a young person, the desire to be "all grown up" fights with the feelings of love and respect that you've always held for your parents.

Where's the common ground that can ease this difficult period in life? Often it's at the place where you worship.

Faith does move mountains—of misunderstanding, anger, frustration. It helps parents to see, understand, and have tolerance for their youngsters' problems. It helps young people have a sense of worth about themselves now—and about the adulthood they'll soon assume.

Worship—together—this week... and add new, true values to your life!

Financial disclosure bill wins Hare support

A bill would provide for "complete financial disclosure by Michigan's public officials" has drawn praise from Secretary of State James M. Hare.

Hare said there is a "great need in Michigan for legislation of this type" to forestall any possible election scandals. But he indicated that the measure... introduced by Rep. Martin Stempien, Livonia Democrat... "had an uphill battle all the way."

The bill in its draft form is much like the bill being considered to bring about public disclosure in the U. S. Senate says Hare.

Stempien's measure provides that all public officials file yearly reports on the "net worth of all holdings, both real and personal."

It would take in "every person elected to or serving as a U. S. Senator, congressman, justice of the supreme court of the new court of appeals, state senators and representatives, and any person elected to or serving in any office on a state-wide basis."

Further, the measure provides that these persons would file disclosure statements between December 1 and December 15 of each year with the Secretary of State, the State's chief elections official.

A listing of all "compensation, gratuities, gifts, payment for services, and the like, which exceeds $10,000" would have to be filed.

Officeholders not filing would be denied their oaths of office as well as remuneration for the jobs. The bill further says that all officeholders can be challenged.

For some time, Hare has urged a public disclosure law as well as other elections' code changes for Michigan.

"I forecast more expensive elections and a good deal of special interest legislation unless our laws are tightened up," Hare said. "The time to make these necessary changes is right now... before things get out of hand."

Among the innovations advocated by Hare are "restrictions on spending, complete reporting of all campaign expenditures and shorter campaigns."

Barnyard manure increases available water capacity of sandy loam soil

Soil scientists have found that annual applications of barnyard manure for seven or eight years greatly increase the available water capacity of a sandy loam soil. More water was also released to crops at low tensions.

The available-water capacity of the top 6 inches of soil was increased up to 70 percent for annual manure applications over a several year period.

Even when the cost of removing and of spreading about equals the nutritive or plant food value of barnyard manure, other benefits to the soil add to its value. The influence of an increase of organic matter and the more favorable climate in the soil for friendly bacteria are values difficult to rate in dollar and cents.

It can happen here! Already we have had two instances of erosion or the effects of erosion this year in Michigan. First was the January dust storm on the Great Plains. This was the worst dust storm in ten years. It ripped up topsoil and deposited dust as far east as Pennsylvania.

Air pollution experts found that the fall out amounted to as much as nine tons per square mile over Cincinnati, Ohio. Then late in February heavy rains caused near flooding conditions here in Michigan because of frozen soil conditions. The degree of clearness in streams from now on will tell how good a job we have done in protecting topsoil in our District.

Soil Stewardship Week is May 23-30 this year. Many churches in the county have asked again for Sunday bulletin inserts and for copies of the sermon material booklet. The theme this year is "Challenges of Growth."

"Minimum tillages, or plow planting, can save many dollars worth of nitrogen this summer," says researchers. When seed beds are prepared by the above tillage method, maximum oxygen is present in the plow layer.

Where there is a lack of Air or oxygen in the soil or where moisture has filled the air spaces, nitrogen loss is rapid. Nitrogen is lost mainly because of denitrification whereby some soil microbes use nitrogen compounds in place of oxygen. The higher the soil temperatures the faster the loss.

Since nitrogen is our most expensive plant food, the less soils are compacted and when adequately drained, many more dollars can be saved by good soil management, soil scientists have found.

10,000 killed by cancer, strokes, diabetes and heart diseases in 1964

More than 10,000 Michigan people, 59 years of age or under were killed last year by heart diseases, cancer, stroke and diabetes, according to State Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis.

According to the Commissioner, heart disease, cancer, diabetes, and stroke together account for seven out of every ten deaths in Michigan each year. He said that records compiled for the first nine months of 1964 show 20,008 deaths due to heart disease, 8,794 due to cancer, and 5,855 due to stroke—a total of 34,657 out of the 52,597 deaths from all causes.

"Of course many of the victims of these diseases were aged persons—to whom death must come in one form or another eventually," Dr. Heustis said. "However, a significant percentage of these were premature deaths that could have been prevented."

"The young business executive who drops dead from a heart attack—the mother of a family of teenagers who dies from cancer—the 60-year-old retiree who is denied the opportunity of enjoying his hard-earned leisure years by a killing or crippling stroke—these are needless, preventable tragedies which annually account for far more deaths than our highway slaughter," Dr. Heustis said.

He said that in 1963, diseases killed 2,258 persons under 44 years of age, 1,701 between 45 and 49 years of age, 2,626 between 50 and 54, and 3,748 between 55 and 59.

"Considering that 70 years is the normal life span today, these figures represent several hundred thousands of man years."

The largest group of heart deaths are due to arteriosclerotic and hypertensive heart diseases—hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure—according to Dr. Heustis.

"A few years ago very little could be done about disability and death in these two categories," he said. "Now, there is good treatment for hypertension which can prevent many of the complications of high blood pressure."

"Things are not quite as hopeful as far as arteriosclerotic heart disease is concerned. We do not know as yet how to prevent arteriosclerosis, but we do know that there are good preventive measures for at least some of the complications and deaths arising from coronary artery disease."

"This includes identification of persons highly susceptible to heart attacks—those with what we call a 'coronary profile'."

The Commissioner explained that studies have shown that persons with two or more conditions such as a family history of heart disease, high blood pressure, over-weight, high serum cholesterol, lack of regular exercise, and excessive smoking, are potential victims. "If persons with coronary profiles can be identified and placed under medical supervision, we believe the number of heart disease deaths could be reduced significantly using the knowledge presently available," he said.

Many forms of cancer can be cured today through radiation, surgery, the use of new chemicals, or combinations of these, but the key is early detection, the commissioner said. He cited cervical cancer in women as an example for which there is a simple test known as the "Pap smear" to detect the disease in the early stage.

"In spite of the fact that cervical cancer is nearly 100 percent curable when found early, more than 300 Michigan women die from this disease each year." He said that there is a definite treatment for persons who have early signs of impending stroke, including medication for high blood pressure, and use of anti-coagulant drugs.

"But in order for the treatment to be effective, the condition must be spotted in time," he added.

"We need to expand our cancer research facilities at the Michigan Department of Health Laboratories, so as to accelerate the search for effective anticancer drugs."

"We need increased state financial aid to help local health personnel conduct case-finding programs for the detection of early warning signs of chronic illness."
