Dangerous intersection eliminated by railroad spur into Amway

The new railroad spur for the Amway Corporation will cross M-21 at approximately, the now existing Mobil Oil Outdoor sign board.

The general area of the spur will leave the Grand Trunk mainline, just west of the old Ada Depot and will come back along the Grand Trunk right-of-way approximately 900 feet then swing down across Bronson Street. Bronson Street will be closed off from that point on, and will swing down to the right unto M-21.

Amway will construct this addition to Bronson at their own cost. This is really an asset to the community; it will eliminate a very dangerous intersection.

To deliver telephone directories

A new telephone directory serving the Grand Rapids area will be delivered to all subscribers beginning Thursday, December 16, announced Berle D. Slack, manager for Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

The cover of the new directory includes a Michigan-pines-and-vacationland motif, and was designed by Stanley Nunn, an artist with Michigan Bell's marketing department in Detroit.

Nunn has traveled extensively throughout the state, and developed the cover theme from those travels.

Slack said some 260,000 directories will be delivered in Grand Rapids, Ada, Alto, Byron Center, Caledonia, Dorr, Dutchtown, Grattan, Hudsonville, Lowell, Jamestown, Marne, Moline, Rockford and Sparta.

Slack added that it will take at least 2 weeks for distributors to complete distribution in all these communities.

The office is housed in a 50 foot specially constructed trailer, to permit operation until a permanent building is erected across the street. Construction on the permanent structure will begin shortly with completion by summer.

Manager of the new branch is Richard V. Draugh. The office includes two employees.

Children to support Operation Santa Claus

Last year the boys and girls at Ada School participated in "Operation Santa Claus," sponsored by the Cascade Christian Church in cooperation with other local churches and organizations. This program provides Christmas gifts to local children of needy families.

The Ada Children found the experience of giving to others while asking nothing in return, extremely gratifying and wish to continue this practice in lieu of exchanging gifts in the classroom.

It has been suggested that the Ada School children once again bring stockings; however mittens, toys or other donations would certainly be welcomed. Cascade School children, grades 4 through 6, will also participate in Operation Santa Claus this year instead of their usual exchange of gifts.

Santa busy this week

Santa Claus is very busy and working overtime this week, making ready for the annual Christmas Party this Saturday at Cascade Christian Church.

Fifteen additional families suggested by the county nurse and school officials last week have increased Santa's load to 33 families to be cared for here in the Forest Hills area. Never has a family been refused help because of race, creed or national origin—need is the sole criterion.

Collections have now reached nearly one thousand dollars and although no monetary goal was set this year, budget needs will run up to fourteen or fifteen hundred dollars. It is the hope of Operation Santa Claus this year to be able to supply a warm jacket for each child or young person served. Suitable toys, dolls, books, etc., are also included. Some foodstuffs are incorporated in each basket, if money permits.

Serving again as co-chairmen of the 1965 Operation Santa Claus' project are Mr. and Mrs. John Titworth, being ably assisted by Post-Hi, the World Outreach Committee of the Cascade Church, and a large representative committee comprised of persons of varying faiths.

All monies are handled thru the Cascade Christian Church Youth Council of which Robert White is serving as treasurer.

After Christmas, a full accounting will be made to the public through this paper of gifts received and dispensed. Inasmuch as the Santa Claus' party takes place this Saturday, it is to be hoped that all funds and gifts of toys, clothing, etc. will be remitted no later than Friday, December 17.

Student Council to develop strong ties

A major goal of this year's Student Council at Forest Hills high school is to create strong ties between students and the Student Council.

The first experiment to test the students reaction toward suggestions for the school and the council was held November 12.

The first "spoke out" session was considered a success by the Student Council representatives although some feel that more students should participate instead of leaving the questions and comments to a few persons. Some good suggestions and ideas were presented to the Student Council and each one will be considered.

To better the relations of students and the Student Council, a standing committee on communications was formed to help in any problem that may arise in council-students relations.

This committee is also to look into the possibility of a suggestion box so that the council can receive suggestions and ideas from all students.

After Christmas a public forum is planned to receive ideas and answer any questions students may have for council and the members along with the administration want to represent all the students fairly and can not be stressed strongly enough.

Have illegible handwriting

One of the biggest problems postal employees face is illegible handwriting. At Christmastime, when mail volumes skyrocket, this can become a major problem, Postmaster Hein said to day.

"The use of ZIP Codes by mailers does help speed up the process because often if the city and state are unreadable the ZIP Code will direct the mail to the post office from which it will be delivered. The clerks in that post office, being more familiar with local residents, may be able to figure out the person to whom the mail should be delivered.

Another significant problem is the number of parcels delayed or actually undelivered because of poor wrapping or packing. Postmaster Hein urged that special care be taken to see that each package is tightly stuffed and that nothing rattles around inside.

Parcels are generally shipped in bags and often heavier items rest on top of smaller, lighter packages. The postmaster encouraged mailers to be a bit cautious and insure all packages.

All parcels should be addressed on only one side and should have the address written somewhere on the inside of the package in case the exterior wrapping should come off. It is a good idea to also enclose a list of the contents.

Poor packings and illegible or incorrect addressing accounts for about half a million undelivered parcels each year.

Fatality mark is "encouraging"

Secretary of State James M. Hare said he was encouraged by Michigan's six-month traffic safety mark in fatalities, which placed the state 37th in the country for deaths per miles driven.

"I'm happy with this phase of our safety program," Hare said.

But he dimmed his optimism somewhat by citing some less encouraging aspect of the program.

"We are all prone to judge the success or failure of any traffic program by the number of people killed on our highways. But this is only one side of the coin. Accidents, personal injuries, and property damage are also very important. And they continue to rise."

Hare, who is chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, said the National Safety Council reported Michigan's more than 4-million drivers had compiled a record of 4.2 deaths for every 100-million vehicle miles driven during the first six months of 1965, a "pretty good record and a decline of six percent."

"Although this is still much too high, it is an improvement over last year's horrible record which has us constantly around a mark of five deaths per 100-million vehicle miles."

Hare said the rosy picture "pales even more when considered in the light of accidents, personal injuries, and accident cost."

"What we can't seem to get through is that $1-million a day is being frittered away because of our carelessness on Michigan's roads," Hare charged.

During the first half of 1965, Michigan enforcement officials reported 63,880 personal injuries as a result of traffic accidents, an increase of nine percent over last year's total of 63,348.

"This is rather tragic when considered in the light of the number of persons who are permanently disabled or badly hurt in Michigan accidents."

Death rate of 21.0 per 100,000 population also showed Michigan in a good light, 32nd in the country.

Neighboring Great Lakes states had varying records. Indiana was 20 percent over last year and Ohio was 17 percent increased. On the other hand, Wisconsin had a nine percent drop and Illinois was one percent under 1964 totals.

People who worry about the "Next war" might give a few thoughts to driving carefully.

The idea that the world is evil explains much of what we read and hear.

Christmas every week . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Borgerson pictured inspecting some pieces recently unpacked from a shipment from Austria. As fast as the pieces were uncrated and inspected dealers were re-creating them for shipment all over the country, a never-ending circle, in one door and out the other. Mrs. Borgerson is holding a Fischer plate, old Austrian.

Leona Borgerson's collection of glass slippers, started as a hobby and grew into an international business venture.

She and Chris Gallagher bought their first collection from the Hubbel estate, quite by accident. They went to the auction to see if they could pick up something for their own private collections and were persuaded by the local banker and the auctioneer to buy the whole lot, and this during the depression years, when extra money was not as easy to come by as it perhaps would be now.

Lowell is an unlikely spot to locate an antique business of this size, being rather off the beaten path, as they advertise in several national trade magazines, and have established such a fine reputation for quality, the business continue to grow, something on the order of building a better mousetrap.

They probably have the largest stock of art glass in the mid-west, usually turning over their entire stock once a month.

They sell to dealers all over the continental United States, and they have had inquiries from Hawaii and Alaska, but so far no buyers from these latest states have turned up here in Lowell.

They have had inquiries from the West Coast promoter adopted the scheme, using a Sacramento mailing address and the very same brochure. Currently, the advertisement is being placed from a Cincinnati address.

Those who inquire of the Department of the Interior in regard to such offerings receive the following information from Management.

Misleading public land advertising

Despite repeated warnings by the Department of the Interior, the problem of misleading public land advertising has not abated.

Fly-by-night promoters continue to place advertising in newspapers and magazines which lead people to believe they are dealing with an official agency. This, coupled with the allure of "something for nothing" and the vestiges of truth remaining in century-old land laws, makes the land-hungry American a prime target for the schemer.

A typical classified advertisement currently offered to media reads as follows:

PUBLIC LAND NOTICE

The United States Government has made land available. Up to 160 acres for homesteading. Also small tracts for campsites and homesites. Information brochure and land list is available from the Public Land Information Office. Service and mailing fee $1. P. O. Box —, —,

Twenty Thousand Victims!

This same advertisement was placed last year in Classified columns from coast-to-coast by a "Public Lands Information Office" using a Washington, D. C. mailing address. The Department of the Interior reports that it has reason to believe that more than 20,000 people purchased the brochure offered and many of them subsequently complained to the Department of the Interior.

Although the promoters of the advertising abandoned the scheme, following Postal investigation, at least one West Coast promoter adopted the scheme, using a Sacramento mailing address and the very same brochure. Currently, the advertisement is being placed from a Cincinnati address.

"By homesteading—but first you must find suitable public land. The land must be classified by the Bureau of Land Management as better suited for agriculture than for any other purpose. Finding the land is the citizen's problem. We can tell you that your chances are extremely slim—except in Alaska, practically all of the remaining public lands are very dry and farming is almost impossible. Rules governing homesteading are very strict, and your investment in time and money may easily run higher than if you purchased an existing farm on the open market.

Those who inquire of the Department of the Interior in regard to such offerings receive the following information from Management.

First of all, 306 million acres are reserved for such public uses as national parks and forests, wildlife refuges, power buildings, and grounds, and military reservations. What's left, 465 million acres of public lands, can be acquired by private citizens only under certain conditions. Briefly, here are ways that you can obtain public lands:

First of all, 306 million acres are reserved for such public uses as national parks and forests, wildlife refuges, power buildings, and grounds, and military reservations. What's left, 465 million acres of public lands, can be acquired by private citizens only under certain conditions. Briefly, here are ways that you can obtain public lands:

Rules governing homesteading are very strict, and your investment in time and money may easily run higher than if you purchased an existing farm on the open market.

Those who inquire of the Department of the Interior in regard to such offerings receive the following information from Management.

Wonderful

Yesterday evening (Dec. 10) it was my privilege to listen to the beautiful oratorio of Handel entitled "The Messiah" rendered by the Calvin College Oratorio Society. My soul was thrilled by the beautiful music of the orchestra and the marvelous singing of the soloists and the Chorus. One of the Chorus numbers was very striking as these singers sang the words of Isaiah 9:6 "For unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given... and His name shall be called WONDERFUL..."

No doubt you have seen many wonderful things in nature, both locally and elsewhere. Many wonderful advances are being made in the realm of science and technology. The conquest of outer space is a source of never-ending wonder. We admire the men whose ingenuity is constantly discovering new things.

But the words of the prophet Isaiah concerning the Christ are as true today as they were in his day. There is only one man, the God-man, Jesus Christ, whose name is called Wonderful, and who is always Wonderful from age to age. And why is He so Wonderful? Because He is the very Son of God who came as Savior to save His people from their sins. The more you know Him the wonderful He will be for you. May God give us His grace to know this wonderful Jesus whose birth we shall soon celebrate.

Did you know?

The sale of oil powered water heaters increased 45% in the first half of 1965 over the same period in 1964.

Many people are finding out about the merits of having ALL the hot water they want for the many uses in their home, at a low-low cost.

Do you have to have a reservation in your home for a bath? Do you need to gamble that you will have enough hot water for all your washing?

We can furnish you a gun-type oil water heater for less than you may think, and if you desire, on a low budget payment plan. In many cases, the savings effected by the use of our heater more than offsets the monthly payments required.

Ask "Mac" about this.

Alexander Graham Bell's invention is being used to bring prominent lecturers into state classrooms by way of amplified conversations over loudspeakers.

Students and lecturers alike cotton to the new telephone technique called Tele-Lecture. Lecturers appreciate being able to sit in their office or home and lecture students hundreds of miles away. Expensive, burdensome travel is cut. Less time is taken from a busy schedule.

Students are enthused because they can question an expert on any subject. Schools with limited budgets can obtain the services of a qualified authority or public officials, generally for much less than a personal appearance fee.

Regular telephone lines are used at regular rates. The phone company can set up telephones, portable microphones, loudspeakers and amplifiers anywhere there is a telephone. This includes just about everywhere. Even overseas calls can be made.

Only imagination limits Tele-Lectures. For instance, pupils of Clinton Junior High School in Oak Park interviewed NBC newscaster David Brinkley.

Michigan State University students in Hotel, Restaurant and Institutional Management heard a lecture by a Chicago restaurant executive 200 miles away.

Biology students at Western Michigan University, Henry Ford Community College and Sienna Heights College of Adrian took part in a seminar conducted by atomic scientists at the Argonne National Laboratory in Lemont, Illinois.

A political science class at Kellogg Community College in Battle Creek this summer heard Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken discuss via Tele-Lecture from his Lansing office such topics as a state income tax, college tuition rates and the proposed national park at the Sleeping Bear dunes.

Prof. Sam B. Tidwell, who conducted a summer course in public school fund accounting at Michigan Technological University in Houghton, used Tele-Lectures in instructing school board members and educators. During the course, the only one of its kind in the nation, those in charge of public school money heard from financial experts, including the former president of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Detroit rabbi took part in the first cross-country panel discussion in adult education. More than 700 persons in 12 cities listened to an informal Jewish study conducted by B'nai B'rith.

Though businessmen have held sales meetings and time-saving conference calls, educators have devised some of the most imaginative uses. These range from the study of international affairs to foreign language instruction.

All of which leads the phone company to caution the parents against pooh-poohing when the youngsters claim they are "studying" on the line.

The "Low Down" From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

DENTISTS MIGHT LEARN LESSON FROM MEDICARE

Rep. Thomas B. Curtis (Mo.)

... "Increased dental insurance provided by the private sector of the economy and through professional associations demands immediate consideration and action."

"The dentists and their associations have made considerable progress on their own and with insurance companies, and yet I warn that they and their associations should learn from medicare and prepare a comprehensive program which covers our Nation and is available to individuals and States."

A special showing of youthful fashions to knit was the highlight of a new 4-H educational event on Wednesday, December 1, at Northview Junior high school.

The fashion show and knitting discussion was offered to 4-H members and their parents, 4-H leaders, local yarn dealers and adults interested in providing knitting instruction to young people.

The fashions, custom designed for young people, were modeled by local 4-H members. The easy-to-knit styles were selected to allow novice knitters to develop basic skills in creating a hand-knit garment. The basics of good design techniques and wardrobe hints were discussed.

The showing introduced the new 4-H "learn-to-knit" program available only in Michigan counties. The project included instruction in knitting, advice on yarn and pattern selection, guidance in the proper fitting and wearing of knitted garments and in the selection of designs for young people.

The education fashion program was sponsored by Bernat Yarns and the Cooperative Extension Service. Commentator for the showing was Mrs. Ruth Rohn, Bernat's knitting and fashion expert of Burt Lake, Michigan.

The models from Kent County included: Cindy Phillips, Kathy Kellogg, Kathy Stevens, Yvonne Phillips, Linda Fase & Judy Schueler, all of Grand Rapids; Marcia Todd and Jera Lynn Sharp of Wyoming; Fern Zylma of Caledonia; Jodie and Susan Reath of Comstock Park; Susie and Mary Fales, and Jill Kober and Linda and Shirley Traxler of Sparta; Gail Oele of Belmont; Mary Sytsma and Connie Froese of Ada; Yvonne Johnson of Lowell; and Marcia Esther of Kent City.

It would be advantageous for the American Dental Association to hold meetings in all 50 states before January, as well as regional meetings for the Northeast, Midwest, South, and Western areas, so that the best thinking of the dental profession and their associates could be brought to bear on these problems.

"We must make progress promptly in developing a sound dental care insurance program and unless this is done professionally there will be a vacuum that the Federal Government will try to fill."

A GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Here is a Congressman who sees the "hand writing on the wall."

If the dentists do not come up with a sound program of their own, some official reformer minded Congressman will.

—J.C.

A woman in charge of a neighbor's small boy decided to take him to a drive-in for lunch.

"Johnnie," she asked, "how many hamburgers can you eat?"

"I don't know," he shrugged. "Mother always stops me."

Retail trade...

More than 28 cents out of every retail dollar spent in Michigan during 1963 went to keep wheels rolling on the highways. That amount is accounted for by sales of automobiles and trucks plus the fuel and accessories needed to keep them moving.

PTA presents family night

Thursday, December 16, at 7:30 p. m. the Martin Collins P. T. A. presents a Christmas Family Night at the Forest Hills Junior High School.

The Junior High Choir under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie Dick, will present a musical program.

Refreshments will be served and Santa Claus will have treats for the children.

World tour is ideal gift for Christmas

If you can't decide what to give that certain person for Christmas, or if you would like something different for yourself, may we suggest a "World Tour" for the small cost of $5. This gift will let young and old enjoy a trip to the American Rockies with breathtaking views and beauty on January 8. Then, travel into "difficult to enter" Red China on February 5.

From here a visit to Russia to view the Russian life of today that we seldom hear of or see. This tour will take place on February 19.

If Alaska, with its wilderness, animals and beauty, has always been intriguing, March 5 is the date for the tour to arrive. For a warmer climate on April 2, go with us to see the many interesting places in Italy. Finally the "world tour" ends back in the United States, on April 30, for a complete trip through California to view the variety of sights and places.

This entire tour is being sponsored by the Congregators of Ada Congregational Church with profits from the tour to be given to the church building fund for a much needed addition to the present structure.

Call OR 6-2631 (Mrs. Ron Collins) or contact any "Congregator" member to purchase your season "world tour" ticket for that gift idea for yourself and family. The ticket is good for 6 admissions to use at several or all the programs as you choose.

Remember, $5.00 only for a marvelous journey to far away places. (By the way, the tours all leave the Forest Hills Auditorium at 8 p. m. sharp.)

5. Keep the decorated tree which has been treated with a fire-resistant coating, if available. Keep water around the base of any live tree at all times while in the home.

4. Use only UL approved electric lights and decorate with fire-proofed or nonflammable materials.

6. Turn off tree lights whenever you leave the house, even if only for a short time.

7. Frequently check the needles of the tree around the light bulbs, if they are brown, relocate the lights. When the needles begin to shed, take the tree down, and dispose of it.

Dr. Prothro also cautioned that weather and traffic conditions are not at their best during the holidays, and advised that when traveling, allow extra time for a safer trip.

The suit also contends that the defendants employed four minors as motor-vehicle drivers-helpers and on the killing floor and hide cellar of a slaughtering establishment in violation of Child Labor Hazardous Occupations Orders No. 2 and No. 10 respectively.

The defendants are also cited for allegedly violating the record keeping and interstate commerce shipment provisions of the law.

In addition to seeking a judgment to permanently enjoin and restrain the VanderBoons from future violations, the Court was asked to order payment of the $6,549 in back wages found due these employees.

Legal action followed an investigation of the business by the Grand Rapids office of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage-Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, under the supervision of Ward F. Parks.

The company is engaged in the slaughtering, butchering, sale and distribution of beef by-products for commerce.

Parks noted that the Federal minimum wage for all employees now covered by the Act is $1.25 an hour. The Fair Labor Standards Act also requires the payment of time and one-half pay rate for overtime work.

On the other hand, the VanderBoons contend that the minimum wage for all employees is $1.50 an hour.

Both sides agreed that the

UNICEF giving at Halloween

For the first time, giving to UNICEF (United Nations' Children's Fund) in Kent County at Halloween time has surpassed the five thousand dollar mark.

The reported giving to date is well over fifteen hundred dollars greater than in '64. Nearly one tenth of all funds received in this county this year came from the Forest Hills area.

Rev. Jack Bowers and Rev. Raymond Gaylord, co-chairmen of the 1965 "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" program, wish to thank all local youth groups that solicited and all persons who contributed.

Everyone in the area who gave and who worked for the UNICEF program can be very proud as UNICEF was just awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for 1965.

With the holiday season approaching, Dr. W. B. Prothro, City-County Health Officer, has again asked for the cooperation of everyone in making safety part of their observance.

"Christmas is a happy and joyous occasion for all. Special precautions should be taken to help keep it that way," he said, and then offered some suggestions for family and home safety.

1. Be sure all toys and presents given to children are not capable of causing fire, explosion or electrical shock, do no have sharp edges, or do not contain poisonous materials such as lead paint.

2. Be sure toys which operate by electricity have the UL (Underwriter's Laboratories, Inc.) label on them.

3. Select a Christmas tree which has been treated with a fire-resistant coating, if available.

4. Use only UL approved electric lights and decorate with fire-proofed or nonflammable materials.

5. Keep the decorated tree in the coolest area of the room, and away from registers, heaters, fireplaces and other heat sources.

6. Turn off tree lights whenever you leave the house, even if only for a short time.

7. Frequently check the needles of the tree around the light bulbs, if they are brown, relocate the lights. When the needles begin to shed, take the tree down, and dispose of it.

Dr. Prothro also cautioned that weather and traffic conditions are not at their best during the holidays, and advised that
